NEWS AND INFORMATION FOR THE BUSY FARMER

Good Apples for Sweet Cider

Tests conducted in the Fruit Products Laboratory at the Central Experimental Farm have shown that Rufus Ribston, Scott, Winter, Baldwin, Mavis, Russet, Nonpareil, and a blend of Ben Davis and Spy are excellent varieties for making sweet cider.

The preliminary estimate of the total production of commercial apples in Canada in 1933 shows an increase of 1,591,840 barrels and 53,456,000 as compared with the finally revised estimate of 1932. The 1933 estimates are 3,329,800 barrels, valued at $1,064,800. The finally revised estimate for 1932 is 4,737,960 barrels valued at $7,007,900.

Cleaning the Hen House

At this time of year hen houses should be thoroughly cleaned, disinfected and whitewashed. At the Poultry Division, Central Experimental Farm, the following whitewash mixture has been used with satisfaction.

Slake half a bushel of lime with boiling water; strain and add one peck of salt, dissolved in warm water. Put three pounds of ground rice in boiling water and boil to a thin paste. Dissolve half a pound of powdered Spanish whiting and one pound of clear glue in warm water. Mix all three well together and let stand for several days. Keep over a portable furnace and apply hot with brushes.

Weaning the Lambs

Lambs should be weaned at around five months of age. The practice of letting the lambs wean themselves is to be discouraged since it prevents the mother getting a well deserved rest before the mating season, which is necessary for her health and vitality.

Young weaned lambs should have the run of some good fresh pasture. A good after-math or a piece or rape that has been sown in the spring will be greatly enjoyed by them. Such a pasture is necessary to avoid a check in their growth as a result of the loss of their mother's milk; it will also help to prevent parasitic infestation so detrimental to growing lambs.

A point interesting to farmers whose fields are crossed by power cables is that lightning arrestors. caused by the discharge of a single cloud are estimated to cover 1,000 to 3,000 feet of line on long circuits. Generally on the urban circuits the voltages are restricted considerably more by the closely-spaced lightning arresters.

Peat and Muck as Sources Of Soil Organic Matter

When the farm manure supply is not sufficient to maintain the organic matter content of the soil at a satisfactory level, peat or muck may be used to furnish that important constituent. The best way to employ these materials as a source of organic matter is to first compost them with manure for a period of four to six months before application or to use them in the air dried condition as a litter to soak up the liquid manure in and about the stable. An added advantage in these treatments is that the nitrogen of the peat and muck is, to a large degree, rendered available for plant use.

Early Topping of Turnips

The practice of "topping" turnips some weeks before the date of pulling in order to use the leaves while still green in the feeding of livestock, has been common in certain parts of the Dominion, and the question whether it is an economical operation or not has been settled by practical demonstrations. The feed obtained showed that turnips from the non-topped crops had the higher food value. The inquiry also furnished satisfactory evidence of the marked growth of the untopped crop during the latter weeks of the season, the leaves during this period contributing to function as lungs and stomach, resulting in a heavier yield. The practice of topping the crop three weeks or a month prior to the date of pulling has shown to result in a lower yield per acre of nutrients, and is therefore non-economic.

Weekly Crop Report

Fall wheat production is considerably below average due to winter killing and drought. While the yield varies widely, the quality is good. Barley and oats are showing average yields of good grade. Hay is short. Corn is in good condition and shows satisfactory growth. Root crops require more moisture. The apple crop will be light, and the yield considerably below average. The Codling Moth is prevalent in some districts. Grapes are sizing well and all varieties are progressing favourably. Early peaches were a fair crop. Elbertas and other standards will be light. Pastures and aftergrass, while freshened by recent rains, are still in poor condition and require additional moisture to stimulate growth. Tobacco plants have benefited from recent rains, but the crop is backward due to drought and has suffered considerable damage from hail.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

Eradicating Perennial Weeds

The roots of perennial weeds such as Canada thistle and field bindweed often penetrate the ground to depths of four or five feet. The roots of these weeds can send up new shoots when they are cut off to depths of eighteen inches. Deep ploughing therefore will not eradicate perennial weeds of this type. One method of eradicating deep rooted perennial weeds is to keep down the top growth by frequent cultivation and exhaust the food stored in the roots. Another is to apply a 10 per cent solution of sodium chlorate at the rate of one gallon per square rod.

Perennial Sow Thistle Now in Every Township

Perennial sow thistle, one of the worst weeds with which farmers have to contend, has spread during the past 25 years until now it is reported in every township in Ontario, according to A. E. G. Smith of New Hamburg, supervisor of weed inspectors of Western Ontario.

This plant does not produce a bloom the same year that it grows from the seed. If you see a new sow thistle in bloom you may know it was in the field the previous year. This plant can be controlled by fairly practice. The root of the perennial sow thistle will not stand heat. Experiments by Prof. J. E. Howitt of the O. A. C., Guelph, showed that when the roots were exposed to the sun by a summer fallow, they would die in one day. Oats and barley are the two spring crops which give the perennial sow thistle a chance to mature at seed. Fall wheat, hay and pasture crops, if harvested in time keep the plant from going to seed. Fall cultivation is not so effective as summer cultivation. The autumn is cooler and damper.

Feeding Hogs For Market

At the Dominion Experimental Station, Fredericton, N.B., experiments have been carried on to determine the value when fed to hogs of feeds commonly produced on the farm. Potatoes, skim-milk and oats were the main feeds under consideration. Hogs which were fed on a mixture of grains, mill feeds and milk were compared with hogs fed barley or oats with a mixture of crushed oats, mill feeds, potatoes and milk. Two lots were started on cooked potatoes, meal and milk and finished on raw potatoes, meal and milk. Potatoes were fed at the rate of 4 pounds to one pound of meal.

All lots made equally good gains during the first nine months of the feeding period. The hogs receiving raw potatoes during the finishing period required twelve days longer to finish than the meal fed lots but a considerable saving in meal was obtained in the potato fed lots. The carcasses were scored similar to those in advanced registry and there was no significant difference in the carcasses of hogs from each group.

In this test, 5.35 pounds of potatoes replaced one pound of meal. Hogs which were fed on a 140 per hundred, the potatoes were worth 26 cents per hundred as feed. More economical gains were obtained when the potatoes are cooked before feeding as potatoes are worth only two thirds as much raw as when cooked. Cooked potatoes would therefore have a valued 39 cents per hundred. At the present value of pork, feeds marketed through hogs return a handsome profit and a market is created for feeds which might otherwise be wasted.

Hogs on Advanced Registry at the Dominion Experimental Station, at Fredericton, N.B., are being fed grains and a protein supplement without any skim-milk. It has been demonstrated that they will make equally good gains when fed a properly balanced supplement other than skim-milk. This is of particular interest to farmers having a supply of grains and potatoes, but little or no skim-milk.

IF I OWNED A FARM

(P.A.K., in Philadelphia Public Ledger)

I'd read the frayed and badly thumbed back issues of some house and garden magazines in my dentist's office. Then I'd paint the exterior of the farmhouse white and the shutters green.

I'd hang cretonne drapes faced with white at the windows.

I'd cover all the furniture with cretonne to match. Then

I'd lay a drab rug with a rose border of conventional design in the living room, and a green grass rug in the dining room. Then

I'd plant a great variety of shrubs around the house, and ramblers over the pergola which I should build to connect the summer kitchen with the workhouse. Then

I'd paint the barn, stables and silo a soft grey, and the roofs a darker tint. Then

I'd build a concrete wash basin between which the cows would have to wallow in going to and coming from their stall. Then

I'd install some sort of a silencer which could be inserted in a rooster's throat without hurting his dignity. Then

I'd teach the cows better manners generally. Then

I'd provide for the sheep those terrific-shell spectacles which are doing so much towards making other creatures appear less dumb. Then

I'd require the hired help to purchase handkerchiefs, and to use them in store on Sundays. Then

I'd buy two tank cars of deodorizer. Then

I'd spray the entire place with fly, mosquito and other insect poisons. Then I'd sell it!

POOR LI'L FELLER

Sweetest little feller,
Sleeping there alone,
Don't know what awaits him
When his babyhood has flown;
Mom and Pop will teach him
Bridge the way they play,
Then he'll get in arguments
And yell the same as they,
When he's there a-sleeping
In his little place,
Couldn't tell a psychic
From a desice or ace,
But when he's a little older,
When he starts to learn,
Then he'll hear his partners
Call him names that burn.
Sweetest little feller,
Ignorant is bliss,
What his parents think of
When they give their babe a kiss!
Pledged to be an expert
By their very hugs,
Poor predestined baby
Of a pair of contract bugs.

ANCIENT ARMAMENTS

A curious sidelight on America's indifferent success in bringing criminals to justice, is afforded by a report of Mr. John J. Murphy, the new United States Marshal. The duties of his office include the guarding and transport of prisoners, and one of his first actions on appointment was to inspect the equipment of his agents. He discovered to his surprise that most of them bought their own weapons and went unarmed rather than burden themselves with the "guns" provided by the department's arsenal at Boston.

Wonder ceased when he inspected the arsenal and found that the only firearms in stock were those handed over for police use when the Federal troops were disbanded at the close of the Civil War! There was no ammunition under twenty years old, and the latest pattern in handcuffs dated from 1880. He is advocating the transfer of these antiques to a museum and presenting Congress with a demand for complete rearmament.—Miscellany.

A FRIGHTENED BISHOP

Book borrowers have had a bad name for centuries, but it would seem that they do not deserve it to-day for at the opening of the new headquarters of the National Central Library, it was stated that although many thousands of books are lent annually the average loss from all causes is only one volume a year. From the earliest times book-lovers were jealous of their possessions. An MS. book in the Bodleian Library, which was once in the Robertsbridge, Sussex, monastic library, contains the inscription: "This book belongs to Saint Mary of Robertsbridge. Whoever shall steal or rend it or fix in any alienate from this house or mutilate it, let him be anathema marranatha."

About 1328 the book came into the possession of John de Grandisso, Bishop of Exeter, who was apparently so alarmed by the inscribed monolith thereat that he carefully wrote under it: "I John, Bishop of Exeter, know not where the aforesaid house is nor did I steal this book; but acquired it in a lawful way."

THE ENIGMATICAL SCHOOL

It remains to be seen whether the fashion set by Mr. Pu Yi, Regent of Manchukuo, in sending a posse of his own comrades to see King George will be followed by other new rulers; it would be cheaper, at least, than the older custom of sending an Embassy to announce an accession. But, for the sake of King George, it may be hoped that the poem itself will not conform to one of the older Chinese models. One of the Russels had a tale about Robert Browning, for which, whether true or not, Browning himself seems to have been responsible originally. Some time in the eighteen-seventies Browning was introduced to the Chinese Ambassador at a party in London, and the interpreter, who had acted as interpreter, improved the occasion by remarking that the introduction was a specially high honour since the two were certain to find plenty in common, both being poets.

Browning and the Ambassador began to talk, and presently Browning asked how much poetry the latter had written. "Four volumes at present," replied the Ambassador. "And what style of poetry does your Excellency cultivate?" "Chiefly the enigmatical," replied the Ambassador gravely. "Ahh," added Browning in telling the story, "we felt doubly brothers after that."

At the same time it may be admitted that the cultivation of the enigmatical by an Emperor of Manchukuo would seem to have in it a certain propriety.—Miscellany.

NO HERO TO HIS VALET

There have been some very competent diplomatists among Mr. Bullitt's predecessors as American representatives in Russia, and there have been some—well, not so competent. In his autobiography, Mr. Andrew D. White, who himself filled the post with distinction, tells a story of one of them who was sent to Russia as American Minister about the year 1840. Sobriety was not this gentleman's special virtue, and his valet, an Irishman, soon discovered it. One day the valet went to the American Consulate and said: "O'll not stay wid his Excellency anny longer. He's dom wid him." "What's the trouble now?" asked the Consul.

"Why," said the man, "this morning Oi thought it was time to set his lordship out of bed, for he had been drunk about a week and in bed most of the time; and so Oi went in him, and says, Oi, gentleman, would your lordship have a cup of coffee?' with he rose up and threw one in the face. On that Oi took him by the collar, lifted him out of bed, took him across the room, threw him his self face in the glass, and Oi said to him, says Oi, 'In thim the eyes of an inwyy extraorr-rdinary gintleman.' Wurrther plinipotentiary ?" —Miscellany.

CHOCOLATE CUP CAKES

These little cakes are easy to make. The rule will make ten or twelve, depending on the size of the cups.

One cup flour.
One teaspoon baking powder.
Half a teaspoon salt.
Two tablespoons butter.
Half a cup of sugar.
One egg. Half a teaspoon vanilla.
Two tablespoons milk.
One square of bitter chocolate.

Mix and sift flour, salt and baking powder. Sift three times. Cream butter and gradually beat in sugar, beating until the mixture is very light. Melt chocolate over hot water and beat into butter mixture. Beat egg until light, with milk. Add flour and milk alternately with dry ingredients to first mixture, adding dry ingredients first. Stir to keep smooth. Pour into oiled and floured muffin pans or baking cups and bake about twenty in a moderate, 375 degrees F. oven. Cover with icing or not, as you prefer.

STUFFED TOMATO SALAD

Four medium sized tomatoes.
Four hard cooked eggs.
Four tablespoons diced celery.
Four tablespoons cold boiled ham (optional), boiled salad dressing.

Scald and chill tomatoes. Peel and scoop out the seeds. Sprinkle the inside with salt and pepper and turn upside-down to drain. This step is important because it tends to make the tomato firm. Hard cook eggs and chop coarsely. Add celery and ham and enough salad dressing to make quite moist. Fill tomatoes with mixture and put each tomato into a small baking cup lined with lettuce leaves. Chill until ready to serve.

A "boiled" dressing is chosen in place of mayonnaise because the boiled dressing stands up better than mayonnaise which tends to separate if treated too roughly.

Sandwiches of chopped olives and pimentoes are good to serve with this salad. Cream cheese and finely chopped nuts together with lettuce sandwich might complete the assortment.

SIMNEL CAKE

8 ozs. self-raising flour.
6 ozs. each powdered sugar and butter.
10 ozs. currants.
4 ozs. candied peel.
3 Eggs.

Almond Paste
6 ozs. ground almonds.
8 ozs. powdered sugar.
One large egg.
Lemon juice.

First make the almond paste by mixing the ground almonds with the sugar, then adding the egg and sufficient lemon juice to form a paste, and divide the mixture in two. Cream the butter and sugar together, add the eggs, one at a time, and beat well. Sift together the flour and a pinch of salt, then add the currants and chopped candied peel. Add these to the butter, etc and beat well. Line a tin with greased paper and put in half the cake mixture; put in a layer of the almond paste, cover with the remaining cake mixture and bake in a moderate oven for two hours. When cold, put a band of almond paste round the edge of the cake and mark it with a fork. Make little balls of the paste and put these inside the band, then brown slightly under the grill. Decorate.

BIRD'S NEST CAKE

Two eggs.
3 ozs. sugar.
2½ ozs. self-raising flour.
Jam. Browned coconut.

For the Filling
1½ ozs. ground almonds.
3 ozs. powdered sugar.
One small egg (used as required).

Whisk the eggs and sugar until very thick, then lightly fold in the flour. Grease a baking-tin well, then dust with flour and pour in the sponge mixture, baking in a moderate oven for 15 or 20 minutes. Allow to cool, then cut a round from the top to represent a nest. Brush the sponge with hot jam, then roll it in the browned coconut. For the filling, mix the almonds and sugar to a stiff paste with the egg, then work in a little colouring to part of the paste, and roll into small eggs. Serve on a green doyley putting the eggs into the nest, and adding a fluffy chicken.

PASSED AT 1934 SESSION OF PARLIAMENT

AN ACT RESPECTING THE DAIRY INDUSTRY

This Act is amended to make it compulsory to place the date of manufacture of cheese on the cheese and also on the cheese box. The date is to be placed on the cheese within 24 hours after manufacture. This legislation is considered essential in order to check the length of time between manufacture and grading as cheese should have a certain amount of maturity in order to determine accurately its grade and keeping quality. Also, the legislation has the effect of discouraging the hoarding and shipping of cheese from the factory to the grocers condition, which results in poor rind formation. A standard stipulating the maximum amount of moisture allowable in processed cheese, was also passed as a new regulation.

Of particular interest to the creamery industry are regulations providing for the grading of butter for domestic consumption and the placing of the grade on the wrapper and on the carton. The grading is optional except in provinces which may pass enabling legislation. The regulations also prohibit the making of false, misleading or exaggerated claims with respect of the quality of any dairy product, whether such claims are made by advertisement or on the package.

The grading of butter for domestic use has been brought about with the hope of simplifying matters for the consumer preference. In the past, there has been much second grade butter sold under fancy names that did not convey anything to the consumer as to quality. It is expected that the placing of the grade on the carton or wrapper will mean that the consumer will be encouraged to ask for "First Grade" butter, there by discouraging the manufacture of lower grades. Also, the indication of grade will, it is expected, tend to create a wider differential in price between the grades which will ultimately reflect back in the prices received for the cream by the producer.

AN ACT TO AMEND THE DESTRUCTIVE INSECT AND PEST ACT

The amendment to this Act merely consisted of a re-wording of Section 11, without changing the intent or purpose of the section in question. It should be regarded as a clarifying and interpretative section of the Act. The re-wording of the section was regarded as necessary from a legal rather than administrative points of view. The Act, as it now stands, enables a province to deal with the control of any insect, pest or disease, destructive to vegetation within the province, irrespective of whether the said pest or disease is dealt with by Federal regulations provided, however, that the provincial legislation is not contrary to the Federal legislation. For example, the European corn borer is dealt with by Federal regulation in that the importation of corn and its products is prohibited from infested areas, and likewise the movement of the said products from infested to non-infested areas in Canada. On the other hand, two provinces at least, have legislation in force dealing with the control of this insect within their respective boundaries. In accordance with the amendment, this provincial legislation is not contrary to the Federal regulations.

ENCOURAGEMTNT TO AUTHORS

There would seem to be new hopes for writers in 1934, since someone has bequeathed a sum of £50 each to a number of authors whose works have given him pleasure in life. This is a kindly idea for the beginning of a return to the good old times when authors were glad to receive a "tip" from a patron and a dedication might produce some much-needed dollars. Nowadays, outside the plutocrats class, are frequently assured by their publishers that it is quite wrong to imagine that the author's work is done when he has finished his book and corrected his proofs. He must help himself: it is the personal touch, he is told, which sells books. And so, in future, we may have the aspiring author touring round as of old, for subscribers and sending copies of his books to rich people in the hope that he may acquire a patron or two.

Fifty dollars may not sound much, but there are cases in which the novelist does not clear much more than $50.00 for the work on a book; and in any case, the advertisement of the publication of such a bequest is worth something. It has been the fate of some authors in recent, as earlier, times to die unrecognized and to secure posthumous fame through the praises of some public personage; if it is the patron who dies first and leaves his praise (and something more substantial) to the author, the result must be much more satisfactory.—Miscellany.

BATH WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The Bath Women's Institute held their August meeting at the home of Mrs. Bert Morgow, with an attendance of thirty-seven visitors and members. The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. Homer Collins, in the usual manner. After the minutes of the last meeting had been read and approved, and the roll call answered by "a salad combination," letters of appreciation were read from Mrs. Arthur Sams, for the flowers received during her illness in the hospital; and from Mrs. B. J. Galt for a letter of condolence after the death of her father. The business of the meeting was dealt with.

The program for the afternoon was opened with community singing. Miss Black gave an interesting paper on current events. Little Miss Audrey Jackson then gave a piano solo. Presentation was made to Mrs. Clarence Hegadorn of a silver butter dish and knife. Mrs. Hegadorn had been a faithful member of the Bath Institute for 17 1, before moving from the village. Mrs. Hegadorn expressed her sincere appreciation.

Mrs. Jackson, of Kingston, gave a demonstration on how to knit a sweater using a fancy stitch which made a very pretty sweater when finished. A splendid reading was given by Mrs. Jean Rose, entitled, "Mother." An interesting contest was put on by Mrs. Stevenson. After the singing of the National Anthem, a social half hour was spent over the tea cups.

ADOLPHUSTOWN W. M. S.

The August meeting of Adolphustown Women's Missionary Society was held at the home of Mrs. Ercell Foster on Wednesday evening, Aug 1st, with a fair attendance.

The president was in charge of the meeting. The devotional exercises were under the direction of Mrs. W. J. Masee. After a hymn was sung, with Rev. Mr. Sanders acting as pianist, prayer by Mrs. Magee followed. A devotional leaflet, on St. John's Gospel, was read by Mrs. Wm. J. Masee, after which a hymn closed the period.

The secretary read the minutes of the last meeting, which were approved and the correspondence was read and discussed. The treasurer gave a report. The roll call was answered by a verse of scripture containing the word "serve" and was responded to by all the members. Mary Kinz gave a reading on the program, which followed Heralds for Africa and Home Missions and Temperance gave interesting items concerning that portion of the work. The offering was taken, and after another hymn Rev. M. Sanders closed the meeting with prayer.

Refreshments were served by the hostess.

THE ART OF MAKING TEA

No beverage in the world is as universally popular as tea. It is used by nearly every nation and people and this delightful drink not only refreshes and invigorates the mind and body, but carries in its use a medium by which people meet in a spirit of friendship and understanding, the world over.

If the following directions which were supplied by Salada Tea are followed, each cup will yield the full delicious flavour that makes tea so enjoyable:

1. Use a tea of fine quality.
2. Use fresh water always.
3. Use an earthenware tea-pot.

Scald out the pot to make it warm. Allow to it the measure of tea for every cup desired, and one for the pot. Add fresh boiling water. Allow to steep five minutes and stir lightly before serving.

Tea made according to the above rules will be fragrant, delicious and completely satisfying.

Japan Now Using Domestic Wheat

Higher Prices Prohibit Import of Canadian and Australian Grain

Big Japanese flour milling companies have recently turned largely to domestic wheat as a result of higher prices of Canadian and Australian wheat attributed to the drought in the United States.

Japan's wheat yield has increased remarkably in recent years, due to the fostering of wheat farming by the Minister of Agriculture and Forestry.

The price of the Japanese product has not kept pace with Canadian or even Australian wheat in spite of the fact of some authority for later Dominion."

"Hitherto, large flour mills have used mostly imported wheat due to its superior quality while the small flour mills, unprotected by the tariff, have used the domestic wheat as they were close to the source of supply and the quality has satisfied their country customers.

"Australian wheat flour cut seriously into Manchukuo market this year due to low prices, the business being largely in the hands of the large firm of Mitsui. During the summer however, the big Japanese mills removed most of the Manchukuo market owing to higher Australian prices.

In view of the greatly increased use of domestic wheat by the big flour mills, due to their recovery of the Manchukuo market, as well as increased exports to other Far Eastern markets, stocks are rapidly decreasing.

As a result, a brisk demand for imported wheat should develop later.

UNCOMFORTABLE BUT CORRECT

Shirt-sleeves, it is rumored, have been freely displayed in Government offices during the hot spell without causing any such hubbub as would have been certain in former days. Members in the dress during the weathers was rigidly insisted on at Whitehall. Lord Hammond, when Under Secretary for the Foreign Office, had a notice displayed forbidding clerks to shed their coats and it is recorded that when, one sweltering day, he saw an official passing down the corridor without his shirt-sleeves he pounced on him, demanded his name and department, and sent him off to his chief for a severe reprimand.

Alfred Montgomery tried subtler methods. When a clerk came into his room without his coat, Montgomery blandly suggested that it should be convenient to you Mr.— to remove your trousers, also, pra do not let any consideration for the Board or myself prevent you doing so."

LITTLE SISTER

"Oh Jim, it seems as though baby has flown straight to Heaven in my arms," whispered Sylvia, when her husband crept in, after the long night of waiting, and knelt beside her bed.

Sylvia had been very ill, but she had forgotten that anyone else had suffered everything except that Heaven had sent the treasure that lay nestled warm and close to her breast.

"Oh, Jim, she's ours—our very own darling!" she breathed. "I thought we'd been happy—so happy — but we've never been quite so happy as we are now."

Jim felt the same. He could hardly speak for thankfulness as he gazed down at the wife whose eyes now seemed like wells of happiness as she held their child.

They called her little Kitty, because that sweet name seemed to suit her so well.

"Do all mothers think their children are the sweetest ?" laughed Sylvia sometimes. "I suppose they do—but our little Kitty seems so made of love."

"Yes," Jim would agree, for tiny Kitty really seemed like a bit of Heaven come to earth.

She had blue eyes like the sky, and a soft little voice when she began to prattle, like the soft, sweet twitter of the sweet voice, too, was always calling to her parents—she loved them so very dearly. They could not imagine what life had ever been without her; she seemed to be the very core of every bit of the home. Kitty—little Kitty. Somehow it seemed as though Heaven had sent one of its angels to make their home such a paradise of happiness.

Happiness in little things, perhaps; but isn't it the tiniest things that bring most happiness? They babies especially, and the tiny things they do and say that mean so much to parent-hearts. Kitty's little ways; her first word; her first little habit of putting her fair, wavy hair so close to mummy's; and her little, waving hands which seemed to show, even before she could speak, that she was welcoming daddy home.

"Like wines," Sylvia sometimes said to Jim, as they watched her. "She always seems like wings from Heaven to me."

Jim understood. He had thought he understood just how much the baby would mean to Sylvia. But Kitty's coming had been needed to teach Jim quite all that it meant to them both.

"She's a dear, darling little mite," the neighbours would say when Sylvia took Kitty out. And Jim glowed when they whispered what the proud mother never heard: "But she looks as though a breath would blow her away!"

"You'll be having another baby, perhaps, for company?" suggested her closest friend, who lived next door to them. Good land and fine location. Possession this fall or March 1st. Apply to ALBERT A. BARTLETT, R. R. No. 3, Napanee, Ont. 29tf

Kitty seemed so happy. Yet, just sometimes, Sylvia's heart missed a beat because of her anxiety that Kitty was not alone.

"She must go to the angels, bless her dear little heart," murmured Mrs. Gringe, the charlady, who knew much of life, when she saw Sylvia peeping through the door towards her little girl when, for just a tiny while, Sylvia had left her to play.

But when she saw mummy, Baby Kitty first everything else in the world—the angels. She turned and toddled towards Sylvia, who lifted her up and held her close in her embrace.

"Kitty !" she whispered. "Mummy's Kitty !"

"Kitty's mummy."

The little, wavy head, so close to Sylvia's heart, seemed to make the little, waving hands, like wings, were held close in Sylvia's own. Sylvia had forgotten that Heaven had ever owned their child. She seemed so altogether theirs.

"Darling, it was just fancy," Jim said that night when Sylvia told him her sudden fears at the charlady's words. "Singing to the angels ? Why, Mrs. Grigg was only making a sweet little speech. We ourselves always used to say that Kitty came from the angels."

"Yes, but now she's ours," Sylvia answered quickly. "Ours all of her—never to go—never !"

And yet, even as they watched her asleep and smiling, she seemed, somehow, to be smiling at the angels. When Sylvia bent and kissed her, however, Kitty opened her eyes.

"Mummy," she whispered drowsily. "Kitty's mummy !"

"Yes, Kitty's mummy !" Sylvia repeated softly. "Nobody else's mummy —only Kitty's. And Kitty's daddy, too. Jim dear, kiss her again."

Even as she grew older, Kitty did not seem to want little playmates. She was so content to be with mummy, so safe in daddy's strong arms. Lately 'tay ! Kitty might have to 'ay wif mummy an' daddy !" she would say, when the noisy little next - door-girl came to ask her in to play with them. She was four years old then, and perhaps she might have begun to enjoy the neighbours guessed the reason why she was not.

Kitty's first like a little bird," they said among themselves. "She's too safe to play with the rough ones. She always looked as though she belonged to another world."

But Kitty belonged to their world—Sylvia's and Jim's; she was theirs.

"Very well, darling," they would say. "If you don't want to go, mummy and daddy will play with you."

But Kitty did not grow spoilt or lonely as other children sometimes do. She just seemed happy with her mother all the time.

Then one day Sylvia met Jim as he entered the house.

"You don't think Kitty's ill, do you ?", she said anxiously. "All day she's seemed so tired."

And though he tried to be cheerful it was not much use, for Kitty was ill. It was a very short illness—so short that it hardly seemed an illness at all. Sylvia and Jim sat beside her and watched her head with its wavy hair, and the little, waving hands, like wings, seemed to come to rest on Jim's strong, tender grasp when the pain took her.

"Mummy—daddy—kiss Kitty." She had flown from them after those little words of love; Kitty, their Kitty, who had seemed made of love.

Desolate ! Was any house ever more desolate than theirs ? Jim's understanding love meant much, oh, much to Sylvia, but Kitty's loving little presence was gone. Sylvia's love for Kitty was the same, and it seemed, sometimes, as though Kitty must come back. But she didn't; and the ache at Sylvia's heart was more than she could bear.

Then another baby promised to come, and then, with dry lips, she told Jim that another baby would be with them soon. Sylvia spoke with no welcome in her eyes.

"Darling," he began, "perhaps——"

"Oh, Jim, how can you ?" she choked. "There's no 'perhaps' about it. I could never love another child. Even though we can't see Kitty she may see us. Fancy another child where she was always—the only one we ever wanted !"

There are times when mothers-to-be have such unreal fancies— about the little one to come, but Sylvia's thoughts were only with Kitty. Kitty who, perhaps was near.

It seemed as though she was, out the sad dearness of feeling her close to them, and the tiny things they did by the thought that, perhaps, Kitty would come back, unseen to them, and see the other little child in her place.

"Darling, you'll feel different when the baby comes," whispered Jim.

But, nevertheless, when he tiptoed up the stairway, after the nurse had told him the news which should have been so happy, his heart was very heavy.

"Suppose Kitty saw and misunderstood," was all she said faintly. "Jim, I feel like that—still. She needed us so. Her mummy had been needed to teach Jim quite all that it meant to them both.

"She's a dear, darling little mite," the neighbours would say when Sylvia took Kitty out. And Jim glowed when they whispered what the proud mother never heard: "But she looks as though a breath would blow her away !"

THE STRANGEST PROPOSAL

The letter arrived at breakfast, as spelling news often does. Mrs. Vane read part of it aloud to her little family.

It meant that the likeable young man—Teddy Burns—who had boarded with them for twelve months before he went abroad, two years ago, was coming back again.

"He's sailing for home almost at once," she told them. "He's going to his own people, but he hopes to spend a little time with us on his way."

Mr. Vane was delighted. A sensible young fellow, Ted, always ready for a game of chess or dominoes, and with no nonsense about him, either. Yes, he'd be pleased to see him.

Peter, the youngest of the family, had glorious recollections of games of Red Indians, in which Ted Burns had always been willing to take some desperate and exciting part. He jumped with joy.

Thirteen - year - old Connie was equally thrilled. Ted had been a great help in the matter of home-work sums, and a "good sort" in the matter of chocolates. She would be lovely to have him here again.

The seventeen - year-old twins — Maud and Muriel — were the most excited of all. They had been lumpy, pig-tailed schoolgirls when Ted had left them, but now they were well-dressed young ladies in the cash desk of Scrum's big store. They were very impressed Ted would be, when he found they were grown up and earning their own wages ! He'd been such a dear over taking them to the pictures; it would be fun to see him again.

The only one who said nothing was Elizabeth. The joy that her sister, brothers and sisters felt, made a different kind of music in her heart. It meant so much — so very much more to her than anyone must ever guess.

She'd been the only "grown-up" member of the family when Ted was with them before. Eighteen years old when he came and nearly twenty when he left. With her, he shared hopes, schemes and plans for the future.

She confided so much in him, too. Her bitter disappointment when she failed in her teaching exam, and realised that, instead of trying again, her duty lay at home, because her stepmother was constantly ailing and badly needed her help.

When Ted left, he had promised to write. He had hinted that when they met again he would be in a position to talk to her about the future—together — if she were still free.

The two years had gone by on wings, Elizabeth felt, she had not done nothing since they parted. Life had just been a round of petty duties of mending, cooking and helping Connie practise the piano; of getting the lazy twins out of bed in the morning in time for school; of chess, of playing chess with her father, and of keeping Mrs. Vane company, or stepmother's shopping—on, and on, and on !

Certainly Ted had written twice, but at long intervals, and his letters were only pleasant and gave no hints of being anything but "just friendly." They didn't encourage further outpourings on her part, and after she had ceased to write at all, except picture post cards addressed to the whole family, she would be in the like now ? — she wondered. Would he be engaged to some nice girl in his own country, and have forgotten her, and never said anything to her that could be misunderstood later.

The entire family were in a state of excitement for the next few days. Waiting for a telegram to tell them that Ted had arrived. It came at last, and a few hours later he was with them. Mrs. Vane said it was like old times to have him come rushing into the kitchen to give a helping hand at any little job she wanted doing.

The twins, Peter, and Connie were round him at once, making such a noise and stir that Mrs. Vane laughingly ordered them out of the kitchen. As they went upstairs Ted asked eagerly : "Where's Elizabeth ?"

"She's going to the post office, but she'll be back shortly," they explained.

"I think I'll go and meet her," suggested Ted, but they wouldn't have it. They were quite willing to run errands

SELBY

Selby, Sept. 3. — The promised showers of the past week are a reminder of the old proverb that all signs fail in a drought. Rain is much needed. The showers of Saturday night and Sunday were welcome and is hoped, an evidence of more to follow.

On Monday evening last the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Denison was the scene of another pleasant occasion this season, when friends from Empey Hill, Napanee, and Selby, gathered to honor Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Breen, of Kingston, with a miscellaneous shower. The many beautiful and useful gifts received was an evidence of the high esteem in which the young couple are held. The evening was spent in social intercourse and music. BAY CIRCUIT

Bay Circuit, Sept. 3. — The home canners are hives of industry these days. It would do visitors good to call and see how efficiently canning is done by these local groups.

And it was back to school on Tuesday. Your correspondent wishes for both teachers and pupils a successful year.

Mr. Herbert Mellow is remodelling and repairing his house. A gang of men have been busy at it for a couple of weeks.

The Gretna plantation supper was a real success. It was a very cool night and many were chilly as they sat at the well laden tables, which were set up in the sheds. But they soon were warmed up when they reached the church. The programme was of a very helpful nature. Duets were given by Messrs. Jackson and Winters, of Selby; Mrs. (Rev.) A. D. Waite and Mr. Tunnicliffe, of Deseronto, and Miss Fellows and Miss Brennen, of Napanee. Mrs. Tunnicliffe, of Deseronto, and Mrs. Frank Mills, of Napanee, were accompanists. The men's game was between Napanee and Gretna, while the girls' game was between Sand Hill and Gretna. A flourishing business was done at the booth, and sufficient funds were realized to pay expenses. Much credit is due the President, Mr. Clare Hamath, and the committees in charge, for the success of the gathering.

Rev. A. J. Wilson, of Napanee, preached in Bethany Church on Sunday in the absence of the minister, who was at Centreville.

Beckel, took charge of the program. Congratulatory addresses were given by Mr. Lewis Fox, Mrs. Nathan Miller, Mr. Harold Lewis, Mr. John McConnell, and Mr. James Clark. The threshing in this community is all completed, with the exception of threshing the buckwheat, and the grain turned out better than most people expected. Mr. Harold Bawn, a boy of fifteen, son of Mr. Herb Bawn, worked his father's farm this year, as Mr. Bawn had a position as foreman on Highway No. 7, and when he threshed, off six acres he had 324 bushels of oats. This looks as though Harold was going to make a No. 1 farmer.

YARKER

Yarker, Sept. 3. — Holidays are over, and of all the joys of holidays the best is coming home. During our ramblings, which were not very extensive, we didn't find any locality that seemed to be quite so dry as the section of which Yarker is the centre. Of course, this is a place that cannot stand a long period of dry weather. A good rain, at least once a week, is required to keep things green.

Upon returning, we found that Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy had given up the garage, and had moved into Mr. Curl's building, where he has opened up a store. The place is vacant.

We are glad to report that Mrs. G. Hawse is improving in Kingston Hospital. It is a girl.

Large Exhibits Make Lennox County Fair Outstanding Success

Best Show in Years

The Napanee fair opened yesterday with as fine an exhibit as has ever been shown in Napanee. A visit to the Fair grounds a few hours hours after the formal opening, revealed a regular hive of industry. Men were busy at all sorts of tasks—some were driving tent poles, some were placing stock in the various stalls, some were arranging the vegetables and grain displays, while others were busily engaged stringing wires, driving nails, hanging pictures and drapery. Women were decorating the tables, arranging the flowers, cataloguing the exhibits of home cooking and handicraft.

In the evening, all was arranged, lights were blazing as though they had been going for weeks, the racous voice of the midway barker could be heard blocks away, while the music of the merry-go-round was as fascinating as ever for the hordes of youngsters who crowded around.

The show, in all departments, both in quantity and quality, was far better than even the most optimistic had hoped for. The Palace was all sold out and space was at a premium.

The Palace is an attractive building. Down the centre are the tables with the flowers, vegetables, fruit, honey and canned goods. It is saying that in a season which has been marked by long and continued drought, such excellent specimens should be obtained. The whole display in this section was much more elaborate, and of a finer quality than that which was disnlayed. recently at the Kingston exhibition. Banked in front of these tables were the seeds, cheese and heavy vegetables, it would be difficult to find, anywhere, better specimens of various varieties of potatoes, than those shown.

The needlework was a source of pride and keen competition. The quilt feature was the excellent showing of hand made rugs. These, were hung up and attractively displayed. Designs of various kinds lent added interest to the display.

"For the first time in many years Beaver" had a display. The [illegible] of their work and pictures of the present day, while the paper is printed. One of the earliest files of the paper—1880—was on display against that of 1933. The chilren were frequent visitors to this booth as here, if they were fortunate, they might secure free pencils and blotters.

Super-Heath cookware came next with a comprehensive display of high-class aluminum ware. Pies were baked as you waited.

The Alabastine Company had the next booth, which displayed the various ways in which this product can be used.

Rosa Bova had a unique display of flowers. In the background was a bride, specially dressed for the occasion. And around her, in great profusion, were flowers of all sorts, which are constantly kept in water in her store.

The picture gallery was not so well filled as usual. There were more snapshots and photographs, but less of the pictures and paintings which have been displayed on other occasions.

Gibbard Home Furnishers took up "the remaining space. They had, by far, the largest exhibit in the fair. A complete display of the goods carried by this store, was made. It included washing machines, refrigerators, bedroom suites, living room suites, radios, and other accessories for the modern home.

Across the floor, in the corner was reserved for the Canadian Coal Company. They exhibited Alberta coal taken from the Alberta coal mines, and the coal was shown in all sizes and grades.

L. R. Spencer had a well arranged display of farm machinery, washing machines, separators, clippers, and all sorts of implements for the modern farm.

The Canadian Department Stores had the space immediately adjoining. Their display was almost altogether in the ravier household machines such as hardware, refrigerators, stoves furnacettes, washing machines of different makes and models, and other heavy pieces of furniture for the home.

The Napanee Fuel & Supply Company displayed coal, and cases which conveyed to the observer some idea of the manner in which the eggs are shipped from the firm to the big buyers.

The next booth was occupied by Boyle & Son. They displayed a complete line of the latest and most modern, heating arrangements, stoves, furnaces, furnacettes in various color schemes—a very artistic display.

Beatty Brothers- who are manufacturers of different agricultural devices, had an interesting display of washers and fanning mill cleaners. The vacuum cleaners were found to be particularly convenient by other exhibitors who found it convenient for them to do some last minute cleaning of rugs and floor covering.

Outside the Palace was a large tent. In this was displayed the products of the home gardens, flowers, fruit, vegetables and seeds. The overflow of exhibits in these lines had to be removed from the Palace to this large tent. They were arranged attractively on tables, which surrounded the tent and showed up well against the white background of canvas.

The cattle, swine, chickens, pigeons, tureys, geese, ducks, sheep, horses, were a constant source of comment and praise from the large number of admiring experts who eyed them from every angle and discussed the fine points of each class. On every hand was heard words of praise for the fine quality of the livestock exhibits.

The largest midway ever to come to Napanee was at the Fair, this time. It seemed as though nearly half the fair grounds was given over to the aggregation of pleasure creating devices. There were the usual run of oddities in the side shows, the various games of chance and skill, and without any features new to the midway habitue of our community. Teh Ferris Wheel, Pony Ring, and a dozen other expensive pieces of equipment, gave to the fair a real cosmopolitan appearance.

First Evening's Entertainment

The evening show was attended by a large number of people from the town and district.

The first feature of the entertainment was the Baby Show. About fifteen babies were entered. The judges were Miss L. Lauder, Victorian Order Nurse, and Dr. D. R. Hall. The prize winning babies were:—

Boys, (3 to 12 months)— 1st Robert Parks; 2nd, Thomas Normile.

Boys, (1 year to 18 months)— 1st, Jimmie Mac Ilwee; 2nd. Fred Parks.

In a brief and appropriate address Mayor Tustin introduged Mr. J. A. Carroll, the superintendent of fairs, who was present to officially open the fair. Briefly, Mr. Carroll gave a resume of the history of the fairs, which had their beginning in Ontario in the last decade of the 18th century. He traced the influence of the fairs on the life of the community and paid a tribute to them and the men who had been interested in their development.

After the formal opening, the Canadian vaudeville entertainers gave a program, which was full of variety and interest.

Rotary Speaker Sees End of Armaments

Fairs Superintendent Expresses Views

At the weekly meeting of the Rotary Club, yesterday (Tuesday), Mr. Carroll, who is with the Ontario Department of Agriculture, gave an address.

In opening, Mr. Carroll spoke of the value of Rotary to the community.

Launching into the subject of agriculture, he said a high tribute to the men and women who, for a generation and a half, had given a lead in developing good crops and herds.

Originally the agricultural societies were formed largely in the past. was a later development. Of late, the Fair has taken the focus of attention, and sometimes to the neglect of some of the other things. He thought that the boys' and girls' clubs were the third form a agricultural propaganda.

Mr. Carroll spoke of the splendid way in which the town and country get together in this area. One evidence of that was the presence at Rotary as guests, of large numbers of the members of the Agricultural Society.

The speaker called attention to the conditions in agriculture, particularly in Ontario. He saw very definite trends towards better times. In spite of unusual weather, Ontario has a good supply of feed and grain. The orices are, as well, correspondingly high. These are some of the evidence of a change in the farmer's conditions. He believed that there would soon be a change in the price of dairy products. Due to the extreme unsatisfactory crops in the West, a new market will open there for Canadian products. The remedy for the conditions is not to go back but to go forward. The world which we are to inherit should be a better world than that in which we have lived. He believed that the nations would soon put a curb on the manufacture of armaments.

The speaker stressed the fact that the nation was not suffering from overproduction, but from unequal distribution. Our advance has been such as to make all the gifts of life available for all. It is inconceivable that the solution would be a return to outworn creeds and policies.

I doubt, he said, whether we can conquer selfishness, but we can learn to co-operate and be help in cure the world's ills. It is inconceivable that for ever the world would allow money to remain in the saddle.

"I have been much impressed," he said, "with your fair, and with the courage and ability and public spirit of those behind it.

The difference in communities is largely a difference in people. We all progress by the progress and development of others.

At the close of the meeting, Mr. Carroll, on behalf of the Club, expressed appreciation of the speaker's address.

Mother and Children Burned to Death In West

WIFE AND FAMILY OF MR. EDMUND WALSH

The following news item taken from the Monday night issue of the Toronto Star, tells of the death at Swan River Manitoba, of Mrs. Edmund Walsh, and five children by burning, when their home was destroyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Walsh were former residents of this district. About ten years ago they left Morven, where they formerly operated a farm, to return to the west, where they had previously lived. Mr. Walsh is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Walsh, and has several brothers living near Napanee.

Mr. Albert Walsh and Mr. R. J. Walsh are brothers.

Swan River, Man., Sept. 10—Sparks from a kitchen cookstove last night turned an isolated farmhouse, 13 miles west of here, into a blazing funeral pyre for a mother and five children. Three other children narrowly escaped a fiery death, two being rescued by their father while the third jumped from an upstairs window.

Returning home just as the fire reached its height, Mr. Walsh broke a window in the blazing house and managed to rescue Nita, 4, and Evelyn, 6.

Nita, aged 10, escaped the flames by jumping to safety from a second-storey window.

A small fire had been set in the kitchen stove to prepare tea for the men employed on the farm and sparks from this are thought to have started the fatal fire.

The mother had evidently made a heroic attempt to save her fire-trapped children, for her body was found at the top of the stairs leading to their bedroom. After rushing upstairs to carry her children to safety, Mrs. Walsh was apparently overcome by the choking smoke before reaching the room.

To most of us today science is a vast collection of mysteries which we accept on trust from those who are competent to tell us about them. This, in fact, is an age of superstition if ever there was one.— Martin Armstrong.

New York Speaker Tells Church People of Early Methodism

Reviews Life of Barbara Heck

On Sunday, at the evening service in Trinity Church, Mrs. Anna Onstott of New York city, spoke to the united congregations of Trinity St. Andrew's and Grace Churches.

Mrs. Onstott was introduced by Rev. Harry Pawson, minister of Trinity Church, who conducted the service, assisted by Rev. A. J. Wilson, and Rev. R. T. Richards. Mrs. Onstott is in Canada carrying on research in connection with the early history of Methodism. She is in Napanee the guest of Mrs. and Miss Carrie Cowan, direct descendants of Barbara Heck, the founder of Methodism in Canada. Mrs. Cowan is the granddaughter of Rev. Samuel Heck, son of Barbara Heck, and was born at Prescott, Ontario. Rev. Samuel Heck was born in New York in 1771, and died in 1843 at Prescott. It was at his home that Barbara Heck lived her last days, and died.

Mrs. Onstott has found that Mrs. Cowan possesses some valuable documents concerning the Heck family. These documents, in some instances, prove statements which have been made concerning the Heck family, and in other instances, disprove.

Mrs. Onstott, whose home is in New York, is the widow of a Methodist minister. She has been working for ten years on the story of Barbara Heck. In 1932 she was appointed publicity chairman of the Barbara Heck commission, by the Methodist Conference, of the Methodist Episcopal Church. She is also Methodist Historian of the Barbara Heck church Old John Street Church in New York city—the oldest church in New York, church is the third on the site. In its construction, many of the timbers and stones of the previous church were used. The original pulpit is also used.

Visited Barbara Heck's Birthplace

Three years ago, Mrs. Onstott visited the birthplace of Barbara Heck, in Ballingrane, Ireland, in County of Limerick. Barbara Heck, whose maiden name was Ruckle, was of German descent. She was a member of the German colony who came from the Rhine Palatinate to Ireland.

BARBARA HECK

In 1760, after her marriage to Paul Heck, Barbara and her husband emigrated to America, in company with Philip Embury, a Methodist preacher who was the first Methodist preacher in America.

In 1783 the Heck family moved to Grenville county on the St. Lawrence river, where Methodism was given its start in Canada. Paul Heck, Barbara's husband, was trustee of the Old Blue Church, built at Prescott in 1790, by the United Empire Loyalists, the first Methodist church in Canada. Samuel Heck, their son, was trustee of the First Brockville Methodist church, built in 1830, also trustee of the first Methodist church in Augusta township, County Grenville. These latter facts were contained in the papers which Mrs. Onstott possession.

Mrs. Cowan also has the deed from the Jones family to Samuel Heck, (her grandfather) for the oldest Methodist church on the Lawrence river, which is still standing, and which was occupied by the Hecks for many years. The house is of Norman style, with stone walls, four feet thick. The deed is dated January 16th, 1801.

Philip Embury, the first Methodist minister in America, was a cousin of Barbara Heck. His brother, David Embury, came to Canada and, with his two sons, John and Andrew, came to the Hay Bay district, a few miles south Napanee, and founded Methodism in this district.

Recently, Mrs. Onstott has been working on research at Prescott and was in charge of the Bi-centennial celebration of the birth of Barbara Heck, held at Prescott on Friday, August 17th. The celebration was attended by many representative Methodists and descendants of the Heck and Embury families.

Among the guests at Mrs. Cowan's were found the warrant of appointment of Samuel Heck as Ensign and later as Lieutenant, in the First regiment of militia in the county of Grenville, signed by Lieutenant-Governor Francis Gore, in 1809.

The following bill was also found in connection with the settlement of an estate for which Samuel Heck was appointed administrator, by Judge Lewis Sherwood, on October 2nd, 1824. The bill was for expenses incurred in connection with the funeral of Christopher Strowd :

Lucky Lake,
August 26th, 1934.

Dear Beaver :—

I am a little late getting my renewal along, but you are fortunate to get it at all.

If you were out here and see the hardships of people here, you would not wonder at subscriptions not being paid. This is the fifth year they have been living on relief. I guess the municipalities and governments are nearly broke.

I expect to get a chance to town some time this week and I will get a postal note to send to you for my renewal.

I will soon have to give up trying to write at all as my hand is getting a little shaky, and no wonder, for I am 86 years and 5 months.

Yours truly,
ALEX WALKER,
Lucky Lake, Sask.

West Lake opened a 3-0 lead up to the end of the sixth when four hits, out of the nine garnered off Phillips' delivery resulted in three runs crossing the plate. Phillips lapse continued in the eighth when three Napanee hits combined with two West Lake errors in sending four runners across the plate to practically cinch the game.

Reorganization Continues In Highways Dept.

Rumors of continued changes in Highways Department personnel emanated from Queen's Park during the week end. It is understood that the Minister, continuing the reorganization of the department, has requested the resignation of R. C. Muir, chief engineer of the municipal department, and of W. H. Brown, chief accountant.

The duties of Mr. Muir will probably be taken over by one of the engineer's now in the Civil Service, and the name of A. A. Smith is generally mentioned in this connection. To fill Mr. Brown's position, it is reported that the Minister will call in G. E. P. Smith, chartered accountant, and formerly of the accounting firm of Richardson, Smith & Perrie, of Hamilton.—The Toronto Globe.

Oddfellows Lodges Observe Memorial

Annual Parade to River-side Cemetery

The beautiful grounds of Riverside Cemetery formed an appropriate setting for the annual memorial service of the Oddfellows lodges of Napanee, on Sunday last.

Over a hundred local Oddfellows and visiting brethren from the surrounding districte formed in procession down the main street, led by the Napanee Boys' Band, marched to the cemetery.

On arrival at the cemetery there was a circle around three central flower beds, which had previously been decorated with cut flowers and the service was conducted under the chairmanship of Mayor Geo. J. Tustin.

The opening item was an overture played by the Band, after which the chairman gave a short address. In it Mayor Tustin spoke of the origin of the Oddfellows Lodge which had its beginning in England 200 years ago. It was introduced into the United States in 1824 and in 1824 and in Canada in 1843. He urged the members of the lodges to study their emblem, the three links, signifying friendship, love and truth. He stressed the duty of the brethren to help the widows and orphans, and bear one another's burdens and to keep the memory ever green of those who had gone on.

The names of the departed members of the order in Napanee were read by Bro. E. J. Walters, recording secretary of Argyll Lodge, No. 212.

After another selection by the band the speaker of the afternoon, Rev. R. T. Richards, was introduced by the chairman.

Rev. R. T. Richards Speaks

Mr. Richards based his address on the statement in the book of Joshua, where the children of Israel are given erecting stones of memorial to commemorate events and experiences in the life of the race returning from captivity in Egypt. The stones were to remind following generations of the experiences of men and women facing the highway of life, not only of the individual but of civilization. They marked the dividing line between the experiences of yesterday and the hopes of to-morrow.

The speaker said it was a fitting theme for the occasion. The members of the lodges were there to pay tribute of respect to the brethren who had gone on and who were being remembered because of their work. Many of them were men of ideals, interested in worth-while things as evidenced by their membership in the Oddfellows Lodge.

Mr. Richards called to mind the ideals of the Order—Friendship, Love and Truth—and urged the members still living to cherish the memories of the brethren departed, because they tried in their life up to the high principles of the Order.

Referring to those present, he said there were here to take fresh courage and to go on and work for those things which are worth—while. It is not ours to shun the struggle of life but to face it. The message from those who have gone on is "to carry on."

After the singing of another hymn and the closing prayer, by Chaplain Bro. Arnold Rogers, the procession formed again and returned to the lodge rooms

Rain Spoils Attendance At Addington Fair-- Exhibits Excellent

Large Showing of Stock

Despite a heavy downpour of rain during most of the day, on Saturday, Centreville Fair was a decided success in many respects. It suffered only through the fact that the attendance was not up to its usual high mark. The exhibits of cattle, horses and farm stock were never better. The showing of horses was particularly good. Over one hundred entries were made in this class alone, and the quality was unusually high. The showing of cattle was also excellent, both in quantity and quality. Sheep, swine and poultry held a prominent place in the exhibits.

In the Palace the showing of fruits and vegetables was noteworthy, considering the dry season. The display of women's work, fancy work, home cooking and canned goods was well up to the usual high mark.

The directors were well satisfied with the number of entries, which totalled practically the same as last year.

The entertainment features scheduled for the afternoon, the baseball game and horse races, had to be withdrawn on account of the bad weather

Mr. Littleproud At Board of Education

The regular meeting of the Board of Education was called for Monday evening. As a quorum was not present, no business was transacted.

Mr. Littleproud, who is the representative of the Ontario Penny Banks, and who had been invited by the Board to attend the meeting, addressed those present. Dr. Willoughby, Dr. Hall, Mr. Reeves, A. J. Wilson and chairman, Alpine Woods.

Mr. Littleproud gave an interesting account of the way in which the Penny Banks in the Pubblic Schools of Ontario are worked. He stressed the character building value of the habits of thrift. The speaker stated that in only two cases during the past ten years where penny banks have been installed, have they been withdrawn. In both of these cases the withdrawal was due to the closing of the local branch bank in the neighborhood.

Mr. Littleproud said that the purpose was not to teach the children to hoard, but to save for a purpose. It was not a question of how much, but how often. There are now over 400 schools in the province where the penny banks are worked.

The address was favorably received by those present, and at the close the speaker received the thanks of those present. The chairman expressed regret that the quorum was not present, the promised consideration of the matter at the next meeting.

Members of the lodges were there to pay tribute of respect to the brethren who had gone on and who were being remembered because of their work. Many of them were men of ideals, interested in worth-while things as evidenced by their membership in the Oddfellows Lodge.

Mr. Richards called to mind the ideals of the Order—Friendship, Love and Truth—and urged the members still living to cherish the memories of the brethren departed, because they tried in their life up to the high principles of the Order.

FALSE PROSPERITY

If proof were needed to show the futility of our present business organization, and the utter madness of our economic system, news emanating from Detroit, would supply it. Ford we are told, is building a new great steel plant. He is thus giving employment to hundreds of men in the building and construction industries. For the present it looks as though there was a boom in business there, and naturally, the inhabitants rejoice.

But is is well to look beneath the outward show of prosperity, to what is really happening and to observe the ultimate effect on the unemployment situation in that country. In the first place, the new plant is not being built because there is a shortage of steel producing plants. It is being built so as to give the motor magnate more complete control of the steel which goes into the fabricating of his cars. Under the present system, there is nothing wrong with that. That is the thing which all great corporations have done and continue to do. But in proportions as the new plant begins production, the other plants will have to curtail and perhaps some of them, close altogether. The new plant will give employment to a large number of men, but the mills already in existence, will have to lay off men and allow their machinery which they have installed in anticipation of the orders to which they were accustomed, to rust and decay.

Then, too, there is the serious effect on the workers and their families. It might be argued that the men could get work in the new plants, That might be possible. But the men are already established in their own communities, they have their roots in the town where they live; their children are going to school there, and all their friendships and relationships have been built around their present habitation. To tear them up especially when men are nearing middle life, is not as easy as it sounds, even if the employment might be available.

All this is quite on a par with what took place in Europe, immediately succeeding the war. Prior to 1914, Vienna was the centre of a great empire. It was the manufacturing centre of a large and productive area. It was well equipped with machinery of all sorts, to provide for the needs of the whole empire, as well as to supply, in some degree, foreign demand for the Austrian goods.

But when, by the Treaty of Versailles, Czecho Slovakia was carved out of the empire, the whole situation changed. The Czechs built tariff walls around their country in order to keep out the goods from Vienna, their erstwhile neighbours and relatives. The result was a period of feverish activity in Prague and other Czek cities, where buildings of all sorts were being erected to do the work which, all along, had been done quite satisfactorily in Vienna. In proportion as the new factories emerged in Prague, the old ones in Vienna were closed.

On the face of this it seems like sheer madness. And yet there is no way of preventing it in a world which is organized as our civilization is at present organized. What is needed is some sort of commission which will investigate the claims of any group of men to operate new industries. And if the commission judges that there are already enough of that particular sort of factory to meet the needs of the situation, then a permit to proceed should be refused.

It might be argued that such restrictions would place an undue power in the hands of existing groups. The answer is that they, too, must be brought under more careful and exacting government regulations.

PREMIER BENNETT AT GENEVA

On the first Monday of September, each year, the Assembly of the League of Nations at Geneva, meets to discuss the affairs of international importance. This world parliament has, since its inauguration, had a rather varied experience. Beginning in the highest hopes, for the establishment of world peace through understanding and consultation, it was hampered from the outset by the absence from its deliberations, of Germany, Russia, and the United States. In spite of this handicap, however, it accomplished a great deal. This was particularly true in the first few years of its existence.

Soon, however, selfish interests, and those who saw the loss of wealth and power through an independent world parliament, began to assert themselves, and Geneva became a place of intrigue, bickering, lobbying and compromise. And yet, through it all, through these trying years of growing nationalisms and intense race antagonisms, the League has kept going. Year after year it has had its annual meeting, and at those meetings much of value has been accomplished. It is difficult to think what might have happened in a world, whose nerves are frayed and on edge, had it not been for the faith of practical idealists like Arthur Henderson and Edouard Benes, whose confidence never faltered, and whose efforts and patience never wearied.

This year, the situation at Geneva has its dark side. The absence of Germany and Japan makes the situation more difficult than for some years past. This is particularly true because of the disturbed situation in the area where these nations have paramount influence. The conditions both in Middle Europe and in the Far East are such that the leaders need more than ever the kindly advice and the restraining hand of a world parliament.

On the other hand, it is to be hoped that the application for admittance to the League by Russia, will not be opposed. The time surely has come when the world powers must cease their attitude of opposition to Russia and distrust of her, simply on the grounds that the nation is seeking to solve its problems in its own way. Because their way is different from that followed by others, is surely no grounds on which to keep her out of the comity of peoples.

It is reported that Mr. Bennett, who is Canada's representative at the League, has said that he will not oppose Russia's admission into the League. That is good news. Hitherto, Mr. Bennett has opposed any trade agreements with Russia. But if he votes for her admission into the League, it is difficult to see how he can continue this opposition to trade relations. If these were properly arranged with regard to the mutual interests of both nations, it would undoubtedly be a stimulus to business in both countries.

Whatever may be done at the League, this season, we may rest confident that the free and frank discussion of common problems will have a very steadying effect on the whole world situation.

GENERAL COUNCIL MEETS

The General Council of the United Church in Canada is to meet in Kingston, this year. The sessions begin to-morrow (Wednesday), in the afternoon, at Sydenham Church. They will continue for probably ten days. The proximity of this great legislative body to Napanee should attract a large number of our people to its meetings. The sessions, apart from the committees, are all open to the public.

The Council consists of one minister out of each twenty-seven in the ministry of the United Church with an equal number of laymen. These men come from all over Canada and Newfoundland. It is safe to say that no more eager nor intelligent group of men, meet in Canada. They will debate knotty probelms with conviction, intensity and good spirit. Matters of grave importance to the future of the Church will have to be settled.

One of the first issues has to do with the retirement of some of the General Council officers. According to the regulations, no General Council officer may continue after he has reached the age of seventy years, without a two-thirds majority of the General Council Members. The present Moderator will come under this ruling.

Rev. T. Albert Moore has been the General Secretary ever since Union. He has, as well, been Moderator of the Church for the past two years. He has been a most valuable leader and executive officer of the Church's affairs. Should he retire from office, he will do so with the admiration, love and affection of the whole Church. Should he desire to continue the result will depend entirely on the temper of the Council. If it is as revolutionary as the last one, which was held at Hamilton, it is very doubtful if he would succeed in getting the two-thirds majority necessary.

There are other officers who are in the same category. Dr. Creighton, the editor of The New Outlook, and Dr. Stevenson, the Missionary Secretary, who have reached the retiring age, will have to secure the permission of the Court to continue. The issue will probably be settled on the vote, on Thursday morning.

Another important matter is the request from Alberta to ordain Lydia E. Grouchy. This request has come before several General Councils and each time has been refused. Up until the present, the United Church has not been willing to ordain women to the ministry. There will, undoubtedly, be a heated debate on this issue. With the present unsettled state of the country, and all churches occupied, and a sufficient supply of new candidates offering each year, it does not seem to us that the Council will be justified in throwing open its pulpits to the women, at this juncture. But, that again will depend on the temper of the Council.

The King Gordon case, too, will attract attention, not only in Canada but in the United States and the Old Country. King Gordon is the son of "Ralph Connor." He has been released from his professorship in the Montreal United College. The argument of the College is that it is done in the name of economy. Friends of King Gordon, however, declare that he is dismissed because of his social gospel. The issue, which has gone through Presbytery, Conference, and Executive of the General Council, has now to be decided by the Council itself. So much publicity has been given to this case that, apart altogether from the merits of it, a vote to sustain the College against Gordon will be interpreted throughout the Church, both at home and abroad, as a vote for reaction and ultra conservatism in the teaching of our colleges.

The Social Service Board, through its commission, appointed at the last Council, will present the result of its deliberation on the Church's attitude to capital and labor. Much scholarly and consecrated study has been given to this question through the years and, it is hoped, the document to be presented will give the Church clear direction in its thinking over this great issue. The debate on this will, undoubtedly, be keen and intense.

For those who are interested in debate and in the discussion of all modern problems, on the highest levels, the General Council will provide an unusual opportunity.

GENERAL EVANGELINE BOOTH

(Editorial From Montreal Star)

The return of the Booth dynasty to the headship of the Salvation Army will please multitudes of peoples throughout the world who count themselves the Army's friends. The five years' service with General Higgins gave the organization were invaluable as a time of recuperation after the unfortunate period immediately preceding and following the resignation of Bramwell Booth, the founder's son and first successor. Now the Army goes back to the direction of the family with which its name is most intimately connected.

The election of a sixty-year-old woman as supreme head of one of the most militantly aggressive religious organisations in the world, a position calling for intense activity, mental as well as physical, would seem a sufficiently daring experiment in these days when men and women are popularly supposed to be "too old" at fifty. But the Grand Council of the Army doubtless knew what it is about; certainly Evangeline Booth's record of service shows no sign of any weakening of the amazing energy of mind and body which has marked her out as one of the most forceful personalities of the present times.

William Booth, her father, combined with autocratic power a rare ability to pick the right man — or woman — for the right place; and it was, we may believe, because of no excess of tenderness for his fourth daughter that he gave to her the enormously important and exacting position of command over all Army activities in London when she was a girl in her early twenties. Too much was at stake and the future of the Army too vitally important to its founder to permit of wrong selection in the highest commands or those dictated or influenced by favoritism or affection only. Clearly she shrewd eye of William Booth saw in her qualities which her career has proved that she possessed and which received their final and highest recognition, recently.

Evangeline Booth's record of service is an open book, written in many lands. It is a matter of pride to Canada that a part of it should have been written in this country. That experiment in the Army will fall in behind her banners goes without saying. And outside the Army, hosts of men and women who know the incalculable value of the work for humanity which the Army does, will wish her Godspeed and strength to carry on.

Editorial Comment

TAXATION AT THE DANGER POINT

Many persons seem to think that the spending possibilities of the Government are limitless, but they lose sight of the fact that every dollar appropriated for public purposes has to come from the taxpayers. What they also forget is that there is a danger line in taxation which when reached when the levies become so oppressive that they cannot be collected.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

THROUGH AMERICAN EYES

A novel situation has been created by a boycott launched in the Lancashire, England, centre of the cotton manufacturing industry, against products imported from Australia. The Lancashire spinners have been irritated by the action of the Australian Government in imposing tariff upon cotton goods, although the volume of exports from Lancashire thus affected is little more than a tenth of one per cent of all the manufactured cotton that Lancashire sends forth to the entire world. . . . This miniature trade war affecting component parts of the Empire is unfortunate and is one more proof of the evil wrought by the British Government's step fostering the various measures have left the law of the Dominions free to initiate and confused a state that it is difficult not merely for the plain man but for the statesman to know where he stands. We doubt if this particular Act effects its purpose, but that it does is sufficiently plain—to place South Africa on an "In-and-Out" basis, so that it may enjoy the advantages of Empire in peace and escape from its obligations in war.—London Evening Post.

THE DOMINIONS AND BRITISH WARS

In considering such Acts as the Statute of Westminster, we cannot but perceive that the British Empire is in some danger of being nibbled to pieces by the breed of lawyer-politicians. The Crown is a unity in another example of the same tendency—not a step further in the status of the Union Act, 1934. These various measures have left the law of the Dominions free to initiate and confused a state that it is difficult not merely for the plain man but for the statesman to know where he stands. We doubt if this particular Act effects its purpose, but that it does is sufficiently plain—to place South Africa on an "In-and-Out" basis, so that it may enjoy the advantages of Empire in peace and escape from its obligations in war.—London Evening Post.

THE TRADE REVIVAL

Judged by a number of important financial and commercial indices the recovery in trade which has been proceeding steadily since the new National Government took office, still continues. All of these indices now stand at or nearly their highest points. Imports and exports continue to expand, and to a great exporting and creditor nation not the least gratifying feature of the latest return is that the surplus of imports is not due to the 1932 level, because in the final analysis those who are insisted on this country can only pay in goods and services. The increase in imports is mainly accounted for by raw materials. This indicates a healthy condition of trade, for a rejection of these rather than the maintenance of such imports would imply either internal stagnation or loss of exporting power. But a welcome feature of the returns is that while our imports have been increasing our exports relatively have increased at a greater rate.—London Times.

TO-DAY

"Since yesterday is dead and gone
Then nothing can be gained
By meditating on the tears
And sadness it contained

"To-morrow in the future lies,
No good can be derived
From worrying about a day
That has not yet arrived

"To-day is waiting at your door.
So fill it each passing hour
With all the good that you can do.
The best that's in your power

"Think kindly thoughts, forbear to judge,
Say nothing you'll regret.
Do each deed well with happy heart
And give more than you can get.

"So be it, you will find the truth
That life is very sweet,
For you can say at close of sun—
My day has been complete."

M.M.

There are two days on which a man ought not to fear death. The one the day when it is not comine to him, and the other when it is destined for him. In either case there is no object in fearing death.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, SEPTEMBER 16TH, 1934

ISAIAH 1: 10-20

"ISAIAH CONTRASTS FALSE AND TRUE WORSHIP"

We turn, this week, to Isaiah, who was in many respects, the greatest of the Hebrew prophets. He had a long and influential life. Born about 740 B.C., he was still alive when Sennacherib failed to capture Jerusalem in 701 B. C. He prophesied during the reigns of four kings, Uziah, Jotham, Ahaz and Hezekiah. He was a child when Amos delivered his sermon at Bethel; a youth when Hosea began to preach, and an older contemporary of Micah.

He was a man of the city. He had access to the courts, and because of that, he was able to exert a powerful influence on the policies of the government. He had seen the defeat and capture of Damascus, and the virtual annihilation of the ten Northern Tribes by the mighty Assyrians under Tiglath Pileser. He succeeded in those stormy times in keeping the little kingdom of state afloat by his wise council, consumate faith and fearless denunciation of the existing religious conditions.

In this lesson Isaiah is speaking to a congregation of rulers and people. He was probably assembled at the temple or some sacred meeting place. He addresses them as citizens of Sodom and Gomorrah — citizens that is, of the cities, of the plains, whose sins and wickedness were proverbial. The very fact that in the opening of his address, he compares them to those of ancient times, shows the intensity of his feeling against the life of his people. He then launches out into a denunciation of the current practices of worship, which, in his judgment, are responsible for the precarious political situation.

The people whom he addressed were generous in their sacrifices. Probably the more so because of the menace of Assyria. The prophet points out tha tthe Lord is not satisfied with al ltheir "burnt offerings of rams," "fat of fed beasts, of bullocks, or of lambs or he-goats." The new moon, which he was still alive when Sennachirb failed to capture Jerusalem in 701 B. C. He prophesied during the reigns of four kings, Uziah, Jotham, Ahaz and Hezekiah. Fifteen leading buyers and industrialists from the British Isles who are at present touring Eastern Canada, with a view to increasing trade between the Dominion and the Motherland, were entertained as guests of the Kellogg Company of Canada at a delightful dinner in the Hotel London, London Ontario, on Tuesday last. Known as the "Made in Great Tour" was arranged by the Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, High Commissioner to Great Britain. The visitors include men and women prominently engaged in industry in the United Kingdom and the Irish Free State. It is stated that one of the principal buying power represented by the group runs into several millions of pounds sterling annually.

The party, guided with sensibility and goodwill by W. P. Butler, manager, and C. Gosfield, McComb, vice president of Kellogg, extended warm greetings to the visitors. Mayor Wilkins and Percy White, M.P. were the other local guests, while the addresses for the President were by James Wallace, head of Jones, Wallace and Co., Ltd., Liverpool, corn merchants, and William Collins, J.P., chairman of Messrs. Peek Frean and Co., Limited, Dons Bakery, Lancashire and of Peek & Sons of Oldham.

Mr. Wallace pointed out that in Scotland the traditional dish was oatmeal and some forefathers built the strength and energy in the Scot on excellent substitute. I am sure many found in Kellogg's Corn Flakes." Mr. Collins expressed the warm thanks of the party to the Kellogg Company for their hospitality and spoke of the deep impression made on the visitors by the Kellogg factory and other industrial establishments they had seen.

Mr. Butler, president of the famous cycle Softball Teams of the United States and Canadian Kellogg Plants who have competed in a game at which the Britishers were guests, many of them being the rough Canadian sport for the first time.

HOMEMADE ICE CREAM

There is probably a general belief among women that it takes a great deal of time and trouble to make ice cream, but according to the Dairy and Cold Storage Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture such is not the case. It is simply matter to mix the ingredients and freeze ice cream. If the time and attention is given in proper proportions to a portion of only 15 or 20 minutes before the freezing process is completed. The freezing process, however, is important as this helps to secure the proper body and texture, as these conditions have a great effect on the palatability.

The following is a recipe for nut ice cream — Take one pint of cream, two teaspoonfuls of vanilla, one-third cup sugar, and one-half cup chopped nuts. Add the vanilla and sugar to the cream. Freeze. When nearly frozen add the chopped nuts. Nuts good in chocolate or maple ice cream make a very palatable frozen product.

WHY WE DO THIS

It is a well-known fact that high-grade advertising is the life of business. In advertising short, catchy phrases and sentences, called slogans, are very valuable. We need them and will gladly pay for them, and are taking this method of getting a number of suggestions.

Most slogans which have brought fortunes to business houses were thought of by someone not connected with the house. Cash and credit vouchers will be given to people who least expect them. Only a few minutes' work at all it takes. Equal prizes in case of tie.

All prizes are given free.
Successful contestants will be notified by mail.
Credit vouchers are transferable.
More than one honorable mention prize will be issued.
Credits expire Sept. 22, 1934.

All slogans must be in the mail by 9 P.M., Monday, Sept. 17th.

Use coupon or plain white paper!

I hereby submit the following slogan for the Judges' consideration. I agree to abide by the decision of the judges without question:

Central Bank Head Appointed By Government

Ottawa. — Soon after the intimation was made that a Canadian would be appointed to the post, the Dominion Government, at the Cabinet Council, appointed Graham Ford Towers, of Montreal, to be first Governor of the new Bank of Canada, the Central Bank.

Mr. Towers made the choice from several applicants. He is 37 years old and has had 14 years experience in commercial banking. He is assistant general manager of the Royal Bank of Canada, a position that he will resign immediately.

Mr. Towers, who was born in Minden, Ontario, entered the service of the Royal Bank in 1920, first as economist and later as inspector of the bank's branches in Cuba.

Trip to Europe

Mr. Towers will go to Europe soon to make a study of the mechanism of Central Bank control, following which he will be chosen from some other Central Bank within the British Empire.

Mr. Towers is an example of the university graduate gone into commercial banking. After graduation from McGill in 1919 with honors in economics, he entered the Royal Bank as an economist and a year later became accountant at the Havana branch. In 1923, he was appointed assistant inspector of the branches in Cuba and then returned to the head office as foreign inspector, in that capacity visiting the branches in the West Indies, Central and South America, London, New York, Paris and Barcelona. His promotion was rapid. In 1929 he became chief inspector and in 1931 assistant to the general manager and later assistant general manager.

Mr. Towers is the author of "Financing Foreign Trade" and a student of Banking monetary problems and economics generally. He is a son of the late William Crawford Towers of Montreal, an ex-service man. He was three years with the Canadian Army Service Corps during the war.

The appointment is for seven years, with eligibility for reappointment.

The Household Science Judging Team Journeyed to Toronto last week and took part in the Household Science Judging Competitions, in the Coliseum at the Canadian National Exhibition on Wednesday, September 5th.

350 Young farmerettes, representing 28 Ontario counties, took part in the oxen and and inter-County Household Science Judging competitions. Their tests included judging in home furnishings, nutrition and clothing. They were asked to make a neat darn in a square of knitted fabric, and they carefully selected the best kitchen utensils. When either type of suitable costumes for semi-formal wear was presented, their test was to chose the ensemble nearest perfection. Nutrition tests were divided into junior and senior classes, and in this contest the young ladies were required to know a variety of cuts of meat.

The Lennox and Addington County team was composed of Esther Purcell, Colebrook; Hilda Preslar, R.R. No. 1, Napanee; Dorothy Spraggett, R.R. No. 1, Napanee, and sure Hazel Baker, Sharp Corners. The team stood third in the competition with 1,337 points, only 7 points less than the winning team from York County, and secured 134 points. Esther Purcell, Colebrook, won the distinction of being high girl in the competition, scoring 473 points. This is the first time a Lennox and Addington girl has won this honor.

The girls are to be congratulated upon their success. The competition at the Canadian National Exhibition is always very keen and a team has to be real good to get near the top. Lennox and Addington has reason to be proud of the success her girls have had this year, both at the C. N. E., Toronto, and the C. E. E., Ottawa.

The gatherings were highly successful and were convened and presided over by Major Riches of Toronto, the Divisional Commander for this part of the Army administration.

Government To Pay All Road Costs

Municipalities to Be Relieved of Highway Taxation, Premier M. F. Hepburn Says

Legislation designed to relieve municipalities of highway taxation by the end of the present year, from paying 20 per cent. of capital expenditure and 25 per cent. of maintenance costs on highways, which they are called upon to meet at present, was forecast by Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn, Under this legislation which will be enacted when the Legislature assembles, the entire cost of Provincial highway construction will be borne by the Ontario Government.

Unlicensed Gasoline Sale To Be Punished

The Ontario Department of Highways was reported to be preparing legislation ranging from $5 to $1,000 for individuals of firms selling gasoline without Government licenses. The penalties are expected to be placed in effect shortly, and the department also is understood to be planning extension of the auditing system to keep close check on payrolls and other financial expenditures.

Extension of the audit will be arranged with the Provincial Auditors' Department; department heads claiming that the system of auditing in the past was inadequate.

In the future, it is understood, every gasoline vendor in Ontario will have to obtain a license from the Highways Minister. Failure to obtain a license will mean a fine of not less than $5 and not more than $100 for the first offence. The second offence will call for a fine of not less than $100 and not more than $1,000.

Shipment of gasoline will be closely watched in co-operation with transportation companies in an effort to eliminate bootlegging of the product.

PREVIEW OF SIXTH GENERAL COUNCIL

Starting This Week in Kingston, Wednesday, September 12th to 22nd, 1934.

"The tribes go up." As these words are written the Commissioners to the Sixth General Council are on their way to the City of Kingston. "I was glad when they said unto me. Let us go into the house of the Lord." whither the tribes go up, the tribes of the Lord, unto the testimony of Israel, to give thanks unto the name of the Lord."

The General Council is the supreme judicatory of The United Church of Canada. It deals with matters of organization as touching congregations, Presbyteries, Conferences and Synods; matters of law as touching the doctrine, worship, membership and government of the Church; it deals with certain property subject to limitations and the approval of Conference concerned; it provides regulations for the training, acceptance, and ordination of candidates for the ministry and the admission of ministers from other communions; it determines the policy of the Church in regard to her missionary, educational and other general activities, and, in general, concerns itself with such matters as may tend to promote true godliness, repress immorality, preserve the unity and well-being of the Church, and advance the Kingdom of Christ throughout the world. The General Council speaks with authority in the name of the Church, and The United Church of Canada is bound by the decisions of its General Council.

It is natural to ask as to the important questions upon which there will be stirring debates during the sessions. To answer this question will be helpful to recall references to the Sixth General Council by its predecessor.

Since the General Council of 1932 met in Hamilton, the 114 Presbyteries have considered two Remits.

First Remit: Shall there be a Judicial Committee to hear appeals from decisions of the Moderator, the Conferences of their Presidents, the Executive of General Boards, or questions of law? It was provided that should two-thirds of the Presbyteries give their approval, this legislation shall come into effect on the 30th of April, 1930. The report of the vote was eighty-one Presbyteries favored, twelve were unfavorable and twenty-one made no report. The Committee was duly organized, and its report of two meetings will be presented.

Second Remit concerns the office and duties of the Moderator. The replies to this remit evidence a widespread interest and bring many suggestions. It is probable that a Second Judicial Committee will have a number of interesting hours in the preparation of a report, and the General Council will experience a most interesting time during its consideration.

The Fifth General Council made provision for reports to be presented to its successor, on the following questions: Status of Secondary Schools; Amalgamation of the Boards of Home Missions and Evangelism and Social Service; Christianizing the Social Order; Co-ordination of Salaries; Missionary Education and Evangelism. These Commissions have prepared reports which will be presented and their consideration will doubtless fore the highest debating ability of the General Council. As they will be released only to the General Council, it is not permissible to outline their exceedingly interesting contents. The personnel of the Commissions, the thoroughness with which they secured their data, the many hours in many sessions given to consideration, with the careful preparation of these reports, give promise that the Church will be given the highest standards of Christian challenge and the deepest anxiety of the welfare of the best interests concerned.

The nearly 150 memorials from Conferences, Presbyteries and individuals cover a very wide field and indicate the earnest desire of the Church's ministry and membership to secure the highest possible efficiency in all the work. There are some change in the work of the Settlement and Transfer Committees; suggest a modification in the age limit of pastorates; ask consent for the ordination of a woman; request the organization of accident and health insurance by the Pension Fund; plead for a change in edition of "The Hymnary"; urge strong stand in regard to international peace, the better observance of Good-will Sunday and disarmament of nations; and especially emphasize the development of a strong, practical evangelistic movement to ensure the continuance of aggressive and vital spiritual life which is the supreme task of every Christian Church.

The public meetings will be occasions of wide-spread interest. The first session opens at 3.00 p.m. on Wednesday, (to-day), September 12.

Another most interesting subject will be the report of the Committee on Negotiations with other Churches, which will report the progress being made in regard to organic union with the Evangelical Church. The relegation from this Church will be presented on Monday, September 17th, during the afternoon session. Other Canadian communions will probably be received during this session. The suggestion has been made that where-as the report of the General Church of England in Canada will be in session in Montreal at the same time as the General Council in Kingston, delegations for each to the other should be received at each place. While this delightful courtesy could be effected only by the bodies themselves, it is probable that general publicity will be given in due time.

The reports of the General Boards of the Church for the biennium will be received during the first days of the Council, referred to the Standing Committees, and the Council will consider the recommendations that may be presented. It is during this consideration that the policy of the Church in her missionary, educational, evangelistic and other activities is determined. Prominent among these reports will be that of the Missionary and Maintenance Fund and the statement by the Treasurer of the Church. The liberality of the ministry and membership of The United Church has been most commendable. Through the recent depression, this fund has enabled the Church to carry on in her foreign and home mission fields, her educational, evangelistic and social welfare activities, her care of the veterans of the Cross and her encouragement to the toilers in the lonely frontier settlements and the crowded city wards and throughout her many enterprises. In carrying out her Master's commission, "Go ye, preach the Gospel."

The United Church looks forward with confidence and expectation. Ten years ago next June, union was consummated. At that time there were reported 600,522 members. During the years she has received an annual average of more than 25,000 persons into her membership, on profession of faith. Her membership is now 686,492. She has gone into many hundreds of communities where there was no religious service and organized congregations with Sunday schools and all other social religious activities. Her 2,800 pastors preach the Gospel every Sunday in thirty languages and dialects. Missionaries have and have under their pastoral care upwards of 2,000,000 people in Canada, with another 62,084 in Newfoundland and 2,000 in Bermuda.

The Sixth General Council of The United Church of Canada is face a great programme and opportunity as the Church completes her first decade. It is probable that the General Council will make preparation for a willing observance of that tenth anniversary. The Church is endeavoring to obey the Divine commission, and preach the Gospel throughout all the centres of population in Canada as well as in Newfoundland and Bermuda, and her stations in Africa, India, China, Japan and Trinidad. The Church has found the promise of the Master to be her strength. "Lo I am with you always," and now forward with confident faith, realizing the leadership and strength of His continuing presence.

Fall Field Work on The Central Farm

Fall work is well advanced at the Central Experimental Farm. Fall ploughing has been in progress for some ten days. Early varieties of potatoes are being dug with care. Ensilage corn should be in the late dough stage by next week, when corn harvesting will be commenced.

Fish Meal for Poultry

The results of an experiment conducted for five years at the Dominion Experimental Farm at Nappan, N.S., show that fish meal is an excellent substitute for other protein feeds for poultry, and that it is as good as beef scrap or beef meal for the poultry ration. During the test there was no complaint from consumers as to any fishiness or off-flavour in the eggs.

Winter Food Supplies for Bees

Every colony of bees when ready for the winter should have at least forty pounds of food stored, in order that they may have sufficient to carry them through until new nectar is available the following spring. In the best climate or buckwheat honey should be used for this purpose. In this case the required amount of pure cane sugar made into syrup at the rate of two parts of sugar to one part of water.

OLDEN'S CALL TO THE OLD HOME FOLKS

A poem read by Miss Lyla Benn, at "Old Home Day" at Mountain Grove, on Saturday, August 11th.

Swift is the silent message
That speeds on its earnest quest,
Away o'er lands to the eastward
And o'er the lands to the west;
Northward and south the tie heralds
Through the boundless ether of thought.
Till each kindred soul,
In tune with the whole,
Hears the call, with it's mother-love fraught.

"Come to me, way-faring children"
I stand at the Old Home door,
And I longingly look and listen
For the trooping throng once more
The children who stay are my comfort,
Yet I yearn for the children who roam;
Come back to me now, with each fresh laurel bough,
To heap up the Harvest—Home."

All the air is electric and vibrant
With its answering sentient thrill
"We are coming!" echoes the woodland:
"Coming!" re-echoes the hills.
Did you fancy the wild bee's droning
Was a meaningless, aimless hum?
'Twas the best he could do to interpret to you
Our message, "We come! We come!"

In the matin song of the red-breast
We challenge the world to share
Our joy; and the babbling brooklets
Are telling it everywhere.
No minor music can voice it—
The gladness with which we come—
The pattering rain tried again and again,
Wept out its despair,— and was dumb.

The woodbine clambers higher
To its lookout among the trees;
And our signal flashed by the fire weed
It forwards upon the breeze.
The golden rod lures with its treasure
A bribe not the best of us spurns.
While an escort of state, in uniform
In the standing army of ferns.

The Bobolink's rapturous greeting
Effervesces in bubbling zest,
As he soars to his carol's climax.
Then slides down the song to his nest.
Our day sings its gamut with nature,
Then sinks on her comforting breast,
When the wildwood thrush
At the twilight hush,
Chants his nuncnin call to rest.

We bring thee allegiance, dear Olden
Enthroned on thy granite seat,
Thou art crowned with a mountain tiara,
While your meadows lie at your feet.
On thy bosom, fair lakes and brooklets
Pearls set in emerald green—
And the soft flowing folds
Of the woodlands and wolds
Are the velvety robe of our Queen.

We bring thee the filial tribute
Of thanks for the stern caress,
That strengthened the hearts of the living
And made for the soul's success;
For the lessons of living,
Transmuted to lives of worth
For the strength from thy hills
And the granite wills
That bend to no despot on earth.

We bring back the old-time legends,
The songs and the stories quaint;
A page in our past, made sacred
With large by some household saint.
And the unbounded rapture of childhood,
Hand in hand with shy, bare-footed bliss
Keeping step to the tune
Of perpetual June,
And accenting each joy with a kiss.

We fill the old school on the hillside
With the friends and the scenes of our youth,
And we work out our life problems, backward—
'Till we read the old promise of Truth.
Integrity — loyalty — honor,
We learned with the Rule of Three
And they lead us back to a triple track,
From the heights they have won us— to thee.

We render our reverent tribute to the brave pioneer of our town,
And to those whom immortal achievements
Have raised to the ranks of renown—
On our roll-call to arms for the battle of peace and of war, is the name
Or each hero of old.
Whose we blazed in gold
On the walls of our OWN Hall of Fame.

"I don't like your heart action," the doctor said, applying the stethoscope again. "You have had some trouble with angina pectoris, haven't you?"

said the young man, sheepishly,

Interest of 3 Per Cent Sought on Loans

Ontario Municipalities Want Assistance From Provincial Govt.

The Ontario Association of Rural Municipalities, last week, passed a resolution asking the Ontario Government to lend counties money at three per cent. Such money to be in the form of debentures payable to the Government in three to six years."

The resolution made no mention of the amount of money desired.

President Marshall Rathwell whose home is in Lathen, Ont., suggested that counties would be added greatly if the administration would consent to such a plan.

He said such loans could be applied to outstanding county bank accounts, now drawing five to six per cent, enabling them to reduce the burden of interest.

A member of resolution suggested that damage caused by commercial highway traffic to roads should be investigated and the cost applied to the gasoline tax. A resolution on a similar subject urged that all revenue from the gasoline and motor license taxes be applied to the King's Highways so that their entire cost would be covered, relieving counties of the necessity of paying 20 per cent of the costs.

One resolution urged a tax on all hotel and restaurant meals worth more than 50 cents, proceeds of which would be applied to hospitalization of indigent patients.

(Send them in early in the week.)

SALMON EGGS

Six eggs.
Small tin of salmon.
One teaspoonful of lemon juice.
One small lettuce.
One pickled gherkin.
One small cucumber (if desired).

Boil the eggs for ten minutes and put at once into cold water. When quite cold, shell and cut off a thick slice from one end. Carefully scoop out the yolks, then rub these through a sieve. See that the salmon is quite free from skin and bone, and mix it with the egg yolks, adding the lemon juice and a little pepper. Fill the egg cases with this mixture, cut a thin layer off the bottom of the eggs, then stand them on lettuce leaves in a salad bowl, and decorate with sliced gherkin, surrounding with sliced cucumber, if desired.

EGG AND HAM PIE

Two eggs.
Four ounces of flour.
Two ounces of lard.
Half teaspoonful baking powder.
Half a pound of ham.
One-half pint of milk.

Rub the lard into the flour, add the baking powder, and mix to a paste with a little water. Grease a pie-dish and line it with the pastry. Cut the ham into small pieces, and place this in the bottom of the dish. Beat up the eggs, add milk and seasoning to taste, and pour over the ham. Bake until the contents of the dish are set like a custard, then serve hot or cold.

SAVOURY FISH PIE

Four ounces white fish.
Six ounces rice.
One small onion.
Half teaspoonful curry powder.
Half teaspoonful chopped parsley.
One tomato.
A little milk and a little sugar.

FOR THE PASTRY

One pound self-raising flour.
One-half pound of lard.

Put the rice into a saucepan with half a pint of water, stir in the curry powder and add a little sugar, the minced onion, the chopped parsley and seasonings to taste. Bring to the boil and while the rice is hot add the fish, which has been boned and finely flaked. Stir well over the heat for a few minutes, then turn the mixture into a greased pie-dish. Pour over a little milk, and place the peeled and sliced tomato on top. Now make the pastry by rubbing the fat into the flour and adding sufficient water to make a stiff dough. Roll out on a floured board, cover the pie with this, and bake in a hot oven for twenty minutes.

NUTMEG CAKE

One pound self-raising flour.
Six ounces of butter.
Six ounces powdered sugar.
One and one-half teaspoonfuls of grated nutmeg.
Two eggs.
One-half teacupful of milk.

Cream the butter and sugar together; separate the whites from the yolks of the eggs; then beat the yolks and add the milk. Add this to the creamed butter, then add the nutmeg and flour, lastly adding the well-beaten egg whites. Place in a greased cake tin and bake in a moderate oven for two hours.

GINGER PEARS

Nine pounds of pears, six pounds granulated sugar, four cups water, four lemons, six ounces crystallized ginger.

Pare fruit and cut in thin slices removing core. Drop into a weak salt-water to prevent discoloring. Drain from salt water and add to boiling syrup made with sugar and water. Simmer until fruit begins to look clear around the edges and add the grated rind of two lemons and the juice of all four. Add ginger cut in tiny bits and simmer until mixture is thick and pears are transparent. Put into sterilized jelly glasses and cover with a thin layer of paraffine. When cold cover with more paraffine. Store in a dark, cool place.

SPICED PEARS

Six pounds pears, five cups light brown sugar, two cups cider vinegar, one-quarter of a cup broken stick cinnamon and whole cloves, mixed. Pare pears before weighing. Place in a crock alternately with layers of sugar. If the pears are quite large they should be cut in halves and cored. Pour on vinegar and let stand over night. Drain off liquid and add spices tied in a cheese cloth bag. Bring to the boiling point and boil five minutes. Add pears and simmer until tender, but not broken or soft. Pack in hot sterilized jars and pour over boiling vinegar syrup to cover. Seal at once.

If the vinegar is very "sharp" it should be diluted with water.

— HINTS —

HOW TO USE SOUR MILK IN YOUR BAKING

Many women ask how to use sour milk in baking. Milk that has just turned will need a small amount of soda to neutralize it and enough baking powder to leaven the mixture, or in other words, to make it "rise." Allow a slightly heaping teaspoon of a teaspoon of soda to a cup of slightly soured milk and the usual amount of baking powder called for in the sweet milk recipe, should be used when sour milk is substituted. The acidity of the milk must be considered and when milk is thick and definitely sour, the general rule is to use one-half teaspoon soda for one cup of sour milk and omit one teaspoon cream of tartar or two teaspoons baking powder from the recipe.

NEWS AND INFORMATION FOR THE BUSY FARMER

(Furnished by the Ontario Department of Agriculture)

During the month of July, 1934, 11,000,000 lbs. of bacon were exported to Great Britain as compared with 7,200,000 lbs. during July 1933, the total shipments of bacon for the first seven months of 1934 amounting to 81,504,600 lbs. as against 38,787,700 lbs. during the corresponding seven months of 1933.

When packing eggs for shipment be careful that the largest are packed lightly over each filler as it is packed to make sure that no eggs are protruding above the top of the filler. Such eggs almost invariably will break in transit. Before packing eggs see that the bottom and sides. If any nails are loose or have fallen out, replace them.

Value of Certified Seed

Commercial potato growers, whose stock is infested with diseases or contains mixed varieties, would find it decidedly advantageous to secure certified seed. It is not the chief purpose of the Department of Agriculture to encourage potato growers to use certified seed with a view to having their crops inspected for certification purposes, but every potato grower has not the necessary patience and time, or suitable location, and equipment, for growing certified seed. The object of the department rather is to have growers use the best seed obtainable for their commercial crop, and help to keep down to a minimum destructive plant diseases, with their resultant serious effect on yields. The use of certified potato seed on many farms would double the yields now being obtained.

Pig Feeding Methods

Although there are several methods of preparing meal mixtures for feeding pigs, the following rules are recommended as safe practices in producing hogs of the desired type: (1) Grind all grain. Fine grinding is recommended especially for young pigs. (2) Soak meal mixture between feeds; do not use too much water but feed as a fairly thick slop. (3) Have grain in the best condition for securing hogs of a desirable type. (4) If necessary, a self-feeder may be used after pigs have reached the growing stage of development. (5) Keep mills, troughs and other feeding equipment clean. Mouldy or decaying matter will cause feeding troubles, and (6) Supply clean drinking water.

The Racket of Robber Bees

Although honey stealing by bees is likely to be most troublesome in late summer, the beekeeper has to keep in mind that robber bees may start their racket at any time. In warm weather when there is little or no honey to be got from the flowers, the bees will easily yield to any temptation to obtain it anywhere. After more or less fighting they will overpower any very weak colonies, and carry the honey to their own hives. Old robber bees have a shiny appearance, the hair having become worn off with entering so many different hives. No colony should be allowed to grow weak, says the Dominion apiarist, and no honey or syrup should be exposed in the apiary.

Notification of Animal Disease

Horses, mules and asses of all ages and classes are liable to contract any of the serious contagious diseases of the skin known as mange, scabies or itch. Mange is scheduled under the Animals Contagious Diseases Act, which requires that every owner, breeder, dealer or veterinary surgeon suspecting the existence of this disease shall immediately notify the nearest veterinary inspector. Treatment is carried out under quarantine. The following mixture is used specifically for hand treatment under the supervision of an inspector: Sulphur, 2 pounds; oil of tar, 8 ozs.; raw linseed oil, 1 gallon.

Current Crop Report

Recent general rains have improved pastures and will benefit root crops and late fruits. Threshing of fall wheat is about completed with yields below average. Harvesting of spring grains is nearing completion under favorable weather conditions. Threshing is well advanced with oats and barley yielding from 45 to 60 bushels per acre. Corn is in good condition. The hay crop is considerably below average. The second cutting of alfalfa is light. Roots are making satisfactory progress. Turnips in a few districts will be below average due to insect damage. Sugar beets are 35 per cent. under expectations. Apples, peaches and pears will be light, with apple production estimated at one-third less than last year and peaches one-half of last year's tonnage. Grapes promise a good yield.

Interest in Junior Work At Central Canada Show

The Junior Agricultural Department of the Central Canada Exhibition again proved one of the outstanding features of the show. This department which includes the Judging competitions in live stock, poultry, seeds, domestic science, baker making, as well as the Calf Club and Sheepmanship competition, attracted a record number of 721 entries. A large and interested ringside followed the showings made by W. J. Bell and L. C. McOuat, in connection with the Calf Club and sheepmanship competitions.

First honors in the Ayrshire group went to the Newington Calf Club of West Stormont, while in the Jersey section the award went to the group from the Carp Calf Club of Carleton County, with the Shorthorn group receiving the beef championships.

Certain morbid conditions must exist in the stomach and intestines to encourage worms, and they will exist as long as these morbid conditions permit them to. To be rid of them and spare the child suffering, use Miller's Worm Powders. They will correct the digestive irregularities by destroying the worms, conditions favorable to worms will disappear, and the child will have no more suffering from that cause.

World Employment Shows Improvement

Anglo - Saxon Countries Lead The World

Weymouth, Eng. — Harold Butler, secretary-general of the International Labor Office, addressing the British Trades Union Congress yesterday, stressed the improved labor situation this year as compared to last. Citing unemployment statistics Butler said that the umber of unemployed dropped from 29,000,000 in 1933 to 22,000,000 in 1933, with improvement noticeable in Anglo-Saxon countries.

"There is little doubt in my mind that when the history of the depression is written it will be shown that nowhere has the main road to business revival been found through the drastic reduction of wages," added Butler.

"The expenditure of large sums of public money on unemployment insurance and assistance or on public works in this and a few other countries has proved a great influence in stabilizing the trade and in preventing the Depression from reaching even lower depths. By this means of purchasing power the people has been at least partly maintained."

SUNDAY EVENING ADDRESS

In her address on Sunday evening, Mrs. Onstott gave a review of the life of Barbara Heck and linked up with the story of her life the story of the spread of Methodism in Ireland, the United States and Canada.

The following is the address:

The year 1934 is being celebrated by World Wide Methodism as the Sesqui-Centennial or the organization of the Methodist Episcopal Church in Lovely Lane Chapel, Baltimore, Md., (known as the "Christmas Conference," 1784). Also the Jason Lee Centennial, as he was the first missionary sent to the Oregon Country in 1834.

Another event of great importance is the Bicentenary of the birth of Barbara Heck (1734) "The Mother of American Methodism," for it was she, when but a young woman of thirty-two, who inspired the organization of the first American Methodist Society (1766) and the building of the first Chapel (1768) in New York City.

Recounting these facts, the Official Board of Old John Street Church rent a Memorial in Centenary Church. It was referred to the Committee on Temporal Economy and was adopted on May 11, 1932.

The Board of Bishops appointed a Commission of eight women with Mrs. F. J. McDonnell of Metropolitan York Area, Chairman, Mrs. Grace Parnitz Bidgood, New London, Connecticut, Mrs. Dorr Diefendorf, Madison, New Jersey, Mrs. Carl H. Fowler, New Jersey City, Mrs. Charles H. Hardie, Brooklyn, New York, Mrs. Frank A. Horne, Brooklyn, New York, Mrs. Anna Onstott, New York City, Mrs. Henry Phillips, Syracuse, New York.

As an educational feature the Commission published a pageant, The Daughter of the Dawn, written by Mrs. J. Lane Miller, depicting the life of Barbara Heck, in four episodes; the last scene being the old sunset days in her old home in Canada—Her dream of the future. The pageant was given in Brockville, last spring, and will be given in Ogdensburg, this fall. Articles and stories of her life are being published in the Church and Sunday School papers of the United States, Ireland and Canada.

Barbara Heck's Birthplace

The 200th anniversary of her birth is being celebrated by a pilgrimage to her birthplace in Ballingrane, Ireland at the close of the Irish Conference on Tuesday, June 19. It was largely attended by both preachers and laymen. They arrived in Limerick city by bus, and by rail. The celebrated cow's horn was used as a call to worship, in fact of a bell.

This same horn was used to announce the coming of the preachers in Wesley's day. He, at one time gave Paul Ruckle, then a boy of sixteen, a sixpence for blowing the horn to call the men from the fields while he preached under the celebrated elm tree.

Paul Ruckle came to New York in 1765 and was one of the early players when his sister Barbara threw their playthings in the fire. That Paul became a member of the Old Sin Church is proved by the oldest Methodist burial record extant. He was buried in a crypt under the Church, in 1787.

Among the descendants of Paul Ruckle was a Methodist preacher in Ohio and the celebrated artist, Thomas Cole. Ruckle, who published, in 1834, the historical scene of the Ordination of Bishop Asbury Dec. 24, 1784. Bishop and Mrs. Lester Smith represented the Commission and were greeted by Rev. Sharon's old home at the celebration at Ballingrane. Mrs. Smith said "she felt deeply moved standing in that sacred spot. Hosts of women in America have trod the same path. That little Church at Ballingrane closely resembled the one in America where her first met her husband, Bishop Smith."

Ballingrane 12 Miles From Limerick

Rathkeal is 2 miles from Ballingrane. On the landing of the Spaniards, 1580, Queen Elizabeth's forces were commanded by Lord Deputy Grey, and when he left, Sir Walter Raleigh remained behind in ambush and surprised the Irish who returned to plunder the town and the deserted camp. For this Raleigh was presented the freedom of the town during which time he repaired the Castles of Rathkeal and Court Mattrix. Rathkeal is located on the River Deel. It consisted of a single street a mile long with small lanes running from it. It was on the main road from Limerick to Tralee and about 30 miles from Killarney. Adjacent homes of the few Palatines are a marked contrast to most of the Irish homes. From Rathkeal may be seen River Shannon and the Mts. of Clare and Tipperary. The Church was built in the days of Queen Elizabeth, forming a picturesque back-ground to the second largest town in County Limerick.

The writer spent a week, in 1931, in the ancestral home where Barbara was born, 1734. As we enter the house the great wrought iron door, 6 inches long, is used to unlock the heavy oak door—the same handwrought lock and key are there that house was built in 1719 by Sebastian Van Ruckle (Ruttle)—the eldest of the Palatine Emigrants from the Elector Palatine of Heidelburg—who was granted a Baronial Estate, 10,000 estates, in County Limerick, in 1709. The house has walls two feet thick and the kitchen has the original open and timbered whitewashed ceiling as when first built. This is seen in a large room in the kitchen. The original house was one story, with thatched roof. The basement was entered from the yard from which the cow's horn hung when in 1709 John Wesley gave Paul Ruckle a sixpence for blowing it. (He didn't blow his own horn you can see) to call the men from the fields to the preaching service—under the tree which is still bearing fruit.

We visited the Old Church yard where tablets were placed in memory of Barbara Heck and Philip Embury. We visited the old graveyard of Naylatan, where their parents sleep.

Of Royal Birth

That the Ruckle, Embury, Dolmage and Heck families were of Royal birth and of the House of Guelph is proven by their family crests. The Ruckles with ermine across the shield. They were decended from the family of Elector Frederick III, who became ruler of the Upper Palatinate in 1559 (now a part of Bavaria.) He had chosen the faith of the Reformed Church and made it the official religion of his Province. Louis the XIV ruthlessly drove out these Protestant people. Queen Anne provided for them where they could have her protection in Ireland. They never married among the people of Ireland but among their own people the Palatines. This accounts for their children's loyalty to the Crown during the Revolution, when they left New York State in 1776 and joined the British forces. In 1784 they took up Crown lands in Canada, in the township of Augusta. They have remained Protestant and most of them, followers of Wesley and the teachings of Luther.

Why This Memorial Celebration In Canada?

We are honoring Paul Heck the husband of Barbara, who was also a member of the first Methodist Society at Ballingrane, Ireland; the first Methodist Society in America in 1766; one of the first board of eight trustees organized in the old Rigging Loft on William Street in 1767, contributed to the building of Wesley Chaple on John Street, in 1768.

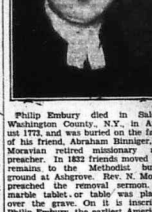
When Dr. Coke was raising the money for the Barbara Heck monument in 1809, he was asked why they did not include Paul Heck? He replied "because Paul was not the mother of American Methodism."

We are today paying him the long delayed recognition due him.

He was a member of the first Methodist Society in Ashgrove, Charlotte County, N.Y. (now called Washington County), in 1770. He was also a trustee of the first Blue Church in Augusta Township in 1791, died in 1795 and buried here. He was a righteous man and his name is now honored with that of his beloved wife, Barbara.

Why Honor Margaret Embury Lawrence and John Lawrence?

Margaret Sweitzer married Philip Embury, her cousin, at Rathkeal, Ireland, in 1758, who was then a member of the Conference in Ireland and the first Methodist preacher in America. (Also she was the first Methodist preacher's wife and rocked the first Methodist cradle in America). Her home was the first Society was organized, not only in New York City in 1766, but also in Augusta, Canada, in 1784 for her son, Samuel Embury, who was one of the first trustees of the Methodist Church in Philipsburg, Que., in 1817. John Lawrence married Margaret Embury, widow of Philip Embury in 1775. He should be honored for caring for the widow and orphans of the first Methodist preacher in America.



Philip Embury died in Salem, Washington County, N.Y., in August 1773, and was buried on the farm of his friend, Abraham Binniger, a Methodist local preacher and preacher. In 1832 friends moved the remains to the Methodist burial ground at Ingrove. Rev. N. Moffit preached the renewal sermon. A plain, tablet-size table was placed over the grave. On it is inscribed Philip Embury, the earliest American preacher of the Methodist Church here found his earthly resting place. Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of His saints.

Born in Ireland, an emigrant to New York, Embury was the first to gather a class in that city and so set in motion a train of measures which resulted in the foundation of John Street Church, the cradle of American Methodism and the introduction of a system which has benefitted the earth with salvation and increased the joys of heaven."

John Lawrence was a nephew of Paul Heck and came to Canada with him in 1784. John and Paul Heck were trustees of the first Methodist meeting house in Augusta, in 1817. He was granted 1,000 acres in Augusta by the Crown in 1794. His daughter, Rebecca married Rev. David Breckenridge, whose grand-daughters are Minnie M. Breckenridge Bush, and Mrs. Ada Bush Corey, of Brockville, Margaret Embury Lawrence and John Lawrence being their great-grandparents.

We are glad to unite the names John and Margaret Embury Lawrence, with Paul and Barbara Heck, who are all interred in this hallowed spot. United in life, now placed together on the marble cenotaph.

The Old Stone House

Most visitors to the Old Blue Church are not aware that less than a mile west on the river front stands the house among the trees in which Barbara Heck died, August 17, 1804, at sunset. After the death of her husband, Paul Heck, in 1795, she lived with her son, Samuel, in the old home on the Third Concession, lots No. 14, until 1799 he purchased this farm, lots 17 and 18, in the First Concession. He lived near the river in a log house until the stone house was built, in which his mother died.

A row of Lombardy poplars from Quebec were planted. Only one now remains which stands like a sentinel keeping guard over the old home where Barbara Heck spent her sunset days.

The house stands on a knoll overlooking the majestic St. Lawrence. It is built of stone set in plaster with walls three feet in thickness and with window sills three feet deep. A wide hall extends from the front to the back with stairs leading to four large rooms above and an attic above that. A master fire place is in the large living room, and another in the kitchen which overlooks the river more than a mile wide at this point.

Here Nathan Bangs, William Case, Bishop Asbury and others preached.

In 1811 William Case was sent as a Missionary to the white settlers and the Indians. Only one mode of travelling over bush, but the way clouds were again forming to break the peace of the nation.

Bishop Asbury long had wished to visit Canada and he crossed the river June 1811 at St. Regis (Cornwall), then stopping to preach along the way as far east as Kingston, on his way stopping at the Heck house. He was delighted with the country and said of the people "My soul is much united to them." He was then 66 years old and had been in the ministry 40 years. He then had the care of 174,000 members and 636 travelling preachers, and was travelling on horseback nearly 5,000 miles a year. Bishop McKendree had been elected at the General Conference in May.

June 26th, the War of 1812 again severed the relations between the United States and Canada. The treaty of peace was signed in 1815 but the war did not stop for several months until it was ratified in both countries which was welcomed by all, both military and civilian citizens, but the scars were long in healing. The work of God was hindered and his messengers scattered.

Beloved Bishop Asbury died this year, 1816, and the church was bereft of her great leader. He was one of the most holy, laborious and useful men that ever travelled the American Continent. It was very fitting that an Equestrian Statue be placed in Washington, the seat of government and another on the campus of Drew Theological Seminary—a lesson to both Government and religious groups.

Samuel Heck was an ordained local Methodist preacher and his son, Samuel, was also a Methodist preacher.

When Dr. Withrow was writing his book on Barbara Heck, he visited in this old house, also Dr. Bowdish, while pastor of John Street Church, visited both the Heck families.

The writer has spent two weeks in this old house of such sacred memories — where Barbara Heck spent her last days. It is now owned by Royal McLean. Barbara did not live to see the war of 1812,

The War of 1812

While plowing in the field below the house, Mr. McLean found a cannon ball. It must have been when the United States soldiers crossed the St. Lawrence above Ogdensburg, on the ice and followed the river to Augusta and Edwardsburg, and fired some of the farm houses of the settlers. Fred Prescott the General Prevost on Februry 21, ordered a force against the fort which was taken by the Americans.

The troops crossed the ice and captured the munition, cannon and stores from the enemy. Then the farmers were protected from plundering parties.

Was this cannon ball of the United States or British Army? Was it intended to kill or batter down the stone wall of God fearing Christian family? Were they saved by a kind Providence in answer to prayer? Is that cannon ball could talk, what a story it could tell. Had it killed some defenceless man, woman or child?

In the old Blue Church cemetery, the skeleton of a mother with a babe in her arms was found, when digging for a monument. Was that mother a victim of a stray ball from the enemy?

As one who was born in the United States, I can but thank God no bullet or cannon ball from my country has, from that day to this, been used in battle and not a fort is needed to defend either side of the peaceful St. Lawrence.

Sweep on, oh mighty river of peace, and show to all the world that two sister nations can live in harmony without a sign of defence, except good will and brotherhood.

IN THE LAND OF THE NAPANEE

GARRETT MILLER, U. E. L.

From the Book "The Camden Colony"

A story of United Empire Loyalists by Rev. W. Bowman Tucker, M.A. Ph.D.

On thy waters enticing, afloat and alone,
Mid thy banks bright with the red Nature's home,
Where in quietest pose, there is freedom from strife,
And thy rapturous calm is suggestive of life.

Here the tributes are score, which attend on thy grace,
To make of thy beauty a thing of delight,
For the woodbine abounds, and the tansy is near,
And the wild flax and lily, to banish my fear.

While the skies all aglow, soft and blue overhead,
Witness generousness true, show that love is not dead;
And the crimson of sunset, and modest blue mint,
With the buttercups wealth, of true love are a hint.

And the ambitious basswood for freedom aspires,
While the bittersweet climbs about till it tires,
And the wild daisy dies, taking time to think on,
While the treasures of moments are gliding along.

Through the popple's white leaf and the poplar's tall head
Come the lessons of patience and courage ne'er dead;
While the feathered throng all consciences of grief,
And the lessons and song bring my tired heart relief.

To thy broad, branching elms that of dignity speak,
Joins the kindly old oak, arm of strength for the weak,
While thy terraced banks rising, now rolling away,
Enfold them in love, as a keeper on their lay.

Mid thy calmness I drift with the flow of thy stream,
In my reverie lost as a man in a dream,
Or I rouse me to find thy resources are full,
Toward Tomorrow, they flow as life grows from the school.

There are curves in thy course and the banks head the way,
As the Alders entwine and the Willows droop over today,
Sometimes hidden and deep, like retired lives unknown,
Then outspreading to view, in the glare of renown.

And thy waters keep time as they travel along,
In their ceaseless flow, to the rhythm of love song.
For an outstanding world of humanity dwells
'Long thy banks, with its woes and in need of thy spells.

Let me mark not the cloud, nor the death that may come
When the winter lies on thee—thy summer is run;
Little shapes are lost and forgotten through bliss—
To the toilers among us thy lesson is this.

If a rock in the way creates trouble and noise,
There are glad compensations by manifold joys;
For the whirl of the water, the foam and the spray
Till we laugh and grow strong when the rapids are near.

Let the strength of thy stream draw me gently along
So that God, thy great Source, fill my heart with a song,
And I rest on my way where the Life river broad Yields its fragrance and joy to the city of God.

Preservation of Apple Juice for Home Usep

Apple juice, or sweet cider, is the cheapest and one of the most wholesome drinks, described as a food that the home will always be appreciated, and, in addition to its use as a beverage it makes an excellent base for punches, whater ices, etc.

Apple juice, to be preserved, should come from a reliable source. If it comes from a press that is allowed to sour it will be of poor quality and an inferior flavour, but will be more difficult to sterilize.

The juice should be placed in a glazed crock or enamelled vessel and allowed to stand for twelve hours to settle. Then remove the juice or dip out the juice above the sediment.

When using preserving jars, fill to the brim with the cold juice, and part seal the jars. Stand these on a fabric bottom in a wash boiler, and cover with cold water. Raise the temperature slowly to 170 degrees F. and hold at that emperature ten minutes for pints and fifteen minutes for quarts. Then remove jars, seal tight, and test for leaks.

When using bottles or jugs, prepare the juice to about 110 degrees F. Fill hot to two inches from the top of the bottles, and seal immediately. Be sure to use rubber seals for glass jugs. Sterilize by placing in water at approximately the same temperature as the bottles, then raise the temperature slowly to 170 degrees F. Hold at that temperature for ten minutes for pints, fifteen minutes for quarts, and thirty minutes for gallons. The bottles may be left in the water until cool enough to handle.

Sweet cider preserved in this manner will have a sediment, but, if decanted carefully, it will not be disturbed.

C. C. F. Will Press Drastic Program

Ottawa — Sweeping legislation, calculated to improve present economic conditions, will be urged upon the Government at the coming session of Parliament, William Irvine (U.F.A. Westaskawin) announced last week.

Nationalization of all financial institutions, statutory reduction of all private debts, including mortgages to a point where an individual's income can discharge his debt without impairing the standard of living, and the extention of public works by the Dominion so as to absorb the unemployed, will be the major proposals of the C. C. F. group.

In the proposal for the nationalization of financial institutions, which Mr. Irvine personally will move at the first opportunity in the House of Commons, all chartered banks, the Bank of Canada to be set up before the end of the year and insurance companies, constituting a very considerable part of the financial structure of Canada, would be included.

At the stroke of midnight on Sunday, Sept. 9th, Mrs. George Brown passed on to her eternal reward, at the home of her son, Perry Brown, at Bath Hill. About six months ago she was stricken with a severe attack of pneumonia, from which she never fully recovered. During the last few weeks she has been a great sufferer, and on Saturday pneumonia set in again and she soon slipped away to be at rest. The late Mrs. Brown was born in North Frontenac township eighty-one years ago. Her husband, Mr. George Brown, predeceased her about ten years ago. For many years they lived at Sand Hill, though since her husband's death she has spent most of the time with her children. She was always faithful to her church, and whenever able, was in attendance. She believed in keeping young and no one would have ever thought she was in her eighties. She was patient and kind in her suffering, and always enjoyed a visit with her friends and neighbors. The funeral service will be held at the home of her son, Perry, at Sand Hill, on Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 12th, and will be conducted by her minister, Rev. J. E. Beckel. She leaves to mourn her loss two daughters, Mrs. Alex. Jones, of Napanee; Mrs. Joseph Howie, of Rochester, and one son, Perry, Sand Hill; also two sisters, Mrs. Geo. Butcher, Toronto and Mrs. B. During these months he had been a very patient sufferer and especially grateful to those who were kind to him. Victor was born in England and he has two sisters and a brother living in the Old Land. Two and a half years ago he married Miss Nina Sherman, and she with her little babe are left to mourn a kind husband and a good father. Victor's ideals and ideas were christian and he always tried to live up to those ideals. The funeral service was held on Friday morning, Sept. 7th, and was largely attended. Mrs. Punnell, Mrs. Lawrence Moore and Mr. Jesse Silver sang a very appropriate number. His minister, Rev. J. E. Beckel, conducted the service. The bearers were young men, friends and associates of the deceased. Interment took place in Sand Hill cemetery.

Remember the anniversary service at Anderson on Sunday evening, Sept. 16th, at 7.30. Rev. T. H. P. Anderson, of Newburgh, will preach, and the Crossman male choir will supply the music. On Tuesday evening a fowl supper will be served, followed by a grand concert in the church, Isabelle's many friends will be there with addresses by Napanee ministers.

The Anderson community were certainly shocked on Friday morning at the tragic happening to the family of Mr. Edmund Wilkie, of Stella on River, Man. Their house took fire and Mrs. Walsh and four of the children were burned to death. Edmund just at tea time and Mr. Walsh and his men were working in the fields. Mr. Walsh rescued two of the children but was unable to get the rest of the family out of the burning building. Mr. and Mrs. Walsh lived at Morven before they left for the west about ten years ago. OFF COLOUR? HOW IS YOUR LIVER?

Wake up your Liver Bile —Without Calomel

Your liver's a very small organ, but it constantly gets you down if it's sluggish and you're constipated or bilious, by refusing to pour out its daily two pounds of bile into your bowels. You won't completely correct such a condition by taking salts, mineral water, laxative candy or chewing gum, or roughage. When they're gone, the bile, that's supposed to digest your food, is left to rot there. Then you feel sour, sick, headachy and constipated.

Carter's Little Liver Pills will soon bring back the sunshine into your life. They're purely vegetable. Safe. Sure. Ask for them by name. Refuse substitutes. 25c at all druggists.

Petition From Hotel Owners

A petition was presented to the Council from the hotel owners of the town, which read as follows :—

"We the undersigned hotel proprietors of the Town of Napanee do humbly petition you to request the Liquor Control Commission to fix the hour of closing of beverage rooms in the Town of Napanee, as eleven o'clock, each night."

Signed, J. H. Fitzpatrick, Paisley House; H. J. Thurlow, Richelieu Hotel; A. M. Perry, Campbell House; J. F. Wheeler, Queen's Hotel.

Councillor Luffman stated that he had, for years, been a hotel keeper and felt that the hotels should close earlier on Saturday evening than other evenings. If he were keeping hotel now he would ask for 7 o'clock closing on Saturday evenings. Councillor Cowling felt that Saturday night closing of hotels should be at the latest 10:00 o'clock. Several other members expressed the opinion that the matter needed further consideration and on motion of Councillor Morden and Reeve Hughson it was laid over until the next meeting for consideration.

M. P. Graham Joins the Firm of A. M. MacKinnon & Co.

The announcement made by Messrs. A. M. MacKinnon & Company, Bond and Stock Dealers, of Napanee, of the addition to that firm of Mr. Mark P. Graham as Manager of the Bond Department, is an announcement which has given general satisfaction in business circles in Napanee, and is one which will be welcomed by the investing public of this town and county.

Mr. Graham has been in the front rank of the business life of Napanee for many years. He was well known as proprietor of the Graham Company, where for many years he was in the men's clothing business. He retired from mercantile life seven years ago when he became Town Treasurer of Napanee, and Magistrate for the County of Lennox and Addington, which positions he has successfully filled until his recent retirement from the Magistracy.

The public can be assured that Mr. Graham will devote the same careful attention to the requirements and security of his clients' investments as he has given to the performance of his public offices. It is a tribute to the judgment of Mr. Graham that during his seven years as Magistrate of this County, that only one successful appeal was taken against any of his decisions.

Mr. Graham is well known throughout this and the surrounding counties, through his active connection with Municipal and Public affairs since his early youth.

The unqualified proof of the value of Mr. Graham's ability is best illustrated by the fact of his being taken into business immediately upon his retirement from the Magistracy of the County.

5th. Garnet Dupre; No. 6, Napanee, with 120½ points.

BLOOD MONEY

During the past few months there has been more talk about the next war than there has been for years. In the decade immediately following the last war, the world was so tired, so utterly exhausted, so thoroughly convinced of the futility of open hostilities, that the best brains in all the nations, backed up by a strong public opinion, gave themselves, unstintedly and with fine enthusiasm, for the cause of peace. There followed in rapid succession, the formation of the League of Nations, the Locarno Pact, the Washington Treaty, the Kellogg - Briand Pact and hundreds of lesser agreements and arrangements as between nation and nation. All of which were designed to insure that war should not again drench the world in blood.

But, gradually, the mood of the people has changed, gradually, papers, periodicals and public speakers talk with frankness and confidence about "the next war." Strategists and amateur generals are busy speculating as to where the campaigns will be held, and the method of the conflict. More serious, though, than these, are the reasoned statements of unbiased observers and scientists, that actual preparations are being made in all countries to perfect devices of destruction which will put to shame, in their frightfulness, the worst that were in use during the last great struggle.

Ever since Shearer showed, at the Disarmament Conference in 1927, that he had been paid by powerful interests to go to Geneva and seek to wreck its negotiations for peace, there has been a growing suspicion that the change in public opinion, with respect to war and peace, is not a natural growth but is deliberately the result of powerful monied interests who are spending millions in order to profit by a future clash of arms.

This which has been a suspicion has received definite proof at the arms investigation now going on at Washington. At the Senate's Committee has been revealed a situation which has startled the world. The evidence submitted then has uncovered a traffic in arms the like of which no one ever dreamed. The armament makers know the boundaries — whether their munitions are sold to kill the sons of Chinese, Japanese, Canadians, Englishmen or Americans —makes no difference to this cold-blooded ring of international manufacturers. To them, the insatiate greed and lust for gold, has led to all sorts of bribery and corruption in the attempt to bribe nations to purchase arms, and to foment unrest, trouble and animosity, which would stimulate the trade in death dealing weapons.

And in the meantime, the man on the street, the men and women of the world, that great host of ordinary folk who want nothing better than to be allowed to work and enjoy the privileges which a marvellous generation holds out before them, are helpless in the progress of this movement. But in the last analysis, the common man is the determining factor, in any world situation. The revelations of the arms propaganda and efforts to stir up trouble which the Senate Committee is bringing before the world will, it is hoped, so arouse the workers of the world, that they will insist that their leaders not only hold investigations but in some definite and positive manner, take the manufacture of arms out of the hands of private owners. So long as there is money to be made in the manufacture of guns and bullets, and poison gas, and death - dealing chemicals, unscrupulous, callous and treacherous profiteers will move heaven and earth to foment a war, that they may heap up riches on the shattered bodies of the men, women and children of every nation in the world.

POLITICIANS AT CLOSE RANGE

Bernard Shaw once said something to the effect that every university should provide for its students a course which would enable them to withstand the subtle influence of modern propaganda. With the development of high-pressure salesmanship and the control and use of suggestion in advertising which our recent discoveries in psychology have made possible, there is undoubtedly some value in Shaw's half-humorous suggestion. This is true of business, but is equally true of other areas of life and, perhaps, nowhere is it more true than of politics.

The average man reading the newspapers, confines himself to those of his own political stripe. The result is, he gets a rather one-sided view of the personalities who administer the affairs of state. The party organs minimize the good qualities of those on the opposite side, while exaggerating out of all proportion the virtues of their favorites. The effect of this on the man who tries to be objective in his approach to the great problems of life, is that he comes, in time, to look with distrust on politicians of either color.

Lacking the educational training suggested by Mr. Shaw, the next best thing is a personal view of the men themselves. There is nothing so disarms criticism of a public man, nothing so establishes his real worth to the nation, as the privilege and opportunity of hearing and seeing him in the flesh.

These remarks are prompted by the visit to Kingston, on Friday, of Hon. H. H. Stevens. Mr. Stevens was addressing a meeting of laymen of the United Church, men who had gathered from all parts of Canada for the purpose of attending the General Council now in session in the nearby city. Words somewhat doubtful of the motives of Mr. Stevens' actions, in recent months, were heard frequently before the meeting. But it comes to us from reliable sources that, when Mr. Stevens had completed his address, he had not only disarmed his critics, but had turned them into warm and enthusiastic admirers.

Mr. Stevens was speaking of the present industrial unrest, and the necessity of finding some method of regulating business, so that it might be able to serve, in a greater measure the whole community. He pointed out that what the Church is endeavoring to do by its teaching, the Government is attempting to accomplish by legislation. Of the two, the Church, Mr. Stevens said, is the more effective in that its work had greater permanency and was not subject to the vagaries of passing public opinion. The address was one which might well have been given by a clergyman of any denomination, in his pulpit on a Sunday. It revealed the insight of a prophetic mind, grappling with the needs and strivings of the great mass of human beings.

If this is the value of political addresses, and it seems to have been particularly so of Mr. Stevens', we should have more of them. They enable men and women to see those who are running our country, not as mere political self-seekers, but honest, sincere and earnest men, who possess deep convictions concerning their obligations and responsibilities.

To see and hear these men, who in trying days are seeking to guide the nation through troublous seas, and to observe with what courage, honesty and devotion to duty they are facing the problems of the day, is to give a renewed sense of confidence that the nation will weather the storm and, yet, achieve her high destiny.

TOO OLD AT FORTY

Many years ago, the famous Canadian Physician, Dr. Osler, in a humorous vein, declared that men should be chloroformed at sixty. It was not long after that the Minister of Trade and Commerce, it started apparently as the protest of a discontented Minister, but one that, thanks to the revelations made before it, amounts to a commitment to some form of international control, and as its efforts outlasted the session, the Committee has become a fixture, as a workman in any sphere, appears at a discount in our time. Whether this can be said to have anything to do with the chaos so widely prevalent to-day, is a matter to which much thought might be given.

That the emphasis on youth, the youthfulness of our time, is unnecessary if not, indeed, unwise, was demonstrated in a convincing way in the case of a visitor to Napanee on Sunday, namely Dr. Ferrier Hulme, the fraternal delegate from the United Methodist Church of England to the General Council of the United Church of Canada, meeting in Kingston. Citizens of Napanee should appreciate the proximity of the town of Kingston and the aggressiveness of the local clergymen, which made it possible for them to hear, at Grace Church, this outstanding English divine. The University of Bristol recently conferred upon him the Degree of Doctor of Laws, and in doing so, addressed him as the "Wesley of Western England." He is a man of great vigour, clear, penetrating thought and pleasing bell - like voice. He preaches in England to large congregations in which young people predominate. His sermon, last Sunday evening, on the text: "Behold Now Is the Day," stirred the great congregation and will long be remembered by all present.

Next Sunday he will preach in two of Montreal's largest churches, and the Sunday following he will appear in Metropolitan and Sherbourne Street Churches, Toronto. From Toronto he goes on an extensive tour of the United States, in connection with the 150th anniversary of the founding of the Methodist Episcopal Church in the Republic to the south of us.

"Too Old at Forty ?" Not this man, who is less than eighteen months from his eighteenth birthday, and who in the fifty-seventh year of his ministry preaches and ministers as men at thirty-five or forty seldom do.

THE BEE

On Saturday, an accident occurred on the highway, about a mile east of Odessa. As a result, a large truck loaded with merchandise went into the ditch, turned over and broke out in flames. For four hours the fire raged until nothing was left save a tangled mass of iron and steel. The driver of the truck was seriously burned and had to be rushed to the Kingston General Hospital for treatment.

The cause of the accident, so it is stated, was a bee sting. The driver was stung on the face by a bee and as he tried to brush it from his face the truck got out of control. It is these, apparently, small and unforseen events which are, in many instances, the cause of serious disasters. It is difficult but not impossible to guard against accidents such as that of Saturday last. Of course, we are not suggesting that one ought to get stung voluntarily by a bee or several of them, so as to get accustomed to the feel of the thing. Because it is not altogether the pain which causes the trouble, but the fear of the probable pain.

Oftentimes, a bee will fly into the window of a car with no malicious intent whatever, and will light on the unsuspecting occupant. A slight familiarity with the habits of bees makes it clear that under ordinary circumstances, the bee is not out to sting. But when any quick movement is made in its vicinity, it is immediately on the defensive; the only defense it has is the stinger, and this it uses with painful results. To strike at a bee is to invite disaster. The proper procedure is to leave it alone until the car can be brought to a standstill, when it can be easily brushed away.

It is the element of surprise, of course, which takes one off guard, and that can be overcome only with a degree of self-control of which the cars themselves do much to deprive us.

Editorial Comment

ARMS AND THE MEN

That munitions makers have been free-lances, with few national loyalties or humanitarian considerations, has long been recognized by those familiar with their machinations. It ought to be plain that the find profit in fomenting international misunderstanding. American need be fancy that their own manufacturers are any fore altruistic than the European ring. Not only did they send William B. Searer to break up the 1927 naval conference, but they have been keenly interested in the failure of all disarmament conferences. It will be interesting to see what the Nye committee's hearings of coming days will disclose, but it can be said in advance that munitions makers have forfeited by their past record, any right to unrestricted action. It is high time that a proper supervision, perhaps through the League of Nations, be imposed on these international troubles-troubles-makers. — Boston Christian Science Monitor.

ANGLO - AMERICAN UNDERSTANDING

"So between our two countries there will be misunderstandings, there will be great international problems unsolved, but I am sure that the United States will approach the solution from one avenue, Great Britain will approach the solution down another avenue, and there will always be plenty of opportunity for those who wish to make trouble, to make it. I would applaud to the common sense of the common man and woman on the American side, to remember that those disagreements belong to the surface of things and that the underlying agreement belongs to the reality of things, and that if the great democracies of America and Great Britain keep in sympathetic touch, we can defy every influence and every interest that seeks to keep us apart. We do not want no alliances: alliances belong to the dead past—it is enough that we share the same aspirations and are moved by the same moral impulses, that we are inspired by the same spiritual emotions, and that we both have a great part to play in the history of the world."—Right Hon. J. Ramsay MacDonald in International Affairs (Supplement) London.

INDUSTRIAL CONTROL IN CANADA

The Parliamentary Committee on Price Spreads and Mass Buying continues its sitting on February 15th. The child of Mr. Stevens, its chairman and the Minister of Trade and Commerce, it started apparently as the protest of a discontented Minister, but one that, thanks to the revelations made before it, amounts to a commitment to some form of international control, as its efforts outlasted the session, the Committee has become a fixture, as a workman in any sphere, appears at a discount in our time. CARELESS MOTORISTS RUN INTO ENGINES

Two grade crossing accidents occurred recently, which should make the average motorist think seriously of those railway signs, "Stop, Look and Listen." They were reported from the Stratford division of the Canadian National Railways.

One motorist struck the cylinder head of a yard engine that was standing over a freight crossing and damaged the headlights of the car. Although the engineer had rung the bell ringing and whistle sounding, the motorist claimed that he did not notice the train and that he was going to.

The other accident was when a second driver rammed the side of an electric car which he was just coming out of a station. Again the bell was ringing and the horn sounding. In this instance the car suffered more than the automobile, as the door on the car's passenger side was shattered by the impact of the collision. The motorist could give no adequate reason why he "charged" the train.

RUNIC STONE PROOF OF NORSE DISCOVERY

The inscription of a runic stone, found near Yarmouth, may settle the contentious question of the Norse discovery of America in the thousandth year, and also prove that an Icelandic settlement flourished on the seaboard of what is now Nova Scotia, 500 years before Columbus made his historic discovery of the New Continent, according to letters received by officials of the Canadian National Railways, from Olaf Standwold, a well-known educator and runic expert, of Prosser, Wash. The runes of the stone have been photographed and have now been submitted to a scientific examination. Mr. Stranwold finds that they are substantiated by grammar and usage when the inscription was presumed to have been inscribed. This is in the year 1007, and commences "Harko's son addressed the men." It is known from the sagas of Iceland that the name of Harki appears in the list of those adventurers who set out on expedition to the American coast about that time. Mr. Stranwold predicts that this stone may become one of the greatest runic treasures of America and anticipates making a complete translation of its characters, shortly.

At present the stone is housed in the Yarmouth public library. With a complete translation of its runes being made a new and hitherto unknown chapter in the annals of Canada, may be written.

PICKING GRAVENSTEINS

Very interesting data with reference to the time of picking Gravenstein apples in relation to spot scald disease, are reported in a recent issue of Scientific Agriculture, as a result of investigations by pathologists of the Dominion Laboratory of Plant Pathology at Kentville. For example, they state that Gravensteins picked at the time when most of the starch had disappeared from the flesh of the apple and there was still an appreciable amount in the skin developed the least amount of spot scald. The amount of sucrose and total sugars present in the fruit had little or no effect on the prevalence of the disease, but harvesting the apples when most of the starch had disappeared from the core area, gave fruit of larger size, deeper colour and better keeping quality than earlier picked apples of the same variety.

The outlook for egg exports to Great Britain, this fall, continues bright, says the Egg and Poultry Market Review.

ALL'S WELL THAT ENDS WELL

A few months ago, Canadian exporting firms which are entitled to the use of the Royal Arms on their labels and advertising matter, received rather a shock through a new order issued by the Japanese government relating to trademarks. The order stated that Japan, by reason of her adherence to the Convention for the protection of trademarks, the use of crests of States of foreign nations is to be prohibited and the violators subjected to a fine of not exceeding 1,000 yen. However, after a period of waiting, for a ruling has been obtained to the effect that where the use of little or no effect on the prevalence of the disease, but harvesting the apples when most of the starch had disappeared from the core area, gave fruit of larger size, deeper colour and better keeping quality than earlier picked apples of the same variety.

The outlook for egg exports to Great Britain, this fall, continues bright, says the Egg and Poultry Market Review.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, SEPTEMBER 23RD, 1934

ISAIAH 31 : 1-9; 37 : 36-37.

"ISAIAH COUNSELS RULERS"

For 20 years Ahaz had kept peace in Judea by voluntarily submitting to the overlordship of Assyria. In 741 Ahaz died and his son Hezekiah came to the throne. A change of king in the East is always a time of change and unrest. And with the accession of Hezekiah, there arose a strong nationalist movement which designed to throw off the yoke of Assyria. They urged an alliance with Egypt against Assyria. Impetus was given to the movement by an alliance erached about this time, between Ethiopia and Egypt against Assyria. Soon all the smaller groups in Palestine sided with Egypt. Sennacherib determined to crush the movement and marched again Palestine. Several of the smaller groups fell. Hezekiah became alarmed and bought Sennechrib off with a huge gift of silver, which he secured by stripping the temple of its silver and other valuables.

Having done that he soon repented and once more threw in his lot with the Egyptians. This time Sennechrib determined to crush the revolt forever and, therefore, marched against Jerusalem. Isaiah was largely responsible for keeping Hezekiah from surrendering, promising that no matter what happened, Jerusalem would not fall.

Sennechrib moved swiftly, and in his march destroyed 46 towns and villages and took prisoners, 200,000 people. He rested outside the walls of Jerusalem, preparatory to taking it. Whether he happened, nobody knows, but he got no further. Instead of attacking Jerusalem as he intended to do he returned to Assyria never to come back to Palestine.

During all this time the prophet Isaiah continued his active ministry. Indeed, it was his influence with Hezekiah which made him hold out against Sennechrib. Thus was the faith of the prophet justified. Of course, after that, the word and influence of Isaiah was greatly enhanced.

In the verses for today's lesson, we have Isaiah's protest against the proposed alliance with Egypt. The prophet is arguing that history is the affair of God. That beneath and behind the man-made alliances, God stands, the final and ultimate Lord of the destinies of nations as of individuals.

This is a lesson only too sadly needed in our day. We have seen the futility and the disaster which comes upon people who disregard the place of God in the life of the world. It is true that God is the God of the individual man or woman. He is the one whose appeal is to the heart of each human personality. And each must accept responsibility for accepting or rejecting the divine guidance which is available for him.

But it is also true that there is a God who controls the destinies of nations. The fearful tragedy is tonight that has had far-reaching consequences on life. Tens of thousands, indeed millions of God's children have had to suffer loss, privation and death, because of the machinations of clever politicians and powerful soldiers, ambitious self-seekers, and vested armament interests. These have thought to play fast and loose with God's world and as though they might do with it as they wished, only to discover that their ideas and ambitions were futile and shattered by a force on which they had not reckoned.

Unemployment, the result of maladministration of God's gifts; wars bitterness and selfishness, the plight of tens of thousands of underprivileged; these blots on the landscape of our national life will never be removed until the leaders of the nations as well as the rank and file of the common people recognize God and submit willingly and conscientiously to His leadership.

Unique Claim For Longevity of Service

Coming forward with a unique claim for longevity among employees, Standard Brands Limited, has published in its monthly house organ, "The Bulletin," a list of 32 men and women who have been in their employ for 25 years or more. They total 1625 years of service. Four of the list have been employed by the company for 40 years or more.

Veteran among the men is John Anderson, Vice-President, who has been identified with the Chase & Sanborn division of the Company for 48 years. Another Vice-President, W. C. Leckie is included in the honor list, while Charles E. Moyle, General Sales Manager, has 32 years of steady service to his credit. The remainder of the list is composed chiefly of department heads, assistants to officers, superintendents, plant managers and foremen, most of whom joined the company as boys and have grown up with the organization.

The organizations which formed Standard Brands Limited and the years of their foundings are: the Fleischmann Company, 1868; E. W. Gillett Company, 1852; and Chase & Sanborn, Coffee and Tea, 1805.

The Queen Will Christen New Liner

Even the Queen may not know the name of "534" until she launches and christens the great Cunard liner on September 26. Strict secrecy is being maintained as to the name of the potential record-breaker of the seas.

Such a course is unprecedented in the history of shipbuilding on the Clyde, but "534" is herself unprecedented, the London News Chronicle points out. The biggest and fastest passenger ship in the world—she will also be the first merchant ship to be launched by a British Queen.

Six enormous "triggers," now almost complete, will hold the ship just before the launching. Then, when the Queen presses a button, the triggers will be released, and "534" will slide into the water.

There is a special reason for selecting 3.15 p.m., as the time for the ceremony. It has been calculated, almost to a fraction of a minute, that the tide will then be most favourable.

The King will also be present and it will be a gala day on Clydeside.

International Meet Of Firemen's Brigades At Deseronto

Shortly after 1:30 p.m. on Wednesday, the big tournament got underway with the Individual Ladder Race for firemen. Contestants were required to run ten yards and climb a 25-foot ladder, time taken from the start until the top of the ladder was reached.

Rain broke up the contest for about fifteen minutes and it was deemed too slippery to continue immediately later, the event was finished and resulted as follows:—

1st— Alexandria Bay, time 61-5 seconds.

2nd— Lowville, time 62-5 seconds.

Belleville and Kingston were tied for third place with 7 seconds each (no prize for third in this event.)

The pumping race constituted individual attempts to run ten yards, join rubber boots, coat and hat and to run to Lighting Plug. Nine entries competed as follows:—

Bruce of Alexandria Bay, 30 1-5 seconds.

Gates, of Gouverneur, 31 4-5.

Murphy, of Belleville, 33 1-5.

Stutter, of Carthage, 37 flat.

Fairbairn, of Kingston, 40.

Teao, of Trenton, 40 1-5.

Hinds, of Gouverneur, 46.

Hill of Hermon, fluked.

The time on the Canadian hose cart race was at Kingston last year by Deserono in 26 2-5 seconds, was lowered by Alexandria Bay, who came in first in 26 2-5 seconds. Lowville came second, time 29 sec. Clayton third 30 sec., Belleville, 44 sec., and Trenton fluked.

In this race a horse cart drawn by ten men, raced to the hydrant broke hose at third link, attached nozzle and hit bull's eye on target. Time was taken from start to finish.

Owing to the wet condition of the pavement, the Motor Hook and Ladder (Class C) and the Motor Hose (Class B) were postponed until Thursday.

The efficiency contest was another event where the time between the first and second teams was a matter of a split 2-5 of a second.

Each man dragged three links of hose to the hydrant and the links were coupled on the run as was the hydrant. After hose was stretched out, water was played onto the target.

1st—Gouverneur, 15 1-5 sec.
2nd—Carthage, 15 3-5 sec.
3rd—Alexandria Bay, 16 sec.

The Boys' Judging Competition at the Lennox Fair, last Wednesday, was fairly successful. Seventeen boys took part and all made a creditable showing. The results appear in another column of this paper.

The exhibits made by members of the Boys' and Girls' Home Garden Competition also formed part of the fair. The awards were based on the marks received for field score, plus the marks in the report of the exhibit. These results also appear in another column in this paper.

Our first school fair for this year was held in Richmond Hall on Friday, September 14th. We were favored with a real nice day and the fair was a success in every respect. There was a total of 272 entries and the exhibits were up to the average of other years. Following are the winners of special prizes, donated by the Eaton Company, to the pupils receiving the highest number of points:

First, Doris McDonald, S. S. No. 4 Amherst Island.
Second, Mary Glenn, S. S. No. 1, Amherst Island.
Third, Melville Pilson, S. S. No. 2, Amherst Island.

Miss Mary Glenn, of S. S. No. 1, Amherst Island, was successful in winning the bronze medal in the public speaking contest. The pupils in School Section No. 2, whose teacher is Miss Ellen Marshall, were successful in winning the book "Farm Weeds" which was given as first prize in class 46 for the best class collection of primary and secondary noxious weeds. It is impossible to publish a list of all the prize winners, but we expect to be able to publish a list of the first prize winners in each class at all our fairs this fall.

Richmond School Fair, which is to be held at Selby, has been postponed until October 11. The former date of this fair, September 25th, conflicts with Stella Fall Fair, so it has been necessary to make a change. We hope, however, that this will not materially affect Richmond School Fair, which is one of the largest school fairs we conduct in the county.

Lake Levels Now Lowest Recorded

Lake Superior Alone Normal; Others Far Below 74-Year Average.

Ottawa.—The Great Lakes and Lawrence River are at record low levels. The dry season over the watershed both in Canada and the United States has resulted in levels lower than at any other corresponding period since records were started in 1860. This applies to all the lakes and rivers with the exception of Lake Superior where the level is regulated at Sault Ste. Marie.

The average levels for August were issued recently by the Canadian Hydrographic Service of the Department of Marine. Lake Huron is five inches lower than any previous August since 1860. Lake Erie 8½ inches lower, Lake Ontario 16¼ inches lower, and Montreal Harbor 16¼ inches below any other August.

Lake Ontario has been 57 inches higher for August than it was last August. Thus in 1862, and Lake Erie last year was 52¼ inches higher. The high August for Montreal harbor was in 1861 when it was 94½ inches higher than last month. The high August was followed the August average for 74 years.

The comparative levels follow:—

Lake Superior at Port Arthur during August was 1¼ inches lower than July; ¼ of an inch lower than August 1933; 14½ inches lower than August 1934; (1876) since 1860; 20½ inches higher than the lowest August (1926) since 1860; and one inch higher than the average level of August for the last 74 years.

Lake Huron, at Goderich, during August was ½ an inch lower than July; seven inches lower than August 1933; 68 inches lower than the highest August (1876) since 1860; five inches lower than the previous lowest August (125) since 1860; and 40½ inches lower than the average level of August for the last 74 years.

Lake Erie, at Port Colborne, during August was ¼ of an inch lower than July; 13¾ inches lower than August 1933; 51¾ inches lower than the highest August (1862) since 1860; 8¾ inches lower than the previous lowest August (1895) since 1860; and 36 inches lower than the average level of August for the last 74 years.

St. Lawrence River, in Montreal Harbour, during August was 19¼ inches lower than July; 20½ inches lower than August 1933; 94¼ inches lower than the highest August (1861) since 1860; 16¼ inches lower than the previous lowest August (1931) since 1860; and 57 inches lower than the average of August for the last 74 years.

Measurements taken at the University of Michigan on the bark-thickness of several species of forest trees, showed hemlock to have the thickest and beech the thinnest bark.

ALL DIFFERENT

The first present Rex gave Elsie after their wedding, was a blue china tea-service. It cost more than he meant to give, but it was the thing above all others that Elsie desired, and they little guessed was a strange teaset it was to become as the years went on.

Elsie was an orderly little soul who liked method in everything, and made her sister laugh by telling her that, when the children came, she hoped they would be a nice, tidy little family!

"I want two boys and two girls," she explained, "with regular gaps between them, so that the eldest one's clothes will fit the next, and so on—and they'll all be nice and different each other!"

And when Elsie's first baby—a little son — was just a month old, Anne came to visit them.

"All according to plan," she said jokingly. "The 'tidy' family should start with a boy, shouldn't it?"

They had just had tea together, and Elsie was resting with the baby on her knee, so Anne blithely cleared the cloth.

"I'm going to wash up—I shan't be a jiffy!" she called, and returned in what seemed to her hostess like no moment later; and as she said the words there came an alarming crash in the region of the sink.

Elsie ran in quickly, baby in her arms, and exclaimed in horror at the sight of the beautiful blue tea-service lying broken on the floor. Her sister had let the whole tray slip from the draining-board!

Sorrowfully they picked up the pieces, and tried to put them together. The teapot, milk-jug, and sugar-basin had escaped with only one slight chip between them, but all the cups, save one, had perished.

"Oh, I am so sorry—but I think we'll be able to match them," Anne said consolingly. "I'll call in at the shop and ask. It may be a stock pattern."

Elsie hoped she was right; but they had to wait some days while inquiries were made — then came the disappointing news that the cups were no longer being made in blue. The shape could only be obtained in red, yellow or green.

It was just like Elsie, who was nothing if not original, to send an order for one of each colour.

"I think it's a good idea," she told her husband. "We can each have our own favorite shade, then."

"How quaint!" giggled Anne.

But Elsie only smiled, and shook her head.

She kept the blue one for herself, because it was full of happy associations with the first year of married life. The green one was Rex's, and the yellow one was kept for the exclusive use of Baby Michael, as soon as he was old enough to need it.

Michael was nearly a year old, when another baby came along; a girl, this time—a thin, restless mite, so unlike the sturdy, stolid Michael that it was hard to believe they were brother and sister.

But before the children were out of the toddling stage no one could have guessed that Daphne was eleven months younger than her brother, for she was half a head taller and growing rapidly. Oh, how she grew! There was positively no hope of passing on Michael's garments.

In disposition the children were utterly unlike. Michael was placid, and rarely displayed his emotions about anything, while Daphne was highly-strung and easily over-excited. The red teacup which Elsie bought for her, seemed to suit her exactly, while nothing could have been more appropriate to the sunny Michael than the pale blue one.

It was four years later, when Elsie found herself one more longing to have a new, cuddlesome baby in her arms. Michael and Daphne were both at the local babies' school in the mornings, and, although it made the work easier to have them out of the way, Elsie missed their company.

But, stranenly enough, though she had never thought of it before, by the time she had a perfect little boy and girl.

Michael and Daphne were delighted.

"Now I'll have a bruvver to play with!" Michael said proudly.

"Well, you seem to have satisfied all parties," laughed Rex, gazing lovingly down at his wife, and the two adorable baby faces beside her.

But a few years later Elsie mistakenly admitted that hers was not the well-ordered family she had planned! The four-year old toddlers were too small to attend the three-year-old Michael, who found his cricket companions at school, and the twins lived in a world of their own, seeming to need Daphne's company for games—while the elder girl found a bosom chum in one of the scholars in her Sunday-school class. In fact, the little family treated each other with a sort of friendly indifference, which worried Elsie, who had cherished a dream of how them both grow up inseparably united.

The twins were hearty and happy and mischievous, in a way the others had not been. They broke everything within reach—or so it seemed to their parents!—and the mauve and pink cups that had bee nallotted to them were replaced over and over again.

Six years later, when the baby-carriage and the high-chair, and all the tender little remembrings of baby days had been put away, Elsie had her fifth and last child.

At first she was frankly unhappy about it. She felt that she'd been looking after a baby again, and Rex was rather worried about the expense.

"The new baby, alas, was entirely different from all the others. Each of the four had been strong and perfect, but the new baby, Joanthine, was born a cripple. Not until he was two years old did they give up hope that the doctor might be wrong, and that one day she would learn to walk.

Elsie had found each child a surprise and a problem at times, but little Joanthine was the biggest wonder of them all. Brilliantly clever, amusing, passionately loving, she was unlike any of the others. They nicknamed her the "Wonder Child," and found in her quick mind, compensation for the defects of her poor little body.

The tea-service had come to an end by now, but it was left untouched, and been replaced—but little of the original remained.

"I shall buy you one, all to match," said Rex, when Elsie's birthday was drawing near.

"I don't think I should like it half as well as the old one," she answered a little wistfully. "But it's sweet of you to think of it, darling."

Michael came into the room at that moment, in time for she felt he would make good wherever he was—

And a moment later Daphne burst into the room. She was a hot-tempered little person, and she was furiously angry because the twins had used her tennis racket, forgetting to put it away afterwards.

"Is nothing safe in this house?" she demanded tragically. "Must those dreadful children have everything they want?"

Elsie drew her close, soothing her as she had done when she was a small child. Then, when the storm ebbed, and peace was restored, Elsie went to the nursery in search of the twins, in order that the lost racket might be restored.

She found them contentedly reading in the shadiest corner, and it was difficult to rouse them to any interest on the subject of poor Daphne's grievance; but from her wheelchair, a few yards away, a cheery little voice called out that the missing racket was just by the umbrella-stand in the hall. Josephine was always ready to be a needle in remembering where everything was.

"Really," thought Elsie, stooping to kiss the bright little face, as she passed her. "There never was a less 'tidy' family than mine! They could never pass on or exchange garment, they never even play together, and their ideas and habits and everything else about them is utterly different. I believe I'm the luckiest woman in the world. I wouldn't have them all the same for anything—"

And a few days later, when Rex came home from work, he called her excitedly. On the table was a large wooden box.

"Your birthday present!" he told her. "Open it quickly, and tell me if you like it."

Elsie knew it was china by the look of it. So he had bought that new teaset, after all!

She hastened to undo it, and drew out a blue cup, gratefully murmuring: "Lovely—blue is my favourite colour, you know." But Rex was unwrapping a pink cup next, and then a mauve one. Then teacup after teacup were all colours of the rainbow!

Elsie was thrilled.

"Oh! Where did you get it?" she gasped. "I never saw anything like it—"

"It's the very latest thing," Rex told her tenderly. "Somehow, I thought you'd like it! I'm fond of our little family— all different, but all perfect—eh, darling?"

And Elsie laughingly agreed.

The Island That "Vanished"

A SOUTH SEA MYSTERY

When, about a year ago, I was travelling from Capetown to Sydney by a Norwegian tramp steamer I was amazed by two remarkable facts relating to our course. One was that instead of going due east, or rather, Freemantle being the first port of call in Australia, slightly north of east, we went so far south as nearly to touch the northern limits of drift ice. The other was the enormous number of small islands dotted about the Southern Ocean which never appear on ordinary maps at all.

The first is simply explained. In the neighborhood of the "Roaring Forties", that is, of degrees South latitude, there is not only a prevailing wind west but a current favourable to ships proceeding east. Also, as the globe rather than a map on Mercator's projection shows at once, a considerable advantage is gained by making use of the curvature of the earth. One is really taking a short cut by apparently going far out of one's way.

I wondered at the skill of modern navigators in being so certain of their whereabouts as to avoid running down in the night an island like the solitary lightless rock of St. Paul. We passed within twelve miles of it. I also asked the captain what he thought of the dispute prevailing at the time between Britain and Norway as to the ownership of Bouvet Island, but the douce Norwegian was not to be drawn. The conversation led on from Bouvet Island to its mysterious neighbour, Thompson Island, which has just previously been officially declared not to exist, a thorough search having been made by Norwegian whalers and one or two naval units from Simon's Town. And yet at least two vessels have sighted and given a most circumstantial description of Thompson Island at wide intervals of time. Even the disputed property of Bouvet Island was believed for many a year to be entirely mythical.

Bouvet Island

Bouvet Island is the loneliest spot in the world, being 1,000 miles from any other land whatever. It was discovered in 1727 by a Frenchman called De Lozier, who thought it formed a part of the Great Southern Continent which was believed by explorers, to exist. Actually, it is only five miles across. Its exact position as nearly as a navigator could in those days as 54deg. South and 3deg. East.

James Cook looked for it in 1775, but without success, and the year previously H.M.S. Adventure had made a similarly fruitless search. It was not until October, 1808, that Bouvet Island was seen again.

This time two English sealers found it but they were not believed. Then, in the following twenty years, the American sealers there (but was also treated as an impostor), followed in 1825 by two more sealers, the captain of one of which, Norris, formally landing and taking possession in the name of George IV."

During the ten days or so that Norris was in the neighbourhood of Bouvet he discovered a second Island. According to his account (and there is no question of his good faith) it was small and low-lying, while three miles to the south-east was a small cluster of rocky islets, and still farther off, in the same direction, a solitary rock. Norris gave the island its name and called the three islets the "Chimneys." According to his calculations he was sixty miles or so north-east of Bouvet.

Soundings Over the Spot

The great explorer, Ross, in 1843, failed to find either Thompson or Bouvet. So did another naval officer in 1845. Both islands, nevertheless, appear on the Admiralty charts in 1853. Several Americans reported seeing Bouvet in 1878, 1882 and 1893. The last of these, a man named Fuller, also reported that he had seen Thompson Island, to the north-east of Bouvet. No one has ever seen it again. Within the last ten years many searches have been made, and soundings of 1,270 and 770 fathoms have been taken over the spot on the charts where the island should be. No one doubts that the officer of either Norris in 1825 or Fuller in 1893, but both were plain seamen, whaling captains, who failed to keep either a meticulously careful log or possess the latest modern instruments. Norris, though circumstantial, is confusing in his particulars.

Yet in spite of the search made within the last two years, an island so small, with such uncertainty as to its position within a hundred miles may easily be missed. Cook, for instance, passed almost within sight of Bouvet, It may actually have existed and been submerged by an upheaval in the sea bed. Or one of these days it may be "discovered" again. In the meantime it is officially a "myth."

Date of Picking Fameuse Apples

(Experimental Farms Note.)

During recent years, the Fameuse apple has been breaking down prematurely, in storage. Core flush, the most common type of breakdown encountered in this variety, has become so widespread in certain districts as to constitute a serious commercial problem.

The Dominion Experimental Station at Fredericton, N.B., has been investigating this problem from various angles. During the season of 1933, a picking test was carried on with this variety, in order to determine if the stage of maturity at which apples are picked has any correlation with this particular type of breakdown in storage. Fameuse apples from several trees were picked on five different dates, at intervals of one week. Apples at the first picking were definitely immature, those of the fifth picking definitely over-mature, with those of the third picking approximately the stage of maturity at which fameuse apples are commonly picked in New Brunswick. Representative samples from each picking were examined at intervals of one month throughout the winter, the last examination being made in early April.

Some interesting observations were made in this test. Colour was very inferior in the first picking, and increased fairly regularly until the fourth. Size increased also until the fourth picking. As regards flavor, in the November and December examinations, the fifth picking was easily the best sample, the first picking the poorest, and the others arranged in order between.

The fifth picking samples, although of outstanding flavor and appearance, were badly water-cored at the time of picking, ranging from 65 to 85 per cent. with the different trees. This water core, however, disappeared during the storage season, leaving no apparent harmful after-effect. In fact, speaking generally, the keeping quality of the fifth picking samples was superior to all others, less core flush developing than in the other lots.

In view of these one-year observations, which must be considered as merely indicative, it would appear that nothing is to be gained by picking Fameuse later than is the common practice. A great deal is sacrificed in the line of colour, size, quality and general appearance with no compensating gain in keeping quality. When pickings delayed to any extent, there is danger of heavy losses, by dropping, unless growers are prepared to make at least two pickings of this variety.

No marked change in the date of picking Fameuse apples is recommended at the present time.

WEDDING BELLS

PHINNEY — BUELL

On Saturday, August 25th, 1934, at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, in the pretty church of St. John, Del Monte, the marriage of Miss Wortha Barbara Buell and Mr. Frederick Penfield Phinney, was solemnized in a simple but beautiful ceremony, by the Rev. William W. Fleetwood, of All Saints Church, Beverley Hills. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn H. Buell of Beverley Hills, and the groom is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Wakefield Phinney of Toluca Lake, North Hollywood, Mrs. Phinney, being formerly Miss Stephanie Harshaw of Niagara, Ontario.

Miss Buell was a very lovely, radiant bride. Her gown of white satin was quite plainly made, with long sleeves and a train. She also wore a collar of rare old lace that had belonged to her grandmother, which decoration lent itself perfectly to the design of the dress, as well as her veil of tulle, which was held in place by a coronet of rose point lace, and was very long. Her bouquet was of bridal roses, gardenias, lilly-of-the-valley and maiden-hair fern.

Following the ceremony there was a very informal reception and buffet supper served at Mr. and Mrs. Buell's summer home at Carpet.

After throwing her bouquet, the bride changed to a very pretty going away dark blue silk suit. The upper part of the dress was made entirely of cream embroidered batiste and lace and the coat was short. Her hat and accessories were dark blue and white, and her corsage bouquet was of gardinias and lily-of-the-valley.

Mrs. Buell was gowned in black lace with turban to match and corsage of gardenias.

Mrs. Phinney also wore a gown of black lace, with a small jacket to match and a very small hat of velvet and feather's plush, with rhinestone clips, and a corsage of gardenias sent her by the bridegroom.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Phinney are spending their honeymoon in Oregon, and will reside, upon their return at Toluca Lake.

WAGAR - MOSS

Tamworth, Sept. 5. — One of the most interesting weddings which has taken place in this vicinity this season was solemnized on Saturday, September 1st, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Moss, when their only daughter, Hazel Ivy, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony, to Theodore Wagar, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Wagar, of Centreville. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, looked charming in a bridal dress of pale pink silk organza, with a corsage of orange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of pink roses. A cousin of the bride, Miss Phyllis Butlin, of Ottawa, was bridesmaid, and was gowned in pale green silk crepe with coronet to match, and carried a bouquet of rose gladiolus. Mr. Harold Thompson of Centreville, very ably assisted the groom.

The ceremony was performed by the bride's pastor, Rev. M. R. Brown, under a beautifully arranged arch of white, intertwined with gladiolus and wedding bells. The arch was banked at the back with beautifully arranged flowers and ferns. Mendelssohn's Wedding March was played by Miss Clarence Lochhead and during the signing of the register, Mrs. (Rev.) M. R. Brown sang in her usual pleasing manner, "Love's Old Sweet Song," and "O Promise Me."

A very appropriate buffet luncheon was served. The dining room table looked beautiful, centred with a four-layer wedding cake, with candles and silver vases of flowers and streamers from the corners, the color scheme in both decorations and menu, were carried out in pink and green, to harmonize with the gown worn by the bride and bridesmaid. Those who attended were, Misses Doris Chapin, Alexandria Gilmore, Mildred and Marion Redden, Reta Steele and Elsie Martin.

Among those present from a distance were, Dr. and Mrs. Graydon Winchester, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Nunn, of Lansdowne; Mr. and Mrs. Butlin and family, of Ottawa; Mr. and Mrs. Harris of Aultsville, and Mrs. A. H. Bailey of Toronto.

The happy couple took an early leave for Rochester and other New York centres, the bride travelling in a suit of brown tweed, worn with accessories to match. On their return they will reside at Centreville, where the groom is a prosperous young farmer.

In Loving Memory

BROWN — In loving memory of our dear daughter, Eleanor A. Brown, who passed away suddenly, September 21st, 1923.

Our hearts still ache with sadness
Of the day our hearts were crushed,
When God took you, oh, so quickly,
And we all in gloom were thrust.
Do not ask us if we miss him—
Oh, there's such a vacant place
For the one we loved so dearly,
Has forever passed away.

Ever remembered.

HOW WE GOT OUR NAMES

BY "PENPOINT"

Local names are of extraordinary variety and may range in importance from a country to a plant. It is easy to see how immigrants from the continent might have their unfamiliar names replaced by French Frances, Flanders, Fleming; Britten and Brett (from Brittany) as those from the British Isles; outside England became Scott, Ireland, Welch, Wallis, (compare Cornwallis, from Cornwall). Most of the larger towns of France and Flanders are also represented: Roan comes from Rouen; Amyus, from Amiens; Gaunt, from Ghent; Bridges, from Bruges; and many of the early Norman immigrants succeeded in retaining the name of the small town or hamlet from which they came. Anyone who takes trouble to examine a detailed map of northern France will be able to identify a host of names of that kind, often with the agglutination of the "de" used in original description. An obvious example is Daubiny from one of the many places called Aubigny or Aubigne, while Anvers, the French name of Antwerp, has given us Danvers. It does not always follow that the first bearer of the name was a foreigner: Genoa has given us Jennings (French: Gennes) and Janvrin (or Geneivre) names that may easily have been acquired by an English ancestor who had spent much of his business career in the great commercial city of the Mediterranean.

The country dweller is described in the rolls as "at wood" "de la field" "atte-style" "atten ash" "atten Beach" Nash, Nookes; or he might even be described by the plant that flourished in his little garden, whence such names as Myrtle, Jessamine, Primrose Spurge, Sweetapple. The reader will, of course, understand, that such names as these in the last group have been selected given for reasons other than local.

This brings to the last of the four classes of nicknames on which many volumes could be written, but which we must be content to classify briefly without explanation. We find among the surnames, names of birds, (Swallow, Crowe, Partridge, Swift, Hull, Hare, Doe); and fishes (Pike, Dodphin, Sturgeon); adjectives of all kinds (Good, Long, Brown, Grey, Moody, Rich, Proud), compounded with adverbs, (Goodenough, Whitherto, Hither and Enithets, (Goodsir, Bonham — French for bon homme, Belsire — French for beau pere), with the names of parts of the body (Armstrong, Shronenbarm, Brookbank, Redhead, Whitehead); with the name of a garment (Gildersleeve — Goldes sleeve, Handler — Handler coat, Broadskirt, Curthose); or with the name of a weapon or emblem of office (Broadsword, Longstaff).

Many were named from the article they sold (Hogsflesh, Greatbeer, Sowerbutt, Whitbread, Cakebread; or from the implement from which they earned a living, (Hatchett, Mallock, Meteyard—measuring yard).

A great number of mediaeval Englishmen were named from coins and sums of money, though you can only conjucture the real origin of such names as Penny, Twopenny, Bessant, Ducat. Some men were named with their favorite oath or exclamation (Godsave, Dugard—French Dieu garde); others bore the name of abstract qualities that their fellowship, Comfort, Fairservice, Wisdom, impersonated in morality plays (Worthyrick).

Lastly, the most famous of English names, Shakespeare, Tupper, a curious type found in all the European languages and descriptive of a man's trade, personal character, habits, or habitual posture, such as: (Boughtflower, for he was a florist; Tiddeman, Tidboys—French taillebois, cleave wood; Telfer— French tailler, to cleave in two; Shakespeare, Turnbull, Makepeace, Lovejoy, Standfast, Drinkwater, Dolittle, Eatwell, Swindells, Shakehock).

Colsightly.

Every name enumerated is still in existence in England and the majority are quite common in this country also. Cold Would Always Settle in Kidneys
Ontario Woman Suffered With Bladder Trouble
Mrs. Dawes Got Immediate Relief By Taking Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Lakeside, Ont., Sept. 18 (Special)
"My own experience of Dodd's Kidney Pills as a remedy for Kidney trouble is more convincing to me than all that has ever been printed in Booklets. I ask for nothing but Dodd's," writes Mrs. Charles Dawes, a resident of this place. "I am sixty-five years old, and for the last six or seven years, have enjoyed almost perfect health, before that I suffered severly from headaches and bladder trouble. Whenever I got a cold it would settle in my Kidneys and I would have severe and bearing down pains. I could not get relief and frequently made the remark that I could understand anyone going out of their mind with Kidney trouble.

"Last year my husband suffered from urinary trouble, and I said, 'why don't you try Dodd's Kidney Pills, you know how they helped me.' He got one box, and got relief. He bought another box and took them every night. He has not been troubled since."

Testimony like this speaks for itself. Profit by the experience of others—take Dodd's Kidney Pills, to-day.

Cocktails or Children Choice Dame McIlroy Offers Mod. Woman

London, Eng. —When the International Conference on Alcoholism was held here, Dame Louise McIlroy, professor of, obstetrics at the Royal Free hospital, said that the question of alcoholism among women was more important than among men. It had a more deleterious effect on the race. In regard to its effect on motherhood the cost to the country was great.

Many women were treated in hospital for diseases consequent on drunkenness by parents or children, Dame Louise declared. A number of those conditions were due not necessarily to alcoholism in the woman herself but in some, one, two, or perhaps even three generations back. The death rate among illegitimate children was higher than among the legitimate, and in her view 90 per cent of illegitimate children are born as the result of alcoholism among parents.

Dame Louise continued: "I feel very strongly about the drinking of alcohol among the better-class women. They used to have the gin-drinking charwoman as a butt when they saw women drinking gin in public-houses they held up their hands in holy horror while they, themselves, had probably come from a cocktail party where they had been drinking gin in a beautiful drawing-room. Tea parties have gone completely out of fashion among fashionable people, and in their place have come the five to seven cocktail parties. I am afraid the custom is going to go lower and lower till it meets the gin-drinking charwoman and she will be able to revert that it must be all right for her to drink gin because her mistress does so."

Dame Louise would like to see some attempt at a reformation made amongst the cocktail party habitues. There should be an energetic temperance movement among the women of the west end. There should be no pledges, but they should be invited to join a league where they did not drink alcohol. It was tremendously important that women and children should not hand down to them any hereditary tendency to alcohol.

Discussing temperance in relation to athletes, Lord Rowallon, who received the delegates at a reception, said he had not seen any reference to the fact that both Miss Dorothy Round and Fred Perry, who had recovered for England the women's and men's singles championships at Wimbledon, were total abstainers.

"We, as temperance workers, can claim some share in the resurrection of British sport, and we ought to get credit for it," he said.

Bank of Canada Shares Offered to Public

Department of Finance,
Ottawa, September 11, 1934.

Shares of the Bank of Canada to the amount of $5,000,000 are offered for public subscription by Honourable Edgar N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance. The shares are of $50.00 each and are offered at par. Not more than 50 shares may be held by any one person and only persons who are British subjects ordinarily resident in Canada, or Canadian corporations controlled in Canada, may own stock. These persons will ensure a wide-spread interest in all parts of Canada in the sale of the stock of an institution to which Parliament has entrusted wide powers and responsibilities affecting the financial and economic welfare of Canada.

The Bank is authorized to pay cumulative dividends from its profits, after provision for expenses, depreciation, etc., at the rate of 4½ per cent per annum, payable half-yearly, which is considered to be an attractive return in comparison with ruling interest rates on high grade securities. Surplus profits are to be applied to the rest fund of the Bank or paid into the Consolidated Revenue Fund as provided by the Bank of Canada Act.

The subscription list will open on September 12th and close on or before September 21st. The shares are being offered simultaneously in every part of Canada on the 17th instant and whether or not the list is closed before September 21st, consideration will be given to all applications posted not later than midnight of the day on which the list is closed.

Subscriptions are to be mailed direct to the Minister of Finance, Ottawa, and must be accompanied by an initial payment of $12.50 for each share and by a statutory declaration which forms part of the application form, evidencing the eligibility of the applicant to become a shareholder. The balance of the subscription price, $37.50 per share, will be payable on January 2nd, 1935, on or about which date the Bank is expected to commence operations.

The official prospectus and application forms are obtainable from any chartered banks and other financial institutions.

One of the important functions to be performed by shareholders is the election of seven directors who, with the Governor and Deputy Governor of the Bank, form the Board of Directors, who will supervise and control the conduct of the business of the Bank.

The seven directors are to be elected from diversified occupations, as follows:

Two, whose chief occupation is in primary industry.

Two, whose chief occupation is in commerce or finance.

Three, whose chief occupation is other than in primary industry or commerce or in connection with it.

In the by-laws of the Bank, which have recently been approved by the Governor in Council, provision is made for the nomination of directors by shareholders and for notice of such nominations to be mailed to each shareholder, prior to the election, thereby affording for the convenience of those who cannot attend meetings, provision is made for the registration of their votes in accordance with written instructions which they may give to the Minister of Finance.

One of the first steps to be taken in the organization of the Bank, after the stock list has been subscribed, will be the nomination and election by shareholders of the first Board of Directors.

LOCAL AND DISTRICT NEWS OF WOMEN'S ORGANIZATIONS

CAMDEN EAST W. M. S.

The Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church, met at the church on August 23, the president, Mrs Cameron, in charge.

After the singing of hymn 174 and prayer, the minutes were read by Mrs. Robert Lewis. The minutes of the last meeting were read and business arising therefrom was dealt with. Owing to the absence of the supply secretary, the matter of arranging for a bale was left for a later date. Discussion, after the reading of an article on the advantages of using envelopes for missionary givings, resulted in a decision to use them for the coming year.

Following the report of Mrs. Smedley, mite box secretary, prayer was offered by Mrs. Albert Lewis. The president then called on Miss Olive Sudsbury, B.A., of the teaching staff of Kirkland Lake High School, who is holidaying at her home here. The subject of Miss Salsbury's address was "Kirkland Lake." She gave a complete description of that mining town, its location, size, what people and by means of a diagram, brought vividly before the minds of her hearers, the location of mines, schools, churches and the residential section. In her remarks on the churches, she said that the need of that north country was ministers who were well educated, to command the respect of all classes, and who were physically strong to cope with the many drawbacks that are found in a new town of that kind, whereas men of a different type were often sent. The schools, owing to the rapidly growing population, although recently built, will soon be inadequate to accommodate the rapidly increasing number of pupils.

At the conclusion of her remarks, Mrs. Albert Lewis moved a vote of thanks for the splendid address.

A hymn and the Mizpah benediction closed a very interesting meeting.

WESLEY LADIES' AID

Wesley Ladies' Aid held their monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Will Weese on August 30th, with the president, Mrs. Allen Moore, presiding. After the opening hymn, Mrs. Dan Roper led in prayer, and Mrs. Harold Nuxent gave the scripture reading, taken from Matthew VII. Interesting readings were then given by Miss Daisy Moore, Mrs. Vivian Miller and Miss Doris Scilley.

Business, followed which included the appointing of delegates for the Ladies' Aid Convention. The delegates appointed are Mrs. Allen Moore and Mrs. Rex McKeown. Mrs. Rogers was appointed program leader for the September meeting and Mrs. Scilley very kindly invited the ladies to her home for that meeting. "Rock of Ages" was sung and the meeting closed with prayer.

SWITZERVILLE MISSION BAND

The regular meeting of the Busy Bee Mission Band was held at the school on Wednesday afternoon, September 5th, at three o'clock.

The president, Jean Amey conducted the meeting, while Audrey Brandon acted as secretary in the absence of Ralph Wilson. After the opening exercises, which consisted of singing our memory hymn, followed by prayer led by Sally Lees, the call to worship was given by the president, and the response read by Ruth Clark. Another hymn was sung and the scripture lesson from Mark X. 13-16 was read by Mary Lasher, followed by prayer by Audrey Brandon. The memory verse, Psalm 51. 9th verse, was taught by Maitland Clark, and interesting watch tower items were given from Korea, by Jean Weese, from China by Vivian Craig and from Indiaby Miss Rutherford.

Two very appropriate poems were read by Doris Vandervoort and Vera Brandon, after which another hymn was sung and the offering received by Wilmot Craig and Harold Carey. The offertory response being said in unison.

During the study period, Mrs. Wales told the story of Molly's Gift Box, which tells of Molly's dream and how she learned to share with others in need.

After singing "Jesus Bids us Shine" the meeting was closed with prayer by Mrs. Wales.

The next metime will be held at the school on Wednesday afternoon, October 3rd, at three o'clock.

NAPANEE WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The September meeting of the Women's Institute was held in the Agricultural rooms on Tuesday afternoon. The president, Mrs. James Doudiet, presided and the meeting opened with the singing of the ode.

Mrs. Amos Huffman of Moscow was present and gave a very interesting talk on an Institute member.

Mrs. Ralph Ham gave the current events, which are always interesting.

Mrs. James Doudiet gave a demonstration of different jellies made from wild fruit with commercial pectin.

A letter of condolence was sent to Mrs. C. W. Hambly in the loss of her mother, Mrs. Wager.

A discussion took place regarding programmes and these will be ready for next meeting.

CAMDEN EAST W. I.

A large gathering of Institute members gathered at the home of Mrs. William Hingh for the regular September meeting. The roll call was answered by "hints for removing stains." Following the usual ode and creed and the reading of the minutes, correspondence, consisting of letters of appreciation for flowers and fruits, and thanks for donation to coaching class, were read.

The president exhibited a scrap book, the property of the Women's Institute, which will be used for anything of interest for future reference. Arrangements were completed for the exhibit at the Centreville Fair. Plans were made for an event, which promises to be of outstanding interest, to be held on the 14th of September, when all kinds of Canadian industries, the product of home, farm and factory will be shown in groups and classes. The secretary was requested to write neighboring institutes, to advise them of the event.

It was decided to hold a special meeting for the arrangements for the annual School Fair, the last of September. Current events were then given by different members, and a paper read by Miss Helen Williams. "Food for the growing child, what you have," was very timely and interesting. Making the best of what you have

Canadian charcoal properly certificated for customs purposes may be imported into the British Isles free of duty, while foreign charcoal is subject to a customs duty of ten per cent ad valorem.

In physiological studies of tomatoes in the British Isles, it was observed that during a child's early days plants gain as much as 7.7 per cent in weight, but that most of the gain is lost in respiration during the long nights.

Of a total of 8,619 fields entered in 1933 for certification by the Dominion Seed Potato Certification Service, 6,088 passed for certification, and of the latter 5,000 certificates amounting approximately to 3,120,000 bushels. The total quantity of tagged certified seed potatoes shipped in 1933 for export from the districts in which they were produced was slightly over 1,000,000 bushels.

PASSED AT 1934 SESSION OF PARLIAMENT

— BILL 53 —

AN ACT TO AMEND THE CANADA GRAIN ACT

The changes in this Act place the statutory grades of No. 2 Manitoba Northern Wheat on the same basis as No. 1 Manitoba Hard and No. 1 Manitoba Northern, insofar as milling quality is concerned, and also empowers the Western Standard Committee to deal with the different varieties of grain which may be developed from time to time, so that they may be graded to the best marketing advantage without interfering with the quality of our main standard grades.

— BILL 92 —

AN ACT TO FACILITATE COMPROMISES AND ARRANGEMENTS BETWEEN FARMERS AND THEIR CREDITORS

While in a number of provinces provincial moratorium legislation passed during the period of the last three or four years has authorized the farmer extensions of time for the payment of his liabilities and given him protection against the taking of immediate dispossession by creditors, little progress has been made in the compromise and adjustment of farm debts which have been incurred at higher price levels and which the farmer has now, with reduced farm revenues little prospect of repaying.

The Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act, passed at the last session of Parliament, has been designed to provide an inexpensive procedure and machinery whereby the farmer debtor unable to meet his liabilities as they become due, may be enabled to bring before his creditors, without being required to assign into bankruptcy, proposals for a compromise, extension of time, or scheme of arrangement of his affairs. The general procedure relating to proposals for compromises and schemes of arrangement under the Bankruptcy Act are made applicable to proposals put forward under this Act. In the event that the proposal put forward by the farmer, or as subsequently modified, is approved by the creditors, the same is thereafter confirmed by the Court and becomes binding on both the debtor and creditors.

In the event that the farmer and his creditors are unable to reach an agreement on a proposal submitted by the farmer, a Board of Review appointed for the province may, upon the request of either the farmer or any creditor, formulate a proposal for the consideration of the farmer's affairs, based upon the present and prospective capabilities of the farmer to pay and the productive value of his farm. Power is given to the Board of Review to confirm its own proposals and make the same binding upon both the farmer and his creditors, even though they are not consenting parties thereto.

The Board of Review may refuse to make any proposal in any case where it is found impossible to work out an arrangement considered fair to both the farmer and his creditors.

After a proposal has been approved and confirmed by the Court or a Board of Review, the failure on the part of the farmer to carry out the terms of the proposal constitutes an act of bankruptcy, unless in the opinion of the Court to whom the matter is referred, a Receiver is made, the failure to carry out the terms of the proposal was due to causes beyond the farmer's control. For the purposes of this act a "Farmer" is defined as "a person whose principal occupation consists of farming or the tilling of the soil."

The provisions of the Act do not become effective in any province until proclaimed by the Governor-in-Council to be in force in such province.

The act contains a further provision that wherever the rate of interest on a farm mortgage exceeds seven per cent per annum, the mortgagor may tender principal and interest, together with three months' further interest in lieu of notice, and thereafter no interest shall be payable or recoverable in respect to the said mortgage in excess of five per cent per annum. This provision came into force with the passing of the Act.

MR. BIRNBAUM'S HONEST OPINION

BY HOLLOWAY HORN

Birnbaum was a Jew. He possessed his full share of the peculiar cleverness of his race and far more than his share of its humour, which is less conspicuously a racial characteristic. Birnbaum was a connoisseur in his limits and within the exigencies of his business, an honest man.

He is not committing oneself to a great deal, for Mr. Birnbaum was a dealer in curios and antiques; you may have heard of his delightful little shop in South Kensington. The trade makes it difficult at times for an ordinary astute dealer to be entirely honest, and one may be the slyest ed. to cite in proof, the case of Mr. Claude S. Ormsby, Lewiston, Pa.

Like many of his countrymen, Mr. Ormsby was an inveterate collector, and, in accord with the great majority of American bargain hunters, he was exceedingly suspicious of antique dealers outside his native land. Whether there was ground for this suspicion is a matter that fortunately does not fall within the compass of this record.

Birnbaum was fully aware of his attitude, and had a great deal of sympathy with those who had been stung; but his transactions with Ormsby had, as far as he knew, been mutually satisfactory—certainly they were known to Birnbaum, given to the matter of the Baxter prints, over which Mr. Ormsby unreasonably engaged himself "done." Birnbaum had offered to buy them back at the original figure, as there could hardly be any more such ill-feeling left. Mr. Ormsby, indeed, was in excellent humour when he came into the shop that December afternoon.

"Hallo, Birnbaum," he said, in his genial manner. "I saw you nosing round at Murray's auction rooms this morning."

"Yes, I was there,' admitted the dealer. "Poor lot of stuff." "Oh for the whole. I agree. But I shall be at the sale to-morrow."

"Oh shall I? There are one or two little bits of Bristol glass that are quite interesting. And Bristol glass, I told you, is one of the things that will go highes.yet."

"You were only interested in the glass?" Mr. Ormsby regarded Birnbaum very knowingly as he asked the question.

"That's all," said Birnbaum.

"What did you think of those four miniatures?"

"Very little," said Birnbaum. "The catalogue description is wrong. They're 'Miniatures on ivory.' They are miniatures and they are on ivory. But they're not what you say for them. They probably copies."

"I liked them," said Mr. Ormsby. "In my opinion one of them is almost certainly a Conway, and a second might well be."

Birnbaum shook his head. "I've examined them," he said. "And if you ask my advice . . . leave 'em alone. Now here is a Conway."

Birnbaum turned to a little case on the counter of the shop and took from it a very beautiful miniature. "I cannot trace the identity of the lady," he said, as he handed the miniature to the American, "but that painting has all the filigree and lightness which characterizes the work of the master. You will observe the peculiar colour of the hair—almost pearly. It is so in nearly every authenticated Conway. There are Conways in South Kensington I would not exchange for this one."

"It's quite nice," admitted the American without any enthusiasm whatever. "But cannot see that it's in any way a finer miniature than the one I bought at Murray's saleroom."

Birnbaum shrugged his shoulders. "It is idle to argue in matters of taste. Tactius observed as much two thousand years ago."

"I rather fancy, Birnbaum, that you are not arguing. You don't see it as I do, and you're prepared to let the American with another of his intensely shrewd looks.

Birnbaum looked up. "Do as you will," he said. "I can only give you my opinion for what it is worth."

"Then I will," said Mr. Birnbaum. "Is that an honest opinion?" the American asked.

"I dont say that," replied Birnbaum. "It shall be at the sale and it depends on the price they fetch whether or not I bid."

The next day Mr. Ormsby with an even more knowing smile. "What do you want for this one?" he looked at the miniature in his hand without and great interest.

"Sixty guineas," said Birnbaum, casually.

Mr. Ormsby shook his head and handed it back.

A little trying as customers, American bargain hunters usually know what they want, and, unless they think they are getting it, frequently they won't buy. Birnbaum smiled beneath his short eyebrows at Mr. Ormsby left his shop. He had made up his mind on no account to miss the sale of the miniature; it promised to be rather amusing.

For Murray's, the crowd was not unwieldy, but the sale, as Birnbaum knew, was singularly unimpressive. It was almost "done." When he arrived it had been in progress for nearly half an hour, but he had little difficulty in getting one of the chairs in the front which, in an interesting manner, are provided in such sales for the first lot it puts up.

He bought the bits of Bristol glass of which he had spoken to Ormsby, and a very pleasing snuff-box in tortoiseshell and silver. Under normal conditions, having obtained that for which he came, Birnbaum would have returned to his shop. But as he came in, he had noticed Mr. Ormsby, accompanied by his wife and daughter, in the far side of the room.

The four miniatures came on rather late in the afternoon, but Birnbaum could always find amusement in an auction room. When Lot 226 arrived, Birnbaum watched the four miniatures carried round on a tray by the green-aproned attendant. He saw Mr. Ormsby look at them apathetically.

"A rather pleasing lot," the auctioneer asserted. "Now, gentlemen, what shall I say ?"

"A fiver," said a very small dealer with the elaborate aloofness of the trade.

"Six guineas !" came from the far side of the room in a voice that Birnbaum recognized as American. Curiously enough, love bidding in guineas.

Birnbaum nodded to the auctioneer. It was the merest movement of the head, but Birnbaum felt certain that it had been seen where he had intended it should be: he was quite certain that Mr. Ormsby would be watching him closely.

"Ten, am offered," said the auctioneer.

"It really isnt the price of one of them, gentlemen," he asserted convincingly.

"Twelve !" he went on; and Birnbaum felt sure that he also knew that the bid had come from the corner which contained the Ormsby family.

He nodded again. Possibly the bod was the least bit more obvious this time.

"Sixteen !" the auctioneer announced. "It's against you, sir," he went on to Birnbaum. Several heads were turned towards the bidder. His fellow-dealers were wondering what was the matter.

"Twenty !" said Birnbaum.

"Twenty-five !" said the auctioneer. "It's against you again."

The other representatives of the trade were watching Birnbaum in increasing surprise. It was unlike him.

"Thirty !" said Birnbaum, however.

"Thirty-five !" the auctioneer replied, and added. "We're evidently just beginning to appreciate the real value of these miniatures."

"Forty !" said Birnbaum.

By this time the trade was acutely interested in the bidding. Birnbaum usually knew what he was doing, and one or two of his fellow-dealers were examining the miniatures.

At a hundred guineas, Birnbaum shook his head and made a note in his catalogue. He had finished.

"A hundred guineas," said the auctioneer said. "I'm selling at a hundred guineas if there is no advance. At a hundred guineas."

The hammer was poised for a moment in mid-air before it fell. Mr. Claude S. Ormsby, of Lewiston, Pa., had purchased Lot 236, consisting of four miniatures painted on ivory, for the sum of hundred guineas.

Paul McInotte, whose word on English miniatures of the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries is accepted without question in the trade, winked at Birnbaum and presently joined him as they left the famous saleroom together.

"What's the big idea, Birnbaum?" he demanded. "Almost made dud miniatures. I mean. You'd have been sick if you'd been landed with them."

"I know. But it was almost worth the risk. It was just a little problem in psychology."

"Go on," said McInotte with a smile. "I'll buy it."

"Did you notice the fellow who bought them ?"

"Yes. A Yank."

"A customer of mine."

"I say ! He won't like your running him up. My dear man, he'd have had them for fifteen guineas if you had not butted in."

"I know. But he sought my advice on those same miniatures—he saw me at the view yesterday. I told him they were wrong, and, instead of thanking me, he thought I was bluffing him out of bidding against me for them. When he saw me actually bidding for them he was more certain than ever that I was right. I'll bet you what you like he rewards himself as a particularly cute fellow in the matter."

"Still, you've lost him as a customer. He'll never trust you again."

"He's going back to-morrow, so it doesn't very much matter. But it's very disheartening. Mcinotte, I've done fairly well out of the chap one way and another, and I was honestly trying to do him a good turn. He insisted that one of them was a Conway. I saved him from buying it, even when he thought I was bluffing him."

"It's very difficult to be honest in one, isn't it ? The public simply won't let you ! Now, if the American friend really thinks he has bought a Conway, he is pro bably very delighted with his purchase."

"Let's hope so," said Mr. Birnbaum. "I don't suppose I shall see him again, anyway."

But on this point Birnbaum was wrong, for that same evening, Mr. Ormsby came into his shop.

"I thought I'd look in, Mr. Birnbaum," he said in rather an aggrieved tone. "I wanted to tell you that I was not altogether surprised to find you bidding against me for those miniatures this afternoon, although you had distinctly told me they were no good."

"It was a public auction, sir. Anyone can bid. I do not remember saying that I would not do so."

"I know that. But a reputable dealer, in my opinion, would feel ashamed wilfully to mislead a customer in such a matter. In my opinion, it is not ordinary commercial honesty. You evidently thought far more of those miniatures than you told me."

"What I told you was my honest opinion," said Birnbaum quietly. "In my judgment they were wrong . . . fakes. I tell you so now. And I venture to assert that my opinion will be upheld by any expert you care to consult."

"Do you want me to believe that you would have paid over a hundred guineas—that was your last bid. I think —for miniatures which you are certain are fakes ?"

"No. I don't want you to believe anything so foolish."

"Do you deny bidding ninety-five guineas ?"

"Of course not. You saw me do so."

"I did," said Mr. Ormsby grimly. "I suppose I had not an opinion of the trade would have got them for a few pounds ?"

"I have said Birnbaum in a very quiet voice. "I've been honest with you over those miniatures all though. You sought my advice on them, I gave it. It was not a casual opinion; it was, I think ; my plain and honest opinion, for I had examined them carefully—far more carefully than you knew. Now, Mr. Ormsby, the miniatures were mine. I had put them in the auction, because I don't like having fakes in my shop."

"Yours ?" the American asked in amazement.

"Yes. They were five sold in one lot, as I previously said, and I was all five in order to get the one I wanted—the Conway I showed you yesterday. The others, I sent down to Murray's. You paid a hundred guineas for them . . . against my advice."

"You mean you were putting me up—you never meant to buy them ?"

"They were always mine," said Birnbaum. "The humorous side of it, under ordinary circumstances, is one way, I was on the point of sending this little parcel round to your hotel, with my compliments, when you came in."

"Oh !"

"It is the Conway miniature I showed you yesterday. If you compare it with the others, you will see that my opinion was fairly sound. Taking the deal as a whole, you won't have done badly out of it . . . now, Mr. Ormsby."

DOCTOR SAID SHE MUST REDUCE

Fat a Danger to Her Heart

Overweight is not merely a matter of appearance—it affects health, too. Excess fat robs the system of energy —the internal organs grow lax and slow down under the burden— and undue strain is put on the heart. Here is an instance. A woman writes :—

"I have been treated by specialists, who tried to reduce my weight, as I suffered with heart attacks. But no matter what they gave me, nothing would reduce me. Since taking Kruschen, everyone wherever I go exclaims about how much flesh I have lost. I took it at first for rheumatism, and it has done me a world of good as well as greatly reducing my weight. Before Christmas I weighed 224 lbs. Now I am considerably less—in fact, a coat I had worn last year I had to take to be altered because it was able to wear it again. I have not really made any difference with my diet, so there is only Kruschen to thank." — (Mrs.) M. S.

The six salts in Kruschen assist the internal organs to throw off each day the wastage and poisons that accumulate in the system. Then, little by little, that ugly fat goes—slowly, yes—but surely.

The Storage of Dahlias

(Experimental Farms Note.)

Valuable varieties of dahlias are often lost as a result of diseases developing in storage. Investigations conducted by the Division of Botany of the Dominion Experimental Farms Branch, show that these losses can be reduced materially by proper attention to the lifting and storing of the roots. As soon as the dahlia plant has completed its full growth, it begins storing material in the roots for future use. This will vary with the season, locality and the variety. When the plant is mature it should be cut down and the roots dug very carefully with a spading fork. The loosened clump should never be pulled up by the stalk and the use of an ordinary spade is to be avoided because these practices may cause wounds, which render the roots very susceptible to attack by rot-producing diseases. The removed clump should be turned up-side down to let moisture drain out of the stems, and allowed to dry for 2 or 3 hours particularly if the soil is wet. Removing the soil adhering to the roots is not necessary, particularly if the clump has been thoroughly dried. The root should be stored in a frost proof place but not where it is too warm. It will prevent shriveling. Good results were obtained when the roots were stored at 35 to 45 degrees F. Sphagnum moss was found to be most satisfactory for packing the roots. This moss, when thoroughly air-dried, took care of excessive moisture from the roots and at the same time prevented excessive drying. Well matured roots stood a higher storage temperature than immature ones. Mature roots survived temperatures ranging from 65 to 70 degrees but suffered considerably from drying.

The vigour of plants grown from roots stored at temperatures from 35 to 45 degrees, was greater than those stored at 50 to 60 degrees. They kept less soft and dry rot in the well matured roots whether stored at low or high temperatures. Regardless of what the storage conditions are, the roots should be examined from time to time throughout the winter. If conditions are too dry, some may shrivel and if too damp, decay. If there is evidence of rot, the roots should be moved to dryer quarters. Experience has, as a general rule, more susceptible to rot under artificial storage conditions, for which reason they require more careful attention.

The 1934 European wheat crop, says the Monthly Review, will fall short of the abnormal out-turn of 1933. The points of major interest is the probable reduction in France, Germany and Italy. These countries constitute the most important element in determining import requirements in Continental Europe. The reduction in these three countries was so large that imports during the past year were abnormally small.

READ YOUR HEALTH IN THE PALM OF YOUR HAND

Stretch the hand out flat and look at the colouring which lies just beneath the outer skin. If you are in good health your skin will be a mottled rosy pink. Should the pink tones appear pale, the probability is that your blood lacks haemoglobin (red colouring) and red corpuscles. Here is the reason why many people are not exactly well—some are really ill.

The blood carries life force and nutriment to every part of the body. If the blood is low in haemoglobin and red corpuscles, the person is always more or less anaemic or "run down." . . . easily tired . . . lacking in vitality . . . perhaps close to serious sickness.

Fortunately the vitality of the blood can be increased in the majority of cases, as was proved in a special clinic of 40 persons whose haemoglobin and red corpuscles were low. Under a physician's direction they were taken before and after treatment demonstrated conclusively in the physician's opinion that this excellent remedy had built up the vitality of the blood and restored health and vigour.

If your pallor or your feelings tell you your blood is not up to normal, try a 30-day treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. You too, will probably experience the same pick-up in general health and the same gain in strength and vitality that the physician observed in the persons forming the clinic. Health is precious. Let Dr. Williams' Pink Pills help you keep it. This tested remedy has amply proved its restorative qualities. Full size box for 50c.

NEWBURGH

Newburgh, Sept. 17.—On Tuesday afternoon, Sept. 11th, a number of the W. M. S. members of the United Church gathered at the home of Miss M. Mitchell and tied a quilt for the missionary bale. After finishing the quilt the hostess and helpers served a dainty lunch and a social half hour was spent. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Miss Mitchell for opening her home for the occasion and for the splendid lunch.

On Saturday evening, Sept. 15th, the relatives of Miss Elma Paul gathered at the home of her brother, Mr. Joseph Paul, to spend her eighteenth birthday. Among the guests were Dr. Harvey Paul, of Jamestown, N.Y., and his daughters, Dorothy and Susan. After a pleasant evening of games and social intercourse, a lunch was served and a birthday cake with eighty candles was presented to the guest of honor. Miss Paul received gifts of flowers and numerous well wishes for many happy returns of the occasion.

TEA TIME

BY BARBARA B. BROOKS

A Canadian hostess said to her American guests, "Shall we go to the bank for tea?" To their delight, the "bank" turned out to be, not an impressive stone building, but a grassy terrace overlooking a river where tea was served in a delightful summer house.

Tea time is observed all over the world and is probably the part of the day most enjoyed by friends who get together for a social hour. Different customs prevail in different countries, but the spirit of hospitality and good cheer is the same whether the service be simple or elaborate. The tea itself is made according to the hostess' taste and hot water provided for guests who wish it weaker. There is usually a choice of lemon and cream; sometimes cloves are added for spice; there may be orange slices and wedges of candied pineapple for those who like added flavors.

The tea accompaniments should include both plain and sweet. There is nothing better than thin bread and butter, salt wafers or crisp toast for those who are avoiding sweets. For others, a supply of little cakes, cookies or fruit bread will be desirable.

This recipe for Banana Bran Bread is good because the loaf will keep moist for days and can be sliced and buttered as needed.

Banana Bran Nut Bread

One-quarter cup shortening.
Half a cup of sugar.
One egg (well beaten).
One cup bran.
One cup of banana pulp.
One and one-half cups of flour.
Two teaspoons baking powder.
Half a teaspoon of salt.
Half teaspoon soda.
Half a cup chopped nut meats.
One and one-half cups of mashed bananas.
Two tablespoons water.
One teaspoon vanilla extract.

Cream shortening and sugar well. Add egg and bran. Sift flour with baking powder, salt, and soda. Mix nuts with flour and add alternately with mashed bananas to which the water has been added. Stir in vanilla. Pour into greased loaf tin. Let stand 10 minutes and bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.) one hour. Let cool before cutting.

Yield: one loaf (8½ x 4½ inches.)

Simple sandwiches are always welcome. Cream butter with honey and spread thin slices of white bread. A delicate filling is made by creaming butter with anchovy paste, mustard, horseradish, or chopped parsley. Some other savory fillings are chopped celery moistened with mayonnaise; creamed butter mint leaves and chopped pimiento; chopped pickles or olives with mayonnaise; creamed cheese and dried beef moistened with tomato puree.

The cookie jar plays its part in the school lunch. The recipe for Date Crumb Cookies is something different and delicious.

Outstanding Exhibits Large Attendance Mark Odessa Fair

Association Holds 99th Exhibition

The Ernestown Fall Fair, held at Odessa on Thursday and Friday of last week was again an unqualified success. It was the 99th annual exhibition. This progressive fair has continued to grow with the years and to-day occupies a place of importance in the development of rural life of the district.

Weather conditions were highly favorable and people from far and wide chose Friday to attend the fair in large crowds. Everywhere throughout the spacious fair grounds, people were found in large numbers, inspecting the exhibits.

That there is interest in the breeding of fine stock and horses is well evidenced by the exceptionally good showing at all the fall fairs of the district. Odessa Fair was certainly no exception in this respect. The exhibit of horses was particularly good and the cattle were not far behind in quality. Poultry, sheep and swine were of outstanding quality.

In the building, the exhibits of grains, fruits and vegetables were excellent, particularly when the dry season is considered. The quantity of home cooking, fancy work, flowers and art, certainly attested the skill and ability of the women of the district. The showing of needlework was especially good.

The races attracted a great deal of interest on the part of a large share of the crowd. Some good horses were entered and the contests were keen. The results of the races are given below :—

Free-For-All — 1, King Pluto; 2, Major Penalty; 3, Limber Jim; 4, Molly L.

County Ladies' Aid Convention Held at Newburgh, Sept. 19

It was a glorious fall day for the gathering of the ladies of the Woman's Association and Ladies' Aids of the United Church of the County of Lennox and Addington. They began to arrive at nine o'clock in the morning and by ten o'clock nearly two hundred delegates and visitors had arrived from every part of the county, from Arden on the north to Bath on the south and from Deseronto on the east to Odessa on the west. Amherst Island was also well represented.

It was a women's meeting. One noticed a few ministers but they were only chauffeurs. The other men who were present made their special contribution in the dining room, at the noon hour.

Everything was carried on in a business-like manner under the capable leadership of the president, Mrs. R. S. Wales and the secretary, Mrs. A. E. Perry. Mrs. Elmer Altenbrack was again, the press reported, and all will read with special interest her report when it appears.

As a visitor, one was pleased with the inspiring musical selections. The first duet was presented by Mrs. Allan Baldwin and Mrs. Clarence Baird. In the afternoon duets were given by Mrs. Hugh Ramsay and Mrs. Wilde, and the other by Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Jenkins. These numbers, with the congregation's singing, helped to create the spiritual atmosphere of the convention.

To one who attends conventions, the round table conference is a helpful feature. Mrs. Smith Gilmour conducted this part of the program in a very helpful manner. The reports of the different organizations were listened to with rapt attention and every organization in the county, but one, either sent or gave their report.

The memorial service of those who died during the year was conducted by Rev. W. P. Fletcher, D.D., in a reverent and inspiring way.

Mrs. John Wartman of Newburgh gave the first address and the women present must have found a new conception of how life should be lived.

Mrs. (Rev.) M. R. Brown was the second speaker in the morning, using as her subject, "Our Promised Land."

Mrs. (Rev.) Earl Sexsmith was the third speaker, thinking of the Ladies' Aid as the mother of the church.

Rev. R. T. Richards of Napanee gave the closing address on "Impressions received during a summer vacation in the Maritimes."

The entertainment which adds much to the interest of a convention, and Newburgh people measured up to a high standard in this respect, Rev. T. H. P. Anderson was busy all day making things pleasant for the delegates. Miss Stone presented Newburgh's welcome and they practiced what they preach. And the dinner served in the newly decorated dining hall was a sumptuous repast and everyone, especially those who had driven long distances, enjoyed it.

The next Convention will be held in Gretna United Church.

Hon. President—Rev. T. H. P. Anderson, Newburgh.

President — Mrs. Smith Gilmour, Tamworth.

1st Vice-Pres.— Mrs. Lewis, Camden East.

2nd Vice-Pres. — Mrs. Ackerman, Hawley.

Secretary— Mrs. A. E. Perry.

Treasurer — Mrs. O. E. Ashley, Empey Hill.

Executive Committee — Mrs. R. S. Wales, Napanee; Mrs. William Bird, Marlbank and Mrs. Stover, Deseronto.

Missionary From China Tells His Experiences

Held For Ransom By Chinese Bandits

On Sunday evening in St. Andrew's Church, the congregations of Trinity, St. Andrew's and Grace Churches, united to hear an address by Rev. C. S. Bridgman, a missionary on furlough from China.

Mr. Bridgman told an interesting story of his experiences during the 21 years of his residence in China. He went to China, first just after the first revolution, which he described as only the first spasm in a revolution not yet finished. Great changes, he says have taken place in the country, but he believes still greater changes are to take place in the future.

Mr. Bridgman outlined the needs of the country from the standpoint of education, social legislation, public health and women's position. Twenty years ago, most of the educational work of the country was carried on by the mission schools. To-day, the mission schools play a large part in the plan of education, but the government such as it is, is carrying on some schools. Social legislation is nil, he says, only anti-Christian, but anti-religious, which demands that only secular education be carried on in the mission schools. Consequently, the missionaries have to gain the confidence of their pupils in the schools and carry on their religious work outside of the schools. The missionaries have to make the Christian feel that the Christian religion has done more for the advancement of the people than any other religion has or can do.

Mr. Bridgman spoke of the work of Dr. James Yen, a native Chinese doctor and his campaign with illiterates, which is a really constructive rural program. Dr. Yen does not accept government aid in his work so that he will be free to teach Christianity.

Public Health Work

The missionaries have done much to develop the public health work in China. Mr. Bridgman told of many communities where the suffering people had to come to the mission stations as the only place to get help. He spoke of the suffering children, handicapped by preventable and curable diseases, who form a large part of the problem confronting the mission workers.

Dealing with the improved condition among women in the last twenty years Mr. Bridgman said that the fact that bound feet were a thing of the past, is typical of the changed attitude toward women and their raised status.

After being on a furlough six years ago, Mr. Bridgman returned to China to find his mission station occupied by soldiers. Gradually, conditions improved and the soldiers, impressed by the work of the missionaries, moved out and left the workers to carry on.

The problem of China is largely a rural problem. But it is hampered by the lack of stable government made impossible through the fact that a succession of military despots hold the power.

Captured by Brigands

Four years ago Mr. Bridgman and Mr. Din, a Christian Chinese worker have missionaries, by a band of bandits and held for seventeen days. For eight days they were imprisoned in an almost air-tight granary. The speaker lost 20 lbs of weight in that time and when they were released their lungs were practically collapsed.

Mr. Bridgman held out as the only cure for China's ills, the teaching of Dr. James Yen, a native Chinese doctor and his campaign with illiterates, which is a really constructive rural program. Dr. Yen does not

Picton Fans Support Gibbard A's For O.B.A.A. Finals

(By G. H. C. in Picton Gazette)

There is a possibility that local fans may yet get the opportunity of seeing Pointer and Goldsmith in action.

What a southpaw melee that would be !

Would be a great series !

Unless Southampton has strengthened its team since last year, and from our observations, Napanee has an edge in balance and hitting. There is only one Goldsmith, however, and thirteen hangs the tale.

"Leat Goldsmith and you beat Southampton," is the cry of the Western teams.

Keigler, Southampton rightander, hasn't met with much success this season with the result that the brunt of the Fishermen hurling has fallen upon Goldsmith. However, Letty has won 17 as against 1 loss which is an imposing record.

However, should they meet, and if Pointer is "on," the greatest pitching duel of the season should ensue.

In passing, may be add that Picton baseball fans are solidly behind the Napanee clan in their fight for the title. Good luck "Ernie" and here's hoping the mug reads with your "Solid Walnuts" in 1935.

Chamber of Commerce Meets Tuesday October 2nd

A dinner meeting of the Napanee Chamber of Commerce will be held on Tuesday, October 2nd, at 7:00 p.m. at the Hotel Paisley.

At this meeting the special speaker will be Geo. S. Haugham, secretary-manager of the Ontario Provincial Board of the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada.

Mr. Haugham will give an outline of the aims and achievements of the organization he represents and will deal with the mass-buying and price spread probe being carried on by the Stevens Commission at Ottawa. This subject is one which should be of special interest to every business man in the town. The officials of the local Chamber of Commerce are expecting a capacity turn-out of the members and would-be members of the Chamber.

Other matters of interest concerning the local organization will also be discussed.

Miss Esther Purcell Won Most Points In Judging Contest

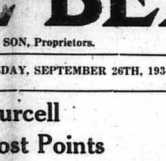
Competed in Household Science at C. N. E.

Miss Esther Purcell of Colebrook, won the distinction of being the high girl in the Inter-County Household Science Judging Competition at the Canadian National Exhibition. In the competition she scored 473 points. She was one of three of the team from Lennox and Addington. The other girls were Hilda Preslar, Dorothy Sprague and Hazel Baker, to spare. The winning team scored 1244 points, which was just seven points higher than the local team, which took third place.

Miss Purcell's success indicates a wide range of knowledge of the subjects which come under the heading of Household Science. To win the competition, not only knowledge of the subjects is necessary, but great keeness of observation and ability to make quick decisions are required.

There were twenty-eight teams taking part in the judging, made up of 350 young women from rural Ontario, so there was plenty of competition for the first place in the contest.

In winning this honor, Miss Purcell not only brings distinction to herself and the team, but brings a coveted honor to the County of Lennox and Addington, for the first time.



MISS ESTHER PURCELL

Miss Purcell is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Purcell of Colebrook and the granddaughter of Mr. H. Purcell, long identified with the life of the County of Lennox and Addington. She was a student at Napanee Collegiate Institute and has always been interested in the ways and short courses presented by the Department of Agriculture in the County.

One of the men operating the separator was badly burned and was removed to Belleville Hospital for treatment.

The barn, which was a frame structure in good condition, was partly covered by insurance.

Magistrate Butler, after taking evidence, remanded the accused for eight days.

Ivan McFarlane, charged with driving a car while his permit was suspended, was remanded two weeks.

BETTER MARKET FOR CANADIAN CHARCOAL

It would seem that Canadian charcoal, both wood and animal, is finding a better market in the United Kingdom. The United Kingdom imported over 5,000 tons of all types of charcoal during 1933, primary as the chief source of supply, followed by Belgium, the Netherlands and Empire countries, states the Industrial Department of the Canadian National Railways. Most of the animal charcoal imported from foreign countries is made from European beech which corresponds to Canadian birch and it would appear therefore that Canadian birch or maple should be suitable for the United Kingdom market. It is estimated that domestic production in the United Kingdom amounts to between nine and ten thousand long tons.

Ex-Sheriff G. D. Hawley Died in 94th Year

Was Former M. L. A. For Lennox and Addington

Death removed one of the oldest and best known residents of the County of Lennox, when Mr. George Douglas Hawley passed away at his home on Thomas Street, Napanee on Friday evening. Better known to the present generation, as "Sheriff Hawley," Mr. Hawley had also occupied other positions of prominence in the official life of the county, in his earlier days. He was a member of the Ontario Legislature for two terms, when he won the seat in two elections from the late George Tate Blacknott, K.C. He was defeated in the third election by the late Alex Roe.

After his defeat by Mr. Roe, Mr. Hawley was made Clerk of the Division Court, which position he held for nine years, until he was appointed Sheriff, about forty years ago by the Mowat administration. For 29 years Mr. Hawley retained the position of sheriff, until he superannuated eleven years ago, and the present sheriff, Mr. C. W. Vanderveort, was appointed to the office.

Intense Interest in Politics

Mr. Hawley was a staunch Liberal in politics. He was one of the few remaining members of the old school of politicians. Politics to him was the breath of life. His interest in all matters pertaining to his party remained a noteworthy characteristic until the end. While actively interested in the affairs of the county and province, his interest extended to a far wider sphere. He kept informed on world events and had a grasp of British politics, which would be the envy of many a young man.

Until within a week of his death he was a constant reader of the daily papers and retained a keen grasp of current events.

The late Mr. Hawley was seriously ill only one week, although he had been confined to his room for the past two years. He was born in the Township of South Fredericksburgh, nearly 94 years ago, the eldest son of the late Joseph Hawley and Mary Dunham. At the age of nine years he went to Kingston to live with his uncle, Charles Heath, a prominent druggist of the city. Until he was thirteen years of age he attended a private school in the city, conducted by Dr. McLean and then entered his uncle's drug store, where he remained until he was twenty-one. At that time he decided to return to his father's home and remained on the farm until he came to Napanee, 38 years ago.

Bishop Renson Assisted at Funeral

Mr. Hawley is survived by his widow, formerly Miss Caroline Bristol, daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. Bristol of Napanee; one daughter, Miss Ethel Hawley, and one sister, Miss Caroline Hawley, Napanee, two brothers and sisters who predeceased him were Charles Hawley, Miss Mary Anna Hawley, Mrs. Thomas Stewart and John Hawley.

The funeral service was held on Monday afternoon at the residence, Thomas Street. It was conducted by the Venerable Archdeacon Dumbrille of St. Mary Magdalen Church, of which Mr. Hawley was a member.

Mr. Dumbrille was assisted in the service by Bishop Renison of St. Paul's Cathedral, Toronto, a nephew of Mrs. Hawley.

Gibbard's B Team Won First Game of O.B.A.A. Semi-Finals

St. Andrew's Church Presented Unique Entertainment

On Friday last the Ladies Aid of St. Andrew's United Church presented the public with an entertainment which was novel and highly successful. It was in the nature of what they called a Cook's Tour, the first part of the entertainment taking the form of a supper. Instead of the usual methor of serving, the different courses were served at the homes of different members of the congregation, each of which represented some country. Two fleets of cars of six each, conveyed the people to the various homes, in groups of twenty-five. Every detail was carefully worked out and a time-table arranged so that there was no delay at any point.

The first stop was at the home of Mrs. Eplett, which represented the United States; there a preliminary course was served. The waiting cars then took the visitors to the home of Mrs. C. B. Creighton, which was decorated to represent England. Here the main course was served. From there the guests were conveyed to the home of Mrs. Vandebogart, where another course was served. In this instance every detail of the decorations and the food was done in representation of Ireland. The passengers proceeded from there to the home of Mr. Humphrey, where the dessert was served in real Scotch fashion. The success of the most difficult problem of moving each group on exact schedule was due to the careful planning and organization of Mr. Eplett and George Howitt.

After the final course in the Sunday School room, the assembled groups were given an interesting entertainment in the main auditorium of the church. The Boys' Orchestra under the direction of Mr. Gordon MacGregor, played numerous selections as the audience gathered. Then followed a series of appropriate songs by the male quartette of Grace Church, Messrs. Jack Black, G. Seymour, Gordon Reid and Hunter. They were accompanied at the piano by Mrs. C. Black.

Mrs. Williams rendered a Canadian reading and Miss Baughn gave an organ solo.

Rev. H. Pawson gave an address on the "English Character" and Rev. R. T. Richards recounted some interesting events in connection with his recent travels in the Maritimes.

The singing of the National Anthem brought to a close an interesting and entertaining evening.

1935 Auto Markers Reformatory Made

Inmates of the Ontario Reformatory, Guelph, after several months' work, have completed the province's supply of auto markers for 1935. Over half a million pairs of licenses, for passenger cars were turned out, which, along with those for trucks, trailers and other vehicles, ran the total manufactured to nearly 1,100,000 markers. The colors of the new markers are black figures on an orange ground.

Took Eastern Ontario Series From Deloro

The first game in the semi-finals of the Intermediate "B" play-offs, between Huntsville and Gibbard B's was one of the best games witnessed in Napanee, this season. The two teams were about as evenly matched in every position as one could wish to see. The result was a win for Gibbard's by the score of 1-0. The game run was really not earned, as it was scored on an error. Bentley made home in the third. After Cousins, the left-handed third baseman made an overtimre to first, which was lost in the outfield. Only two other men got both teams, made as far as third. Both were Huntsville players.

The pitchers certainly held the score down with their fine work. The ball seldom got to outfield and when it did, it was quickly picked up by the outfielders.

Two errors were chalked up against the Huntsville team, both made by Cousins on third base. Lucas made a miss in the fourth when he let a grounder get by but most than retrieved his mistake by some especially fine fielding later Grose, in centre-field got a fly that looked as if it were headed for a hit.

Bishop had eight strike-outs and Lafesky had seven. Neither pitcher allowed a man Bishop yielded three hits and Lafesky, two.

GIBBARD B's 12 DELORO 2

After the close game at Deloro, when Gibbard's B's won from Deloro in the semi-finals by a score of 3-2, the local fans expected a real contest in the return game at Napanee, on Wednesday last. But Deloro proved easy pickings for the Bees, 12-2. Gibbard's B's favor was 12-2 and the third round of the Intermediate "B" play-offs and the Eastern Ontario championship came to the locals.

The Bees were hitting the ball all over the lot and finished up with a total of fifteen hits off Leal and Gallery, the Deloro pitchers, while Bishop yielded only five hits throughout the whole game. Deloro was guilty of six errors, Napanee only one.

Bishop was in fine form. He struck out nine men and walked none. His snappy infield work assisted largely in keeping the score down. Leal who started out pitching for Deloro, was replaced in the fifth by B. Gallery.

THE REQUEST OF THE HOTEL KEEPERS

Last Monday the Hotel Keepers of Napanee petitioned the Town Council to take steps to have the beverage rooms close at eleven o'clock at night instead of twelve, as at present. Since the Hotel Keepers have, themselves, raised the issue, it becomes necessary that the proposition should be carefully studied, not only by the Council, but as well by every citizen in the town.

In asking for early closing, the Hotel Keepers admit that the present situation is unsatisfactory. With this, we are in entire agreement. We believe they are perfectly sincere and honest in their approach to the Council. They know that midnight closing is not conducive to the best interests of their business.

This raises, however, the whole issue of the present situation. So silently and stealthily have the liquor interests moved, that it is doubtful if the average citizen realizes the hold which they have seized in Napanee, within the past few years. A short time ago no liquor was legally sold in the town. And for one whole year, under those conditions, only one arrest for drinkenness, was made. To-day, we have a brewery, warehouse which sells thousands of cases of beer a year. We have a liquor store which sells other thousands of bottles of hard liquors. And now we have four beverage rooms in which the youth of our town may buy, by the glass or bottle. We have, thus, more facilities for the distribution of intoxicating liquors than we ever had, even in the halcyon days of the old bar room. It is a conservative estimate, that the amount of money spent on intoxicating liquors in the town, this year, will be well over a hundred and fifty thousand dollars.

The latest move in instituting the beverage rooms has aroused public opinion in a way nothing else has done in years, and has opened the eyes of the people to the true situation in our town. The irony of the situation is that these drinking rooms were forced on us, when there was absolutely no demand for them. Indeed, a thousand of our adult citizens protested to the Government, last January, on signed cards, against any extension of the sale of intoxicating liquors in the town. In spite of this, the beverage rooms are here, hoisted upon a helpless and protesting citizenry.

There is little that can be done about it, at the present moment. The citizens will have an opportunity to voice their opinion at the polls when the time comes. In the meantime, the only way in which to register a protest is with the Town Council. The request of the Hotel Keepers presents that opportunity. Their petition will come before them at their next meeting, on Monday night. Our suggestion to the Town Council is that they should go further than is asked by the petitioners. We would suggest that the hours of sale should be fixed at nine o'clock on every night, but Saturday, and that on Saturday, the hour of closing should be seven o'clock.

In another place in this issue will be found a coupon. If you are in favor of this suggestion please sign the coupon and leave it at The Beaver Office, and it will be forwarded to the Council. We will also have some reprints made of the coupon. Be sure and get one for every member of the family of voting age, and leave it, signed, at The Beaver Office, before Monday night. There will be no time to make a canvass of the town. The matter must be left to each citizen to take care of, for himself or herself.

There will be plenty of extra coupons at the office. Be sure and get one and return it before Monday night.

THE BYE-ELECTIONS

There was more than usual interest in the bye-elections for the Federal House, which were held on Monday. Following shortly after the change of Government in Ontario, there was much speculation as to the trend of the public feeling in Federal matters. The results on Monday were decisive; four of the five seats went to the Liberals and one to the Conservatives. The surprise of the election was in our adjoining riding which, for the first time in its history, returned a Liberal, when Mr. Campbell defeated Mr. Ainsworth.

There were two factors which were largely responsible for the Liberal victory, one was the unusual energy and enthusiasm of the Liberals. Inspired by the turn of events in the recent Ontario election, the Liberals perfected an organization and injected all kinds of new stunts into the campaign. The leaders, both in the Ontario field and the Dominion field, were pressed into service. The contests were keen and intense all the way through.

The other factor is the general unrest of the times. The swing is definitely against governments, everywhere. It is in times like these that the citizens suffering unemployment and uncertainty, turn against those who are managing the affairs of state.

The result of the election will make no appreciable difference in the voting strength of the Conservative Government; the effect will be, however, to further weaken the faith of the people in the Ottawa Government.

One of the significant facts was the fact that the C. C. F. candidate in Toronto East, received 4,000 votes. This is clear evidence that there is a growing number of citizens who are convinced that a thorough-going change in some of our economic policies, is necessary. The group, whether Liberal or Conservative, which has the courage to sense this feeling and enact moderate changes in line with progressive thought, will undoubtedly hold the power of the next Federal House.

INTERNATIONAL SPORTS

It is regrettable that in contests of an international character, events so often take place which tend to hurt, rather than to foster, true sportsmanship. This seems to be particularly true of boating events. More than once the results of international boat races has been to leave the public with a suspicion of unfair treatment on the part of American contenders.

On Saturday, the two great yachts, "Rainbow" and "Endeavour" representing America and Britain, respectively, were racing as close ly as could be imagined. Only seconds separated them. As they were rounding one of the turns it would appear, from all the evidence available, that the American boat kept on its course when the British yacht had the right of way. In order to avert an accident, the British boat luffed over and thereby lost in time which, probably, cost her the race. When within two miles of the finishing line, the British boat signalled the "fouled" signal. And Sopwith ,the owner and skipper, made his written protest within a few hours, after the race. The race committee, meeting the next day, however, disallowed the protest on the grounds that the signal was not raised immediately the event happened, even though it would have been impossible for the judges to have seen the signal from the distance they were from the turn.

With respect to the rights or wrongs of the issue, of course we are not competent to speak. The injustice done the British boat lies in the refusal of the committee, on the flimsiest of technical grounds, to hear the evidence.

We can very well understand that the skippers, under the excitement and strain of a race, might break one of the rules of game, but that a committee sitting in the calm and judicial atmosphere of a committee room, far removed from the heat of the contest, should refuse to hear the evidence, leaves grave doubts as to their intellectual and moral honesty.

Finish every day and be done with it. You have done what you could; some blunders and absurdities no doubt crept in; forget them as soon as you can. Tomorrow is a new day; you shall begin it well and serenely and with too high a spirit to be cumbered with your old nonsense—Emerson.

Western Relief Appeal Voiced by Sask. Minister

The Manse, Kincaid, Sask.
September 15th, 1934.

The Editor :—
Dear Sir :

Will you kindly print the following appeal in your esteemed and valuable paper, and so give your readers an opportunity of helping to meet with many things in the home in need of replacement? It has been a heart breaking experience this past summer, after such a promising start to see the crops wither and burn up under the scorching July sun.

The outlook for the future seems dark, and unless rains come this fall what home is there for a crop in 1935? Sloughs are drying up, wells are giving out and many farmers are hauling water for miles to keep their stock alive. But we are people who live in HOPE, and we hope to be able to carry on until better times come, for surely the drought cannot last much longer.

For the past five years I have been engaged in relief work, and during these years have received help from many parts of Canada which I distributed to the needy people of this district. Last year much clothing, food and Christmas gifts to children were distributed, and were greatly appreciated by those who received them.

We are again planning to carry on our work and I am again appealing to you for help to carry on this most necessary work. We shall not soon forget all that the kind people of Canada have done for us during the past five years and it is this generous help which we have received in the past that makes me confident to make this further appeal.

It is impossible for me to describe the condition of many people in the drought area, but the least that can be said is that the condition is a most desperate one and it is through no fault of their own that the people are faced with such hard times. Will you kindly remember our work in your prayers, and if it is possible for you to assist us with money, used clothing and Christmas gifts for children, will you kindly do so?

Thanking you in anticipation of your sympathy and help, I remain,

Gratefully yours,
REV. J. T. GAWTHROP,
Minister, United Church.

Gratefully yours.
Rev. J. T. Gawthrop,
Minister, United Church.

Dear Reader :—

For the sixth consecutive year this district has experienced drought and consequently crop failure. Our Minister of Agriculture, Hon. J. G. Taggart, says this is the worst year since the drought commenced. Can you visualize what this means to the people who have passed through these six years to meet each year with worn out farm machinery, with inadequate clothing and bedding, and with many things in the home in need of replacement? It has been a heart breaking experience this past summer, after such a promising start to see the crops wither and

To the Town Council of Napanee:

As a Citizen of Napanee, of the full age of 21 years, I do hereby humbly petition you to request the Liquor Control Commission of Ontario to fix the closing hours of Beverage Rooms, in the Town of Napanee, as follows : Nine o'clock each week night, except Saturday, and Seven o'clock on Saturday night.

DEVELOPMENT AT HOME

Large-scale emigration to the Empire is now officially admitted to be a failure. Decidedly this has been known for long enough; but the report of the Inter-Departmental Committee on Migration Policy definitely advises against its encouragement. The committee's moral is that greater efforts than ever are necessary in the direction of home development. The old cry of time-worn recipes for relieving unemployment has unfortunately broken down. Its time will come again, but until then we must resort energetically to other methods.—London News-Chronicle.

PROFITEER ARMAMENTMAKERS

Some years ago there was tension between Britain and the United States, and talk of naval rivalry. For three ten-countries and the world are now increase in that tension would have been a dinner. Not for the Electric Boat Company and Vickers-Armstrong, it would have been a very favourable market factor. The lesson is obvious. Firms will not resist the temptation to make dividends from armaments, everywhere. It is in times like these that the citizens suffering unemployment and uncertainty, turn against those who are managing the affairs of state.

The result of the election will make no appreciable difference in the voting strength of the Conservative Government; the effect will be, however, to further weaken the faith of the people in the Ottawa Government.

One of the significant facts was the fact that the C. C. F. candidate in Toronto East, received 4,000 votes. This is clear evidence that there is a growing number of citizens who are convinced that a thorough-going change in some of our economic policies, is necessary. The group, whether Liberal or Conservative, which has the courage to sense this feeling and enact moderate changes in line with progressive thought, will undoubtedly hold the power of the next Federal House.

Functions Of The New Bank of Canada

Mr. Rhodes, in a statement explaining the functions of the new central bank, says it will attempt, as far as may be possible within the scope of monetary action, to mitigate fluctuations in the general level of employment, prices and business activity. It is hoped that the bank, by its influence, will be able to alleviate not only the more serious alternate booms and depressions, rendering less severe their impact on the economic life of Canada. The bank is to have a definite measure of control over the total volume of credit and thus will be in a position indirectly to exert an influence over the general price level, Mr. Rhodes believes.

To Restrict Expansion

Extension of credit by the commercial banks will be encouraged by the central bank lowering its rediscount rate. At the same time, the latter will use the means of open market operations and the purchase of securities, may expound the credit reserves of the commercial banks and thus ease the general credit situation. Conversely, when it appears that business is expanding unduly, the central bank may raise its rediscount rate and thus discourage the further use of its credit for business purposes, while at the same time it may sell securities so as to tend to restrict further unwise expansion at a time when caution is needed.

In the third place, Mr. Rhodes says: "It is intended that the Bank should be in a position, so far as possible, to control and defend the external value of Canada's monetary unit; that is, to maintain the value of the Canadian dollar in the foreign exchange market. Because of a relatively large volume of foreign trade and foreign indebtedness, Canada is particularly susceptible to the international value of her currency. Recent years have witnessed the havoc wrought by international trade because of unstable currencies. The element of uncertainty which, under these conditions, surrounds all international financial transactions makes normal trade relationships impossible. The exporter is not in a position to know what his goods will bring. The importer cannot calculate in advance his costs. The burden of interest payments on obligations held abroad, under unstable currency conditions, no longer represents definite amounts. Accordingly, in so far as the bank is able to introduce an element of control over our foreign exchanges, it will contribute directly toward the economic welfare of our Dominion in its relations to the rest of the world."

Duty of New Bank

"It has long been contended by students of our monetary system that definite responsibility in the matter of maintaining adequate monetary conditions should attach to the stability of our monetary standard, has not in the past been clearly defined," says the Minister. "In the future, the maintenance of the monetary standard will be one of the chief duties of the Bank of Canada. Furthermore, Canada, for the first time in its history, possesses an institution which can co-operate on our behalf with other nations in any proposals for world stabilization of currencies."

"The act provides that the bank shall act as fiscal agent of the Government of Canada, and may also act as fiscal agent of Provincial Governments," says Mr. Rhodes. "In addition to taking over the public debt, it anticipated that the bank may be of considerable assistance in developing a short-term money market in Canada by providing facilities for more economical short-term financing of the requirements of our Governments. Furthermore, there is an obvious need in this country for some body which can provide expert and disinterested advice particularly to Provincial Governments, regarding the domestic as well as the foreign market for bonds, and which can bring about some possible coordination of external borrowing operations. It is expected that the Bank of Canada may perform a very useful service in this connection."

The number of live cattle shipped in 1934 to the United Kingdom, up to September 15th, was 75,773 head, as compared with 36,229 head during the corresponding period of 1933.

CANADIAN NEW DEAL

A fallacy persists that Canada, unlike the United States has not been undertaking any governmental experiments. The truth is that the experiments either contemplated or in effect in Canada constitute a very sizable New Deal. Only recently Canada started the presses and printed $40,000,000 of new money—baloney money if there ever was any. Canada has long had its equivalents to the AAA and is constantly experimenting with farm-relief novelties. Canada has later than the United States had highly flexible banking system. Canada has, for some time been considering measures in many ways resembling our NRA, designed to assist industry and get rid of destructive competition. Canada has its own equivalent to our Securities Act, Only a few days ago the Conservative Premier of Canada was denounced for advocating policies which his opponents deemed "socialistic." So it should be fairly apparent that Canada is now enjoying many of the elements of a New Deal, in spirit if not in name. But the legend continues to persist that Canada has stubbornly fought out the depression on the old battlefield of rugged-individualism.—Baltimore Sun.

ANCIENT MAIL TICKET TURNS UP FOR REFUND

Montreal — Unused railroad tickets like chickens, sometimes come home to roost—with requests for refund of fare on their unused portions. However, it is not often that a ticket issued in 1870 comes to the Canadian National Railways with such a request lodged to it. After a lapse of 64 years a ticket issued at Chicago in September 1870, was recently presented to M. O. Dafoe, City Passenger Agent of the Canadian National Railways, with a request for refund on the unused portion. The owner, John Watt, of Auburndale, Mass., said he had been informed when purchasing the ticket that it was good "until used" but he had never used it. The ticket, of Grand Trunk issue and in good condition, was accompanied by a slip signed by the Michigan Central and Great Western Railways. The great central route via Niagara Falls is all points, east authorizing unlimited stopovers. The ticket was good for passage between Detroit and Boston.

For the first 37 weeks of 1934, ending September 13th, the number of bogs graded in Canada was 2,085,487 in the corresponding period of 1933, the number was 2,210,670.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, SEPTEMBER, 30TH, 1934

REVIEW : "GOD IN HEBREW HISTORY"

The Old Testament is a record of God's redeeming activity in human history. The Hebrews were one of a group of Semitic peoples, the Ammorites, the Mosbites, Edomites and Canaanites. They were all closely related in speech and natural tendencies. Had it not been for the peculiar revelation of the prophets Israel would have had a history little different from the rest. That is the story we have to-day. What it has had such far-reaching influence on the whole world, was almost wholly in the divine power of the little band of prophets, which dots the pages of Hebrew history, and who caught glimpses of God's nature and of His purposes for mankind.

These prophets, their messages, the way in which the nation treated them, these have been our concern for the past few months. As we have gone through their lives as recorded in the various pages of scripture, several factors have emerged which it is well to recapitulate, in a review lesson.

In the first place, these men whom we call prophets, were not teachers of an abstract doctrine, or doctrines. They were not philosophers such as we have in Greece or Rome. They were men whose revelation of God was hammered out of the facts of human experience. The messages they left were won through the struggles of the years, and the trials of national history. When Amos thundered his message of divine righteousness, it was because of the ordering of the social life of the day. Unrighteousness, injustice and inhumanity were rampant in the nation. When Hosea plied with the people to recognize the mercy and love of God, it was because of a heartbreaking experience in his own home which led him to the new revelation. When Isaiah insisted on the futility of man-made alliances, and on the power of God in His overruling leadership for guide the affairs of state, it was because of the revealed calamities he had observed from men's thought of their own self-sufficiency.

This which the prophets discerned is one of the most far-reaching achievements of all time. God does not stand afar off. He is in the affairs of human life, informing and giving meaning to every movement and every historical circumstance. Men and nations may not always recognize Him. They may think to flout His mind and His purposes. But it is as true today as it was in the days of the prophets, whose insight drew from all classes of society, from the rich to the world were those, not of one class or group, but were drawn from all classes of society, from the rich to the poor, the unlettered and the educated. Amos was a humble shepherd of the hills who knew nothing of the ways of the city. Hosea was a city man whose life was wrecked by the infidelity of his wife. Isaiah was a man of influence and education who had entrance into the councils of priests and rulers. God does not confine his choice of materials for the building of His Kingdom of the mighty and the great. He does not look for those who are to reveal Him, neglect them. With God, there is no respector of persons.

In the third place a study of the prophetic movement shows that in every new situation in a man's life there comes the occasion for a fresh revelation of God. In the wilderness God met Moses, in his need, and revealed as a guide who preceded them by a pillar of cloud by day and a pillar of fire by night. When they sought to enter Canaan, He was their warrior God, who led them against the enemy. And when finally settled in the promised land, it was their God who sent the fertility of the crops and the fecundity of the flocks and herds. Later, as a settled civilization emerged, the moral qualities of Him who demanded justice, righteousness, mercy and obedience, were revealed through these divinely gifted and inspired prophets and leaders.

We are passing through great and far reaching changes in our civilization. it may be that a fuller and fresher revelation of God than we have yet known, will appear for those who have the eyes to see, and ears to catch the voice of the Hebrew people, who is our God, too, the same yesterday, today, and forever.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Anderson are spending a few weeks with Mr. and Mrs. Herb Windover.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. G. Jackson was the scene of a very happy occasion on Friday evening when relatives and neighbors gave them a miscellaneous shower. Early in the evening, in a few well chosen words, Dr. Smith expressed to the host and hostess the pleasure and good will of their friends in coming together at this time to enjoy a social evening with them and their family, and also their admiration of comfortable and commodious new home. An impromptu programme of community singing and music by the young people of the family employed also the humorous reading given by Mrs. Jackson. At a late hour delicious refreshments were served by the ladies and the company dispersed, carrying with them many pleasant memories of the evening spent on the hill.

Rev. T. H. Anderson occupied the pulpit of the United Church on Sunday evening and delivered a splendid sermon. Church next Sunday evening, when a visitor from the West, to the General Council, will deliver the 1st. The ladies of the W. M. S. serve lunch on the grounds during the day.

ROGER W. BABSON REVIEWS ECONOMIC SITUATION

Babson Park, Mass. — The eyes of all Canada, during the next few weeks, will be focused on crop conditions and, in particular, on the course of wheat—prices and export. Consideration will be directed of the Dominion's total exports, providing a livelihood for about one quarter of the population, and the effect of these on the financies of the Federal Government and the private owners—large and large carry-over, wheat affects nearly every aspect of the country's economy.

Canada Benefits, From World Wheat Shortage

Although early estimates of Dominion wheat output ran high, July and August were disastrous for many western areas. The same districts that have been so hard hit in previous years are suffering and farmers find their situation acute in spite of favorable Dominion estimates for the wheat harvest are now ranging from only 256,000,000 bushels to 275,000,000. Some domestic consumers in the Dominion use about 196,000,000 bushels per year. Hence, the surplus available for export this year, including the carry-over, is about 357,000,000 bushels—slightly less than last year. Canada occupies a strategic position in the export wheat trade at present. Your country and Argentina are the only two with a surplus of any consequence. Of course, it is estimated that the European harvest, outside of Russia, will be 300,000,000 bushels less than last year. Thus, Canada will probably export 280,000,000 bushels this season. This is the most promising outlook in years, especially since Canada's export quota under the world wheat agreement by the present abnormal conditions decreased was limited to 280,000,000 bushels. Last year's export figures totalled 196,000,000 bushels.

Farm Income Rising

Already Canada is benefiting from the short crops south of the border. Not only is the United States out of the running as an exporter of wheat but other countries are being forced to import for her own consumption. Within the past few weeks over 1,000,000 bushels of "Durum" wheat have crossed the border to meet the shortage in this variety. The price of "Durum" is high enough to make shipments profitable from Canada, in spite of the tariff barriers. Moreover, there is a shortage of feed in the States and millions of farmers, faced by high costs, and other fodder must be brought in from Canada.

Accordingly, what ordinarily would have been a poor crop year in the United States and Dominion is being translated into surprisingly good returns. A favorable reduction of forty-over bushels per sight, which will bring further advances in prices during the fall and. Currently hay has around 85 cents per bushel are only slightly below the high for the year. This compares with a scant 70 cents last September and 39 cents at the depression low in December of 1932. On the basis of the price rise, the total farm income should be considerably higher this year.

Canadian Farmer Chief Gainer In 1934

Dairy products outputsh and exports have been sustained at favorable levels to date Although prices have not reached unusually high levels, the trend is definitely upward. Over the past year quotations for fancy creamery butter have advanced thirteen per cent and are now the highest since 1931. Moreover, this increase in farm commodities and an increase in farmers' purchasing power since the articles he has to buy have advanced only seven per cent. Thus, the farmer has been the chief gainer in the past year. In the states, the increased cost of manufacturing under the NRA has offset to a large extent the increase in purchasing power as a result of the drought and government efforts.

Naturally the drought is hard on the farmers whose crops have been ruined. Drought conditions are more chronic in large areas of the prairies. Bad harvests for the past few years in southern Alberta, Manitoba and Alberta have worked hardships. The Government plans to move about 43,000 families out of the stricken areas in the north. For those remaining, steps will be taken to refertilize the land and, in the meantime, feed will be transported by the railroads at less than the normal rate. Further help for the farmer has been assured in recent months through passage of the Natural Products Marketing Act, the Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act and the amendment to the Canadian Farm Loan Act. These three Acts may be called Canada's "New Deal" legislation.

What About Inflation ?

To help finance its various relief measures, the Government is taking advantage of its power conferred by last session's amendment to the Dominion Notes Act by issuing some $20,000,000 of currency against 25 per cent gold support. Consequently, whimerings of inflation are being heard. In every reader's mind there is probably the question: "How can I protect myself against possible inflation?" Although there will be plenty of note issuance is so far very moderate. I may well answer this question as I have in the past few years in the States— "Buy a small home with land enough for a good vegetable garden, and raise a family of spiritually-minded healthy, industrious children." Canada is ideal.

Studies of the course of radical inflation in European countries show beyond a doubt that real estate and small farms weathered the upheavals most successfully. Of course, common stocks would rapidly appreciate in price but there is something instinctive in human nature for investment to turn to land, buildings, and other real property in times of violent financial upheavals. Hence, look around a bit for an attractive farm for a home. They are the "golden dollars" of an inflationary period ! Canada's excellent position in the world wheat market this year will prevent widespread agitation for radical inflation, because history shows that farm sections rather than industrial areas are usually the promoters of unsound money.

WEDDING BELLS

HOLZAFEL — FITCHETT

A quiet but very pretty wedding took place on Saturday, September 22nd at St. John's Lutheran Church, Concord Street, Toronto, when the Rev. Ernest Hahn officiated at the marriage service of Edith Jane, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Fitchett of Silverdale, Ont., and William Holzafel, of Toronto.

The youthful bride looked very charming in a sea green crepe morocaine, with trimming of silver brocade and rhinestone buttons, while her hat, gloves and shoes were gray. She carried a shower bouquet of sweetheart roses and baby's breath. Miss Erica D. Apering, looking smart in a rose beige ensemble, acted as bridesmaid while Mr. Robert Myers, supported the groom.

After the ceremony the happy couple motored to their new apartment where a sumptuous wedding dinner was partaken of by friends and relatives of the bride and groom. The bride's mother made the wedding cake of three stories and iced it. Many useful gifts to the young couple also graced the tables on which they are both held.

CARTER — MOORE

A wedding of interest to many people in Napanee was performed in Grace United Church parsonage on Saturday, September 22nd at 11.30 a.m. when Rev. R. T. Richards united in marriage Miss Helen Muriel Moore and Mr. Frederick Harold Carter.

The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy H. Moore, of Napanee and Mr. Carter is the son of Mrs. Anna Carter of Napanee and the late Arthur Carter, Bloomfield, and a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Shore Lostnes of Napanee. Both bride and groom are well known and very popular young people of the town.

The ceremony was witnessed by the attendants Miss Leah Vanalstine and Mr. Harry Moore, brother of the bride.

The bride was gowned in a frock of brown moss crepe with matching velvet trim and wore a large brown velvet hat and brown accessories and carried the groom's gift, a bouquet of sweetheart roses. The bridesmaid wore a large brown velvet hat and brown accessories and carried the groom's gift, a bouquet of sweetheart roses. The bridesmaid was dressed in a similar shade of green with a corsage bouquet of pink roses.

Immediately following the ceremony the bridal party returned to the bride's home where lunch was served to immediate relatives of both families and a few intimate friends. Later in the afternoon the bride and groom left by motor for a trip to Montreal and Boston.

The bride's going away costume was a suit of orange flame wool, with brown accessories and a travel jewel fur trimmed coat.

On their return they will reside on East Street.

(Agricultural Representative)

School Fairs are the order of the day just now. We were favored with ideal weather for the fairs that were conducted last week at Tamworth, Flinton and Denbigh. A list of the first prize winners at each Fair will be published each week, so watch the columns of your local papers.

We wish to draw the attention of all the young men in the County to the course in agriculture at the Kemptville Agricultural School, at Kemptville. The course begins on November 6th, 1934, and concludes on April 13th, 1935. Tuition is free and the board has been reduced to $3.50 per week. The young men will never have a better opportunity than this to receive a thorough course in practical agriculture and we are sure the winter could not be spent to better advantage. We would be glad to give further information to any young men who are interested.

Licences for Export of Hay and Straw

According to information reaching the Dominion Department of Agriculture, there is considerable misunderstanding concerning the Order in-Council recently issued, whereby no person in Canada shall export hay or straw without a licence.

A highly speculative condition developed among hay buyers on their own account and on account of buyers elsewhere due to the conditions that have affected large areas in Canada and the United States, and to the fact that the hay crop in the Dominion is, this year, considerably below normal. It was believed that the speculative condition was not in the best interests of hay producers in those areas, where there is a surplus supply of hay.

In applying this Order-in-Council, which went into effect on August 24, all commitments of hay to any country that had been made prior to the issuance of the Order-in-Council coming into effect, were given licenses for export. These licenses were also issued to exporters in respect of hay sold for delivery to all of Canadas' normal markets over recent years, such as the British West Indies, Newfoundland and the British Isles.

Since 1930 when a duty of $5 per ton was imposed on hay imported into the United States, very little hay has been exported from Canada and practically for the export of hay that country were temporarily withheld after August 25th last, the day following the proclamation of the Order-in-Council referred to, pending a quick survey of the hay situation throughout Canada. The information available on September 11 was indicated a surplus in the Ontario and St. Lawrence Valleys, and to a lesser extent in a few other areas in the Dominion.

All applications for licences to export had to the United States that had been held up between August 27 and September 11 were promptly issued, provided hay to go forward. A more complete survey of the hay situation in Canada may not be available before the middle of next October. In the meantime licences will be issued to exporters for definite firm orders in hand from any part of Canada east of the province of Manitoba and also from any part of British Columbia. In the province of Manitoba the issue of licenses for export of hay is restricted to areas within the province and to maximum quantities prescribed by the provincial Minister of Agriculture acting through the Manitoba Relief Commission. It is expected that similar arrangements will be made for the provinces of Saskatchewan and Alberta.

In the working out of the federal regulations for the export of hay and straw it is felt that the interests of producers should be safeguarded in as far as may be possible.

WHERE SOME OF THE OLD BARRELS GO

Possibly you have wondered what becomes of all the old empty barrels. There is a considerable quantity in portable storage of whale oil and whale fish when the various whaling vessels return from the Ross Sea. Other oil refineries, soap, margarine and other food factories absorb a considerable portion of the supply. Cuba also absorbs part of the supply of empty barrels in the packing of lard, molasses, beer, rum and alcohol. The greater quantity of the empty barrels imported into Cuba come from the United States, with smaller quantities from Canada.

It is considered there is a possibility of a market for Canadian second hand whiskey barrels.

PASSED AT 1934 SESSION OF PARLIAMENT

— BILL 40 —

AN ACT TO AMEND THE LIVE STOCK PRODUCTS ACT

In the amendments made to this Act, provision is made for the licensing of cattle exporting agents, as well as exporters, with regard to the exportation of live cattle to Great Britain, and the procedure is defined for bringing exporters and exporting agents under license. Under this provision, control may be exercised regarding the quality of cattle exported, and security may be required from exporting agents.

Authority has been given for requiring that operators of public commercial vehicles transporting live stock products for sale, shall be required to guarantee the proper return of the proceeds from sales to the persons entitled thereto. In order that the owners may be assured of payment for their stock marketed by truckers.

Provision is made for securing a complete record of live stock purchased at assembling points and at abattoirs, comparable to similar records required concerning livestock marketed at stock yards, in order that full statistical records of live stock marketings at stock yards and packing plants may be available.

The Dominion Department of Agriculture has been given the necessary authority to proclaim regulations for the control of the chick hatchery industry in any province requesting such proclamation. Certain provinces have asked for such action.

The period of time which a live stock exchange is given for compliance with a ministerial order, is reduced from sixty to thirty days, in order that quicker action may be secured.

The responsibility of a bank and of commission merchants and cooperative associations with respect to the liability of Shippers' Trust Account funds, has been more clearly defined.

— BILL 93 —

AN ACT TO AMEND THE CANADIAN FARM LOAN ACT

Amendments to the Canadian Farm Loan Act, passed at the last session of Parliament, are designed to provide, through the agency of the Canadian Farm Loan Board, increased credit facilities to farmers.

Under the original Farm Loan Act the Board is empowered to loan money to farmers on first mortgage security up to a maximum of 50 per cent of the appraised value of land, plus 20 per cent of the value of the buildings situate thereon. In practice this has meant a maximum of between 40 per cent and 50 per cent of the farm value.

The amendments to the Act make provision enabling the Board to make additional advances to farmers obtaining first mortgage loans. These additional advances are to be secured by a second mortgage on the farm land and a charge on the borrower's personal property. Advances on second mortgage security and on personal property may be made up to half the amount of the first mortgage advance, but the maximum of the combined first and second mortgage advances will not exceed two-thirds of the appraised value of the farm and buildings taken as security for loan.

First mortgage loans will continue to be granted on an amortization plan in equal consecutive annual instalments over a long period of years. Second mortgage loans will be renayable over a six year period and will carry interest at a rate not exceeding the interest rate charged on first mortgage loans by more than one per cent.

Further provision is made designed to enable farmers who have made approved compositions with their creditors under the provisions of the Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act" to obtain credit through the agency of their mortgagee to finance their farming operations for the period of time immediately following the date of their approved composition, in cases where such approved composition has been made by the Board has the power to make advances to any mortgagee holding a first mortgage on the farm property of the farmer debtor, up to an amount not exceeding one quarter of the principal outstanding on the said mortgage at the time of the composition has been made, will be expended by the mortgagee in the ordinary operations of the farmer debtor. These loans are made on the security of an assignment of the mortgage of the mortgage, held by him on the farm, and are repayable within a period of one year from date of advance. The mortgagees to whom advances of this nature may be made are defined by the Act to mean any Loan, Trust or Insurance Company incorporated under Dominion or Provincial laws and may be extended to include such other corporations or persons or classes of corporations or persons as may be designated by the Governor-in-Council.

In the amendments to the Act, provision has also been made for the guarantee by the Government of Canada of the bonds of the Board up to an amount of $60,000,000.

The rate of interest charged by the Board to its borrowers is based on the rate which the Board itself is required to pay for funds borrowed by it for loaning purposes on the security of its bonds. The guarantee for Government guarantee, of the Board's bonds is designed to enable the Board to market these bonds at a low rate of interest.

These amended statutes have been officially proclaimed.

LAMB FEEDING PROJECT

Approved by Federal Government For the Feeding and Fattening of 10,000 Range Feeder Lambs in Eastern Provinces of Canada.

A policy whereby western range feeder lambs will again be fattened in Eastern Canada has been approved by Hon. Robert Weir, Federal Minister of Agriculture, and leaders of members of the Southern Saskatchewan Sheep Breeders' Association have signed up seven thousand head of feeder lambs for shipment to Eastern feeding points.

Officials of the Dominion Livestock Branch are charged with the responsibility of locating suitable feeding farms and supervising the feeding, fattening and marketing operations. Members of the Ranchers' Association at a recent meeting in Maple Creek, have agreed to consign lambs for fattening under the terms of a rancher-feeder agreement whereby a valuation of three cents a pound is placed on the lambs at the Moose Jaw stockyards, where officials weigh and ear-tag them. Freight from shipping point to feeding will be added to the initial price charged against the feeder when lambs go into the feed-lot.

Under the above project, farmers who apply for feeder lambs will not be required to buy out any cash. The freight charges to feed-lot will be prepaid by the Dominion Department of Agriculture, reimbursement being made to the Department for freight prepaid from the proceeds of sale when lambs are fat. Provision is required to have suitable equipment in the form of feeding sheds, plenty of feed and good water. They are also required to feed and market in accordance with procedure prescribed by the Dominion Live Stock Branch officials. Ranchers retain ownership of the lambs until marketed, so that under the agreement the rancher and the feeder receive their respective shares of the net proceeds after the lambs are marketed.

The rancher feeder agreement for 1934 is based on a three cent premium official weights at Moose Jaw. The feeder gets the value of the gain in weight, plus sixty per cent of the spread, after freight and marketing charges have been deducted, and the rancher receives the value at three cents per pound, Moose Jaw weights, plus forty per cent of the spread.

In 1933 about three thousand head of feeder lambs were fattened in Ontario under a similar agreement. The best feeders were able to make gains above twenty-five pounds per lamb. Selling price for feed-lot lambs when sold as fat lambs at Toronto ranged from seven to nine and a half cents a pound. Lambs off the range usually weigh between 55 to 60 lbs. The feeding period is from 100 to 150 days depending on feeds, management, etc.

Saskatchewan lambs will be approved before shipment by an official of the Dominion Live Stock Branch and will be shipped in double-deck cars containing 200 head. Care must be exercised during the first month in getting the lambs on grain feed. While on the range they are fed to the safest grain to feed at this time. When lambs have become accustomed to eating a pound or grain daily they may be fed a more fattening grain feed by gradually adding barley wheat, screenings or other homegrown grains. Clover or alfalfa hay are almost essential for best results. The amount of hay required may be greatly reduced if corn ensilage is available. Turnips or roots of any kind are also excellent.

Those desiring to fatten range feeder lambs should communicate with A. A. McMillan, Associate Chief, Live Stock Service, Experimental Farms, Ottawa. Some indication should be given of the accommodation available, the amount of feed on hand, and the experience in fattening stock.

The Late Mrs. Alfred Shewell

A Word was received that Mrs. Alfred Shewell, a native of Napanee and district of Odessa district, had passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. James Stevens, Canadanaque, on Sunday. Jones funeral service had charge of the funeral where many friends attended the burial held last Tuesday afternoon. She had passed her 81st birthday. The pall-bearers were Messrs. Willie Close, Eber Sagar, Willie Sagar, Kenneth Valentine, Bert Scouten and Harry Sharpe.

In the Garden

FALL PLANTING—

September and October in the garden are planting months, secondary only to April and May. In the cool, moist weather of mid-fall, grass will grow again, tulips and other spring flowering bulbs are put in, and it is at this time, too, that most herbaceous perennial flowers, shrubs, trees and similar permanent things are moved. The latter group takes in a wide range of materials, but gardeners usually roughly divide as follows: early blooming plants such as peonies and iris are planted early in the fall, later things like the delphinium, in October, while woody shrubs, trees and trees are best set out after the growing season is over, which may be any time from September to December, depending on how near to the Arctic circle the garden is located.

LAWNS—

Grass will not grow well in hot weather and so the best lawns are sown or repaired as early in the spring as it is possible to work the soil or in September after the hot weather of summer has departed. For a new lawn, usually where there has been considerable filling in or grading, gardeners are advised to wait until spring for actual seeding. The frosts and snow or rain of winter will cause the soil to settle and by waiting there is another opportunity of thoroughly levelling the piece of ground before the grass is grown.

Experts point out that it is always much more desirable and feasible to level a lawn before seeding than afterwards. However, the fall is considered a splendid time to repair lawns, that is to re-seed thin spots and to eradicate paths and weeds. In this work, as in the original seeding only the best quality seed should be used. Cheap seed is usually only a mixture of the coarser quick growing grasses which will make a big showing in the first month or two, but becomes thinner and coarser as years go on. The more expensive mixtures, on the other hand, are blends of perhaps a dozen different varieties, with just sufficient of the coarse, quick growing bit short lived kinds to provide shelter for the finer sorts to get established. Professional gardeners advise sowing grass seed both ways over the plot and also when there is no wind and then raking lightly, one way only, to cover the seed. A roller or pounder is advisable to force the seed firmly into the soil. If possible cover with brush or wire netting to keep birds off until the grass gets started.

SPRING FLOWERING BULBS—

October is the proner time to plant spring flowering bulbs in most parts of Canada. In sections where the winter comes unusually early it may be well to get these things planted in late September, just as it is advisable to wait until late October or even November in those districts where frost arrives late. If planted too soon there is a possibility of too much top growth in the fall, with danger to bloom next spring. For the wonderful results achieved and the satisfaction of producing gorgeous bloom very early in the spring, there is no easier form of gardening. Tulips, hyacinths, snow drops, daffodils, and several other types of bulbs may be planted. With the tulips there is a wide range both in color and sizes. Single early tulips will bloom within a few weeks of the snow's disappearance and come in bright colors of red and yellow. These are followed in the season of blooming by the Breeders of Darwins which are very much taller and which continue flowering until June. For those gardeners who like something out of the ordinary, there are many novelties with striped effects and the fringed edged parrot tulips.

Culture is simple. The smaller and early tulips are planted from four to eight inches deep, the soil surrounding being used in lighter soils, while the Darwins and Breeders go in from eight inches to over a foot. In moist gardens annual flowers are shown or planted out above the bulbs after the latter have bloomed. Hyacinths, daffodils and other bulbs are not planted as deep, the general rule being to bury to a depth equa to three times in diameter. Only heavy, well drained soils should be used, and where the supplies will be kept cool and moist, should be chosen for satisfactory results. Once planted the beds will continue to bloom year after year.

INDOOR BLOOM—

Hyacinths, bulbs and also the narcissus can be planted in pots for winter blooming indoors. With tulips it is best to order the special types which will be specially marked in the fall catalogues. The whole secret of success is a cool, dark start. The usual procedure is to plan tin pots with holes, using special fiber which is clean, can be used over again indefinitely, and requires no drainage. Into this goes the bulbs and then the cold place, a temperature close to freezing will not matter, and left there for from three weeks to three months. The narcissus will be ready to come on first, about three weeks, tulips can be left for the longest named period. In this cool, dark place no attention is necessary except a little watering. When the top shoot is 1½ inches to two inches high the pot is gradually removed to full normal house heat and a sunny window. There is no trouble about growing flowering bulbs indoors, provided good bulbs are purchased and their pots started preferably in a cool, dark cellar.

Choked for Air. Some little irritant becomes lodged in the bronchial tubes, others gather, and the swful choking of asthma is upon you. Nothing offers quite such quick and positive relief as Dr. J. Fruit Export Board Established

The Fruit Export Marketing Scheme, presented by the fruit industry, has been approved by Hon. Robert Weir, Dominion Minister of Agriculture and the Governor in Council, upon the recommendation of the Dominion Marketing Board. The purpose of this scheme is to regulate the marketing for export from Canada of fresh apples and fresh pears. The provinces of Nova Scotia, Ontario and British Columbia are particularly concerned with this scheme as from these regions practically all the fruit of this class is exported from Canada. During the last five years the average annual amount of fruit exported has been more than two million barrels.

The Export Control Scheme is to be administered by a Local Board to be known as the Fruit Export Board of Canada which will consist of two persons appointed by the fruit growers of Nova Scotia, one appointed by the fruit growers in Ontario and one by the fruit growers in British Columbia. There will be an additional member on the Board who will be chairman, appointed by the members. The members of the first Export Local Board are: Leslie C. Furrow, Canadian Horticultural Council, Ottawa, Canada, who will be the chairman; Manning Ells of Port Williams, N.S., Vernon B. Leonard, Clarence, N.S.; Percy W. Hodgetts, Toronto, Ont., and Orris W. Hembling, Oyama, B.C.

The powers of the Export Local Board will include the regulation of the movement of apples and pears exported from Canada and may prohibit during any period the exportation from Canada of any quantity, size or quality of fruit. All producers of fruit may be registered by the Export Local Board and all exporters or shippers of fruit from Canada will be required to obtain a licence. Licences may be obtained upon application to the local offices of the Export Fruit Board at Kentville, Nova Scotia, Toronto, Ontario (Parliament Buildings), and Kelowna, British Columbia. Assessment will be made and collected on fruit exported, such assessment to be used to pay the necessary expenses of the Board.

No person shall export from Canada any fruit in contravention to any order, rule or regulation of the Export Local Board nor until the exporter has obtained a license.

The head office of the Local Board will be in Ottawa.

The purpose of the Canadian Farm Loan Act Amendment Act passed during the 1934 session of Parliament is to extend the scope of the Loan Act so that increased credit facilities through the Canadian Farm Loan Board may be placed at the disposal of the farmer in order to enable him to carry on his busines.

CANADIAN INDUSTRY DAY HELD BY CAMDEN EAST W. I.

On Friday, September 14th, the members of Camden East Women's Institute held a display of "Canadian Industries" in the parish hall. At 2:30 p.m. the president, Mrs. Acton Robinson opened the entertainment by asking all to join in singing "The Maple Leaf Forever" after which in a few well-chosen words, extended a warm welcome to the friends and members of the visiting institutes. She then gave special mention of each section represented in the exhibits, speaking lastly of the wool section. As she finished, three young girls sang very sweetly "The Old Spinning Wheel, and looking towards this section could be seen ten quaint little grandmothers adorned in their herchief caps and aprons, sitting in old fashioned rocking chairs, busily knitting, one by the light of an ancient lantern, the other a tall candle in an old English candlestick. Another member was busily picking the wool, one was carding while another was spinning. A reel stood close by. On the wall hung four beautiful pictures made from wool also long strands of wool dyed in different colors. This group was loaned by Mrs. J. M. Percival. Addison; a bed-jacket in white and blue a wool mat, wool cushions, also a skein of single thread wool yarn from fifty years ago. Some wool comforters were seen, also a blanket made from discarded woolens.

The first and last sections were displays from the local stores, Mr. Cooper displaying canned goods and Mr. Butteral, cereals and medicines. Each merchant gave samples.

One section displayed home-made tomato juice in small glasses in trays of ice, which was served to all who cared to sample it.

The Milk Section with milk-maids in white aprons and headgear, displayed a milk stool seventy years old and a milk pail. The maids gave samples of their wares — cottage cheese, curds, visine, Ontario cheese with Grother's cream crackers, also powdered milk and butter from the Acme Dairy.

The Maple Products Section, with its tapped Maple trees and sap bucket, exhibited a mound of maple sugar while several members with head-dress of Maple leaves, were busily engaged pouring their maple syrup onto hot pancakes which, as efficient chef in her white uniform and cap, was cooking and delivering from her electric plate.

From the Honey Section, with its bee hive and live bees, bee hat and smoker strays of clover and buckwheat, cakes of honey and strained honey, members served tiny biscuits with honey.

The Farm, Products Exhibit, contained all kinds of farm products from eggs, dressed poultry, sausages all varieties of vegetables, included Chinese cabbage to a sheaf of corn supporting either side of the exhibit. In this section also was the cake biscuit display from the Rosa-Miller Biscuit Factory at Napanee.

One table displayed bottles which ranged in usefulness from a baby's bottle to a stable bowl. This display was loaned by the Card Brush factory, Newburgh.

Another table displayed quite a variety of glassware from the glass works, Wallaceburg.

At the end of the hall, from a prettily arranged tea table, with its tall yellow candles in tasty candlesticks overshadowing a low arrangement of burgundy colored snap dragon, two members poured tea, while a dainty lunch was served by the other members.

A goodly number of W. I. members, from Tamworth, Reidville, Moscow, Colebrook, Newburgh, Yarker and Switzerville, were present; also friends from Camden East, Kingston, Ottawa and Alexandria Bay. Before leaving, each person was presented with a sample box of shredded wheat, three cans of tomatoes and a Keene's mustard or a Magic Cook Book.

The afternoon closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

DOUBLED UP WITH RHEUMATISM

Could Not Wash Himself Nor Brush His Hair

Co bad was his rheumatism that his friends declared he would never work again. Although he is 70 years old, he proved they were wrong. Read what he says —

"I am seventy years of age. Last Christmas I was completely doubled up with rheumatism. I could not brush my hair nor wash myself. People said I should never work any more. I am working harder than a young man to-day. Thanks, many thanks, to Kruschen Salts. I take them in my tea, and I have recommended them to many. I could not get ill or out of bed myself, nor sit up. But see me work now—12 hours a day sometimes. Kruschen Salts have done it."— G.

Rheumatic conditions are the result of an excess of uric acid in the body. Two of the ingredients of Kruschen Salts have the power of dissolving uric acid crystals. Other ingredients assist Nature to expel these dissolved crystals through the natural channels! In addition, there are still other salts in Kruschen which prevent food fermentation in the intestines, and thereby check the further accumulation ,not only of uric acid, but of other body poisons which undermine the health.

HELEN KELLER IN ROLE OF TEACHER

Looking After Woman Who Taught Her to Read, Think, Talk

London — In the quiet, Northern Scotland for the past fifteen months Helen Keller and Ann Macey changed their lives about, with the famed blind-deaf author in the role of a patient teacher.

The latter's love softened to some extent the tragedy which came late in life to the woman under whose tutelage Helen Keller rose to eminence.

Ill and almost totally blind, Mrs. Macey learned to read by the Braille system, from the hands of the woman she took as a girl of seven, to teach to read, think and talk.

Despite the strides Mrs. Macey is making in Braille, her health is at a low ebb, and two operations may be necessary when she returns to the United States, one physical, the other optical.

Miss Keller, here on her way home with Mrs. Macey, said she had a wonderful time in Scotland.

On her arrival, Miss Keller will lead a campaign to raise $50,000 to buy "reading machines" which will enable the blind to "hear" books, if they do not care to learn the Braille system.

Expressing her views on world affairs she had words of rebuke for Premier Mussolini, and praise for Hitler.

"Il Duce's latest order turns Italy into a vast military gymnasium. It is a shock that little Italian children are being thrown into military life and taught hate and conquest," she said in speaking of Mussolini's order on compulsory military training.

"What terrible deeds that man has committed," was her comment on Chancellor Hitler of Germany.

A Prime Dressing for Wounds —

In some of the finest modern pharmacies carbolic acid is kept for use in cauterizing wounds and cuts sustained by the workmen. Far best of all is to have on hand a bottle of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. It is just as quick in action and does not scar the skin, or burn the flesh.

Recipes & Hints

It is the desire of "The Beaver" to devote this section of the paper, regularly, to the publication of Recipes and Household Hints received from local women or women's organizations. We would be pleased to receive recipes and suggestions and would withold or publish the contributors' names, as requested. Contributions will be used as space permits.

(Send them in early in the week.)

— HOUSEHOLD HINTS —

WHEN SERVING COFFEE

If you add the sugar and cream to the cups before pouring coffee you will find the flavor more pleasing. The same method applies to tea.

OLD RUBBER BOTTLES

Do not throw away rubber hot-water bottles when they wear out. Instead, fill them with sawdust, and they will make excellent kneeling mats, useful for gardening and when scrubbing floors.

USEFUL HINTS

When making oatmeal porridge or cooking rice , if the pot is greased with lard or butter first it is much easier to clean.

When straining liquid through a cloth, pin the cloth to the sides of the basin with spring clothes pegs.

Root vegetables that have withered are revived by placing in cold water and laying them in cold water for a few hours.

When new potatoes are getting difficult to scrape soak them first for about twenty minutes in hot water to which a heaped tablespoon of soda has been added. They may then be scraped without any difficulty.

Iced coffee with lemon is as delicious as iced tea with lemon and is prepared in the same way with the coffee half the usual strength.

When boiling puddings make a plait in the cloth in Lent season, as nothing and see that it and the basins are well buttered.

When soot falls on the carpet or rug, never attempt to sweep it up at once, for the result is sure to be a disfigurine mark. Cover it thickly with well-dried salt which will enable it to be swept up cleanly and with the least risk of dirt.

When pickling onions or red cabbage, crispness may be obtained by adding a pinch of alum.

To remove grease stains from wicker furniture, rub with a cloth dipped in methylated spirits.

To peel oranges and lemons let them soak for a few minutes in boiling water. The outer pith will come away with the rind.

If you wring out lace and muslin frocks in milk instead of starch it will stiffen them sufficiently.

Tea can be given a delicious flavor by placing a piece of orange peel in the tea container.

NEWS AND INFORMATION FOR THE BUSY FARMER

(Furnished by the Ontario Department of Agriculture)

Egg Exports

The outlook for egg exports to Great Britain, this fall, continues bright. The bulk of the exports will not start to move until October. With the storage stock less than a year ago, the outlook for the egg market during the winter continues very favourable. Farmers are appreciating more and more the fact that poultry is providing a profitable route through which grain may market some of their surplus grains.

Killing the Flies

Most efforts to keep clear of stable flies have been restricted to spraying the flies on the cows. The suggestion is now made that the flies be fought in the stable as well. The idea is to spray while they are settled in the walls and ceiling. If this spraying is done in the early morning it will be more effective as the flies are then sluggish in their movements. Late afternoon is also a good time. Close the stable and spray with a fine mist that fills the air. One part of formalin in 19 parts of milk or sweetened water makes a good and cheap spray. The same mixture may be left around in plates for the flies to drink. Keeping all manure cleared away from the stable and wards will remove breeding places for the flies and reduce the nuisance. Where it is convenient to move the manure to the fields, it should be kept in a screened shed.

Apple Output Down

Early varieties of apples which account for approximately 25 per cent of the commercial crop in Ontario, yielded almost up to normal. The production of late varieties is most severely reduced due to winter killing of most exceptional recent years. Prospects generally are below the average. The estimated commercial output of apples in Ontario is 325,600 barrels this year as compared with 1,068,700 barrels in 1933. Exports of apples from Ontario, which attained a record volume of more than 500,000 barrels last season, are not expected to exceed 75,000 barrels this season. Early apples were in good demand and prices received were considerably higher than for a number of years. Domestic prices of certain late varieties of apples may lift some of these varieties out of the potential export category, and in this event exports from Ontario may be considerably below 75,000 barrels.

Canadian Wool Clip

Canada uses about four million pounds of wool recovered from rags every year, in addition to her own domestic clip and imported supplies. The wool grown in Canda provides only about one-third of the requirements of the Canadian textile industry, so that the Dominion imports annually about eight million pounds of raw wool and about twelve million pounds of yarn and other manufactures of wool. On the other hand, on an average about one-third of the wool grown in Canada is exported.

Points on Hog Feeding

The best thing for the hog feeder to keep in mind, according to the Dominion Animal Husbandman, is "the feeder needs the frame but the packer wants the finish," and the ideal type which tells as the select bacon hog must have both. Grow the frame first. Never feed more than pigs will clean up; overfeeding, particularly of a ration of unbalanced rations, causes unthriftiness which, in turn, is the common cause of short, thick pigs. For the first four months the pig should clean his trough and look for more.

Good Care Essential

The properly balanced ration accomplishes wonderful results, when tied to stock that is rightly bred, well matured and correctly housed.

Houses and equipment, such as brooders, feed hoppers, drinking pans, are then important to accommodate 100 chicks, will not take care of 500. Satisfactory growth cannot be made under such poor conditions. Growing stock needs lots of feed; provide a good grain feed and a good growing mash in hoppers so the birds can get it.

The profitable section of a carcases when it is marketed depends almost entirely on the way the bird is cared for, and on the time it is killed. This means the way in which it is grown and the way it is finished for market.

A poorly grown bird will not take on weight satisfactorily; its digestive organs have not developed sufficiently to handle the more or less concentrated feed that is fed during the finishing period, nor does the bird have the vitality to stand up under this fattening process.

Current Crop Report

Frequent showers during the past two weeks in the province of Ontario have freshened pastures and created good growing conditions for late forcons, which escaped frost injury. The rain has also materially assisted pioneer and many farmers have already begun their fall operation Sowing of fall wheat is now under way. Prospects for fall feed are still below normal and dairy cattle in some districts will be thinner or more below average while beaches are estimated at from one-half an average crop. Good weather is needed to complete the harvest of flue-cured tobacco very greatly impaired by frost and hail.

Air and Stored Potatoes

Careful storing of wet potatoes is responsible for unnecessary annual losses. Potatoes ought to be stored dry in a cool, well-ventilated cellar which is perfectly dark! Piling potatoes in bins 8 feet deep with poorly ventilated cellars creates the most favourable conditions for rotting. Before placing the potatoes in the cellar, wooden slats, slightly apart should be nailed about one inch or more from the wall, and a temporary floor of slats constructed over the boards. Potatoes should be laid about six inches above the permanent floor. This will ensure air circulate around and under the pile of potatoes. If it should so happen that the pile has to be very large, some ventilators made of wooden slats and running from top to bottom of the pile should be set in here and there. Together with the circulation of air at the sides and bottom of the pile, these ventilators will keep the potatoes in a much better condition than if they were in a solid pile. Another good plan is to keep the potatoes in large crates made with slats, the ventilation between the crates assisting very much in keeping the potatoes in good condition. The temperature of the storehouse or cellar should be kept at nearly 33 or 35 degrees F, as possible.

"THAT "LIKE THE DICKENS" FEELING IS LIVER

Wake Up Your Liver Bile. Feel Fit. You Needn't use Calomel To Do It.

It's your liver, failing to pour out the vital two pounds of bile, daily, into your bowels, that makes you feel so sick.

Lack of bile means poor digestion. Food stays in your stomach, sours and ferments. Gas bloats up your system. It presses on your heart. You get constipated. Your head aches. Your skin looks sallow and pimply. Everything you eat tastes bitter and you feel terrible. Your skin's unhealthy and pimply, your head aches, your breath is foul, you seem out of kilter.

How can you reasonably expect to clear up a condition like this by merely taking'salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum or cocktails? These only move the bowels, and that's not enough. You must get your liver to work.

Take Carter's Little Liver Pills. They are purely vegetable, gentle, sure and safe. They'll make you feel a thousand per cent better in a very short time.

Don't waste your money on substitutes. Be definite. Ask for Carter's by name—and get them! Look for the name, Carter's, on the red label. 25c. at all druggists. 66

MAGIC BAKING POWDER

For Next Winter's Pantry Shelf

BY BARBARA B. ROOKS

How good they smell—spicy apple butter, pêach jam, mustard pickle, chili sauce. Children are following their noses straight to the kitchen when they come in from play; father asks what smells so good when he comes home from work and everyone runs to taste despite the cook's assurance that such things should ripen in the jars before they are ready for the table.

While it is no longer necessary to do home canning because of the long list of commercially packed goods carried by every grocery store, nearly every homemaker puts at least one favorite in the fall, which she may save for very special occasions or send as a gift to special friends. Many women can their own tomato juice and season it just the way they like it, so that it is only necessary to chill before serving. It is convenient to have tomato sauce canned and ready to heat for spaghetti, veal chops, croquettes or casserole dishes. Here is a tomato catsup recipe which will be its own reward for the trouble of canning it. It is given here in a family size quantity, but can be multiplied as many times as desired for canning in quantity.

TOMATO SAUCE

Four tablespoons olive oil.
Half teaspoon black pepper.
One small onion (chopped).
Three Tablespoons tomato paste.
Half cup water.
One quart tomatoes.
One bay leaf
One tablespoon salt.
One tablespoon sugar.

Heat olive oil and pepper until oil smokes. Add onion and cook until soft, being careful not to brown.

Mix tomato paste with water and add to the oil in three installments, letting it cook each time until it looks dry. Add tomatoes, bay leaf and salt and cook until one-third of the sauce has evaporated. Add the sugar and cook ten minutes longer.

SAVORY CREAMED FISH

One cup cooked fish, picked from bones and flaked.
Two tablespoons butter.
Two tablespoons flour.
Half teaspoon salt.
One and one-half cups milk.
One-eighth teaspoon paprika.
One teaspoon catsup.
Three tablespoons chopped sweet pickle.
One tablespoon minced parsley.

Half a cup corn flake crumbs.

Make a white sauce by melting butter and blending it with flour and salt. Add milk gradually and cook until smooth and thickened. Add paprika, catsup, pickle and parsley. Pour over fish in a casserole. Top with crumbs and brown in a hot oven, 425 degrees F.)

PEACH BUTTER

Some Extent and Effect of The 1934 Drought

A review of the drought conditions of 1936, issued under date of August 15, 1936 by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, affords an approximate picture of the situation in various countries north of the Equator. Data for the United States, which from the situation appears to be the southern hemisphere part of Australia and Argentina have been affected, but to less extent.

In the United States, the most drought stricken area is the region of cash grain and pasture production, including hay and forage crops, and reduced ration for the remaining animals. Crop prospects in this region have gone from bad to hopeless, or unfavorable prospects, to conditions practically everywhere in the Eastern cotton belt also in the Pacific Northwest. The corn crop was 36% decline is about 36 per cent or 559,000,000 bushels, is over 300,000,000 bushels less than the production of corn during the severe drought of 1930. The crop prospects over a wide area, largely destroyed the economic basis even of livestock production. Over a still larger area, the situation is such that the normal growth of hay meadows and stubble fields is not sufficient to carry livestock through the winter, water for live stock. The wheat crop, which is estimated at 230,000,000 bushels, is the smallest since 1904. The cotton crop of Arkansas, Texas, Oklahoma, Nebraska, Kansas and Missouri, is estimated at 4,000,000 bales, or 40% of the crop in New Mexico, Tennessee, Wyoming, Colorado, Montana, Idaho, Washington, Oregon and California will be equal to one-half of the crop of 1933. The crop in Arizona will have to be made from winter feeding begun.

Conditions in Europe

Bread grain crops in Central Europe are reported to be considerably below the average and below the crops of 1933. The same is true of feed grains with the exception of corn in the Danube basin, where a substantial increase is reported in Yugoslavia, Rumania and Southern Russia. Excessive Northern Prairie where wheat suffers from drought, and Eastern Russia where excessive moisture delayed harvest, are the only exceptions. Reports from Northern Europe indicate serious damage from drought, particularly in the Scandinavian countries. Conditions in the Soviet Union are reported to be unfavorable. Drought damage is reported extensive in Germany, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Austria, Italy and Switzerland. Drought conditions are also unfavorable in Spain, Portugal and Southern France. Reports from the British Isles indicate serious damage to crops, particularly in the southern counties.

Effect of Drought in Canada

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics, in a bulletin, issued September 11th, estimates the total wheat crop, it is stated, will be 230,000,000 bushels. Fall Wheat, 7,622,000 bushels; Barley, 46,800,000 Rye, 6,423,000; Flaxseed, 1,696,000. Yields per acre of all grains are below average but are slightly higher than the revised estimate, for last year. The fall and spring rye crop is estimated at 9,886,000 bus. the same as reported in 1933 and an average yield per acre. The production of corn for the four years 1929-1930. The Canada, but a shortage in other areas which in many instances is acute.

The Order-in-Council has had the effect of directing attention to the unusual shortage of supply and the requiring of a license for export has prevented those in needy areas to anticipate their season's requirements with the result that there is now a substantial movement of hay in Canada from the surplus areas to the areas of shortage.

Residence Regulations Issued by Department Will Curb Abuses

Municipal Responsibility For Relief Defined

Hon. David Croll, Minister of Welfare and Municipal Affairs, in the Ontario Legislature, made public on Wednesday, September 26th, a regulation of importance concerning payment of relief by municipalities.

Mr. Croll's statement follows :—

"There will be no more relief shoppers in Ontario.

"The Government has decided to extend the residence regulation governing eligibility for relief in a municipality from the three months which is has been to one year.

"This is in accordance with the consensus of opinion among relief officers throughout the Province, and is designed to check the dumping of families from municipalities with low standard of unemployment relief into municipalities with higher standards. This does not stop the free movement of people in any way, but the municipality from which they came after the cut-off date, September 1st of this year, will be liable for the cost of assistance for one year from the date of arrival of the applicants in the municipality to which they have moved.

"We recognize that under the old three months' rule some municipalities have had imposed on them heavy burdens which were not fairly theirs, and as a result they have been driven into bankruptcy or near it. But it is not feasible to undo what has been done. Our object is to prevent these dumping practices from continuing.

Municipal "Deportations"

"Dumping of relief recipients, particularly from the townships and smaller places, into larger centres of population, has been going on on an extensive scale. Some municipalities have even gone so far as to send families in and secrete them for the three-months period. As soon as that time was up, the family would apply for relief.

"It is our intention to give the municipalities assistance in billing and collecting from other municipalities for one year for the cost of keeping families which have moved.

"It is the desire of the Government that every municipality accept its responsibility to the unemployed who are destitute. We are flatly opposed to any municipality cutting off relief arbitrarily at any season of the year, and if necessary, in cases of emergency, we will see that relief is given and the cost charged back by the Government to the municipality, and the Government will collect. This, of course, especially refers to some of the rural districts, villages and small towns which have been shifting the burden to the larger municipalities unfairly.

"The relief of destitution arising through unemployment is a primary duty of the municipality, and toward its cost the Government is making a very large contribution. It is our intention to see that the municipality carries out its duty.

"The re-registration which has been in progress for some time throughout the Province is providing a convenient cut-off date, September 1, for the new regulation, which has been given the effect of law by Order in Council, dated September 25, to become effective.

"The one-year regulation does not apply to persons ordinarily considered to be transients."

Belleville Presbytery Meeting Held at Consecon

The Belleville Presbytery entered its tenth year on Tuesday, September 25th, when it met in Consecon United Church and joined with that church in its centenary celebration.

The meeting was in charge of the chairman, Rev. Robert Hall, of Belleville. Rev. James Semple of Belleville brought greetings from the Presbytery to the members and adherents of the Consecon Church and expressed the wish that the future would hold in store for them, greater opportunities than ever before. Rev. E. P. Swayne, minister of the church and Mr. Eldon Walt, the recording steward, accepted the greetings on behalf of the congregation.

One of the interesting features of the fall meeting of the Presbytery is the introduction of the new ministerial members, by the chairman. The following are the new members: Rev. A. S. Dougrell, Queensboro; Rev. G. A. Puttenham, Demorestville; Rev. D. J. Campbell, Amelisburg; Rev. A. W. Harding, Bancroft; Rev. H. E. Newman, Belleville; Rev. E. L. Beech, Plinton; Rev. H. H. Lackey, Ivanhoe; Rev. H. A. Turner, Montgeagle, Rev. G. D. Campbell, Trenton.

Stirring Addresses Given

The Presbytery was favored with several very stirring addresses. Rev. Prof. J. O. Watts of Queen's University, Kingston, addressed the Presbytery in the morning on the subject, "What would I preach this winter." Prof. Watts pointed out the problems facing the unemployed youth of today and challenged the Church to help find a solution for the social and economic problems.

In the afternoon the speakers were representatives of the Church, speaking on the work of the Missionary and Maintenance Department of the Church. Rev. Peter Bryce, D.D., presented the work of the department at headquarters; Rev. C. A. Bridgman of China, spoke of his experiences as a missionary in West China, while Rev. H. A. Kenner of Macdonald, Manitoba, presented the appeal that is coming to the Church this fall, from the dried-out areas of Western Canada.

During the afternoon, commissioners to the General Council at Kingston, who live within, were elected as their Presbytery, presented their reports. Rev. James Semple, Belleville; Rev. E. W. Rowland, Stirling and Mr. W. S. Gordon of Tweed, briefly addressed the Presbytery.

New Officers Appointed

During the day, the different officers of the Presbytery, for the season, Belleville; Secretary, Mr. J. B. Findlay, Belleville.

Letters of sympathy and condolence were ordered to be sent to Rev. A. D. Waite and Mr. Cartwright Hawley, who are in Kingston Hospital, and to Mrs. (Dr.) Mollard of Saltcoats, Sask., daughter of the late Rev. G. E. Ross. A letter of appreciation was to be sent to Mr. H. H. Petterly, formerly of Belleville.

Dinner was served by the ladies of Consecon United Church in the beautiful Masonic Hall. The beautiful weather had something to do in making this the largest meeting of the Presbytery held since its organization ten years ago. There were one hundred and nine members present — fifty-nine ministers andfifty laymen besides many visitors.

Gov't Official Charges Calculated Discourtesy Against Attorney Gen.

Charging Attorney General Arthur W. Roebuck with "calculated discourtesy" toward him, and expressing himself as not wishing to remain in the civil service "one day longer than I can receive the cooperation of those upon whose action I must depend," Colonel George A. Drew, K.C., Ontario Securities Commissioner, whose retirement as the Hepburn Government previously had been heralded in the press, yesterday wrote Premier Hepburn placing upon Mon. Mr. Roebuck "full responsibility for the extent to which he has impeded the administration of the act."

Kept Waiting

Colonel Drew's charges against Attorney-General Roebuck, are outlined in his letter to Premier Hepburn, involve the allegation that his efforts to see his chief were in effect spurned; that he waited long hours in Mr. Roebuck's anti-room at the direction of Mr. Wallbridge, Mr. Roebuck's private secretary; and that in effect, Mr. Roebuck refused until September 12th, despite efforts, he had no opportunity of speaking to his chief.

Declaring the Attorney-General to have "no power of review over the decisions of the Commission," Colonel Drew climaxes his protest to the Premier: "You may imagine my utter astonishment and indignation, therefore, when I learned that the Attorney-General has been sending to my filing room for files, and that copies of letters have been reported from these files by him or under his instructions."—The Globe.

Harvest Festival at the Salvation Army

Results Exceed Returns of Last Year

The Napanee Salvation Army Citadel was the scene of considerable activity over the week end, when there were quite a few events in the annual Harvest Festival celebration. On Sunday, the regular morning and evening services were conducted by the resident officers, Ensign Russell and Lieutenant Sharp. In the afternoon the children met for their part in the festival at the Sunday School.

The theme at all the Sunday services was "Thanksgiving," and a season for bountiful harvests. The platform in the citadel was banked with tastefully arranged offerings of fruits and vegetables, which with the added decorations of flowers, presented a pleasing evidence of a generous harvest time. All the offerings displayed were the gifts of the members of the corps and the citizens of the district, who were canvassed during the previous week, for donations.

A feature of the display was the young people's donations. They were arranged in artistically decorated baskets, which were later sold and helped swell the proceeds of the sale of produce. The young people's donations were of such excellent quality that the original plan of awarding prizes was abandoned and each entrant was given a reward.

On Monday evening the sale of produce was held. The officers were gratified by a much better response and a greater cash return than last year. The money raised in this way will be used by the corps for its work, which so much merits the support of every citizen in the locality.

The address for the day was given by Rev. D. M. Stinson, of Enterprise, on "Spiritual Values in Science."

S. P. Hinch Felicitated On 79th Birthday At Carman, Man.

Mr. S. P. Hinch, who is a native of this County and who lived in Napanee for some years, prior to removal to Carman, Manitoba, was the recipient of congratulations and a presentation on the occasion of his 79th birthday, recently.

The following account of the celebration, which marked the event, is taken from the Dufferin Leader, of Carman, Man., September 13th.

"A very enjoyable birthday party in honor of the 79th birthday of Mr. S. P. Hinch, of Carman, took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Hinch, 470 Sprague Avenue, Winnipeg, Wednesday evening, September 12th, with a number of Carman friends of Mr. Hinch as the guests. A dinner which the guests describe as absolutely wonderful, was served, sixteen places being set. An evening of cards followed the dinner. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Hinch, Mr. and Mrs. N. R. Pickell, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Graham, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Abercrombie, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Malcolmson and Mr. A. S. Doyle of Carman, Mrs. L. Rasmussen of Manitoba, a daughter of Mr. Hinch, and Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Hinch and Mrs. Geo. Watson, of Winnipeg.

A presentation of a leather brief case to Mr. Hinch, a gift from those present, was made during the evening.

"Mr. S. P. Hinch motored to Winnipeg last Saturday to meet Mrs. Hinch, who had returned from Edmonton, where she had visited relatives for a few weeks, Wednesday, Sept. 12, ushered Mr. Hinch into his 8th year. His friends congratulate him that the years in their possession, treat him with unusual consideration, for he continues his accustomed routine of busines and social activities, including hours at the wheel of his automobile that would weary many younger men, and he gives evidence by his appearance that his keen interest in life that there is no such thing as "weight of years."

Bond Conversion Will Be An Aid to Business Recovery

Prime Minister's Statement Receives the Nation's Approval

Ottawa, October 2. — The Prime Minister's frank concise statement regarding the 1934 Refunding Loan has met with warm and encouraging response from business, insurance and trust company executives, business men, professional men, agriculturists and labour leaders throughout the country. The concrete evidence of business recovery from the low point of last year which Mr. Bennett stressed in his opening announcement such as a 56% increase in industrial production, 17% increase in employment, 43% increase in farm products prices, as well as substantial improvements in carloadings, electric power production and wholesale prices, emphasizes the strengthening of the national credit, the progress in achievement of national economy and the steady general upturn in business.

Completion of this year's refunding programme will bring the total war loan refinancing (inaugurated in 1931) to over $1,000,000,000.

Reduction per annum in relief already been saved in interest charges and when this year's operations are concluded, the annual saving in interest will be about -14,000,000. This saving more than offsets interest charges on debt incurred to meet the extraordinary burdens incident to unemployment relief; and eventually should enable the government to reduce taxes.

The tone of the comments, from bankers, insurance and trust company executives, industrialists, agriculturists and labour leaders, is ably summed up by the unanimity of their opinions, which are that Canada has emerged from the depression with probably less strain than that experienced in many other countries, and that, while our progress is gradual, it is well founded. There have been no disturbing recessions consequent upon too rapid a rise.

The consensus of opinion is that by reason of the favourable basis of conversion and the attractive yield offered (as compared with long term bonds) the majority of 1919 Victory Bond holders will convert, and new investors hasten to secure an allotment of the new Bonds.

Rally Day Services In Napanee Churches

The annual Rally Day services in connection with the Sunday Schools of the United Churches in Napanee, were held on Sunday morning at the regular church service.

A specially prepared program was presented, which had as its theme, "Sunday Schools, yesterday, to-day and to-morrow." In each church the members of the Sunday Schools attended in a body and took part in the program.

In Grace Church, Rev. R. T. Richards, the minister, was assisted by Mr. G. F. Smith, the superintendent and his assistants, Mr. P. W. Barrett and Mr. Smith Hamilton. Mr. Richards gave a short address which centred around the theme of the program and Mr. Smith, in a brief review, told some of the achievements of the school during the year. Members of Miss Iris Seymour's class in the Primary Department, were promoted to the Junior Department. As the musical part of the program, Miss Phyllis Richardson, one of the junior members of the school, sang a solo and the church choir rendered an anthem.

In Trinity Church

At the service in Trinity Church, Rev. Harry Dawson, the minister, had charge of the program. He was assisted by C. L. Graham, the Sunday school superintendent, who conducted the promotion exercises. The members of the girls' class, promoted from the Primary to Junior Department, who had been given special training for a year by Miss Elizabeth Taylor and Miss Jean Anderson, gave a recital of the biblical knowledge they had gained during the course. This was followed by the promotion service in the office of the primary, for which Mrs. W. Calvert and Mrs. F. B. Mills sang the musical accompaniment, with Miss Harriet Hannah at the piano.

Mr. Dawson gave a brief address to the children, in which he stated that Sunday schools about 130 years ago and compared the conditions of that time with those of the present. A special musical number was given by Miss Eleanor Aylsworth's class of twelve girls.

Service at St. Andrews

Rev. A. J. Wilson conducted the service in St. Andrew's Church, assisted by Mr. A. MacGregor, the Sunday School Superintendent. The music was led by the Sunday school orchestra of fourteen pieces, under the leadership of Mr. Gordon MacGregor. Mr. Wilson's address, on a brief address, gave the story of the founding of the Sunday School by Robert Raikes and the conditions prevailing in the Old land 150 years ago.

In Mr. Wilson's address, he reviewed some of the history of St. Andrew's Church and produced the earliest Sunday school record of the church, which was dated 1867. He read the names on the roll and contrasted the methods of teaching of earlier days with the present.

An interesting part of the service was the presentation of prizes to members of the Sunday school, awarded at church services for 49 Sundays or over, during the year. Copies of well-known pictures were given as awards to Enid MacGregor, Mary-Ross, Herbert Coons, Barbara Caldwell, A. MacGregor, Mrs. Margaret Amey, Jean Amey, Jack Amey, Mrs. A. MacGregor and Gilbert Coons.

Surprise Party and Kitchen - Shower

Mrs. J. Lester Boyes, Jr., was given a surprise party on Friday evening, when twenty-five of her friends called on her at her pretty home on Robinson Street, and presented her with some useful gifts for her kitchen.

The party assembled at 8 o'clock and spent a merry evening together, during which refreshments were served. The table was attractive with pink and white china and the same color scheme was carried out everything. Mrs. B. F. Davey presided at the coffee urn, and was assisted by the Misses Helen Bell, Mary Ham, Hilda and Marjorie Daly, Margaret Walters, Gussie Boyes, Kathleen Gleeson and Mrs. Meggs.

Mrs. Hugh Milling Died, Last Week At Indian Head

Mrs. Ann Milling, widow of the late, Hugh Milling, a former well-known resident of Napanee, died last week at Indian Head, Sask., where she had resided for some years with her son.

The funeral was held at Indian Head and the remains were brought to Napanee, by Mr. Harry Milling, her son, for interment at Riverside Cemetery. A short service was held at Masters & Tierney's funeral parlor, at which Rev. Harry Pawson officiated in the presence of the immediate relatives of the district.

Well-Known Family Will Remove To Bradford

General regret is being expressed at the impending removal from Napanee of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Spencer, and Mr. and Mrs. Roland Hawley, who leave shortly to take up residenceat Bradford.

They have been life-long residents of Napanee and the immediate vicinity, where they have many friends, whose goodwill they will take with them to their new home.

Mr. Spencer has been highway traffic officer, stationed for some years, near Cobourg and Colborne, but his appointment to the new district makes it necessary for his family to move to Bradford.

"Provincial Traffic Officer, Ivan Spencer, who has been stationed at Colborne for the past few years, has been transferred to Bradford and assumed his duties there last week. Ivan was very popular here. He was a very efficient officer and a good citizen. He will be missed in sporting circles where he took an active interest. His many friends in Colborne and vicinity wish him every success in his new territory. Provincial Officer Bleecker of Port Hope will patrol Colborne as his territory has been extended from Port Hope to Trenton and from Brighton to Campbellford."

"The Beaver" Will Give Aylmer Game Results

Will Get Standing For Each Innings

Gibbard's "A" team left yesterday for Guelph, where they will play, to-day (Wednesday), the third game with Aylmer to decide who will be the final play-off for the O.B.A.A. Intermediate "A" Championship.

The defeat of the Aylmer team in Napanee on Monday gave Napanee fans a real reason for hoping that they will win out in the series and qualify to play in the finals.

The game on Wednesday (today) is being played so far away from Napanee that many fans who might otherwise have attended the game are unable to be present. The Beaver has arranged to have the game reported by wire during the inning. The score and all 'available information will be posted up in "The Beaver" office window as soon as received. Telephone calls concerning the game will be given prompt attention as well.

If Gibbards win from Aylmer they meet Southampton and the mighty left-hander, Goldsmith who defeated the Windsor Walkersides in the semi-finals. All the citizens of Napanee are looking forward to seeing at least one of the final games played in Napanee.

Fewer Examinations Promised By Minister

With the objectives of lessening costs, saving student labors, and, most important, removing the allegedly existent evil of teaching for examinations rather than for instruction, Ontario's Department of Education intends to curtail drastically the number of student annual examinations.

Minister's Pronouncement

Duncan McArthur, newly appointed Deputy Minister of Education, made known, last week, a few of the basic reasons underlying the proposed important move in Ontario educational machinery, following declaration by Hon. Dr. L. J. Simpson, Minister of Education, that examinations were to be "fewer" and were to be held earlier in the year.

More important than either the factor of expense or of student labor, Mr. McArthur said, "is that the effect of examinations on the method of teaching as a general rule is damaging. I think it is desirable to discourage teaching primarily for examinations purposes. The burden of examinations on the teachers' minds does limit their freedom, and it constitutes a real weight on the method of presenting the subject to the pupils.

Freedom For Teacher

"It is desirable that, as far as possible, the estimate of the standing of the pupil should be determined by the local teacher, as the local teacher should be given as much freedom as possible in selecting his methods of instruction."

Queried if he did not fear the intrusion of "favoritism" in a system under which the teachers' estimate of pupil standards was extended, Mr. McArthur said he did not think it was to be feared.

"At the present time," he said, "the Board of Revision, a board which is performing a most useful work, is able to check up on the standard of each particular school, and if the standards se..m to be unduly low the principal of the school is notified. That provides a check and keeps the standard fairly uniform."

Renfrew Votes Dry By Majority of 63

Sale of Beer in Taverns Rejected

Renfrew. — First of eighteen municipalities to vote on the question of permitting sale of beer in taverns, Renfrew today was defeated in the dry column. The citizens yesterday voted by a 63 majority against establishing taverns In the municipality.

The vote to continue as a dry area was 1,309 against 1,246. To bring beer parlors into a municipality there must be three-fifths of the total vote in the wet column.

Unlike Renfrew and the other municipalities which were originally dry districts, Edwardsburg Township has obtained permission to vote on whether it will leave the beer areas and abolish the taverns. The date for the voting has not yet been set.

Other municipalities which will hold plebiscites are Cardinal, October 9th; Cornwall, October 10th; Chapleau, October 10th; Maxville, October 15th; South Grimsby, October 17th; Alfred, October 17th; Beamsville, October 25th; Blenheim, October 30; Rodney, October 30th; Tilbury West, November 14th.. Seven others: Hagarow, Southampton, Strathroy, Madoc, Moose Mines, Eaton and Blyth-field, have not had their dates for voting set, so far.

Gibbard's Win One Lose One in Series O.B.A.A. Semi-Finals

Play Great Game at Napanee

Over twelve hundred fans saw some real championship ball on Monday, when Gibbard A's met and defeated Aylmer to the tune of 1-0, at the Geo. W. Gibbard Memorial Park.

Each team, now has a game to its credit in the semi-finals of the Intermediate A. O.B.A.A. play-offs. The deciding game will be played, to-day, (Wednesday) at Guelph.

Pointer for Gibbards, and Crowley for Aylmer Hambridges, were the opposing twirlers. Undoubtedly, Pointer showed up as the better of the two. He allowed four hits, struck out five, walked three and was credited with seven assists, which certainly helped win the game for Napanee. Crowley yielded only three hits, struck out six, walked two and had only one assist.

Gibbard's lone run was earned in the second. Brennan, the first man up, got a walk on which, eventually he scored. Dunn was put out at first when Jamieson, at third, threw to first, sending Brennan on to second. Wilson hit out a single to left field, which brought Brennan home. Gibbard was put out at first and Wilson ended third. Kinkley struck out, to make three down and leave Wilson on third.

In the sixth, Aylmer was in a fine place for scoring but failed to come through. Crowley angled and Valee followed him with another single, sending Crowley to second. Jacques was out at first and Crowley advanced to third and Valee to second. Hatfield came up and was caught out by Kinkley in left field and Lee had the same fate when he came up next and so the innings ended leaving two men stranded on bases.

Jamieson, the snappy third baseman for Aylmers, had six assists.

FIRST GAME PLAYED AT AYLMER

In the first game of the semi-finals for the O.B.A.A. Intermediate A championship, played at Aylmer, on Wednesday, Gibbard's A. team was beaten by the Aylmer Hambridges, with a score of 3 to 0.

"The Beaver" arranged for telegraphic reports of the game, by innings.

"Play" Scruton, the ace hurler for Hambridges, did some sparkling work for his team and received good support from his teammates. Scruton yielded only five hits, had three strike-outs and walked three men. Blazetich, for Gibbards who pitched the whole nine innings, allowed eleven hits, had six strike-outs and walked three men. A feature of the game was two double-plays, one for each team. Cards to Gibbard to Wilson, for Napanee, and Fishley to Valee to Hatfield, for Aylmer.

Aylmer made their first tally in the third and when Valee singled, Jacques walked and both were advanced by Hatfield's grounder through third. Lee then bunted into a neat squeeze play during which both Valee and Jacques scored, making the score 2 to 0. Again in the fourth Aylmer scored their same home with two additional runs on Lee's error to left.

The visitors threatened in the fourth when Brennan singled. Dunn got to first on Jamieson's error. Wilson on a single, but Brennan was cut out at the plate by Miller's fine throw from right field, and Gibbard grounded to short and was tossed out at first by the same side. Again in the fifth when Kinkley singled, Blazetich got a free pass and Bentley singled, filling the bases. Card was out at the plate on Miller's great throw Crowley batted for Dorey in the fifth and was replaced by Brenan in the seventh, but neither came through with a hit. For the remainder of the game the Gibbard batters were in difficulty.

Tamworth Landmark Destroyed by Fire

Tamworth—Fire of undetermined origin destroyed a blacksmith's shop, one of the village's oldest buildings, which had been linked with much of its early history, last Wednesday.

The building, owned by Henry Richardson, has been a place of meeting for religious services, a school, a night school, and a Court House. One of the oldest inhabitants of the village, James Wheeler, an octogenarian, recalled he attended public school in the building when he was a small boy.

FIFTEEN YEARS AFTER

A lot of water has flowed under the bridges of our country since the Dominion Government floated the 1919 Victory Loan, which is being refunded this week. In 1919 the people of Canada were war weary. They had come through suffering and sorrow which were unprecedented. For four years they had poured out life and treasure, in an endeavour to win the war. It seemed, then, that to ask for a further effort, was almost asking too much. And yet, when the appeal for funds was made, over 800,000 citizens subscribed to the loan, which was to be used for reconstructing the business of the State.

Then followed ten years of feverish business activity. Factories which had been used for the production of munitions, were turned over to the production of commodities of every-day use. Wages were high; the demand for labor was regular and insistent. Prices of farm produce, which had been accelerated during the war, maintained their high pitch.

These years saw the almost total annihilation of the small business man. Large corporations and holding companies, were formed. Chain stores made their appearance, and in a short time the whole business organization of the country went under a radical transformation. These new ventures, with their promise of huge profits and high interest rates, fascinated the minds of the investing public. Thousands sold Government Bonds and invested in stock and shares with which the country was flooded.

Then came the crash. The bubble burst and thousands of people who had been living in a world of false prosperity and fictitious values, found themselves with a lot of worthless paper on their hands. It has taken four years to work through the readjustment which the crash made necessary—four years of unemployment, four years of business failures, four years of economic and industrial disturbances. There are not wanting, signs that the nation is once again emerging from the gloom. Trade has increased of late, car-loadings are up, failures are less, and employment is better than during the past years. Of course, there is a long way to go yet. But there is at least an ameliorable improvement over the conditions of 1932 and 1933.

And now, the Government is making another appeal for funds to refund the loan which was secured in 1919. There is plenty of money in the country as the bank balances show, and the investing public is gradually learning that the security of the Dominion of Canada is of more value than some highly colored mining or industrial proposition. The rate of interest on the long term bonds of the present issue is of course, lower than the bonds which are being retired. But the difference between the five and half per cent of the old bonds and the three eighty-five per cent of the new ones, fairly represents the change in the purchasing power of the dollar, which the passing years had effected.

The investors of Napanee have learned, through bitter experience, that not all is gold that glitters, and not all the nicely engraved stock certificates are what they claim to be. Those who have money to loan will be well advised to place it in the new issue. They will then not have to stay awake nights wondering what they are going to do when their money is gone, nor have nervous prostration as they watch the fluctuations of the stock market reports. The whole wealth of the Dominion is the security behind the loan.

WE HARDLY EXPECTED IT

Last week we published a small coupon on which we asked voters in Napanee to register their view with respect to the closing hours of the beverage rooms. Without any organization, or without any special effort being put forth, we have had returned to us approximately five hundred of these coupons. If any evidence were needed to show the utter dissatisfaction with the present situation, this surely supplies it. That five hundred voters, with no persuasion and practically on their own initiative, should sign those little coupons, has surprised us. As a straw vote it shows that the present situation with respect to the sale of beer and wine, is giving real concern to all classes of our citizens.

The result of our poll would lend very strong encouragement to the view so frequently expressed, that steps should, at once, be taken to secure a vote under the Local Option By-law. There are many citizens who cannot by any stretch of the imagination, be classed as professionally dry, who are urging such action. It might be well if all those who have the interest of our town at heart and are anxious to keep it sober and industrious, should take the necessary steps towards such a vote.

Shortening the hours of sale will help, but nothing save the complete elimination of the beverage rooms will restore the justifiable pride we so long have had in our town.

THE TEACHERS' CONVENTION

On Thursday and Friday of this week the Public School Teachers of the local inspectorate, will meet in the Town Hall for their regular annual convention . A varied and interesting programme has been prepared. For two days, they will meet and study the problems that are common to their profession.

Apart, altogether, from the actual help which they will get from the lectures and discussions, there is the undoubted value which comes when men and women , engaged in the same profession, foregather in a fraternity of interests and ideals. This is particularly true of the Rural School Teacher. Day after day, for ten months in the year, she goes about her accustomed task, with little help, little encouragement, and little to break the monotony of the day's work, save the semi-annual visit of the inspector. How true this is of the younger teachers, who soon discover that the fine idealism with which they left Normal or College, is severely tried by a divided loyalty—a loyalty to the educational needs of her pupils on the one hand, and the financial demands of the School Board, on the other. She must govern herself accordingly, for she soon learns that the Board will judge her success by her ability to get the greatest number of pupils through the entrance with the least possible expenditure of effort on the children's part and a minimum financial expenditure on their own.

To forget all that, and for two glorious days meet and renew friendships and discuss with those of like calling their common tasks and problems, is like a breath from the hills. It gives new enthusiasm for the Teacher's work and sends her back with faith in her calling, renewed by the knowledge that though her school may be way out on a back concession, she is not alone in the task of training the intellectual and spiritual life of the youth of our land.

The minutes of the Convention might be taken as read; the election of officers called off, the lectures cancelled and the round table discussions dismissed, yet the permanent value of the convention still be attained. Long after the subject matter of the lectures is forgotten and the important points raised at the round table passes into oblivion, there will linger in the minds of the teachers, to encourage and strengthen them, the memory of old friendships renewed, of new friendships made, and the exhilirating experience of talking "shop" with those who know and understand.

A FINE TRIBUTE TO BRITAIN

President Roosevelt has taken the United States into his confidence again in one of those radio speeches to which the nation to the south of us has grown accustomed, since Mr. Roosevelt became President. This address was occasioned by the new situation created by the resignation of the director of the N.R.A. In the crisis which faced the nation in 1932, General Johnson was essential. He was a dynamic driving force. He had almost absolute authority in drawing up codes which were to govern the conditions of manufacture. So perplexed were the captains of industry, with the breakup of the system under which they were operating, that they accepted—though reluctantly—the restrictions which General Johnson placed upon them. But, as conditions improved, they regained somewhat of their old confidence and asserted their opposition to the plans and methods of General Johnson. On the other hand, labor was losing faith in the General. His speech during the textile strike, finally alienated their support completely. Pressure, thus, from both labor and capital, his position became untenable.*

President Roosevelt, in his speech, reassured the nation that the main policies of the N.R.A. would be continued, amended perhaps and adjustable to suit the new conditions created by a slowly emerging prosperity. The President then made the reference to Britain, to which we have referred. He was answering the critics of the N.R.A., who contended that Britain has come through the depression more quickly than the United States because Britain had allowed matters to take their course and had not interfered with the regular procedure of business. Replying to them, he said :—

"They would make you believe, that England has made progress out of her depression by a do-nothing policy, by letting nature take her course. I do not believe any intelligent observer can accuse England of undue orthodoxy in the present emergency.

"Did England let nature take her course ? No. Did England hold to the gold standard when her reserves were threatened ? No. Has England gone back to the gold standard to-day ? No. Did England hesitate to call in $10,000,000,000 of her bonds bearing 5 per cent. interest, to issue new bonds therefor, bearing only 3½ per cent. interest, thereby saving the British treasury $150,000,000 a year in interest alone ? No.

"And let it be recorded that the British bankers helped. Is it not a fact that, ever since 1909, Great Britain, in many ways, has advanced further along lines of social security than the United States ? Is it not a fact that relations between capital and labor, on the basis of collective bargaining, are much further advanced in Great Britain than in the United States ?

"It is perhaps not strange that the conservative British press has told us, with pardonable irony, that much of our new deal program is only an attempt to catch up with English reforms that go back ten years or more."

All this, of course, is perfectly true. The foundations for the reforms which have enabled Britain to weather the storm, were laid thirty years ago, when the Labor Party began its programme for social and moral reforms, and economic re-adjustments, many of which, through the years, have been written into the British Constitution. It is impossible, without grave disruption, for the United States to do in two years, that which took Britain thirty years to accomplish.

From this, we in Canada, should take heart. Canada will fulfill her destiny as a leader in the march of political, social and economic adjustments only as men of vision and faith are willing, year in and year out, to suffer ridicule and even, repeated defeat at the polls, that the things they believe in, may be established throughout the Dominion.

Editorial Comment

ARMED ISOLATION

A leading article in the Daily Mail yesterday supported the policy of isolation. There are now six London newspapers of great influence and wide circulation which advocate the policy. They are the Daily Mail, the London Evening News, the Daily Express, the London Evening Standard, and among Sunday newspapers the News of the World and the Sunday Express. This is a very formidable group. It is bound to force the policy of isolation on the attention of the people to such an extent that action by the Government is assured. All six newspapers also support the view that there must be adequate defensive measures taken in this country.—London Daily Express.

THE RUSSIAN EMBARGO

Let the Russian coal trade be opened. Then the Canadian and independent importers who only await the raising of the embargo to bring us coal at almost half the price that we have to pay Senator Webster. On the other hand, we can sell our animals to that immense market, the U.S.S.R. At one time we approved the embargo. But, since it has done nothing but serve the purposes of a few and since further, the League of Nations has admitted Russia to sit with the other States, let us quit stuffing ourselves with words and illusions. Let the two countries make as quickly as possible, an exchange of consular and trade commissioners.—L'Illustration, Montreal.

THE BRITISH WAY

"Let them get it off their chest." Is the rule which the English adopted long ago for all groups which feel they have a grievance or a God-given call to save humanity in general and the British nation in particular. At Hyde Park they are permitted to get it off their chest, and lib. They may belittle the king, curse the House of Lords, denounce parliamentary leaders and, figuratively speaking, even thumb their nose at the Archbishop of Canterbury. There are bobbies standing by to see that traffic is not blocked. With that the law is satisfied. In this devotion to free speech may be seen one of the reasons for the durable character of British democracy. They get it off their chest. Traffic is not disturbed and the rest of the armed British bobbies simply sigh and call it part of the day's work.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

THE DOMINIONS AND WAR

In immediate sequence to General Smuts's declaration that "if Great Britain were involved in a war the Dominions would remain out of it unless they chose to come in" comes the declaration of the Liberal Party in Canada (which is likely to be in power after next year's election) that "Canada is at war when Great Britain is at war." The Liberal leader once said the same thing, but he added that Canada would not automatically be at war unless there had been put to the test, for there has been no war since the Dominions were given their new status at the Peace Conference at Geneva. But the refusal of certain Dominions to answer the call at Chanak, was significant. And none of them is bound by the Locarno agreements. The problem is really academic, for the Dominion decision will depend in a European war in which Great Britain was engaged it is unlikely that a unified opinion here would demand its exclusion from the Commonwealth. But the discussion indicates once more how anomalous an association of States the British Empire is. If Premier Smuts's contention is sound it follows, of course, that Great Britain need not "come in" in a war in which South Africa might get involved.—The Spectator, (London.)

MAPLE LEAF CONTEST PUT ON BY RAILWAYS

The beauties of the Canadian maple leaf in the Autumn will probably be studied with more enthusiasm and vigour this season than ever before. The two Canadian railway systems, the Canadian National and the Canadian Pacific, have instituted a nation-wide contest to encourage a greater interest in Canadian autumn scenery and they are offering a prize for the most beautiful leaf and for the largest leaf. Last year, more than ten thousand leaves were submitted for the consideration of the judges who were elected from the Royal Canadian Academy. All leaves entered must be gathered within two miles of a station on either railway.

In view of the fact that it is the intention of the railways to arrange for exhibitions of Canadian leaves, the most beautiful leaves, the regulations provide that all leaves submitted to become the property of the railways. The contest is not open to employees of either railway, but in view of the wide interest being taken by the children throughout Canada, it is open to members of their families. The decision selecting the most beautiful leaf will be made on a basis on color as well as shape, while the decision on the largest leaf will be made by surface area. Entries are to be addressed to Post Office Box 1360, Montreal, Que., and full information as to the contest can be obtained from any agent of either company.

GRAIN BURNT LAMBS

The use of legume hay, either alfalfa or clover, is considered essential for success in lamb fattening, according to a brochure on fattening lambs and domestic feeder lambs issued by the Dominion Department of Agriculture. Home-grown grains may be combined to make an excellent ration for fattening lambs, while range lambs require a considerable period of building up before being fed a heavy amount of fattening grain. Where the grain is increased too rapidly to include barley and wheat, lambs may become grain burnt, or overfed on grain. In such cases they practically go off their feed and stop making gains. These lambs are very difficult to handle. They should be taken off immediately, and fed on alfalfa hay and roots for a period of from one to a month. The grain feed may then be gradually increased until the lambs are getting a full fattening grain allowance.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, OCTOBER 7TH, 1934

"FELLOWSHIP WITH CHRIST"

JOHN 15 : 1-16

After having spent the past quarter studying the prophetic movement, as recorded in the Old Testament, we turn now to the New Testament. The first lesson is taken from the Gospel according to John. It forms a valuable and natural transition from the lessons of the past quarter to those of the present quarter. In the course which we have just completed, we have shown the way in which the various attributes of God were revealed to the prophets, who insisted that the ideal would be satisfied with nothing less than the practice of those attributes in human conduct.

The study of this week shows the source of power which will enable men and women to reach those high levels of human endeavor. It is to be done through fellowship with God. A fellowship which is as close as that existing between the vine and the branches. There is perhaps no word which is more on people's lips today, than this word "fellowship." One of the notable characteristics of Christian progress in the past decade has been the stress which consecrated men and women have placed on the necessity of maintaining closer fellowship with each other. The group movements for the strengthening of conviction, and of bringing reinforcement to one's spiritual experience has taken a foremost place in religious organization during the past years. In a conflict with evil, in the ordering one's personal life, in the effort to create a Kingdom of God on earth, the frequent meeting of kindred spirits has been found essential.

That which distinguishes fellowships of one sort and another from purely Christian fellowship, is that in the case of the latter the various members are bound not merely by ties of a common interest but by communion with God through His Son, Jesus Christ. It is this which Jesus Himself stresses, when He intimates that the future of Christianity depends on the recognition of the true and abiding union between God and the believer. So close must that be that Jesus speaks of it as similar to the union of the vine and the branches. The whole section of this chapter revolves around this picture of the vine and the branches. The purpose of the Christian life is to bear fruit. If any of the branches are dead, they must be clipped off from the main stem so that the rest of the vine will not be hampered by dead wood, and fruit will have the opportunity to develop and mature. So in the Christian life, those who bear no fruit are to suffer the loss of their vital and intimate relationship with God. This is a much needed lesson; for there are tens of thousands of those who dare to call themselves by a Christian age, and environment, and civilization, without in any way accepting responsibility for returning to society something of the privileges and opportunities which have been theirs.

The section ends on the high note of love as a result of obedience to God's will. "If ye keep My commandment, ye shall abide in My love." That is to say the Love of God can become the frequent meeting of kindred spirits has been found essential.

A social hour was then enjoyed when refreshments were served by the hostess and her committee.

MAPLE RIDGE W. I.

On Thursday afternoon, September 13th, a delightful meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Asahel McCrea. There was a goodly attendance of members, four visitors, and a number of new attendants.

The president, Mrs. G. Cook, opened the meeting in the usual manner, and in the absence of the secretary, Mrs. Merle Denison, president called the roll which was answered by "where I would like to spend a vacation."

Current events were given by Mrs. George Dupree, and she also favoured us with a solo. A delightful piano solo was given by Mrs. Garnet Grange and owing to the absence of some of the items on the programme, she gave a number of other selections which were greatly enjoyed.

Mrs. Charles Vanalstine, in her most capable manner, gave a splendid paper on Home Economics, which was well prepared. Miss Marion Cook gave a humorous reading. A number of recipes were exchanged.

This brought to a close a very enjoyable afternoon and a social half hour was spent over the tea cups, when the hostess and committee in charge served a dainty lunch.

NEWBURGH W. I.

Reports from the conveners of fruit and flowers, relief and care of the memorial grounds were heard with satisfaction.

The treasurer's statement showed a substantial balance and suggestions were invited for ways of raising money, in order to continue the society's many-sided benevolences.

One dose of Miller's Worm Powders will clean out stomach and bowels of worms, so that the child will no more be troubled by their ravages. The powders are sweet in the taste and no child will object to taking them. They are non-injurious in their composition, and while in some cases they may cause vomiting, that must not be taken as a form for their poisonousness, but as an indication of their effective work.

LOST 10 LBS. IN TWO MONTHS

Not too Old to Reduce at 50

Here is a letter which proves that there is no necessity to tolerate excessive fatness, even at the age of 50.

"I was becoming too fat after reaching 50, and had attacks of rheumatism and indigestion. I took ordinary pills and other medicines, but they did not do any permanent good. Then I commenced taking Kruschen. I soon began to feel different — brighter, stronger, had more energy, no rheumatism, and to my surprise, after two months I lost 10 lbs. in weight, although I was eating much more, as digestion fulness had nearly left me." — W. H. G.

The numerous vital salts in Kruschen stimulate and tune up the bodily functions from a number of different angles. Your stomach, liver, and kidneys all feel the immediate benefit, your blood is cleansed of impurities and becomes invigorated and refreshed. You forget indigestion, rheumatism and depression in a new and unaccustomed feeling of physical and mental exhilaration.

He has received samples of the materials used at the different stages of its progress, as well as a number of the important instruments concerned with its production.

L. & A. Branches Ladies' Aid Society Convened, Newburgh

The Twelfth Annual Convention of the Ladies' Aid Societies of the United Church of Canada was held at the Newburgh United Church on September 19th, 1934.

After the registration of the large number of delegates and visitors members of the Camden East Ladies' Aid opened the Convention with devotional exercises.

The President, Mrs. R. S. Wale, then took charge and very ably conducted the business of the convention.

The Secretary's and Treasurer's reports were read and approved. Mrs. E. Altenbrack was appointed press reporter.

The following committees were then named :—

Nominating Committee — Mrs. Leonard Parks, Mrs. (Dr.) Fletcher, Mrs. J. M. Graham, Mrs. D. Richmond and Mrs. R. Merritt.

Resolutions Committee — Rev. and Mrs. A. Lewis, Mrs. Babcock Mrs. Blake Gilbert.

Mrs. J. Wartman gave an address on "Devoting Time," which gave us all something to think about. We hear so often "I haven't time," but when all the time there is. In the second chapter of Zechariah, we find these words: "I lifted up my eyes, and behold a man with a measuring line in his hand. Then said I, whither goest Thou? and He said unto me, to measure Jerusalem." What we select to do with our time and how we use it, is the measure of our characters. Some women are wonderful housekeepers, but have no time for church work or any work outside their homes. Do we want that, alone, for our epitaph, "a wonderful housekeeper." Take time for the beautiful things in life, music, art, literature. How often the beautiful things we read just drift through our minds. Someone has said that to know Shakespeare, one of his plays must be read over at least ten times. The art of living is the highest art in the world. We have not learned the a, b, c, of life till we are good companions with ourselves alone. One author says: "Set apart time, each day, to be alone. Read or memorize a passage of beautiful literature each day." If we take time for the "quiet place" each day, we will be able to do the work required of us. Let us find time to fight against that terrible evil, the liquor traffic. Our lives will be measured by the things we incorporate in them as the man measured Jerusalem. It is not the length of life, but the quality of life, that counts.

our girls and young women. 4. Give some methods of making money. Many were discussed; among them being pot-luck suppers and the group system. 5. Could we not have afternoon and evening sessions at our conventions, instead of morning and afternoon sessions? A standing vote was taken and it was decided to continue with the morning and afternoon sessions. 6. What do you do with members, who do not pay their fees, and can you have a Ladies' Aid without a fee? One Ladies' Aid reported having every woman of the congregation a member of the Ladies' Aid, and charging no fee. 7. Do our financial reports mean all money raised or proceeds after expenses taken out? We should report total money raised through the year. 8. How can we induce women to express opinions at meetings and not afterwards? 9. What can our women do now, to help the temperance situation? 10. Wouldn't tithing and straight giving be better than so many socials and bad business methods? 11. Has the time not arrived for us as an organization to use our official name, 'Woman's Association' It was voted some years ago that we were to remain County Ladies' Aid, but each organization can use which-ever name it wishes. 12 Suggest ways in which we may secure attendance at monthly meetings. 13. Why do we not have more sympathy from our Ladies' Aid members for the W. M. S.?

A duet, "I may safely, surely trust in Thee" was very beautifully rendered by Mrs. Huch Ramsay and Mrs. Ted Wilde. Mrs. (Rev.) Bessmith gave a very helpful and inspiring paper on Ladies' Aid work, using the following headings: 1 A search for inspiration; 2 Study of qualifications in women on which Jesus set His mark of approval; 3 Qualifications which we desire in members; The Ladies' Aid faces its task; 5 Resources of The Ladies' Aid; 6 The Ladies' Aid reaps its reward. The need of women's work was seen in the early church, so women's organizations came about. The Ladies' Aid holds the place of the mother, in the church.

Jesus approved of saving and thrift in women, but He also approved of Mary breaking the alabaster box. Women can look well after their homes and still be active in church work. We need both the Marthas and Marys in our Ladies' Aid work. Let us hold our Ladies' Aid to Christian methods of finance. Do not give what we cannot give without a prayer. Can we not try to teach our people the beauty of free-will offerings? Let us strive to have our church end its year without a deficit. Let us encourage our Ladies' Aid to take up studies such as that of health, beauty and harmony. We must make the most of the talents of our members in our work. When the great soul of the great church mother, the Ladies' Aid makes our young people want to enter into church work, that Aid is doing its best work and will surely reap the reward which Jesus always gives the faithful.

The report of the Nominating Committee was given by Mrs. Leonard Parks. The following are the officers for next year:—

Honorary President— Rev. T. H. P. Anderson, Newburgh.

President — Mrs. Smith Gilmour, Tamworth.

1st. Vice-Pres.— Mrs. A. Lewis, of Camden East.

2nd Vice-Pres.— Mrs. R. Ackerman, Hawley.

Secretary— Mrs. A. E. Perry, Wilton.

Asst. Secretary— Mrs. G. Smith, Grace Church, Napanee.

Treasurer— Mrs. O. E. Ashley, Empey Hill.

The officers, with Mrs. R. S. Wales, Grace Church, Napanee, Mrs. W. Bird, Marlbank and Mrs. Stover of Deseronto, constitute the executive.

A duet which was enjoyed by all was sung by Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Jenkins: "Take up my Cross and follow Me."

Rev. Mr. Richards of Grace Church favored with a short account of his trip to the Maritime Provinces, especially to Cape Breton Island. He described the beautiful scenery on the Island and told of seeing the tides of the Bay of Fundy by moonlight. He also told us of how the people living there make their living — mostly by farming, fishing and mining. His account of a visit to one of the mines was very interesting.

The report of the Resolutions Committee was given by Rev. Mr. Beckel. 1 We wish to express thanks to Rev. Anderson and to the officials, organist and members of this church, for the hospitality shown us; to the Ladies' Aid for their splendid dinner; and to all who took part in the programme. 2 We extend our sympathy to Mrs. A. E. Perry in the loss of her home by fire, and we wish to thank her for her help and leadership through the years. 3 We extend our thanks to our retiring president, Mrs. R. S. Wales, for her leadership in the last two years. 4 We extend our sympathy to Mrs. (Rev.) Anderson and to those members in Newburgh who were too ill to attend our convention. 5 We wish to protest against beverage rooms, and suggest that our secretary write the Premier of Ontario, asking that at the coming session of parliament they present a referendum to the electors, in order that in this way we might register our protest. 6. We recommend that our next convention be held at Gretna and that 35 cents be the dinner fee.

This very interesting convention was brought to a close by all repeating the Mizpah benediction.

Mr. Craig replied, expressing his and Mrs. Craig's deep thanks for the gifts, and his willingness to serve Ebenezer congregation to the best of his ability. Great Interest Shown In Baseball Results Posted at Beaver Something of the interest shown in the results of the ball games of the past two weeks is seen in the fact that Monday, when Gibbard "A's" were playing at Southampton, over 125 calls by telephone were received at "The Beaver" office, where the results were being posted by innings. In addition, a crowd estimated at about 200 gathered in the street before the office, to see the results recorded after each innings.

The same interest was shown throughout the other games, played at Aylmer and Guelph, and the "B" games at Huntsville, Courtright and Deloro.

Mr. Henry R. Purcell Observes 95th Birthday

Congratulations were extended, last week, to Mr. Henry R. Purcell, of Colebrook, on the occasion of his 95th birthday, which occurred on Saturday, October 7th.

Mr. Purcell is a remarkable man for his years. He is active physically and as keen, mentally, as most men many years his junior. He has been an outstanding citizen of the county all his life. He comes from the best pioneer stock and has, himself, contributed largely to the development of the county. He has been a justice of the peace since before confederation, and was personally sworn in to the office by the late Sir John A. Macdonald.

Last week, Mr. Purcell was in Napanee where he called on a number of his many friends in the town.

Rousing Welcome Given Champions of Ontario On Return Home

Given Great Welcome by Citizens and Mayor G. J. Tustin

One of the greatest outbursts of enthusiasm ever experienced in Napanee was that displayed by the citizens upon the arrival home of the Gibbard "A" team, on Tuesday afternoon, after the win which made them champions of Ontario in Intermediate "A" baseball. The boys were accorded a welcome befitting that of conquering heroes.

Everyone was out to join in the celebration, regardless of class, creed or position. An honor had been done the town and it must be celebrated in a proper way.

About five o'clock in the afternoon decorated cars, trucks and people on foot began to wend their way to the western entrance of the town. Card's large truck, decorated and fitted with a platform surmounted by a central overstuffed chair, went to the market square and took its place behind the bands of the town and the men from Gibbard's factory. Then a string of cars, several blocks in length, fell in behind and the procession started to meet the boys. Just outside of the town limits, the members of the team were transferred to the awaiting truck and the procession, headed by the fire truck sounding its siren, led the way back to the Town Hall. All the way down town a demonstration of welcome was accorded the team, which finally reached the market square, where several hundred people were waiting.

Welcomed by Mayor

Mayor George J. Tustin appeared on the upper balcony of the Town Hall and officially welcomed the boys home and offered the congratulations of the community on their success.

Ernie Gibbard, the manager of the team, who was enthorned on the chair on the truck along with Walter Gerow, coach of the team rose and on behalf of his team, accepted the thanks of the town. One after another the members of the team were called for by their admirers and stood to accept the cheers of the crowd. After a demonstration lasting well over an hour, the team were allowed to dismount from their elevated seats to receive the individual congratulations of their friends.

One of the most amusing features of the parade was the appearance, in the procession, of five young men hooded and gowned in sombre black uniforms with the following placards displayed on their backs: Picton, Runnymede Grads, Copper Cliff, Aylmer and Southampton, representings the teams in the play-offs that the A's had defeated.

Many of the cars and trucks were gaily decorated in green and white streamers, crepe paper, flags and bunting and everywhere were displayed banners bearing the words: "Welcome home Ontario champions".

The celebration was one which will long be remembered by the boys of the team and the citizens.

The secret of happiness is not in doing what one likes, but liking what one has to do.

Take Ontario Finals in Two Straight from Southampton

Gibbard Athletics brought honor to themselves and to the Town of Napanee, when, on Friday and Monday, they won their games with Southampton and became Intermediate "A" champions of the O. B. A. A.

Friday's game, witnessed by 1,200 fans in Napanee, was a real battle, resulting in a win for the locals in the 13th innings. On Monday Southampton was shut out in the second game, when Gibbard's rolled up a score of 4 to Southampton's nothing.

It's a difficult matter to assign credit to any member or members of the team for the success attained. Every man has proved himself a genuine sportsman and a real ball player. But to Ernie Gibbard, first of all, credit should be given for gathering together such an aggregation of ball players. To his interest the town is indebted for the finest ball park in Ontario in a town of Napanee's size. Through his untiring efforts a team has been built up, worthy of the park it plays in; a team that has finally brought to Napanee the honor of being the home of the champions of Ontario in their class.

To Walt Gerow, the team coach, the man behind the scenes, tribute may well be paid for training the men and handling them in such a way as to make them champions. Honors are pretty well divided between Pointer and Blazetich for their outstanding work on the mound throughout the series, with Dorey showing up well whether in the field or in the pitcher's box.

Pointer pitched the first game in the finals and Blazetich the second. Both maintained a high standard of performance throughout the games.

Popular Young Couple Given Shower By Friends

A shower and dance in honor of Miss Eno Reid, and Mr. Charles Cairns, whose marriage takes place this month, was arranged by a number of friends last Friday evening at the banquet hall of the Superior Restaurant.

About 75 friends of the popular young couple were present. Among them were guests from Odessa, Roblin and other points in the county, as well as many young people from the town.

The main entertainment of the evening was dancing, for which the Aces Orchestra, of Deseronto, supplied the music. During the evening the guests of honor were conducted to a place in the hall, where a miniature "covered wagon" laden with gifts was concealed. A path was cleared for them and they drew the wagon to the centre of the room and proceeded to unwrap the gifts.

The numerous beautiful gifts were an evidence of the goodwill of the guests and of the high esteem in which they are held.

Mr. Cairns expressed the thanks of himself and Miss Reid for the entertainment and the gifts.

Brockville Merchants Would Close Beer Parlors Earlier

Many important matters came up for discussion at the monthly meeting of the Brockville Retail Merchants' Association, held last night, the closing hours of local beer parlors receiving the most attention. While expressing no particular prohibition views, it was the unanimous judgment of the meeting, for the sake of the good name of the town, the evening hours should be made 10 p.m. on week-day nights and 7 p.m. on Saturday nights, and the Town Council will be notified of this action.

Power Situation To Be Investigated

Kingston — Directors of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce have decided to proceed with an investigation of the power situation in Eastern Ontario, after a discussion in which they said that western sections of the province were better supplied than those of the East.

They said that the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission appeared unwilling to tap transmission lines running from the Ottawa Valley to Toronto. Tapping these lines, they held, would promote industrial expansion in Eastern Ontario cities, including Kingston.

Ch. Commerce Hears Fine Address

Officers Present Reports to Members

On Tuesday of last week the Napanee Chamber of Commerce held the first monthly meeting of the season at the Paisley Hotel. Mr. Joe Marshall, the President, was in the chair. The resignation of Mr. F. Correll as Chairman of the Retail Committee was received. Mr. A. MacGregor, the Secretary, was elected to fill the position made vacant by Mr. Correll's resignation. Mr. M. P. Graham was then elected Secretary.

The various committees reported. The Retail Merchants' Committee told before the members the plans for Community Days, and urged the utmost support and co-operation on the part of all the merchants.

Mr. Marshall then introduced the speaker of the evening, Mr. George S. Hougham, Executive Secretary of the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada.

The speaker, in opening his remarks, said he premised no entertainment, but would deal with one of the most serious problems before Canada—the distribution of wealth in some equitable manner. At the outset the speaker disclaimed any political or party interest, and urged that his address be considered from the same point of view.

Brotherhood of Man Economic Fact

Proceeding with this theme, the speaker lifted the entire subject high above the atmosphere of competitive merchandising or political partizanship, climaxing his illustrations and arguments with the statement that "The Brotherhood of Man is not just a religious conception, a philosopher's ideal or a poet's fancy, but a cold economic fact from the social implications of which there is no escape, and that unless organized society stands against that conviction quickly, our boasted civilization would disintegrate from economic cancer the inevitable result of moral and spiritual blindness.

Typical Examples

Mr. Hougham, who was the principal witness for the Industrial retail trade of Canada before the Parliamentary Committee at Ottawa and has been in constant attendance there, selected three typical items of evidence from the mass of material contained in the committee as indicative of the demoralizing in-

Gibbard "B's" Play 2nd Game Finals To-Day

Gibbard "B" team, playing the first of the final series at Courtright on Saturday, for the Ontario intermediate championship, was defeated by Courtright by a score of 14-0.

The batteries for Napanee for the first seven innings was Bishop and Stinson, Fraser replaced Bishop for the last two innings. Evidently it was an off-day with Bishop, for the Courtright succeeded in batting him all over the infield. The Gibbard team simply could not connect with the Courtright left-handed pitcher.

However, its only the first of the final series and the story may easily be different in the second game, being played to-day at the Geo. W. Gibbard Memorial Park.

Good support on the part of the local fans will go a long way to registering a win for the Bees' end giving them an even break for the championship in their class.

Lives Endangered In Truck Smash-Up

Collided With Bridge at Napanee

A truck driven by John J. Swartz, of 78 Albert Street, St. Catharines, collided with the bridge and several passengers being carried in the back, were hurt. William Hope of St. Catharines was most seriously injured and was removed to Kingston General Hospital, where it was found that he was suffering from internal injuries of an undetermined extent and severe cuts on the back and head. Of the seventeen passengers in the truck, others injured less critically than Hope, were Geo. Williams, Jack Roberts, William Lounsbury, Andrew Young, Dan Dakers, Ed. Redman and Gen. McQuillan, all of St. Catharines. They were given medical attention and later were able to proceed home.

At six a.m., on Saturday, Swartz left St. Catharines with seventeen passengers in his truck which had been fitted up with temporary seats and proceeded to Cornwall, where they arrived at 6:00 p.m., to attend a lacrosse game. Following the game the party started to return to St. Catharines at 1:00 a.m. Sunday and reached Napanee at 5:40 a.m. Shaft way across the bridge at the foot of Roblin's Hill. Swartz claims the brakes of the truck locked throwing the vehicle into the left side of the bridge. Nearly all the men were thrown out and the truck was fastened so firmly to the iron work of the bridge that the use of acetylene blow torchs was necessary to release it. The truck was completely wrecked.

Later in the day, the team which had been playing lacrosse at Cornwall, reached Napanee and the members of the party in the town were picked up and taken home.

The truck was being operated under a P. C. V. license, which allows only the operation of a truck load to be carried and is not intended for passengers. Swartz is faced with a charge that he was carrying on a business of public conveyance of passengers without license, contrary to Section 2, Sub-Section 2 of the Public Vehicles Act.

He will appear in Magistrate's Court in Napanee, on Tuesday, October 16th.

CO-OPERATION

The Napanee Chamber of Commerce has plans well laid for three great Community Days. The dates have been set for October 18th, 19th and 20th. On these three days the people of Napanee and County will have an opportunity to do their buying at greatly reduced prices. This has been made possible by the co-operation among the merchants, who are buying heavily at the lowest possible rates for these days.

Community Days in Napanee have long since passed the experimental stage. The merchants who have fully co-operated in the past are those who are most enthusiastic about the prospects for this year. No effort has been spared to secure the very best and latest in all lines. The principal of distribution which has been adopted is, "a small margin of profit but a big turn-over." For weeks, the merchants have been scouring the wholesale houses for bargains, of the sort which meets the needs of the Napanee community. These they will be prepared to pass on to the consumer, next week.

Apart, altogether, from the monetary aspect of the Community Days, is their undoubted value in breeding a spirit of goodwill and co-oneration among the merchants of the town, and between the town and the country. Under our present organization of business and society, a certain amount of competition seems inevitable. But when it lies unchecked, it develops a spirit of strife among the merchants and widens out until there is a cleavage between the town and the area surrounding it. An effort such as this which is fostered by the Chamber of Commerce, will do much to break down these antagonisms and rivalries. There is nothing which will cement the various and diverse interests in a community, as effectively as a concentration in a common task and devotion to a common cause.

The day for the "Lone Eagle" has passed, whether in the air service or in community living. Lone Eagle days are pioneer days, and we have long since passed the pioneer days, both in the navigation of the air and in the conduct of business. It is a long time since the "Lone Eagle" crossed the Atlantic in the "Spirit of St. Louis." Since then, the air service has gone ahead by leaps and bounds. But that has been accomplished, not by one man struggling alone, but by two and three co-operating to achieve a record, or by four or five or six of a crew, working hand in hand for the comfort and convenience and safety of the increasingly large number of air passengers.

The same is true of business. The days of the Lone Eagle passes and the Napanee Chamber of Commerce has done much to make his passing, easy and painless.

Of course, there are always the few who fail to realize the change. But, fortunately, these lone eagles are gradually becoming relics of the past, in Napanee. The Chamber of Commerce is performing a valuable function in bringing all the elements of the town and country together in this great enterprise. That the community appreciates it, has been shown by its support of the various Community Days of the past.

The present efforts bid fair to surpass all others in interest and in values offered the public.

AN INTERESTING LECTURE

The Men's Club of St. Andrew's Church and their friends had the opportunity, on Friday last, of listening to a lecture of a new sort and of absorbing interest. Dr. Morden, who was a pioneer in the artificial silk industry in England, as technical adviser and experimenter, gave the address. He explained how the cotton which is one of the raw materials of artificial silk, was clipped from the cotton seed as a by-product after the bulk of the cotton was removed for commercial purposes. He demonstrated how that was then mixed with acetic acid to produce cellulose, which, in turn, was forced through dies at high pressure and spun out in fine threads in a manner similar to that in which the spider spins its thread. This, then, was woven into fabrics of the most varied and fascinating kinds.

The most interesting part of the lecture for the uninitiated, was the demonstration which Dr. Morden gave, of these various processes. He had a long table, on which were carefully spread the different elements which went to the manufacture of this new silk. He had the cotton seeds, the linten cropped from them, the bleached lint, the cellulose, and the dies through which it is forced. Dr. Morden had, as well, individual little bobbins of the silk thread which he passed for inspection; and finally he displayed dozens of samples of the manufactured silks in all shades of color and all degrees of texture.

It is doubtful if ever before, a lecture of this sort was given in Canada, and those privileged to hear it on Friday night, were given a rare treat. Dr. Morden's long experience as a teacher, enabled him to make this technical subject understandable to everyone present.

"SAYS COL. DREW TO MR. ROEBUCK"

Just now the Province is being enlivened by the letters to the Press of two of its public servants, Colonel Drew, formerly Securities Commissioner for Ontario and Mr. A. W. Roebuck, Attorney-General for Ontario.

Col. Drew, who has been dismissed from office by the present administration, makes several serious charges against the present Attorney-General. He charges that the files from his office have been interfered with by the Attorney-General, and that Mr. Roebuck has used his office to receive a permit for a stock salesman, who had several convictions registered against him for fraud. Mr. Roebuck denies the allegation and asserts his right to examine any of the records in the Securities Department. He is supported, in his contention by the chief filing clerk, Miss Hayu, who affirms that there was nothing irregular in Mr. Roebuck removing the files from the office temporarily.

Then Colonel Drew comes forward and claims that Mr. Roebuck, because he was the president of the Diversified Investment Trust Company, which collected $186,650 from its clients and then failed, is not a fit and proper person to be trusted with the investments of the Province.

As a general rule, positions of trust and responsibility, such as that which Col. Drew occupied, ought not to be subject to the changes in government. When a man from either political party is appointed to a government position, especially one which demands careful and highly-trained officers, he should be assured of permanency of tenure, that he might work out his policies, unhampered by any fear of political interference. On the other hand, a man who accepts a political appointment should recognize that he is the servant of the state and not of one political group, and that if he interests himself in party politics he will lay himself liable to revenge when a change takes place.

The business men generally had great faith in the integrity of Colonel Drew and in the way in which he administered the Securities Act. Those who have had to do with the promotion and sale of legitimate stock, have had cause to thank him for the way in which he has protected the legitimate stock dealer and bond salesman, against the fraudulent practice of less scrupulous men.

In the meantime, the Province is treated to the rather sorry spectacle of a dismissed commissioner and an attorney-general airing their grievances in public and hurling charges and counter charges at each other. To say the least, it is hardly a dignified procedure for those who are high up in public office.

"WELL DONE!"

It was a notable achievement for the Gibbard Baseball Team to win the Class "A" Amateur Baseball Championship of the Province. It has brought honour to the Town and the whole Community, and reflects great credit on the Gibbard organization. For behind the actual winning of the games, which resulted in securing the championship, have been weeks and months of hard work, consistent living, and concentrated attention to the technique of the game, as well as to the physical fitness of those who made up the team. But even these, of themselves, did not produce a championship team. There had, as well to be a fine esprit de corps, and a sense of discipline and loyalty to the group, and the willingness to submit to the leadership of Mr. Walter Gervo, the coach of the team, and Mr. Gibbard, the manager, to achieve final success. That the young men who compose the team are, every day at their work in the factory, makes the achievement all the more notable.

But behind it all, of course, is the enthusiastic interest in amateur sport of Ernie Gibbard. Without his driving force, his enthusiasm and vision, there would have been no such team as that which won the championship.

That the Town appreciates this effort and the effort of the Team, is evidenced by the interest which they have taken in the games during the past few weeks. Approximately fifteen hundred people witnessed the thirteen inning thriller with Southampton, last week, when Gibbards pulled out of a difficult position to win by a single score. The crowd who saw that game, though keyed up to the highest pitch, showed themselves true sports when at a crucial point in the game, they cheered to the echo the second baseman of the Southampton team, who made a sensational catch. It was a fine tribute to a great play, but it was, as well, an evidence of the true spirit in sport on the part of an audience which was ninety per-cent Napanee. Whether they had won the championship or not, that game played here with the fine spirit displayed by both the team and the spectators, was ample reward for all the effort and time which had been expended by Gibbard's during the year.

But they have won the championship and Napanee and Community acclaims them as worthy sports and victors, who have ever shown themselves victorious in defeat and never so humble as today, in the hour of their victory.

Buenos Aires is making great preparations for the 32nd Eucharistic Congress of the Roman Catholic Church, which begins in the city, this week.

BRITISH REPERCUSSIONS

The evidence which is being submitted to a American Senate Committee reinforces daily the two demands advanced in a resolution to be submitted at the National Liberal Federation, which met recently; first for the institution of an inquiry into the operations of the British armament firms; and next for the removal altogether from private hands of the whole business of the manufacture of arms. —* London News Chronicle.

THE YACHT RACE

The Rainbow stained its victory by two acts of unsportsmanlike nature, according to what the captain of the Endeavour said. The tribunal which received the protest of the Englishman did not vindicate Vanderbilt's innocence. And some Americans have given their comment that such a reputation that whether the charges are exact or not, the eventual victory of the Rainbow will appear considerably diminished. Is the glory of keeping the yachting cup worth that censure of public opinion in all countries.—Le Soleil, Quebec.

WITCHCRAFT IN AFRICA

It must be remembered that Christianity in he Middle Ages, ac far from repudiating belief in witchcraft, rather encouraged it by encouraging belief in a personal devil with horns and a tail and a capacity for appearing in odd disguises. With all this history behind our own civilization it is not in the least surprising that the native, who is at least several centuries in arrear, should believe in the supernatural powers of certain men and women and believe also that they are used for the purpose of revenge. The strength with which the belief is held varies considerably, and the amount of violence to which it gives rise varies proportionately. But all through Africa natives remain convinced in a general way that when a young man or a prized animal dies, its death is unnatural and that some enemy hath done it" by magical means.—The Cape Argus.

CANADA AND BRITISH COAL

Canada, last year, made the record purchase of 1,000,000 tons of British anthracite. A few years ago the purchase was negligible. She bought neither anthracite in the United States and foolish people said it would always be so, and nothing could be done about it. Now the shipment of Welsh anthracite to Canada is providing tonnage for the export of Candian grain to Britain. The ships go to Canada cheaply, because in this mutual trade they never have to sail light. That's the way to run an Empire, will be the slogan used when the Board of Trade Journal, which records these facts today, has to enlarge its size to record the growth of mutual trade. — London Daily Express.

ALCOHOL AND CHARITY

A despatch from Montreal contains this paragraph: "The principal argument will be that the alcoholic liquors will be bought from the Liquor Commission whose profits go in large measure to charity. So that charities will benefit indirectly from the amendment sought. . . ." If the amendment is granted, and the Liquor Commission hands over part of its retail business to third parties, it will hand over part of its profits, and therefore cannot have more profit to give to charity. But the absurdity of the argument is on its face. It amounts to this, drink, get drunk, that our charities may be enriched! The Apostle of Charity never preached in that tone.—L'Action Catholique Quebec.

Carrying Place Memorial Completed

The cairn at the Carrying Place has been completed by the Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada.

It stands eleven feet high, composed of field stone gathered in the locality, and cement. It is seven feet square at the base, narrows at the top, capped by square stone. The base is concrete, a depth of five feet in the ground. The cairn is surrounded by a low fence.

This cairn marks one of the most interesting scenes in Canadian history. It bears the following inscription on a copper plate: "Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada — The Historic Carrying Place of the Bay of Quinte. Here, in June, 1787, Sir John Johnson concluded the treaty with the chiefs of the Mississaugua Indians, by which they ceded to the Crown, lands extending westward from the Bay of Quinte to Etobicoke River and northward from Lake Ontario to Lake Simcoe and the Rice Lakes. Erected, 1934."

The unveiling ceremony will take place at 3:00 p.m. on Tuesday the 16th day of October. Should the weather be unsatisfactory the meeting will take place in the nearest Anglican Church. Canadians of all classes including the Indians will be present to witness the ceremony.

Brig. Gen. Cruickshank, chairman of the Board of Ottawa will be present and the ceremonies will be in the hands of the Quinte Pioneers, and the Picton Chapter of the Daughters of the Empire.

It has been suggested that all the schools in the district should be closed that afternoon to permit children to receive this interesting lesson in Canadian history. There will afford some opportunity to Canadians to rid themselves of the charge that they are uninformed as to the history of their own country.

While the cairn is primarily a Bay of Quinte function, the territory received from the Indians by the Treaty, 147 years ago, includes the lands lying westerly from the Bay of Quinte to the Etobicoke River and northerly to Lake Simcoe. This includes a large portion of the thickly settled part of the province of Ontario.

PICKED TOO EARLY

Th percentage of C grade McIntosh apples was considerably reduced by careful orchard management, says the superintendent of the Dominion Experimental Farm at Summerland, during the past few years. It was found that about half the McIntosh grown in the Okanagan Valley are being picked too early from the standpoint of quality. This premature picking of McIntosh has been brought about largely through the shipper's desire to be first on the market and to the consumer's fear of losing a portion of their crop from windfalls.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, OCTOBER 14TH, 1934

"THE CHRISTIAN AND HIS BIBLE"

ACTS 8: 26-39

Today's lesson lets us in to the secret of the success which marked the first few years of Christianity. It shows that the Kingdom of God progressed with amazing speed because of two factors, their dependance on God's guidance, their flame-like enthusiasm and their careful and diligent training. We shall see how these are illustrated in the instance before us.

Philip was one of the men who had been chosen because of his gifts to assist in the administration of the funds of the little group of disciples. When the persecution broke out, Philip fled with them. Philip went to Samaria and there was preaching with great acceptance and success. Then, two strange things happened. In the first place, he felt divinely led to leave the place where he was so successful and go to Gaza. And in the second place he was guided to, not by the much travelled highway, but over a lonely, barren, dangerous and little used desert road. A new emphasis has been placed on guidance in Christian conduct during the past year or two by the influence of the Oxford group. And while there is a danger that dependence on guidance may become a negation of natural endowments of reason and intellect, nevertheless the constant practice of the presence of God always carries with it the possibility of divine leadership and direction. In the light of reason and common sense, many of our sheer foolishness for Philip to follow the course he followed. But subsequent events proved the hand of God in his decision.

In addition to this sense of dependence, the conduct of the early disciples was marked with a passion-like enthusiasm for souls. Whether in the city, in the village or even on the desert road, they lost no opportunity of making known the faith that saves. This enthusiasm was born out of an intense desire to have everyone share with them in the joy and freedom of their new religious experience. There have been times, of course, in the history of Christianity, where an unbridled and unreasoned emotionalism has had serious ill-effects on the cause, and yet, there is a finely tempered ethical and passionate eagerness to make the love of God prevail in the hearts of men, it is inconceivable that His Kingdom can ever come. Not until then a Church since more matches the spirit of earnestness and devotion of the early disciples, will there be any hope of these factors, their dependance on God's guidance, their flame-like enthusiasm and their careful and diligent training, we shall see how these are illustrated in the instance before us.

EDUCATION IN AN ACQUISITIVE SOCIETY

The changes through which the world is passing are having their inevitable effect on every branch of human interest, not excluding that of education. The easy-going routine of a past generation is gone. There are any number of men and women among the fraternity of education-alists who are enthusiastic over some new scheme of education, designed to solve all the problems of the modern era. There are almost as many faddists in the realm of education as there are in the field of religion. Among the mass of new ideas, however, it is possible to detect certain clear and unmistakable trends. One of these is the trend away from the conviction certain educationalists possess that the examination practice is, it has functioned in the past, a contributing cause to our economic collapse, and in itself, the result of a philosophy which modern thought is very seriously and successfully challenging. That departments of education which are notoriously conservative are now making some slight concessions to the demand for a less severe insistance on the mental test, as the final one, is a straw which shows the way in which the wind is blowing.

It is perhaps well, at the outset, to remind ourselves of that with which we are already only too familiar, that the situation in which we, as a people, live, is without parallel in the history of the world. If one thinks even superficially, he will observe the muddle that we are in. We are wealthy beyond the dreams of wealth of former days, and yet we are head over ears in debt. We have raised half the $2250,000,000 in three days, and yet thousands of people are on relief. We have produced such a surplus of goods that we cannot supply a large part of our civilization with the necessities of life. The cures which are offered are as fantastic as the problems themselves. We are advised to deliberately destroy our surplus production. That is to say, we are to cure our poverty by destroying our wealth, and this we have been doing in many instances.

It is easy enough to describe these conditions—they are patent to to all. Not to discover the remedy is not to say that we have not been deterred from the attempt, however arduous it may be, or however it may bowl over our preconceived notions and theories. It is here that we come definitely into the realm of education. For, at basis, the trouble with futilities, frustration mental and spiritual, «If the world is all wrong, then we are all wrong. If the world is crazy, then we are crazy. There can be no craziness in the world outside ourselves. Therefore, it is necessary, for us to look into our own minds and our own hearts, to discover the cause for the modern dilemna.

Taking them a casual peep into the mental and spiritual cupboard which most of us have on life, we observe, I am sure, a drastic change there, in the objects of our faith. We have lost our grip on reality. We do not believe in the things which once we trusted, absolutely. For example, we used to believe in democracy. Do we believe in democracy now ? We may say that we do, but it is difficult to conceive that there is any reality in our faith. Even Great Britain and France are the only two nations in Europe in which there are democratic institutions functioning at all. And even in Great Britain, there is a national government. We used to believe in education. Are we sure that we now do so ? We probably say that we do and yet as we look at the thousands who have spent years at school, college and university, and are now unable to find a place in the new complex society. we naturally wonder if there is anything in the education which they have received, which will enable them to face such a situation, and, in spite of it, to get out of it any real happiness and enjoyment.

The Test of Education.

We have lost our faith in these great institutions because, under the terrific strain of the past few years, they have not stood the test. Democracy has not stood the test because the men and the women who made up the democracies were themselves, not fitted for such a time of testing. The educational systems have not stood the test because they had not prepared nor fitted those who had been trained in its schools to meet the strain of an unusual spiritual conflict.

This situation is forcing men and women who are deeply concerned about the future of the race, to analyse the situation and, as far as possible, think their way through to the causes which it presents. And the interesting thing is that when we pursue our investigations far enough we discover that, at basis, the difficulty is a common difficulty. That is to say, if we continue our investigations into education far enough, we will arrive at the same fundamental problem as we would if we started with religion, or economics, or philosophy. At basis all the problems of modern society resolve themselves into one. In education as in economics, business, government and international affairs, we have been dominated by an acquisitiveness which is the result of a totally wrong attitude to life. For the past hundred years, successful living has been judged by the amount of possessions a person may have or by the power that he may be able to wield. This pagan philosophy, with all its various ramifications has dominated the plan and the method of every spiritual agencies, such as education. From the first day that the child enters school, he is not taught to look on education as a preparation for life, but as a means of securing a certain standing. When the first returns come out, Johnny finds himself rated as an "A 1" child, and Jimmy as a "3 C." Johnny, who has been endowed by his creator with an "I. Q" will come first in the list, while Jimmy who has a lower "I.Q." will be somewhere near the bottom. Thus the preparation for life—that is the development of character which, after all, is the important matter, while not neglected, is certainly not taken into account in determining the child's standing. Not satisfied with that, we devise other educational systems of merit and demerit, which are morally indefensible in a world of co-operative individuals—a world that is coming and should be relegated to the limbo of useless futilities, as education in any school so archaic as to practice them.

Now, of course, this does not mean mental accuracy and alertness are to be depreciated. Cyril Norwood, in his unsatisfactory book, recently published, "The English Tradition of Education," says on this point :— "A true education will somehow preserve the mental alertness and the eternal curiosity which are characteristic of nearly all healthy children. The object of this education will be to train its pupils to ask the right kind of questions, and in order that they may be in a position to frame a right judgment. With the ideal of true knowledge should be a continuous seeking for it and the teacher who does not find it present or sees it visibly declining in his pupils, should consider when Great Britain and France are the only two nations in Europe in which there are democratic institutions functioning at all. And even in Great Britain, there is a national government. We used to believe in education. Are we sure that we now do so ? We probably say that we do and yet as we look at the thousands who have spent years at school, college and university, and are now unable to find a place in the new complex society. we naturally wonder if there is anything in the education which they have received, which will enable them to face such a situation, and, in spite of it, to get out of it any real happiness and enjoyment.

Co-Operation in Education Not New

Bowen, in a book of liberal education, written about sixty years ago, says : "This is indeed something worth being enthusiastic about ; to convince boys that intellectual growth is noble, and intellectual labor happy, that they are travelling on no purposeless errand, mounting higher every step of the way, and may, as truly enjoy the toil that lifts them above their former selves, as they enjoy a race or a climb. This is not to be done by putting books before boys and hearing them so much at a time, or by offering prizes and punishments. It is by making it certain to the understanding of every one of them that he has got the knowledge worth having and mean in every way possible to help them to attain a little of what gives us so much pleasure."

How Teachers Are Judged

We, who have taught, know full well how bitterly we have resented school boards applying the same rule to us which we have applied to the children under our care. How often we have protested against having our work tested by the number of pupils which we have gotten through the examinations. It is well known that school boards have one eye on expenses and the other on the number of pupils which the teacher manages to get through the exams. And school boards have been known to dismiss teachers who did not get the pupils through, when no account was taken at all, by them, of the character building effect of the teacher's work, which is and ever must be the important consideration in fitting the child to take its place in the exacting conditions of modern society. This, too, has the effect—for even teachers are human—of leading the teacher to cultivate those factors in her experience on which she knows, very early in her career, the retention of her position depends.

Very often the school board is not at all able to evaluate the factors entering into the reports which they receive, nor the lack of ability always, but from their necessary preoccupation with other matters. Here, for example, is a case in point. Two teachers are teaching the same class but different subjects. This, of course, has to do with high schools. When the report comes out, one has a hundred per cent. success, in the entrance examinations, but that is a process of grinding pupils according to intellectual alertness has a very serious effect both on the one with the other. I.Q., in the matter of memory and intolerance, and the one whose memory capacity who needlessly suffers from an inferiority complex, when in reality, he may have in him the makings of the better man.

There are pupils who will never be at their best in the exam. room by the qualities which more than make up for the loss in mental speed. Somehow or other we must get a new view of education, and see that it is not merely the result of the memorizing of facts, for the sake of examinations, but that it is a process of developing character, beautiful, and best, in literature and art.

To those who say it is impossible the whole answer is, that it has been done and is being done in a national way in Austria, and to some extent in Denmark.

Stanley Baldwin, speaking in Toronto in 1927, to the University students, on "Education and the National life," said: "Now I always maintain that the great service that education renders to democracy is the same service that we hope to gain from religion. They ought to work hand in hand. It is to keep the standard, and let us have access to standard, and not only true to standard, but true to the highest standard. And let us have that applied impartially to all classes of the community from the top to the bottom. There are those who would empty the conception of state of all moral qualities, and they would confine education to a bread and butter business. If I may paraphrase Nurse Cavell's dying words : 'Patriotism is not enough.' Moral ideas applied as I suggest, is the surest way to achieve that fundamental social value which is postulated democracy. It would dissolve the abuse of wealth, the empty parade of luxury and the power of the demagogues."

The whole of our educational process will fulfill its proper function as a preparation for life when school teachers establish the cooperative spirit in classes, when school boards judge teachers not by the percentage of passes, but by the cooperation to develop the character of our citizenship in each child, so that the acquisitiveness which is the natural outcome of competition, shall have been superseded by those higher cultural aims and interests which alone will enable us to get out of life the joys and satisfactions of intellect and heart, which our marvellously rich civilization has in store for us, and for which the increasingly large amount of leasure is making more imperative for the individual.

Ninth Annual Meeting Belleville Presbyterial W.M.S. at Wilton

The ninth annual meeting of the Napanee Branch of the Belleville Presbyterial W. M. S. was held at Wilton United church on Wednesday, October 3rd. There was an excellent attendance of interested and enthusiastic delegates and W. M. S. members. Mrs. P. L. Hooper, Napanee, presided.

The opening worship service, by the Empey Hill Auxiliary, took as its subject, Service and the statement of Jesus, "I am among you, as one who serves."

Reports were received from twelve auxiliaries, one Mission Circle, three C. G. I. T. groups, seven Mission Bands and one Baby Band.

The Belleville Presbyterial allocation for 1934 is $23,000.00.

It was recommended that each Auxiliary should appoint an advisory committe of three members, to look after the work among girls, and young women.

Mrs. Fletcher, of Odessa, gave an excellent paper on "Practical Suggestions on C. G. I. T. Work," in which she stressed the need of an organized programme for the religious education of girls of adolescent age.

The possibilities in Missionary Training for Girls and Young Women was the subject dealt with by Mr. Raymond Pretts of Hawley. With a keen and analytical enthusiasm she held her audience so see that if they would survive as auxiliaries in the coming years, they must do better work with the girls and young women, today.

"Religion is not singing hymns or repeating creeds. Religion is life, with an impulse to love, which flows into the heart, with zeal and sincerity. It includes time, talents and money, as well as the motive of sharing with world friends—and it is the motive that counts," were some of Mrs. Pretts' outstanding statements.

Cordial greetings to the visiting W. M. S. members were brought by the Wilton representative and replied to by Mrs. A. C. Parks, of the Bay West Auxiliary.

The quiet half hour, conducted by Mrs. Hubert Hooper, Napanee, brought the morning session to a close.

The appeal and sincerity of this little service cannot be captured in any report, but in it Mrs. Lewis stressed the need of a quiet meeting point of purest life. "Prayer transfigured the life of Jesus and it can do the same for society, government and business, if we give it the opportunity," said Mrs. Lewis

AFTERNOON SESSION

Mrs. H. M. Hough, of Sillsville opened the afternoon session with an excellent devotional. Our present day needs for temperance education. Stating that we are spending too much on legislation and urged women to realize that better conditions can only be brought in the home and they must also realize that the responsibility rests on them as mothers, to build character in our youth, which will not allow itself to be used as material out of which the brewery and distillery can build their business.

A report of the Whitby School for Leaders, was presented by Miss Olive. Hambly, of Napanee. "The needs of youth to-day, were sympathetically presented by the speaker, of which, adult leadership is an outstanding one. Youth needs friends, not criticism and a sympathetic understanding that their worst problems are of our own creating. This is an essential starting point." Miss Hambly remarked.

Three questions were answered. The first by Mrs. Allan Baldwin of Bay East, on "How can we increase our membership ?" A few of the suggestions offered were that the task be approached prayerfully, intelligently and with a feeling of personal responsibility and real friendliness. "Play, pray and persist," was the formula for success, advanced.

Miss Maree, of Adolphustown, dealt with the query: "If every woman in our church, are not interested member of our W.M.S. would our financial problems be solved ?" It all depends on that one word "interested" said Miss Maree. our average missionary dollar per member is now about $6.00 per year. If every woman in our W. M. S. measured up to that, our present allocation would be met three times over." was the practical conclusion by the speaker.

"If every woman could look on the world as Jesus did, would all our problems be solved ?" was answered by Mrs. Hoare of Deseronto, and she spoke briefly of the need of vision in W. M. S. work. "It is, in fact, our greatest need. Our only way to get this vision is to see the possibility which Jesus saw of transforming mankind. Only as we have and live the spirit of Jesus, may we accomplish it. We must be drifted from Christ's ideal of service ? Then we must practice self sacrifice until we regain it for there is no other way," Mrs. Hoare concluded.

Dr. Retta Kilborn, of West China Adresses the Meeting

The outstanding guest speaker of the day was Dr. Retta Kilborn, of Chang-Tu, West China. She told of thrilling incidents during her service in China, from the time she first went there in 1893. Chinese life today is quite the reverse of what it was then. At that time the militia was placed last on the list of important callings, to-day it is first.

She answered the question "Is it necessary to carry on work in China ?" In a very satisfactory manner she told that what is done by Christians at home is oftentimes a handicap to the Chinese missionary. Concluding a wonderful address, she made the statement that, eternity alone could reveal the whole of the accomplishments of Christian missionaries in China, in the fields of education, medicine and evangelism. At times it looks very discouraging, but God's resources are many, if Christians will only keep the avenues open."

The Committee on Resolutions, consisting of Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Lewis, Mrs. Street, Mrs. Fletcher and Miss Hayden, brought in the following resolutions:

Resolved that we, the Napanee auxiliary of the Belleville Presbyterial of the United Church of Canada, express our loyal option, as an expedient measure, but we stand behind any movement toward a referendum. This resolution to be sent to the Presbyterial Temperance Secretary and to our Premier, Hon. M. H. Hepburn.

Resolved that a letter expressing our love and loyalty be sent to Mrs. T. W. P. Anderson, our beloved Presbyterial president.

Resolved that our thanks and appreciation be extended to the entertaining ladies, to the Minister and Officers of the Church, to Mrs. Wilson, Switzerville and Mrs. Babcock, of Wilton; duets by Mrs. Geo. Fralick and Mrs. R. W. Street; Morven, and Mrs. Everett Price and Mr. Fralick, Selby.

At the noon hour a very pleasing lunch was served by the Wilton ladies.

POULTRY REVENUE

PRODUCERS CAN INCREASE THEIR INCOME BY CRATE FATTENING

Only 22.93% of the chickens inspected by Dominion Poultry Graders, 1933-34, qualified for "A" grade. There is no mystery about the affair. For it is difficult to point out the reason why the chickens did not grade higher. It was simply because they were not sufficiently fattened before they were marketed. Chickens must be well fatted and fleshed to qualify for grade "A" and there is a much higher percentage of birds generally account of not having sufficient fat, than on account of not having sufficient flesh. It is useless, says the Chief Market Poultry Inspector, to expect range fed birds or those fattened part-time birds to have the fat required for the top grades. It just does not happen. The matter of fattening the birds and thus increasing the producer's revenue, is entirely in the hands of the producers themselves. With the marketing of the poultry season at hand, now is the time for action.

By a simple method of crate fattening on a mixture of finely ground feeds, there is no reason why chickens cannot be a very high percentage of the poultry marketed should not be made to qualify for grade "A" quality. Grade "A" means various fattening mixtures that give good results, but the point is to make sure that the feed purchased is available on the farm. Good results will be obtained if the birds are put in disinfected, warm, draughtless pens from four to five weeks before marketing. The birds should be fed twice a day, morning and evening, on a ration of finely ground home-grown grains, as follows : equal parts oats, wheat, barley or buckwheat. Add potatoes at the rate of one-fifth to one-eighth of the total meal mixture. Mix with sour milk so that the mixture will pour easily. Further detailed information on crate fattening may be secured by writing the Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, for Bulletin No. 125 on "Preparing Poultry for Market" or information may be obtained from your agricultural representative.

A large proportion of the poultry crop is bought or sold according to the Government grades of the Canadian Dressed Poultry standards and current market demand has established grade price differentials. These grade price differentials are not established by the Dominion Department of Agriculture but by the consumer-demand for quality, and that demand may change the price between grades. Since dressed poultry has been sold on official grades, the differentials have been remarkably uniform. For example, in B, three to four cents over Selected C; Imperial, two cents over B; Selected Special, one cent over A, and two cents more for the class Milkfed or Selected. This means that Milkfed Special chickens are worth five cents per pound over Selected B; that is in the case of Milkfed A, five cents per pound.

Conditions in Quebec

The first example was taken from the evidence of Mr. Gustave France, chairman of the Minimum Wage Commission for the Province of Quebec, and dealt largely with sweatshop conditions in the needle trades, brought about largely by tremendous pressure from large buyers dictating prices for semi-finished sales, which, in turn, reflected restricted purchasing power thus compelling the ever widening vicious circle of price deflation.

Ontario No Better

Ontario factories, in order to meet such competition, were following the same suicidal path, asserted the speaker, quoting in support of his statement from evidence gathered to the committee by Prof. H. Cassidy, of the Department of Social Science, University of Toronto. This particular item was culled from a report covering a survey into the Needle Trade Industry of Canada conducted under the joint auspices of the Garment Manufacturer's Association of Canada and the Amalgamated Clothing Workers' Union, and dealt with conditions in a certain clothing factory in Toronto, where actual pay envelopes filed with the committee revealed a number of female employees showed payments of from four to eight dollars a week for fifty hours.

Tax Payers Subsidize Sweat-Shops Unconsciously

"What is the net result of that sort of thing?" asked the speaker. "Does it not mean," he continued, "that the taxpayers are involuntarily subsidizing sweat-shops, because obviously no family could live on such wages and is not the further implication inescapable that we are all contributing keeper, whether we recognize the fact or not."

Commenting on this phase of the many sided subject, and emphasizing the point that human society is like one vast nervous system and that ill health in one part of the system soon or later reflects itself in general breakdown, Mr. Hougham quoted from an address delivered recently by Mr. Edward Filene, internationally recognized and respected merchandiser of Filene & Sons, Boston, in which Mr. Filene said in part:

Must Restore 'Masses' Buying Power

"Our problem is how to distribute buying power so that the masses will buy enough to keep themselves profitably employed. We will have to do a heap of fact finding to solve that problem, but it must be solved, and it can be solved in no other way. Our problem is not to find the causes which will bring us to some social order which we saw in a dream, but to organize human affairs on a basis of fact finding research. It is a problem which admits of no partisanship, no lineup according to different habits of thought. By refusing to pay higher wages, industrialists were only hurting their own throats. They were so ignorant of fundamental industrial facts that they still insisted that they could not pay higher wages at all. It had been proven time and time again, especially by Henry Ford, that higher wages resulted in lower labor costs.

"To cry out that this or that proposal is bolshevistic, as a final argument against it is as senseless and unscientific as the fulminations of the most neurotic soap boxer who is opposed to everything but the sound of his own voice and advances as the reason for his opposition that the cursed things are all bourgeois."

Emergence of Social Conscience

Indicating present trends of economic thought which are being reflected in current legislation and are likely to assume increasingly important part in business, both in Federal and Provincial spheres, Mr. Hougham declared that the most encouraging sign of the times, and which was a direct result of the investigation, at Ottawa, was the emergence of a social conscience which was already expressing itself in the principle of the social control of business.

Example in Ontario Milk Board

In case his hearers might be under the impression that such ideas were fantastic and could not find expression in a country noted for rugged individualism, the speaker cited the illustrations of legislation actually in effect at the present time in Ontario and Alberta, in both of which the principle of social control of business was clearly involved. The Milk Board in Ontario had within its power to say to the distributor of dairy products, "You will sell this milk at this price or you won't sell it at all, because we are not going to permit you to bend down the price to the primary producer in order to satisfy your own private greed for volume, be-

The Alberta Trade and Industry Act

Out in Alberta the same principle was even more drastically expressed in the Trade and Industry Act promoted by a 'Farmers' Government and assented to by the legislature without a dissenting voice. Dealing briefly with this legislation the speaker stated that it provided that if 60 per cent. of the operators in any trade or industry agreed upon certain regulations designed to stabilize their business or industry, even to the fixing of the wholesale or retail price below which the commodity produced or deal in could not be sold, they could place their recommendations before the Director of Trade and Industry and his associates, and if, after a public hearing in which arguments pro and con were presented, the Director decided that the proposals were not against the public interests an order would be made which would be binding upon 100 per cent. of the operators in the business or industry affected.

Sacred Rights Require Social Conscience

"This," said the speaker, "was surely an interference with the so-called sacred liberties of the individual with a vengeance but was a recognition of the fact that liberties ceased to be sacred when they are used in unscrupulous exploitation."

Baseball Finals

In the last game of the semi-final series with Aylmer, played at Guelph last Wednesday, Guelph emerged the victors with a score of 7-6, qualifying for the finals with the Southampton Fishermen.

Something of the story of the finals is told in the following account:

GAME AT NAPANEE

1,200 cheering, excited fans watched the greatest baseball game ever played in Napanee on Friday afternoon, when Gilbard A's met the Southampton Fishermen at the Geo. W. Gibard Memorial Park, to play the first game in the finals for the O. B. A. A. Intermediate "A" group championship.

After playing thirteen innings, Gilbards broke a tie of 2-2, which had been sustained from the 8th, when the Fishermen evened up the local's score of two which had been made one in the first and one in the third.

It was a thrilling duel between Eastern Ontario's champion southpaw, Pointer, and the Western ace Jeff Kinkley Goldsmith. But members of both teams gave real support to the batteries and some sensational plays were made on both sides.

Both pitchers maintained their reputation in the strike out method, Goldsmith retired seven men by the strike out route and Pointer fanned eight Gilbards, Goldsmith walked only one and Pointer three men.

Goldsmith, who has a reputation of being one of the best men at bat on his team, was evidently off his stride, as he had only one hit out of five times up.

Gilbards scored in the first. Bentley, first man up, was put out at first. Card singled and stole second and third on error of Aiken at first base. Blazetich sacrificed and scored Card. Brennan singled through centre field. Dunn singled, advancing Brennan to second, and Wilson struck out.

Again in the third, Gibbards scored a run. Bentley was caught out by Doran. Card made third safely on a splendid hit and scored on a wild throw by Goldsmith. Blazetich struck out and Brennan struck out.

Southampton's two runs were scored in the fifth. Noble went to first when hit by pitcher's ball. Doran was caught out by Card. Brown was put out at first on assist by Gibbard. Baker singled, advancing Noble to third. Kugler made first on error of Gibbard and Noble scored. Baker made third, Wain singled, scoring Baker. Aiken struck out by Pointer.

After going 7½ innings without a run being scored on either side, the game of interest in the game went to Ernie Gibbard, the manager of the local team. Brennan came up and was out at first. Dunn singled and stole second. Wilson struck out. Then Johnson, Dunn and Wilson got and brought home Dunn to win the game.

The crowd was almost delirious with excitement and Ernie was immediately surrounded, hoisted on the shoulders of a bunch of fans, and was carried off the field, the hero of the day.

GAME AT SOUTHAMPTON

Southampton, Oct. 8. — A new pitching star flasher across the Ontario amateur baseball horizon today as George "Lefty" Blazetich, spectacled right hander of Gibbard Athletics, of Napanee, scattered ten Southampton hits and blanked the Fishermen 4 to 0, to win the O.B.A.A. championship for the Napanee club in two straight games.

With a curve ball that tantalized the Fishermen batters into swinging wildly, and either striking out or popping fly balls that were smothered by the infield, the Napanee hurler, one year out of junior ranks, bore down hard in the last innings with the finest display witnessed in this baseball town for many years. Blazetich was the pitcher who sent Toronto St. Cyprians to a title.

Conclusion

At the conclusion of the address, which had been listened to with rapt attention, on behalf of the Chamber of Commerce, expressed to the speaker appreciation of all present. He said it was a new and encouraging thing to hear business executives making such a convincing plea for social and economic justice as that made by Mr. Hougham.

The meeting adjourned after singing of the National Anthem.

(Agricultural Representative)

We conducted our final School Fairs on Monday, at Enterprise, and Tuesday, at Odessa. Everything considered, we feel that the Fairs were a success, this year. We were favored with exceptional fine weather and an increase in the flumber attending each fair, was noted. Upon going over our records we have found that a large number of pupils who received seed, did not make any entry at their Fair. It would make for more interest and better competition—both on the part of the children and the judges—if every child receiving seed endeavored to make an exhibit. The school fairs are solely an educational feature for the children. They should be encouraged and instructed by the parents and teachers in every way, to do the work themselves. The suggestion is made that the teacher see that at least, one girl in every school makes an exhibit in each class of sewing and cooking. The school fairs would not be a success without the co-operation of the teachers, parents, Women's Institutes and the Public School Inspectors and we wish to take this occasion to say "thank you."

It will be of interest to everyone to know that the local Plowmen's Association have set the date for the plowing match. A meeting has been conducted in the County for the past two years and it is hoped that the old interest and enthusiasm in this event will be revived on Wednesday, October 17th, when the Plowing Match will be held on the farm of W. H. Hunter, Napanee. Word has been received from Mr. J. A. Carroll, superintendent of Agricultural Societies Branch, Toronto, that Mr. L. H. Winslow, Ida., has been appointed judge. The drawing will commence at 9 a.m. sharp. An attractive prize list is being prepared and it is hoped that a good number of competitors will participate in this important event. For further information regarding the Plowing Match, call at this office or see the President of the local branch, Mr. W. H. Hunter.

The Lennox and Addington Poultry Pool, with the co-operation of this office, have arranged a series of poultry meetings to be held at ten different centres throughout the County. The first of these meetings will be held on Monday evening, October 15th, at Adolphustown. Mr. F. H. Baker and Mr. J. F. Haggerty, Dominion Poultry Commissioners, will address the meetings and discuss various phases of grain-fattening and proper feeding, along with pool marketing. Everyone is cordially invited to attend these meetings and a special invitation is extended to the ladies who are, each year, becoming more and more interested in the marketing of poultry. Complete information regarding the meetings appears in another section of your paper.

Hydro Customers On Country Lines Will Be Bonused

The Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, at its regular meeting adopted the proposals announced, recently, as under consideration, involving bonusing of rural power-users in respect of their utilization of current for certain electrical appliances.

The Commission decided that a bonus be given to all persons on existing Hydro rural lines, excepting owners of cottages, to the extent of the amount of current used in the operation of pumps connected with sanitary appliances, on washing machines and radios. This bonus is to be calculated on an average consumption of these items of equipment, as ascertained by the rating department. The same rate basis will be applicable to all bills throughout the various systems.

With 60,000 customers attached to the rural system, the work of preparation for the rural bonus system involves considerable inquiry and tabulation on the part of the Commission's officials. But the total amount of this bonus on these applicances is estimated to be about $62,-000 a year. The Commission, which is thus giving rural Ontario the benefit of its surplus, and presently available power, is to be more than recoup itself for this concession by an increase in the general consumption of power on rural Hydro lines, now existing and on extensions to be made in the scheme.

It is believed that a large part of this new power will be available to consumers at the second date, which in almost all systems is 2 cents or less per kilowatt hour. Lighting only will be charged at the high initial rate, while all additional services will be obtainable at the rate of 2 cents.

CHARTERED BANKS WILL ASSIST NEW INVESTORS IN REFUNDING LOAN

For the particular convenience of new investors who wish to subscribe in moderate amounts for the bonds of the 1934 Refunding Loan, the chartered banks have agreed with the Dominion Government to loan up to 75% of the par value of bonds purchased by new investors. For example, a $100 bond may be purchased with a deposit of $25, and a $1,000 bond with a deposit of $250. In each case the balance of payments may be spread over periods up to six months, and the banks will carry the 4½% obligations.

Buchanan, local agricultural representative, will address these meetings. Various phases of crate fattening and proper feeding will be taken up, along with pool marketing. As the ladies are very much interested, financially, in poultry marketing, we would ask them to make a special effort to be present.

Will you, therefore, pass the word along to your neighbors, so that we may have a full representation at each meeting? We believe the Poultry Pools have had a stabilizing effect on the price of dressed poultry and the movement should receive your hearty support. Come prepared to offer suggestions as to how your pool can render a better service. It is your organization and can only be improved by your assistance and support. The directors are making every effort to improve the system and cut the overhead cost to the lowest possible point, this year.

May we call your attention to the fact that the Poultry Fair will be held this year on November 28th and 29th. The Lennox and Addington Poultry Pool will be held on the same dates. Outside buyers will be on hand as on former occasions and competitive bids will be received for all graded and boxed poultry. A full month is necessary to ensure the proper finish of your birds for the higher grades.

VARIETY AT THE COMING ROYAL WINTER FAIR

Variety and novelty to a striking degree seem assured for the forthcoming Royal Winter Fair, a fact made plain by the enlarged number of departmental prize lists and catalogues containing new classifications which are now being mailed to thousands of exhibitors from the offices in the city of Toronto. For the Royal really comprises "ten big shows in one," each appealing to widely different interests, yet bound into unity by being gathered in a single space no larger than many a Dutch or Belgian farm—under one roof.

The Royal Horse Show is now accepted as society's opening of the winter season for combined sport and fashion. It is in a class apart so far as Canada is concerned, and finds its peer this year, only at the smart New York Horse Show. An excellent program is being arranged with highly interesting special interludes.

Then cattle—exhibits for both dairy and beef breeds are assured of keen competition from the United States. Not only are the best herds from the Middle West taking in the Royal at Toronto, this year, but several are making a special point of their display because the Royal Winter Fair offers them the last opportunity to add points in their "all American contests" which cover six or eight of the large American Fairs. All the Canadian breed associations without exception, promise first rate entries.

The same cheery prospects are being reported to the Royal Winter Fair management for the exhibits of sheep, swine, poultry, pet stock (including rabbits, guinea pigs and fancy fish), fruit, flowers, seeds and grains.

The Royal Cat Show, which is carrying on traditions of the Canadian National Cat Club of almost 30 years, reports enthusiastic prospects for this year's entry, and the officials of the Canadian Cat Council, under whose auspices the Royal show is held, have the enthusiastic support of American cat fanciers in several states contiguous to the Canadian border.

A gratifying feature of the preliminary work is that despite drought, and other severe conditions, Canadian agriculturists, breeders, and stockmen from Prince Edward Island to the Rocky Mountains are as determined and hopeful as in more prosperous years.

"Their spirit cannot be downed" was one admiring outburst at a committee of the Royal, recently.

OBITUARY

MRS. REUBEN H. YORK

There passed away in Marlbank on September 27th, Mrs. Reuben H. York, formerly Miss Annie Estella Young, eldest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Young, at the age of 62 years and two months.

Deceased came from Tamworth to settle in Marlbank, twenty-four years ago. She is survived by her husband three daughters and five sons, Mrs. Wm. C. Marlin, Marlbank; Mrs. W. L. Wickham, Lime Lake; Mrs. Bowart G. Stinson, Tamworth; William J. York, Marlbank; Jesse F. York, Marlbank; Edward Calver and Thomas, at home; one sister, Mrs. Joseph Millikan, Tweed; four brothers, Wm. J. and Thomas Young, Marlbank; Charlie McGee Young, Saskatchewan; Carman Young of Forest Mills. She is also survived by four granddaughters and three grandsons.

Her two former pastors who had visited her at her bedside, Rev. A. D. Waite, of Deseronto and Rev. W. H. Clark, Shannonville, were unable to be present, the present pastor officiating in their absence.

Among those from a distance, attending the memorial service were J. F. Hill, M.P.P., Shannonville; G. H. Stokes, Belleville and friends from Toronto, Belleville, Trenton, Verona, Tweed, Napanee and Deseronto.

Marlbank and the community has lost one of its beautiful saints. To know her was to believe in her as a true and sincere expression of the Christian spirit. The deep spiritual tone of her own religious life is a sacred remembrance for all who really knew her in life.

PARENTS SHOULD SET STANDARDS FOR CHILDREN

New York — President Roosevelt advises parents to let up standards for themselves as well as for their children, in an editorial in the October issue of the Parents Magazine.

"The parents of our children are the guardians of our future citizens," writes the United States President. "They cannot evade the responsibility which is theirs, through example and intelligent understanding to inspire and lay the groundwork for that type of character which does what is right under any given circumstances and is able to withstand temptation.

"Parents as well as citizens might well set up standards for themselves as well as for their children."

Worms, however generated are found in the digestive tracks, where they set disturbances detrimental to the health of the child. There can be no comfort for the little ones until the hurtful intruders have been expelled. No better preparation for this purpose can be had than Miller's Worm Powders. They will immediately destroy the worms and correct the conditions that were favorable to their existence.

NEWS AND INFORMATION FOR THE BUSY FARMER

(Furnished by the Ontario Department of Agriculture)

Advanced Registry in swine is catching on in Ontario. Applications for entry are increasing rapidly, and the first testing station in Ontario located at New Hamburg with 34 pens, is filled to capacity, and scores of litters will be put on test on the breeders' farms this fall. Swine raisers are wanting to know what is back of the sow or boar they purchase, and the best way to provide that information is through official feeding and slaughter tests.

Swede Roots for Seed

Swede roots for seed may be stored either in outside pits or in a dark, well ventilated cellar, free from frost yet sufficiently cool to keep them from sprouting too early in the spring. When the roots are pulled the tops should be cut off about an inch to an inch and a half from the crown.

Protecting Potatoes From Freezing Injury

Losses to potatoes from low temperatures may be prevented by adopting the following measures: Harvest the crop before heavy frosts. (2) Store the crop in rooms having a temperature between 35 and 40 degrees, F., thus preventing the potatoes from turning sweet and the development of necrosis. (3) Provide protection against frost for potatoes transported during the cold months. (4) When it is known that potatoes have been undercooked do not handle them until it is certain that the temperature is above the freezing point.

Fibre Flax Harvest

The harvesting of flax for fibre has been completed at the Central Experimental Farm. The yield of both straw and seed is rather light as compared with previous years. It would appear that the hot, dry summer has been largely responsible for such relatively low yields. As soon as the straw has been dewretted it will be spread on the meadows for dew retting and at the end of approximately three weeks from that time the retted straw will be picked up, carried to the flax mill, scutched, hackled and baled for market.

The Farmer Controls Cost

"The cost of producing crops is at all times a very important consideration," observes R. S. Hopkins, B.S.A., Dominion Field Husbandman. "Return values are more or less controlled by the law of supply and demand or by other prevailing conditions, and the producer has very little influence upon the price he will receive for his product. He has however, some control over his cost of production and the economy with which he produces his crop may mean the difference between profit and loss on that crop. In times of depression and low prices this is doubly important. If profits are to be maintained when prices are low, costs must be measured accordingly."

Apple Crop Report

In Eastern Ontario the orchardmen are greeting with considerable satisfaction the prospects for the apple crop. Although the yield of both Baldwins and Spies will be much lighter than expected a few weeks ago, the quality of the fruit is very good and the crop will be above the average of last year. Corn-cutting and silo-filling has been the order of the day in most sections. Reports of threshings in Wellington continue to give details of splendid yields of grain and the quality of the grain is of higher quality than for two or three years. Sweet clover seed there has yielded as high as ten bushels to the acre and while timothy yields were not as high, good prices are very encouraging. Haldimand also reports higher yields than at first anticipated. Mangels will be a bumper crop in Middlesex, so the supply of feed for livestock will be much larger than expected.

Poultry Field Day At The Central Experimental Farm

A special poultry field day on the finishing, dressing and grading of poultry, will be held at the Poultry Division, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, on October 18th.

Demonstrations and lectures will be given on fattening feeds for poultry, crate feeding and crate fattening practices, killing and sticking, and grading of dressed poultry.

Farmers and poultrymen who would be interested can secure programs either through the Experimental Farm or by notifying their local Agricultural Representative.

Extend Ontario Boar Bonus Policy Until Next March

In pursuance of the present policy of encouraging the production of bacon hogs, suitable for the export market, it is announced that the first share of the assistance offered under the Ontario Boar Bonus Policy, will be continued until the end of the present fiscal year, March 31st, 1935. Under this policy a bonus of $10 is offered in owners of purebred boars of approved type available for public service. If such boars are from sows qualified under advanced registry, the bonus payable is $50. Applications should be sent to H. J. Mavber, 59 Victoria Street, Toronto 2, Ont.

Crate Feeding of Poultry

Crate feeding of poultry gives the highest quality flesh, and feeding in clean sanitary pens with the best substitute. Only healthy birds of any kind will pay for feeding. Before confining them in crates or pens they should be given a laxative and made clean of lice. Feed sparingly at first. Two to four weeks are required for the finishing. It has been found that almost any good mixture of home-grown grains finely ground and mixed with milk will answer.

A satisfactory finishing ration may be composed of the following:—

One part finely ground whole wheat.

One part finely ground whole barley.

One part finely ground whole oats.

Fresh skim, whole or butter-milk should be used as a mixer. This ration is satisfactory for all market poultry except geese and ducks.

Fruit Export Regulated

The new Fruit Export Marketing Scheme, recently approved at Ottawa, is of particular interest to Ontario, since its purpose is to regulate the marketing for export from Canada of fresh apples and fresh pears. During the past five years the average annual amount of fruit exported from the Dominion has been more than two million barrels.

By regulating the export, it is anticipated that over-supplies and shortages of Canadian fruit on the markets of the United Kingdom will be prevented and better prices obtained. It is also hoped to raise the general standard of Canadian apples sold in the United Kingdom. A Board has been appointed to administer the scheme, of which the Ontario Member is P. W. Hodgetts, Parliament Buildings, Toronto, from whom licenses may be secured for export of fruit. The Board will regulate the movement of all apples and pears exported from Canada and may prohibit during any period the exportation of any quantity, size or quality of fruit. Assessment will be made and collected on fruit exported, such assessment to be used to pay the Board's expenses. No person shall export from Canada any fruit in contravention of the Board's regulations nor until he has obtained a license.

Poultry Revenue

Only 23.93% of the chickens inspectedin Canada during the fiscal year, 1933-34, qualified for A grade. There is no mystery about it after all nor is it difficult to point out the reason why the chickens did not grade higher. It was simply because they were not sufficiently fattened before they were marketed. Chickens must be well fatted and fleshed to quality for grade A, and there is much higher percentage of this grade traded on account of not having sufficient fat, than on account of not having sufficient flesh. It is useless, says the Chief Market Poultry Inspector, to expect to have fed birds or short period crate fattened birds to have the fat required for the top grades. It just does not happen. The matter of fattening the poultry thus increasing the producers' revenue is entirely in the hands of the producers themselves. With the marketing of the poultry crop close at hand, now is the time for action.

Try a simple method of crate fattening on a mixture of finely ground home grains, there is no reason whatever why a very high percentage of the poultry marketed should not be made to qualify for grade Special and grade A. There are various fattening mixtures that give good results, but the point is to make use of the feed produced and available on the farm. Good results will be obtained if the birds are put in disinfected, warm, draughtless crates

IT'S LIVER THAT MAKES YOU FEEL SO WRETCHED

Wake up your Liver Bile

—No Calomel necessary

For you to feel healthy and happy, your liver must pour two pounds of bile juice into your bowels every day. Without that bile, digestion may be sour, your food may just decay in the bowels, and you become sick and constipated. You need the bile to flush that waste out of you.

Here is the very mildest of all laxatives to make this bile flow freely—a vegetable compound called Carter's Little Liver Pills. Purely vegetable. Safe. Quick and sure results. Ask for them by name. Refuse substitutes. 25c. at all Druggists.

APPLE CARLOTTA

Peel and slice enough apples almost to fill a baking dish. Grease it, make a layer of apple, cover with breadcrumbs, sugar, small bits of butter, a little ground cinnamon and two cloves. Fill up the dish with these layers, then cover with golden syrup mixed with an equal quantity of water. Cover with breadcrumbs and bake.

BAKED PEACH DUMPLINGS

One and one-half cups flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 4 tablespoons shortening, half teaspoon salt, three-quarters cup sugar, one tablespoon flour, one teaspoon cinnamon, one-quarter teaspoon nutmeg, one-eighth teaspoon salt, four peaches, milk.

Mix and sift the first two ingredients with half teaspoon salt. Rub in shortening and cut in milk to make a soft dough. Roll on a floured molding board into a sheet about three-eighths of an inch thick and cut in four triangles. Peel peaches and cut in halves. Remove stones and fill cavities with teaspoonful of red raspberry preserves. Press halves together again and place a peach on each triangle of dough. Sprinkle with mixture of sugar, flour, cinnamon, nutmeg and salt. Moisten the edges of the dough with cold water, bring up over peach, making a triangle and press edges firmly together. Place in a well buttered baking pan and pour over a syrup made of half a cup of sugar, one-quarter cup boiling water and one tablespoon butter. Bake until peaches are tender. This will take about forty minutes, depending on size and ripeness of fruit. A hot oven, 425 degrees F. should be maintained throughout the baking. Serve warm with cream.

PEACH PIE

Six or eight peaches, 3 eggs, one cup sugar, three-quarters cup flour, half teaspoon salt, four tablespoons lard or other shortening, one tablespoon cold water.

Mix and sift flour and salt. Rub in shortening with pastry blender. Sprinkle over water and cut with a broad knife until dough forms a ball. Pat into a flat round cake on a floured molding board and roll into a thin round sheet. Fit into a deep pie dish. Peel peaches and cut in halves. Remove stones and put, cut side up, into the pastry lined pie dish. Beat eggs until very light with sugar and pour over peaches. Bake fifty minutes in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.). Cool and serve.

BROWN NUT BREAD

One and one half cups graham flour, three - quarters cup wheat flour, one and one-half cups sour milk, one-third cup molasses, half a teaspoon salt, one and one half teaspoon soda, half cup broken walnuts.

Mix dry ingredients, add milk to molasses and stir well to a smooth batter, but meats last. Place in greased tin and bake in moderately slow over, one hour.

M. W. Grand Matron Order Eastern Star Visited District

On Thursday evening, September 28th, Belleville Chapter No. 55, Order of the Eastern Star, entertained their friends to a banquet, reception and dance in honour of Mrs. Mildred Knowles Schanabacher, Most Worthy Grand Matron of the General Grand Chapter.

The banquet at 6:30 p.m. was held in the dining room of the Tabernacle Church, where a large number of Chapter members and their friends gathered to honour their high officer. At the Speaker's table with Mrs. Schanabaker were many General Grand Chapter officers, Mrs. Susan Reid, District Deputy Grand Matron, Mrs. M. J. Barlow, Convenor of the Entertainment Committee, Miss Irene Hallam, Worthy Matron of Belleville Chapter No. 55 and Mr. Knowles, Patron of Belleville Chapter 55 and chairman of the evening.

The program consisted of an address of welcome by the chairman and numerous toasts. In response to the toast to the General Grand Chapter, Mrs. Schanbacher in a very delightful manner gave a concise summary of her ter mof office. During the banquet many rollicking Irish songs were sung and two solos were rendered very acceptably.

At 9:00 p.m., the party went to Johnston's Academy where the Reception and dance was held. The Patrol from Belleville Chapter No. 55 gave an exhibition of floor work with all present joining in the Grand March to be presented to Mrs. Schanbacher, who looked very charming in a white and green crepe gown with green accessories and carrying a sheaf of roses, the gift of Miss Irene Hallam.

Dancing was enjoyed for a few hours at the conclusion of which lunch was served and Mrs. Flossie Smith, popular past Matron of Belleville Chapter 85 presented the honoured guest with a token of remembrance of her evening spent in Belleville.

Mrs. Schanbacher, who resides in Port William, Ontario, is the first Canadian woman to hold this distinguished office and will be the last Ontario Most Worthy Grand Matron for at least one hundred and sixty-five years! Belleville and District are considered very fortunate indeed in having her visit them. During the past three years, Mrs. Schanbacher has travelled in many countries of the world in the discharge of her duties and in the interests of the Order of the Eastern Star. Her experiences have been many, her entertainments most colorful, but the climax will be reached when she presides over the sessions of the General Grand Chapter which will be held in Tampa, Florida, during the week of November 18th.

Mrs. T. M. Asselstine, Mrs. Sheva Legrow, Mrs. C. M. Sheridan and Mrs. T. H. Herrington, of Napanee, were among those who attended the banquet.

SWITZERVILLE MISSION BAND

The Busy Bee Mission Band held their regular meeting at the school on Tuesday afternoon, with sixteen members and several visitors present.

The president, Jean Ainley, conducted the meeting, which was opened by the singing of a hymn, followed by the minutes of the last meeting, read by the secretary, Ralph Wilson. It was then decided to hold the next meeting on October 31st, and have a Hallowe'en program.

The call to worship by the president was followed by the response and then the Lord's Prayer, in unison. All joined in singing another hymn, after which the scripture from Matt. 28: 18-20 was read by Roy Clark, and the memory verse, Psalm 119: 105 was taught by Muriel Craig.

The offering was received by Lois Paul and Verna Amey and all joined in saying the response.

Interesting Watch Tower items were given on Korea by Audrey Brandon, Africa, by Sally Lees; China by Doris Vandervoort; Stewardship by Sidney Wilson; Temperance by Vivian Craig. MORVEN Y. P. S.

The Morven Y. P. S. met Friday evening for their first meeting for the fall, with a very good attendance. The meeting was in charge of Christian Fellowship vice-president Stella Craig.

The roll call was answered by "Gems of Thought" after the appointment of the secretary for the meeting. The topic "The Law of Christian Living" was given, followed by prayer by Richard Sirret.

Following the business part of the meeting, conducted by Rev. Oliver in the absence of the president, an interesting readings was given by Irene Vamlyck and Grace Street. After another hymn a reading by Luva Perry was much enjoyed. This was followed by the collection and prayer by Stella Craig.

The next meeting will be held on Friday evening, October 12th, at the White Church, in charge of Miss Luva Perry. Everyone interested in young people's work is urged to attend.

"MISSING FROM HIS HOME"

There is still a great deal of movement in the world, as we are reminded by Scotland Yard's decision to publish the names of a thousand missing girls on the chance that one of them may prove to have been the victim of the Brighton trunk murder. Any woman in this country has the right to disappear at will, so long as her disappearance is not a flight from justice and does not infringe the rights or endanger the safety of others or herself. And an astonishing large number of people do disappear. The number of persons who vanish every year in London alone is much greater than Scotland Yard's moderate thousand. Full statistics are not available, but, to take one year alone, in 1911, 28,268 persons were reported as having disappeared from their homes, but 28,-191 either came back of their own accord or were found by the police or friends, leaving 467 of whom no trace was ever found.

There are, as police records show, many cases in which a person seems to vanish into space and is never seen or heard of again, as in the strange story of Mr. Benjamin Bathurst, who, on his way back through Germany from a diplomatic mission during the Napoleonic wars, stopped at the little town of Perleberg, in Brandenburg, to change his carriage horses. He had supper, was seen a moment standing in a circle of light beside his coach, and the next disappeared as if he had vanished into thin air, and in spite of intensive search continued for two years and a reward was offered in vain. Not a trace was ever found.

Lost in Paris

A few years ago a well-known Russian general disappeared from Paris, and it is an accepted fact that several other Russian exiles have met with a similar fate. Badly burned about the face and hands, he is being attended to by Dr. Cameron of Swan River.

From the lips of 10-year-old Ada came the story of the awful death. Some time before 3:00 a.m. she was awakened by terrific flames and billowing clouds of smoke. She jumped wildly from her bed rushed to the stairway only to be driven back by other children on the top floor at the same time calling out to her mother who with the baby had gone downstairs. Snatching the baby in her arms the mother rushed upstairs to save the children, but she never reached them. She was overcome by smoke and fell with the baby in her arms. Ada, after arousing the others, leaped to safety from an upstairs window.

According to Ada, she, and the other children in the house, were all tired about 9:30 p.m. on Saturday night. Ada said her mother had left the kitchen of the cookhouse in order to make a cup of tea for the others when they returned from Swan River to Constable Smith of the Swan River detachment of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, along with Fire Chief Drach, district coroner of Roblin, attended at the scene of the fire on Saturday afternoon and evening and decided that an inquest was not necessary.

The building was a two storey shingle roof, frame construction, with cement additions. The cookhouse was under construction at the time of the fire. No insurance was carried. The only entrance to the house was from the kitchen, although another had been contemplated by way of the new addition.

Mrs. Walsh was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Todd and was born at Coehill, Ontario. She leaves to mourn her passing, her husband, son, William, Swan River, and Walter Edwin, age 19, three daughters, Ada, Evelyne and Nita. Her mother, one brother, Albert Todd of Bowsman, and three sisters, also survive.

Mr. and Mrs. Walsh have resided in the Swan River valley continuously for 27 years, with the exception of the last three years when Mr. Walsh served his country in the Great War. Mrs. Walsh was well and favorably known throughout the district, a loving mother and kindly neighbor, she will be greatly missed by all who knew her. To the husband and family surviving goes out the sympathy of the whole community.

Funeral services were conducted at Swan River United Church and at the graveside, in the Birchwood cemetery, by Rev. F. C. Middleton, Beautiful floral tributes covered the grave, the funeral cortege accompanied the remains to their last resting place. Pallbearers were: Messrs. Charles Farstein, Charles McDonald, Gps. Johnson, Fred Fellowes, Jack Wray and George Ross.

Story of Catastrophe Which Wiped Out Family of Six

The following account of the death by burning, of Mrs. Edmund Walsh and five children, in Manitoba, was taken from a paper at Swan River, Manitoba.

The surviving husband, Mr. Walsh, is a brother of R. J., J. P. and A. R. Walsh, who live near Napanee. Mrs. Bruce Smith of Kingston, Mrs. Harvey Moon, J. P. Percy and Harry Todd of Toronto.

"In striking semblance to the horrible tragedy of March 27 last, when fire took the lives of a mother and five small children in the Bowsman district, roaring death flames fanned by a strong south west wind, with all their frightfulness and devastation, visited the isolated farm home of William Edmund Walsh, NW. 4-27-28, last Sunday morning and left in its wake the charred bodies of a mother and five children. Heroic efforts by the father saved two small daughters, while a third one awakened by the crackling of fire jumped to safety from a two-storey window and was uninjured.

The dead mother was Mrs. Bertha Walsh, aged 44 years. The children, Kenneth, aged 15 years; Mabel, aged 13 years; Rita, aged 12 years; Dorothy, aged 8 years and Mary, aged 2 years.

The three children that escaped death were Nita, aged 4 years; Evelyn, aged 6 years and Ada, aged 10 years.

Mr. Walsh, who with his son and neighbors, was in Swan River on the Saturday evening, was returning home and when nearing the place noticed his two-storey frame house aflame. Rushing to the fire and grabbing a ladder the father made a desparate effort to gain entrance to the flaming building through an up-stairs window only to have the ladder give way and his efforts frustrated. The horror-stricken father was not to be baffled for he broke through a window on the lower floor and grabbed little Nita and Evelyn and carried them to safety. Returning to the mass of flames the father almost gave his own life in an effort to save his wife and family. He made a third downstairs for Mrs. Walsh and baby whom he knew to be sleeping below but choked with smoke and flame he was overcome and dropped to the floor unconscious. He was carried out by his son Walter and a neighbor. Badly burned about the face and hands, he is being attended to by Dr. Cameron of Swan River.

From the lips of 10-year-old Ada came the story of the awful death. Some time before 3:00 a.m. she was awakened by terrific flames and billowing clouds of smoke. FREE TRIP TO JAMAICA FOR SOME LUCKY PERSON

Leaders in Canadian Public Life To Receive Letter From Tourist Trade Development Board Offering All-Expense - Paid visit to Winner

Leaders in Canadian commercial, professional and other spheres, may expect to receive in the near future a letter from the Tourist Trade Development Board of Jamaica, British West Indies, emphasizing the merits of that southern colony as a tourist paradise. This letter will offer to some fortunate Canadian—the holder of a lucky postcard—the opportunity of spending several days in the island, without cost.

According to a decision taken by this Board, which is making every effort to interest the people of this Dominion in Jamaica, four thousand letters are being mailed to prominent individuals in Canada, each containing a postcard that bears a number. One of these persons to whom this letter is addressed will receive notification from Kingston of his or her good fortune of having the opportunity of a free ocean journey to Jamaica and return on a comfortable yacht-like liner of the Canadian National Steamships, in addition to being the guest of that colony, with island travel and entertainment privileges without any expense whatever, during the time occupied by such a visit to the colony.

The Hon. A. E. DaCosta, O.B.E., M.L.C., of the City of Kingston, has already drawn the number, which will be announced in the near future.

In offering this free trip to Jamaica it is stipulated that the palatial C. N. R. steamships will be used as the means of transportation between this country and Jamaica. The free holiday, in the option of the fortunate competitor, will extend over a period of 22 days or 36 days, should it be decided to enjoy the trip during the winter months, when these vessels sail from Halifax or Boston. If the attractions of a voyage down the St. Lawrence, with Montreal the point of departure, are sought, the holder-ticket will have the privilege of enjoying a holiday extending over 25 days or 39 days, since the choice of the trip extends over a year.

The winner of this free holiday will be advised by air mail, the announcement being made six weeks after the circular letters and postcards have been despatched.

ITALY'S MARRIAGEABLE WOMEN INSPIRED OF THEIR POSITIONS

Mussolini Determined to Boost Country's Birthrate

Rome—Italy ought to have more babies, Premier Mussolini thinks, and he set out to deprive all marriageable maids of their jobs.

The result, Il Duce himself has predicted, will be that they'll have to find themselves husbands.

Mussolini, determined to boost Italy's birth rate, took another step yesterday in his campaign.

Henceforth, every single man who fares to get or retain the Government will have to prove his intentions to be married, and private industry will be expected to live up to similar requirements. The Premier already has ousted numbers of single women from official jobs, because they were bachelors, and gave to married men that they were preparing to become benedicts.

Furthermore, the Fascist drive to encourage marriage throughout the country the thousands of single girls who do not support families will be affected, along with Fascist bachelors.

Every male taken from the ranks of Italy's unemployed becomes forthwith a potential husband and father, Il Duce has declared.

Mussolini's first steps in the campaign to get women out of the labor market, it also took these forms:—

The Government issued definite orders that the number of women admitted to examination for public jobs would be cut by 10 per cent.

The Fascist textile organization ordered that 30 per cent of all workers in the weaving branch of the industry should be men, "to meet the demand of male employment." Women now form an estimated 90 per cent of the total number of textile employees.

Women were reported being prepared to extend the percentage system to other industries.

The Fascist institute ordered all women clerks out and hired young men as clerks and stenographers.

TRAIN CONDUCTOR EXTENDS FELICITATIONS EN MASSE

Veteran passenger conductors who have operated on one run "since Hector was a pup" sometimes have their difficulties, instead of the fact that they have watched their passengers grow from youth and age to the status of married men and women.

Conductor Arthur Boucher, who has been operating between Island Pond over the C. N. R. for more than twenty years, is no exception to this rule. He has watched his passengers grow from children to married folk, and numbers of old regulars. For years it has been his habit to greet newly-married couples on their return from honeymoon with a speech of felicitation and good wishes, every time a perturbation, however, on his recent run to discover seven newly-married couples each taking their initial honeymoon trip and each waiting for the veteran conductor's felicitations. To each couple he spoke a few words timed it was necessary to seat the seven couples as close together in a coach, as possible and address the felicitations en masse.

Twenty years previously, and of his fate nothing was ever known. Every year, too, twenty clergymen of the Church of England are lost or, in official language, their "addresses cannot be ascertained." Thirteen years have passed since Mr. Victor Grayson, Socialist M.P. for the Colne Valley, disappeared, and nothing has come to light about him since.—Miscellany.

ROMANCE AND DIVIDENDS IN AGRICULTURE

Farming of yesterday was an occupation; to-day it is a highly diversified industry, brought about by improved methods, improved implements and material, and by the application of practical science. At the same time, the whole organization of agriculture has lost none of its romance, and it is for this and other reasons that it has found a place in the radio programmes of the coming winter.

For the next thirty weeks, from Thursday evening, October 4, to April 25, 1935, Hon. Robert Weir, Dominion Minister of Agriculture, has arranged, with the courtesy and co-operation of the Canadian Radio Commission to have a five-minute talk given every Thursday over a coast-to-coast network of 34 stations on some phase of service of the Department in relation to the general public. On the eastern network the talk will be broadcast from Ottawa at 8:05 p.m. every Thursday evening; from Winnipeg at 7 p.m.; from Edmonton over the Calgary, Moose Jaw,

WAS CONSTIPATED FOR 30 YEARS

WOMAN'S LONG SEARCH FOR A REMEDY

The trouble with most remedies for constipation, is this woman found, is that they give only temporary relief. Having at last found a permanent corrective, she writes to tell us about it :—

"For upwards of 30 years I was a victim of acute constipation. I tried practically everything that it was possible to try. I admit I was a chonic case, and every new remedy I tried, helped for a day or two—after that I was just as bad as ever. Three months ago I took my first taste of Kruschen Salts, and every morning since, and every morning so long as I live, my first duty upon rising is my Kruschen. I honestly feel a different woman. My bowels acts to the clock, and my friends remark how well I am looking. My only regret is that I didn't try Kruschen years ago."—Mrs. A.M.

Kruschen Salts is Nature's recipe for maintaining a condition of internal cleanliness. Kruschen salts in Kruschen stimulate your internal organs to smooth, regular action. Your system is thus free from all those impurities which, allowed to accumulate, lower the whole tone of the system.

Farmers' Creditors Act Designed to Assist Keep Men on Farms

Act Passed at Last Session of Parliament

Whereas, in view of the depressed state of agriculture the present indebtedness of many farmers is beyond their capacity to pay: and whereas it is essential, in the interest of the Dominion to retain the farmers on the land as efficient producers, and for such purpose it is necessary to provide means whereby compromises or re-arrangements may be effected of debts of farmers who are unable to pay, etc.

The legislation is very far-reaching. It represents the effort parliament has made to provide a simple machinery whereby, in a period of reconstruction following the great economic depression, there may be arranged a debt adjustment, which in fairness to all our citizens, debtors and creditors, will establish a basis of certain foundation on which to build and plan for both classes, and thus develop an improvement in mental attitude and in the morale of the people. For the carrying out of the provisions of this Act, official receivers have been appointed for designated districts throughout the province. The procedure under the Act has been made as simple and inexpensive as possible. In the first instance a farmer makes a sworn statement of his affairs to the official receiver, and also a proposal for a composition, extension of time or scheme, or arrangement of his debt. The official receiver then calls a meeting of the creditors, and the debtor, and an effort is made to work out some scheme of arrangement, whereby the farmer is enable to carry on. Should no arrangement be arrived at then, the debtor or any creditor may make application, through the official receiver to have the Board of Review deal with the matter.

Board of Review Final Authority

The Board of Review sets a date for reviewing the case and all parties interested are notified of time and place. After reviewing the whole matter, the Board of Review may make an order which is final and binding on all parties, or they may refuse to make any order, in which case the matter is closed.

Should a farmer be in such condition that no scheme can be worked out, and his financial position so bad that there is no hope of keeping on the farm, then an inexpensive way is provided to wind up his estate. The farmer can make an assignment to the official receiver, and the official receiver then becomes trustee and custodian of his estate and proceeds to wind-up the said estate.

Once a farmer starts proceedings by making a statement of his affairs and a proposal, then his property immediately comes under the control of the official receiver and no action can be taken against the farmer by anyone, for sixty days. Neither can he sell or disposw of any of his stock or chattels without the consent of the official receiver. It is the duty of the official receiver to assist the farmer in preparing his statement of affairs, and his proposal, if the farmer so wishes; or if the farmer makes his own statement and proposal on the prescribed forms provided by the official receiver.

Provinces to Pass Enabling Legislation

There seems to be some misunderstanding as to the Canadian Farm Loan Act, passed at the last session of the Federal Government. A Federal Board is rendered under this Act, and this Board operates in each province through the agency of a Provincial Board, which is appointed by the Federal Board, from nominations submitted by the Provincial Government. Provincial enabling legislation to implement the operations of the Canadian Farm Loan Act in the Province, is required as a condition precedent to the appointment of a provincial board and the initiation of loaning operations in any province.

Such legislation has been passed and provincial boards have been appointed and loaning operations are being carried on by the Board at the present time, in several provinces. The Province of Ontario has not, as yet, passed such legislation and the operation of the Canadian Farm Loan Act cannot be instituted in Ontario until this is done.

The chief reason for the passing of the Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act is to keep the farmer on the land, if at all possible. The benefits to be derived will, in a large extent, depend on the reasonable attitude of both the farmer and his creditors once the matter is placed in the official receivers hands. Great benefits should accrue if the spirit of co-operation is extended by all parties concerned.

Modern innovations seem to have produced a young generation which is never happy unless it is going fast or making a noise, and preferably doing both.—Dr. Cyril Norwood.

Large Sized Potatoes Grown at Lime Lake

Potato crops throughout the district are much better than was anticipated early in the season. Farmers are reporting a good yield and in many cases the potatoes are of fair quality and large size.

The largest potatoes we have seen so far were grown by Mr. George Tyner, at Lime Lake. Three of them were sent into "The Beaver" office. The weights and measures were: 2 lbs. 14½ x13 inches; 2¼ lbs. 13½ x 10 inches, and 2½ lbs. 12¼ x 16½ ins.

Montreal Lodge Host To Napanee Masons

About fifty members of Union Lodge No. 9 A.F. A.M., Napanee, and lodges of the surrounding district, were in Montreal on Saturday evening, as the guests of Prince Consort Lodge No. 24, of Montreal.

The occasion was a return visit to Prince Consort Lodge, who paid the Napanee Lodge a visit in November, 1931. During the evening, the Napanee Lodge conferred the first degree on candidates of the Montreal Lodge.

The members of Union Lodge left Napanee, Saturday, at noon, and were met at the Montreal station by members of Prince Consort Lodge and taken by automobiles to their hotels. Later, at the new Masonic Temple, on Sherbrooke Street, W., a banquet was tendered the visitors, at which over two hundred were served.

Entertainment was provided by "The Mountain Boys" and other well -known radio entertainers.

Westbrook Couple Married 60 Years

On Thursday, October 11th, a notable event occurred at Westbrook when Mr. and Mrs. James A. Sproule celebrated their diamond wedding. They passed the day quietly at home with their family, and received the congratulations and good wishes of their many relatives and friends.

Mr. Sproule was born and brought up in Westbrook, the son of James Sproule, while Mrs. Sproule was Miss Hester Ann Closson, of Huntington, before her marriage. Their married life has been spent on the homestead farm in Westbrook, where they have kept open house through all these years, to a host of visitors from far and near.

They have ever been foremost in church and community activities, giving freely of their time and money in the promotion of all worthy enterprises.

Mrs. D. F. Aylesworth Tells of Arizona Indians

Mrs. D. F. Aylesworth of Bath, who for several years was a missionary and religious worker among the Indians of Arizona, gave an interesting account of her work there, at St. Andrew's United Church, on Friday last. It was the occasion of the annual thankofferring of the W. M. S.

Mrs. Aylesworth camé dressed in the native costume of the Indians of the state. She explained that the government maintains schools for training and education of these backward people and that the religious life is under the care of an interdenominational worker. She was in charge of about four hundred children and was responsible for their religious training.

The Indians in that area are a rather primitive type. They live in one-roomed houses and eat the very simplest diet of corn meal and mutton. Their habits are those of a very primitive folk. They have little if any care for education and even if trained in the government schools, soon revert to their former mode of life, when released.

Mrs. Aylesworth spoke in high praise of the work which the government is attempting, and of the way in which the religious needs of these folk are being met. Mrs. Aylesworth is an interesting speaker, has a very pleasing manner and kept the interest of the audience for nearly an hour.

After the meeting Mrs. Aylesworth displayed a number of articles which she had brought with her from Arizona, and which were the products of the labor of the Indians.

During the course of the program Mrs. M. A. Eppiett sang an appropriate solo and Miss Jean Milling gave a missionary reading.

O.C. Madden's Pictures On Exhibition At Gibbard's

Gibbard Homefurnishers have an exhibition of the pictures Mr. Orval C. Madden of Toronto, a former Napanee boy, and well-known artist.

These pictures displayed are mostly in oils and depict a variety of subjects, some of which are of local interest. They are of various sizes, suitable for different rooms and all are artistically framed in individually-made frames.

Mr. Madden's work is well known to many Napanee people and this exhibition will give others an opportunity to become acquainted with his pictures. He does not confine himself to one type of art, but does pen and ink work, dry point etching, wood and lino cuts, as well as oils.

Gibbard's would be pleased to have the public view these pictures of Mr. Madden.

Demonstration Follows "Bees" Victory

By defeating Courtright in the two games played in Napanee, on Wednesday and Thursday of last week, Gibbard "B's" won the Ontario championship in Intermediate B. Baseball, and brought to Napanee the honor of having a second championship baseball team in its midst. Gibbard A's were successful in winning the Ontario championship in Intermediate "A" class, the previous week, when they defeated Southampton in the final round.

All through the season the "Bees" have played an excellent brand of ball. With "Letty" Bishop as the main twirler, the boys have cleaned up on everything. They won the County League title, defeated Dutton, Ontario, championship, took the Eastern Ontario Championship, and became Ontario champions by defeating Courtright, the western contenders.

The last two games were a real test on the players. They were played on successive days, had the same pitchers, Bishop for Gibbard's, and Woods for Courtright, stayed with the game.

Following the game, the boys of the "B" team were given a demonstration of the pleasure of the citizens of Napanee, over their success, when a large crowd gathered at the Market Square at six o'clock, to applaud the winners. Despite the rain, a procession was formed, led by the Boys' Band and the winning team, enthroned on Card's decorated truck, proceeded to drive over the streets of the town. They returned to the Town Hall square, where every member of the team was cheered to the echo after he was called by O. E. Gibbard, to appear before the crowd.

Napanee has been given plenty of baseball this season, and due to the excellent playing of both teams has seen more and better ball than ever before.

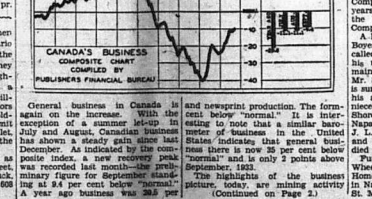
Volunteer First Aid Stations Successful

Extension of the system of first aid posts for injured persons to the main highways, is contemplated by the joint committee of the Canadian Motor League, Canadian Red Cross and St. John Ambulance Association.

The service has been in operation for over three months on No. 2 Highway between Toronto and Montreal where a score of posts, staffed by volunteer workers, trained in first aid work, have given very efficient service.

It is reported that the Ontario committee has received enquiries from the United States regarding the workings of the system.

CANADIAN BUSINESS EMERGES FROM SUMMER LULL



General business in Canada is again on the increase. With the exception of a summer let-up in July and August, Canadian business has shown a steady gain since last December. As indicated by the composite index, a new recovery peak was recorded last month—the preliminary figure for September standing at 9.4 per cent below "normal." A year ago business was 30.5 per and newsprint production. The former cent below "normal." It is interesting to note that a similar barometer of business in the United States indicates that general business there is now 35 per cent below "normal" and is only 2 points above September, 1933.

William A. Shirley Died At Wheeling Virginia

The body of the late William A. Shirley, who died at Wheeling, Virginia, last week, was brought to Napanee for burial, on Sunday, by his nephew, Mr. F. S. Boyes.

The late Mr. Shirley died Thursday, October 11th, the 76th anniversary of his birth, after a short illness. He was a member of a former well-known Napanee family. His parents were Dr. Thomas Shirley, a prominent physician in the earlier days of Napanee, and Margaret Ann Pringle, both of whom passed away many years ago.

For some time in his early youth, the late Mr. Shirley was employed at the Napanee Post Office. 52 Years ago he left for the United States and after living in several American cities, he settled over forty years ago at Wheeling, where he was prominent in the business life of the city. For fifteen years he was secretary-Treasurer of the Wheeling Traction Company, and for the past ten years held a similar position with the Wheeling and Belmont Bridge Company.

A little over a week ago, Mr. F. S. Boyes, Mr. Shirley's nephew, was called to Wheeling, on account of his uncle's serious illness, and remained with him until his death. Mr. Shirley was never married and is survived by his nephew, Mr. Boyes, his aunt, Mrs. R. Webster, several nieces and his cousins, Mrs. Canfield Shorey and Miss Louise Davy, of Napanee, His sisters, the late Mrs. J. L. Boyes, Miss Margaret Shirley and one brother, Thomas Shirley, died many years ago.

Funeral services were held at Wheeling at the Kepner Funeral Home on Saturday afternoon, and in Napanee on Monday afternoon, at St. Mary Magdalen Church.

Further Honor Brought to Town of Napanee by Gibbard's "B" Team

Win Intermediate 'B' Championship of Ontario

Some apprehension was felt on the part of the Napanee fans, concerning the outcome of the Gibbard "B's" games with Courtright for the championship in the O.B.A.A. Intermediate B section, after the walloping administered the "Bees" at Courtright, in the first game. However, Gibbard's came back in fine style in the two games played in Napanee, last week, when they grabbed off the honors in the Intermediate B Class.

Now Napanee has two championship teams in the town, in the Intermediate class.

The first game played in Napanee with Courtright, went to the tenth innings, before the locals broke the tie of 1-1. The honors were about even throughout the game. Bishop and Woods, the pitchers, were both in great form and received good support from their teams.

The locals scored in the first innings. Sweet, the first man up, was walked. Grose was out at first. Stinson hit a two-bagger and brought in Sweet, who had stolen second. Card came up and on a nice double play, was put out at first, after Garvin, at short had put out Stinson at second, and threw to first.

Neither team scored again until the 6th, when Courtright evened up the count. McGuire, first up, was caught out. Garvin singled and Dawson made third when Lucas let a fast grounder by and Garvin scored. Kelso was caught out and Woods was put out at first.

At the end of the ninth innings the score remained 1-1 and the game went into the tenth. Three Courtright men were quickly put out and Sweet, the first to bat, for Napanee went to first on an error of the shortstop. Switzer flyed out to right. Then Sweet singled and Grose was caught out by Kelso at second. Stinson drove out a hard hit to right field and brought home Lucas, to win the game.

Department Issues New Regulations For Relief

A triple relief policy was laid down by Hon. David Croll, Minister of Welfare, to govern Provincial treatment of those municipalities where the Province foots the bill for the entire relief cost. Marking a distinct departure from previous methods, the policy follows these three main points:

1. For the rest of 1934, the Province will assume costs of relief administration in these municipalities, and so directly supervise expenditures.

2. The Province will require that firms supplying food, fuel and clothing to these municipalities conform with Labor Department requirements for fair wages and working conditions of employees.

3. These municipalities must include in their 1935 budgets, the cost of relief administration and a Provincially specified share of relief expenditure.

Council Receive Petition Concerning Hours of Beverage Rooms

At the meeting of the Town Council on Monday evening, Rev. A. J. Wilson presented the petition signed by 434 citizens of Napanee asking the Council to request the Liquor Commission of Ontario to make the hours for closing beverage rooms, in Napanee, ten o'clock each week night except Saturday, and 7 o'clock on Saturday.

Mr. Wilson explained that the expression of opinion had been gained without any organization on the part of temperance people and had been achieved simply by the use of the ballot printed in "The Beaver" and others available at the office.

In view of the fact that the Press recently carried a report that after November 1st, the Ontario Government would enact legislation to govern the closing hours of all beverage rooms in the province, the matter was laid on the table to be considered after that date.

Mr. Wilson was thanked by the Council.

A. S. Hughson, Councillor Cowling and Mayor Tustin for his interest in the matter.

Truckmen Claim Hijacked Near Napanee

Were Driving Load of Tobacco

Pergus, Ont., Oct. 12. — A story of hold-up and theft was told here today by two men who spent several hours locked in a truck before they attracted the attention of a service station attendant, this afternoon. The truck is owned by the Walter Carter Company of Hamilton, and was proceeding east, near Napanee, late Thursday night, laden with tobacco, valued at $15,000, when four men with two revolvers held up the driver and his attendant, was the story told by the two men.

The two were locked in the van of the truck, and after driving all night, the tobacco was unloaded, they stated. The tobacco was the property of the Tuckett Tobacco Co. One of the captives estimated that after another seven hours of driving the truck came to a stop, and the men were afterward released.

Released by Attendant

The men were let out of their moving prison by John Howard, filling station attendant here at 2.30 this afternoon. The truck was parked near the eastern border of Pergus, and the service man was attracted by cries of "let me out." The two men slipped a key to Howard through a crack in the door, and he affected their release. Both men wore handkerchiefs about their heads and were evidently French. Howard said today. Their clothes were stained and they were unshaven.

A REVOLUTION IN SPAIN

The situation in Spain demonstrates how flimsy are the threads on which the peace of the world depends. For the past few months, comparative quiet has reigned in those danger spots from which we have been accustomed to expect trouble. The entrance of Russia into the League of Nations, has diverted attention in the meantime, from the great and mysterious country. Apart from the flamboyant outburst in a semi-official document, last week, all has been quiet on the Japanese front. Germany, in the meantime, is devoting most of her efforts on internal problems and on the attempt to win the Saar back to the Fatherland, in the vote to be taken next January.

The unexpected has happened from other quarters. The Balkans, always seething with unrest, has provided one serious menace to peace, in the assassination of King Alexander of Jugoslavia; and Spain has touched the spark of revolution, bringing death and distress to the whole nation. In Spain, the dispossessed, the unemployed and the radical elements have conspired to overthrow the Government. Their plan was to oust the Democratic System and substitute in its stead, a thorough-going Communism. The revolution was, apparently, well-planned, for outbreaks occurred all over the nation at approximately the same time. Up to the present, the Government has held the upper hand, but there is the possibility of appointing a military dictator, should conditions not be speedily rectified.

What the future form of government organization in Spain may be, we cannot tell. That is something for which the people in that country must assume responsibility. But the present unrest is indicative of what happens in any country when privilege and power are not used in the most generous and sympathetic manner. The Spanish people have lived for hundreds of years under a monarchy. Then they had a military dictator, from 1923 to 1929. Since then, they have attempted a democratic form of government. Apparently it has not met the needs of the situation, adequately, and yet it, the present Government, must not be held accountable for the conditions which produced the revolution. These conditions lie in the discontent which has been accumulating through the centuries.

This uprising is another evidence of the failure of democracy to step in and solve all the problems for a people where they have never had adequate training and preparation for self-government. For centuries, Spain has had a rather restricted and exclusive form of education. It was entirely in the hands of the clergy. The great mass of people were satisfied with a modicum of learning, and were content to be ruled by a King. Under these circumstances there was little of those liberal aspects of education which constitute the very basis of a successful democracy. In a crisis, a democracy is always a cumbersome form of government. That is true even in countries like our own, which has had hundreds of years experience and training in democracy. But when a crisis has to be faced, by a group of men who have little more than a theoretical training, and when they are expected to meet the needs of tens of thousands of men and women who, likewise have been unaccustomed to democratic policies, the position becomes almost impossible.

Whatever the future form of government in Spain may be, we cannot tell. But this we know, that there is a long and arduous path ahead for any state, which will make democracy a successful form of government. And that will require infinite patience, tact and the utmost of tolerance and goodwill to make democracy effective in a country like Spain, with all its long historical background of other governing agencies.

THE PRESS AND THE POLICE

The Toronto papers, during the past week, have featured stories in which Napanee has figured prominently. With headlines appropriate to a real sensation and with certain embellishments, they told the story of threatening notes which had been sent to two of our former mayors. It is rather amusing, to say the least, to observe the anxiety of even the sane and sensible "Globe" to give front page prominence to a story which was old stuff. On no count could the story be called news. The notes were received two weeks ago. The matter had quietly and thoroughly been investigated by the local and Provincial police, and interest had completely died down.

The Napanee papers knew from the beginning, of the notes sent Mr. Daly and Mr. Kimmerly. In consultation with the police, it was decided that no mention should be made of the incident in the Press. By refraining from publishing what, at the time, was real news, the papers have co-operated fully with the police and have enabled them to go on unhindered, with their work.

The duty of a newspaper, of course, is to give news, and it takes a good deal of restraint to refrain from publishing a story of extortion notes, particularly at the time when the public mind is receptive for such stories. But when the publication of news, in any way hinders the work of the police, the duty of the Press to keep silent, is imperative — and we have recognized that duty and observed it.

Since the first publication of the story in the Toronto Press, Napanee has had representatives scouring the town for local color and pictures. One of the representatives almost went in The Beaver office as he told of his inability to get pictures. He wondered what kind of a "hick town" this was, when the newspapers didn't have cuts of former mayors.

Well ! Napanee is that sort of a town, in which the newspapers, by co-operating with the police and by loyalty to its citizens, assist the authorities in the prosecution of their duties. We then sit back quietly and smile, as the big city dailies, with their vaunted ability to gather news, vie with each other in frantically featuring a story which has been "dead" over a week.

PLAYING WITH FIRE

Prof. Einstein, the exiled German professor, who has won world fame by his theories of the Universe and who is now a guest professor at Princeton University, is reported as having said, recently, that of all organizations in Germany, the Church, alone, has the courage to oppose Hitler. The newspapers have been silenced—the service clubs have been stilled, the universities have been whipped into line; the only organization to make any protest against the ruthlessness of the Nazi regime, is the Church.

For many years the German Church has been regarded by the rest of the Protestant World, as conservative and non-aggressive. But under the present state of affairs, it has surprised the World by the unexpected power which it has shown and the unparalleled courage which its pastors have exhibited.

The Russian State has succeeded in all but closing the churches in the U. S. S. R., but then it must be remembered that the Russian Church was in the hands of a hierarchy which kept it in a condtion of comparative ignorance and superstition. There was, in Russia a universal distrust of the Church, because of its relation to the State and because of its failure to meet the religious needs of the masses. So when the revolution broke out, it was a comparatively easy matter to crush the churches.

But what Lenin did in Russia could not be done in Germany, because Germany had had its Luther and had gone through a period of reformation, by means of which the very abuses the Russians were objecting to, had already been wiped out.

The German people had fought for the right to worship God as they pleased. They had won the victory. For three hundred years they have had that freedom and enjoyed it. That freedom, so dearly bought, is not going to be relinquished without a struggle. In Russia, where the Ecclesiastical Organization meant very little in the life of the people, it was an easy matter to destroy it. But in Germany, where the Church holds a very intimate place in the affections and life of the people, the situation is different. That sixteen hundred ministers have dared to defy the Reichsbishop and refuse to submit to the programme of Hitler, who rob Christianity and the Church of all that makes it worth while, is a warning to the powers that be, in Germany.

And it may possibly turn out that it is on the rock of the Church that the Nazi movement may yet come to grief.

THE URGE TO DECENTRALIZE

The desire of the Young Conservative Association, in Toronto, is in keeping with political trends in this country. The recent election has had the effect of bringing the issue to a focus in Ontario. In the first place, the Young Conservatives, by resolution, desire that the word "Liberal" in the name "Liberal-Conservative" should be struck off, and that the official name of the Party should be "The Conservative Party." This seems reasonable. The prefix "Liberal" while it was originally designed to win to its support some of the Liberals, and may have done so for a while, now deceives nobody. The Liberal Party should be known as such and the Conservative Party might very well drop the term "Liberal" without any loss of prestige. For whether the Conservative Party is to be "Liberal" or not, depends not so much on a hyphenated cognomen as on its record in the country. And it is by that, that it must ultimately be judged. In the Dominion area, the present Government has been a progressive Government in the best sense. Seeing its markets fall away, one by one, the Bennett Government took steps to secure new ones within the Empire. The Ottawa agreements have meant much, in trade benefits, to this country.

But the Toronto enquiry stamps the Bennett Government as a progressive government. For the first time in the history of Canada a government has dared to probe to the depths of the whole profit system with all its consequences. The full importance of that is still to be seen. Though nothing more should come of it, than has already been revealed, the enquiry would have earned the respect and the endorsation of all progressive and socially minded people.

Of course, drop the term "Liberal" if any object to it. But let the policies of the Government and of the Party continue to be progressive in the best sense. By their fruits and not by their labels, are political parties known.

Then, too, these young Conservatives object to the central control which the Party holds over its members. Well, it comes to a question of having to decide between the Central Committee and this forward-looking, serious-minded, earnest group of young people, we had better trust the latter. New times demand new policies. The old may have been good enough for conditions as they existed twenty years ago. But it may just be that the decentralization of organization , and the giving to the various ridings and ward groups, more responsibility, would result in gaining once more the confidence of the rank and file of the Party, without which elections cannot be won.

Canadian Business Emerges

ey is making rapid progress in all branches—copper, nickel, lead, and gold—and is responsible for a good share of the current strength in Canada. Both are acting as a stimulant to employment in many sections of the Dominion. There has been an encouraging pick-up recently in building. This factor has been one of the hazards in the Dominion's recovery. Effects of the Government's $40,000,000 public works program are beginning to be felt.

Other active lines of industry today are textiles, rubber, lumber, shoes, furs and meat products. These offer the best prospects for sales campaigns in the immediate future. An increased interest on the part of companies in sales analyses of various markets, indicates their intention to "go after business" with real aggressiveness. Retail sales are lagging somewhat behind those at wholesale, but this situation should change as more employment is offered through increased activity in industry. Moreover, larger farm purchasing power in sections not seriously stricken by drought, is beginning to show in increased mail order sales and better collections.

Gigel mill activity is holding up well in spite of the fact that the demand from automobile producers is down temporarily as the latter industry is nearing the end of its model changeover period. Mining machinery, along with general industrial equipment is still an active source of demand for steel. Electric power output, one of the best barometers of industrial activity, is being generated in record volume. A brisk demand for household goods—furniture, rugs, kitchenware — and for office supplies , serves as further indication of the way the wind is blowing.

The following table gives a fair comparison of the rate of business activity in the various provinces and certain individual cities with a year ago:

The Bees' Food Supply For Winter

(Experimental Farms Note)

Once again the honey gathering season is over and during that season the bees worked incessantly storing a large supply of honey for winter use. Whether or not they can carry them through the non-gathering period of winter. The bees' instinct, however, does not allow them to cease work the moment a sufficient amount for winter needs is gathered, for if the field supply is plentiful they will store far in excess of their requirements. To this surplus the keeper of the bees has a legitimate claim, but he has no right to the portion which the bees lay by for their own use unless he is prepared to replace it with another form of food that is equally as good for them. Unfortunately, there is a tendency on the part of bees too closely of their supplies, thus leaving them to face death through starvation. Bees require food during the winter months in order to maintain life, and while in the early spring they require it for brood rearing also. When ready for the winter, every colony should have at least 60 pounds of food properly stored in order that the bees may have sufficient to carry them through until new nectar is available in the following spring, always remembering that more is required towards spring when brood rearing commences than during the actual winter months when no brood is being produced. In addition to an adequate supply, the food left or given must be wholesome. Without honey in the syrup, we find of the bees, all honey is not suitable for them during their winter confinement in the hives. Only the best of clover or buckwheat honey should be left, since any other kind of honeydew can be made up by feeding the bees the required amount of pure cane sugar made into syrup at the rate of two parts of sugar to one part of water. When making the syrup, see that all crystals of sugar are dissolved before giving the syrup to the bees. All feeding should be done before the weather becomes cold enough to cause the bees to cluster tightly on their combs, otherwise they will not take down sufficient food. Colonies at Ottawa have often been found best to have all feeding done by the end of the first week in October.

Nothing more exposes us to madness than affecting to make ourselves different from others, and nothing assists more to maintain our common sense than a life spent in the common way amidst general society.—Geothe.

Editorial Comment

FRENCH AND ENGLISH IN CANADA

The sum of the matter is that under present conditions the French-Canadian branch of the Dominion is rapidly overhauling the British in point of numbers, and, in the absence of a revival of immigration, is bound to exceed it within a century. It may still, at the end of that period, remain a minority of the total population but it will be the increase of the European Continental Group in the West which will have kept it in that position. It is not within the province of this article to attempt any appraisement of the political, social and other consequences of such a development as forecasted in regard to Canada's population, but obviously they cannot fail to be of far-reaching importance, both for Canada and the British Commonwealth. — J. A. Stevenson in The Nineteenth Century, London, Eng.

THE OTTAWA FACTS

The United States are not satisfied with the agreements concluded at Ottawa at the last Economic Conference, and that is not surprising. Without improving our relations with foreign countries, these agreements have considerably injured our business with the United States. A host of things that we habitually sold to them have not been seen now, with the result that our producers, like Sister Anne, can see nothing coming, neither purchasers nor money. All the pathos of the Imperial Conference has earned for us nothing but deceptions and disillusions. They say Mr. Bennett is beginning to understand. It is certainly not too soon.—La Tribune, Sherbrooke.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, OCTOBER 21ST, 1934

"THE CHRISTIAN AT PRAYER"

MATTHEW 6 : 5-15 — EPHESIANS 3 : 14-21

With today's lesson, we enter the Holy of Holies, in the Christian experience. To all who would enter artfully into the inner sanctuary of the prayer life, we should say "Take off your shoes for the ground on which thou standest, is holy ground."

Prayer constitutes the very heart and soul of religion. If men do not pray they have forfeited the right to be called men and have relinquished one of the dearest possessions of the human race — that tie which binds the human soul to its Creator and Maker. "To be religious and to pray, is one and the same thing," says Schleiermacher; and Richard Rothe, the gifted evangelical divine, has something of the same when he writes : "The religious impulse is essentially the impulse to pray. It is upon this fact, that the process of the individual life is governed, the process of the gradual fulfillment of God's indwelling in the individual and religious life. Therefore, the non-praying man is rightly considered to be religiously dead."

Prayer has filled a very large part in the lives of all sorts and classes of men. In its simplest form, prayer is an appeal to some supreme power who can stop in when all other agencies fail. In this sense, prayer has been invoked by tens of thousands. Most, indeed, in their hours of disappointment or sorrow, or when faced with some sudden danger or predicament from which there seems no escape, have thrown themselves in prayer, upon God, whom they believe able to act beneficially in any emergency.

In every instance prayer reveals the true character of the heart of man. "By their prayers shall ye know them." It was that way with Jesus. In the Garden, when he prayed, "If the cup might pass" and then adds: "nevertheless, not My will but Thine be done," he reveals a heart that is in tune with the Infinite—a heart which is submissive to the will of God for Him. When Jesus prays for those for his murderers—he lays bare to all the world a heart full of love, kindness and sympathy with even the bitterest of his enemies.

In today's section of Matthew, Jesus deals with certain abuses of prayer, and then gives, in precise and crisp phrases, a brief model prayer.

In the first place, He warns against capitalizing prayer for one's own prestige or pride, against what Jesus calls the hypocrisy of the Pharisees. Of course, prayer as communion with God, is essentially a personal experience. And yet there are occasions for public prayer. It isn't against public prayer, as such, that Jesus protests, so much as against the attitude of heart which thinks of the effect, which their public prayers have on their hearers, rather than the spiritual blessings which flow from the act of communion with God.

Following that, He then gives us the model prayer, which for beauty and simplicity of expression and comprehensiveness has never been approached by any other. It begins with an acknowledgement of God's Fatherhood. Right at the forefront of the model prayer, Jesus desires that men should acknowledge God as Father and all men as brothers. It isn't necessary to insist that essential that is. In a world which has been shocked during the week, by the brutal slaying of two of the noted leaders of Europe, the need for brotherhood has been vividly and dramatically brought before us. While that event, with all its savagery and hate, dramatically shows the need for the practice of love and brotherhood, it is only an evidence of the same spirit which, in thousands of other ways, rift our business and in our economics, is wrecking the lives of countless millions.

After that brief petition, Jesus, in his prayer, presents the hope that God's Kingdom may come on earth. The true child of God desires, not less essential that is, a personal salvation, born of his relationship with the father, he desires as well, that God's kingdom may be of Europe, the need for brotherhood has been vividly and dramatically brought before us. After that brief petition, Jesus, in his prayer, presents the hope that God's Kingdom may come on earth. The true child of God desires, not less essential that is, a personal salvation, born of his relationship with the father, he desires as well, that God's kingdom may be of the same happiness and satisfaction, that the reign of God might be extended over all men and races. The benefits of religion are not to be confined to a favored few, but to all mankind, how unctuous or deserving that group may be. The religion of Jesus is for all.

In a phrase which shows that Jesus was no mere visionary, but had his feet firm upon the earth, he expresses the desire of the human body for food. In this petition there is no thought of appealing to God for a wealth of worldly goods—only enough for today's needs. "Give us day by day our daily bread."

In addition to the bodily need, man will not be satisfied unless the yearning of the spirit for forgiveness, is met. Jesus was also gone through life without the bitter strain which comes from experience of the spirit unforgiven and unforgiving and evil done. These sins of ommission and commission, bear heavily on the hearts of those who take life seriously and who desire to be at peace with God and their fellows. The recognition of that, and the knowledge that God alone can satisfy those needs, is the reason for the hope that God's kingdom may come on earth. AFTER OPERATION SHE GREW FAT

And Became Short-Winded

A letter just received from a woman states that she is writing in thanks for the benefit she has received. Her letter goes on :—

"About 12 months ago everybody remarked how fat I was getting. I turned the scale at 196 lbs. I was fed up with getting so fat, and it made me short-winded. Why they noticed it more was because I was getting fat since I had had an operation for appendix. I went back to the hospital, and the doctor said, most women get fat after that operation. I had tried everything I knew of to try and get slim, so I thought I would give Kruschen Salts a trial. I started at first to take half the dose prescribed, in my first cup of tea. Nine months ago, I turned the scale at 196 lbs., and at the time of writing I go 179 lbs. I feel better than I have felt for a long time." — (Mrs.) H.

The formula of Kruschen represents the ingredient salts of the mineral waters of those European Spas which have been used by generations of overweight people to reduce weight. Gently, but surely, Kruschen rids the system of all fat-forming food refuse, of all poisons and harmful acids which give rise to rheumatism, headaches, and many other ills.

TAMWORTH

Tamworth, October 15.—A typhacity house was the scene at the R. E. building on Wednesday night, when the congregation of the United Church held their annual chicken dinner. Over three hundred people were served to a sumptuous repast, after which all repaired to the Town Hall, where a full entertainment was staged by the Crossman Male Chorus, of Napanee. The entertainment consisted of solos, duets, quartettes, quintette, choruses, recitations, and orchestra selections. Each number was certainly well staged, and a round of merriment was carried out to the last number. If you have not heard this group of men, do not miss an opportunity to do so. It is well worth your while.

The Town Hall here was the centre of attraction on Saturday afternoon, when members of the local Women's Institute held a mock fall fair, with the different lands of agriwork, wool work, antiques, quilts, spreads, sample counter, etc. The place was a glow of color. One very interesting feature was the staging of the quintuplets, by Miss Ileen Pepall. A one-act comic play was put on during the afternoon by the following: Misses Marion Holden, Sandra Gilmore, Jean Wagar, Mrs. Harlten, Mrs. D. Donovan, and Mrs. Purdon Barr, which brought forth rounds of laughter. The baby show was a very interesting feature of the afternoon's activities. Prizes were awarded as follows: 1st, Eleanor Kennedy, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Kennedy; 2nd, Doris Ann Laughlin, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack McLaughlin; 3rd, Garry Bradshaw, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bradshaw; 4th Ronald York, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Randall York. A very brilliant display was on exhibition by the Flour Glaze Paint Co., and through the courtesy of Mr. Bruce Richardson a fine quilt was given away which was donated by that company. Everyone had the opportunity of writing their name on a slip of paper and putting it in a box, of which a large number took advantage. When all names were in the box was taken to the platform, and little Miss Betty Tucker drew a name, which was on the lucky ticket, and little Miss Tucker very capably picked out her mother's name and Mrs. C. R. Tucker received the chair. Tickets had been sold on a very beautiful luncheon set, and again Miss Betty showed her skill and drew her grandmother's name, Mrs. David Irvin, who received the luncheon set. This rare coincidence brought forth peals of laughter. As several Institutes in the surrounding district had been invited, a large crowd was in attendance. A change of entertainment was served. As the Christie Cake Co. had very generously donated a large number of layer cakes for advertising purposes, these were served at the lunch, and as several cakes were left over they were sold at the close of the meeting.

game in the series, to decide the Intermediate B championship, we looked forward to an a game to prove the mettle of the contenders.

Although the "Bees" won, it was no walk away for them. Both teams were out for the honors. Despite some errors on both sides, the teams were giving the batteries good support. Woods and Bishop, the pitchers of the previous days, stayed with the game to the end. Woods had more strike-outs than Bishop but Bishop's infielding was better.

The "Bees" scored one in the first. Sweet hit a three-bagger and came home on a wild throw of Davis, at third, to first.

In the third, three runs were scored by the locals. Lucas, first man up, was out at first. Switzer made first on an error of the third baseman. Sweet walked and Switzer went to second. Grose got a three-bagger, bringing in Switzer and Sweet. Stinson singled, bringing in Grose. Card struck out and Bishop was put out at first.

Courtright scored one in the fourth and two in the sixth.

Again in the fifth, Sweet scored another run for Napanee, after making first on an error.

The score looked as if it would be even-up by Courtright in the ninth, but Bishop saved the day by lovely double play. Walker, pinch-hitter for Chowen, went to first on an error of Stewart at short. McLaughlin singled. With two men on in scoring position, Davis was struck out. McGuire popped a hard one to Bishop, who cleanly grabbed for and picked off and threw to third to put out Chowen at third.

Sharing Another's Troubles

We were having a rather grave little talk in the Lindsay's cottage about Granfer Lindsay, who, having lately lost his lifelong partner, seemed to be losing his grip on himself, as a result.

Young Rose Lindsay talked only of her old grandfather, even when I asked her about her sweetheart, Reg. Ashton. For once in a way she didn't seem to be interested in that easy-going young lad. I wondered why, until Mrs. Lindsay whispered to me that they had quarelled.

Almost as she said it, Granfer himself came into the room and interrupted our conversation about him.

"Good evening to you, Vicar," he said heavily, hardly looking at me, and when his daughter-in-law asked him if he had enjoyed his walk he barely answered her. With a glance at the enlarged portrait of his late wife, which had just found a place on the wall, he dropped into a chair and went back to the sorrowful thoughts which were surely breaking him.

"What a wreck of the man he was only a few months ago !" I realized. I said something to try to cheer him, but he only smiled wanly and, presently, left his chair and went upstairs so to bed.

We looked after him, feeling almost hopeless. It happens so often with devoted old couples that one soon follows when the other is taken; we loved Granfer too dearly to give him up to such a fate without a struggle Yes, what could we do?

Our thoughts were interrupted by a light tap on the door and Reg Ashton entered. He came in as if a trifle uncertain of his welcome, and my eyes were positively painful to put his offended sweetheart. But Rose hardly seemed to notice him. Then Tom Yates, a very old friend of Granfer's," remarked Mrs. Lindsay, trying on with our conversation, when Reggie had seated himself in the chair nearest to Rose, but still at a loose end now and would come at once if we asked him. He might be company for Granfer, or Mrs. Lindsay another man has just lost his wife, too, so they would be a pair."

"Of course he couldn't come here, not even for a day mum!" broke in Rose. "He has his own home and as badly as Granfer has taken his, so they say, he would be about the last companion Granfer could have. They would just sit and talk about it and make each other all the sadder. When all we do to cheer up Granfer seems to be no use, what use could Mr. Yates be?"

"A lot !" broke in Reg impulsively. "Yes, Mrs. Lindsay, ask Mr. Yates to come. I mean it; I'm not joking. Let me handle this and I'll see that we save not only one man, but both!"

Mrs. Lindsay had been right about Mr. Yates being at a loose end since the death of his wife, for he seemed thankful of the chance to spend a week with his friend. As tall and stout as Granfer Lindsay was bent and small, he came to Cowleigh by early double play. Walker, pinch-hitter for Chowen, went to first on an error of Stewart at short. McLaughlin singled. With two men on in scoring position, Davis was struck out. McGuire popped a hard one to Bishop, who cleanly grabbed for and picked off and threw to third to put out Chowen at third.

"Things go, hard, Tom ?" said Granfer, when the friends were having their first quiet smoke together. "It's a hard thing for a man your age to lose his partner, but I've had the same thing to face myself, so I know what it is like. I'm glad you've come to you yourself that she's better off and that you've got to carry on the best you can without her—"

He broke off in confusion. It had been in his mind to add : "Until your time comes." But that wasn't the way to cheer up and hearten his friend.

Tom Yates, who had heard from me that Granfer needed cheering up, was delighted to find how easy his task was going to be. For Granfer wasn't talking like a man who intended to die, by any means, he couldn't.

"You're right," said Tom. "We've got to keep on and do our bit in the world. That's a man's job and I know that it is. After all," he added, cheerfully, "the young 'uns can't do without us old 'uns, not yet awhile. Hey ?

So they talked, trying harder to cheer up the other's courage and trying to help each other in the dark days hours through which both were passing.

I've often wondered since whether the two dear old fellows were listening to their own counsel, as they spoke for the other's benefit. How often must each have thought to himself :

"Yes, that's true. And if it's true for him, it's true for me, as well !"

It was a splendid struggle—each one finding their own way out of the pit of despair by trying to help the other grapple through darkness to guide a fellow soul, and finding their own way to heaven's new dawn as they did so.

Rose and her mother were amazed to see the difference in Granfer before a day had gone by. Smiles were coming back to two wrinkled old faces, and there was born anew in two brave old hearts.

"Well, say, I right, Rose ?" demanded Reg Ashton, triumphantly, when he saw her again. "Have the two old dears cheered up ?"

She gave him the first real smile since their quarrel.

"Sorry, Reggie," she said penitently. "I believed you cared nothing for anybody or anything, except the boat fun that happened to be near. I thought that even your suggestion for throwing these two poor old men together was only more mischief. Yet it has been a miracle."

"I know what they were," Reggie said more gravely. "I knew that what they couldn't do for themselves they would arrange for friendship's sake, and each other's. Then I'm forgiven, Rose ?"

Her soft eyes answered the merry light in his own, and her lips yielded the kiss that was his sufficient reward.

I wonder how many others who have troubles to face might profit by the lad's clever wits. If you are in trouble yourself, you'll never cure it by thinking, by fretting, by shutting yourself away in silent anguish. That is not the way to live down the pain. Go out into the world around you, again. There's some lame dog who needs helping over a stile, and yours is the hand that can do it.

If sometimes hear of crushed and heart-broken people being advised to mix in bright company, read light books, and so on. But the best way, God's way, is to blend your own sorrow with another's and to forget your own pain in sympathy for another. For sympathy is love, and love carries every grief that the wounded heart can suffer.

A man's character is a unity, and not a mosaic of all kinds of virtues and vices. You cannot separate the virtues from one another, and say that a person possesses this virtue without that one. One element of weakness has its effect upon every other part, and only when character is well-balanced is it of real value. —Frederick W. Ellis.

I wish that the railway companies, instead of providing special carriages for smokers, would have special compartments for talkers.—Dean Inge.

ROGER W. BABSON REVIEWS ECONOMIC SITUATION

Is The Price Rise Over?

Wholesale prices have recently reached a new high since the low point of 1932. A group of 784 sensitive commodities are 11 per cent higher in price than a year ago, while the volume of business is less than last year. Certain individual commodities have shown a striking recovery. Cotton has jumped about 163 per cent, corn 145, flour 117, fuel oil 117, rubber 493, and wheat 100 per cent. These tremendous increases naturally raise the question : "Has the advance in wholesale prices reached its peak ?"

Washington Still Exerts Powerful Influence

In answering this question certain major influences should be discussed. Right now Washington is exerting a tremendous pressure on prices. The national government is vitally interested in raising prices further. Originally the 1926 price level was mentioned as a goal. Lately there has been less talk of 1926 prices but nevertheless, the government cannot afford to allow any severe price setback. On the other hand, food prices and the cost of living figures are being watched carefully; excessive profiteering and wild inflation of the necessities of life will not be tolerated.

There seems to be more pessimism at present than at any time since the Bank Holiday. Unemployment has been increasing, payrolls have been dropping, while labor troubles have tied up a major industry. There is no doubt that these are very serious problems. However, I have always taken a long-spring viewpoint concerning business. On this basis, I am confident that we are still in the early stages of a major recovery. The situation is the same today as it was in July, 1932 and again in March, 1933. There could be another complete turn about in public sentiment overnight. With our billions of credit reserves, and our huge potential demand for goods, all that is needed to create a real boom is a return of public confidence.

Supply and Demand Both Favorable

The sound statistical position of most raw materials is another important factor. A year ago a surplus of farm products was the outstanding problem. Today the shortest crops in forty years have wiped out excess carry-overs of farm commodities. The over-production of dairy products is being solved by shortages of feed. The same is true of most industrial commodities. In certain lines the supply situation is not satisfactory, notably hides, lead, lumber and petroleum. Going down through the list, however, stocks of nearly every leading commodity are very burdensome and the trend is for higher prices provided that demand continues.

What about demand ? I believe there are many reasons for optimism on this score. The long term trend of business itself is upward. Total farm income for 1934, in spite of the drought, will be about 50 per cent better than in 1933. The tremendous flood of government funds that are spent on public works is creating a market for many industrial materials. The huge potential demand already built up in the capital goods industries will be released when business men look to the future. Temporarily, as a result of the textile strike and the current recession in business, there may be some let-down in use of raw materials, but for the long pull the demand factor will strengthen wholesale prices.

Inflation Possibility Big Question Mark

Perhaps the most important single development to watch in connection with wholesale prices today, is the monetary situation. Should the past twelve months the dollar has been devalued and silver has been nationalized. Government bonds are still selling above par but the Treasury is being spent at the rate of $11,000,000 per day. This program is distinctly inflationary and the effects will become increasingly evident in the next few months. With the reconvening of Congress in January there will be a strong demand for radical inflationary measures. Remember, however, that credit inflation (brought about by the reestablishment of confidence) and monetary inflation (brought about by undermining of confidence) there will be a stampede to own goods and real estate.

Foreign trade has a strong influence on the course of commodity prices, especially the international commodities. The present stagnation in foreign trade is partly responsible for the business reaction. The administration, through reciprocal agreements, is attempting to revive foreign trade. These trade agreements will bring about some changes in tariffs, but political pressure will prevent widespread adjustments. Furthermore the events of the past summer clearly show that nationalism is still rampant throughout the world. Hence, the immediate outlook for foreign trade is not particularly encouraging. For the near term it should have little effect on commodity prices.

Traders Shift From Stock Markets To Produce Exchanges

There is a new aspect to the commodity picture this year. Since the securities markets are being so carefully regulated by the Government, speculators are flocking into the commodity markets where the sky is the limit. As an example of the interest in commodity speculation, "futures" trading in canned goods has been established. Commodity speculation, however, is even more dangerous than stock trading in the long run stock market. The safest way to gain an interest in commodities is to buy the common stocks of companies producing or processing those commodities. Furthermore, the chances are strong that if commodity speculation is carried too far, the government will clamp down on trading in "futures."

In the final analysis, the trend of commodity prices depends upon the old law of supply and demand and the law of action and reaction. So far any measures which have been designed to buck these two fundamental economic laws have failed utterly. According to the law of action and reaction, we are in a period of new business recovery. There will be set-backs, such as the present, but these will be temporary. A period of rising business means a period of increasing demand. The supply of commodities has already been sharply reduced. Hence, I believe that the rise in wholesale prices has not yet reached its peak.

Business, as registered by the Babsonchart, is now 27 per cent above normal and 2 per cent below a year ago. — Copyright, 1934, Publishers Financial Bureau.

Maple Leaf W. I.

Mrs. Arthur Galt was hostess to the members and visitors of the Maple Leaf Women's Institute, on the afternoon of October 11th. The meeting opened with community singing, followed by the ode and the Lord's Prayer. The roll call was responded to by "Things to be Thankful for." A number of letters were read by the secretary and these were dealt with accordingly. It was decided to give entertainment in the hall some time in the near future.

A paper on agriculture was read by Mrs. Isaac Asselstine, and told many different ways of money-making for the farm women in poultry raising, bee-keeping, the marketing of home-cooking, handicraft work, berries and vegetables from the home garden.

A contest, naming fifteen different kinds of seeds, followed both amusing and interesting. Mrs. Will Fretts read current events. Mrs. Ben gave a concise account of the world's happenings. A discussion on "cabbage culture" followed. Many hints were given for the storing of cabbages for winter use.

The election of the National Anthem brought the meeting to a close. Lunch was served by the hostess and committee in charge.

The next meeting will be held in the Hall, on Thursday, November 8th. The programme will be presented by the Napanee branch.

As a result of the last ten years' effort in strawberry breeding by the Horticultural Division of the Dominion Experimental Farms, 30 varieties of new hybrid strawberries selected for earliness, lateness, productivity and general health and vigour, have been named, and distribution started in 1933. Several of these are exceptionally promising at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, two of them being outstanding varieties for the frozen pack process through which in 1933 some 6,000 pounds of strawberries and raspberries were frozen in one pound containers.

Harvest Tea At St. Mary Magdalen Anglican Church

The Woman's Auxiliary of St. Mary Magdalen Church was held on Wednesday last. The church school room was prettily decorated for the occasion, and the tea table was presided over by Miss McCreer and Mrs. Amey. Mrs. Shore Loynes met the guests and introduced the speaker of the day.

Miss D. Worboy was the guest speaker. She had been brought to Napanee by the Woman's Auxiliary for the occasion. Miss Worboy is a native of Peterboro and a graduate of the Anglican Deaconness Training School, in Toronto.

For two years, Miss Worboy has been in Saskatchewan, under the service of the church where she engaged in a unique piece of Christian work. She was busy with what is known as the Sunday School Post work. Two workers travel together in a church van and visit the people in the neglected areas of the province. These are enlisted in the study of the Bible. Sunday School supplies are sent to them and questions submitted, for which answers are returned.

Miss Worboy, who is an interesting speaker, had many stories to tell of the work which the world had been, and of the interesting people whom she had met on these travels.

After the meeting she was accorded a hearty vote of thanks by those present.

While in the town, Miss Worboy was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Jamieson, whom she knew during her residence in Peterboro.

Ninth Annual Meeting of Tamworth Section, W.M.S., Enterprise

On Tuesday, October 2nd, 1934 the Ninth Annual Meeting of the Tamworth Section of the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church of Canada, was held in the Enterprise United Church, which was tastefully decorated for the occasion. There were delegates present from twelve appointments, Mrs. Geo Finlay, vice-president, presiding.

The morning session was opened with a devotional period, conducted by Rev. D. Stinson, Enterprise. After the appointment of a secretary, press reporter, and resolutions and courtesy committee, greetings were extended to the visiting auxiliaries by Mrs. H. Jackson, Enterprise. She also read a letter of greeting from St. John's Anglican Church of Enterprise. Reports from the various societies were presented by the delegates, showing that each society was working hard to reach its allocation.

Mrs. Reddick of Napanee then led a discussion of the reports, stressing the supply work of which the secretary.

A very interesting temperance lecture was then given by Mrs. N. B. Miller of Napanee, who said that every missionary society should have a temperance secretary, and give temperance a prominent place on the programme. As an illustration of God's attitude toward intemperance, she read from the Bible the law of the Nazarites, the law of the Rechabites, the Lord's command to Aaron, the angel's command to the wife of Manoah, and the angel's command to Zacharias. She then compared the laws with the Prohibition temperance laws. She said the aim of the lawless is to have a free sale of liquor throughout the country.

Mrs. James Wilson, Strathcona gave a short talk in memory of Miss Hannah M. Paul, a beloved missionary, of Newburgh, who passed away during the year.

The morning session was brought to a close by a quiet half-hour conducted by Mrs. Brown, of Tamworth. Mrs. Brown took for her theme Moffatt's translation of the thirteenth chapter of I Corinthians and closed with a prayer, that we may realize the value of love.

At the noon hour a sumptuous dinner was served in the basement by the Enterprise women.

Afternoon Session

The afternoon session opened at 1:30 with a devotional period conducted by Mrs. Calvin Allen, Marmora, and Mrs. luttan of Yarker. Mrs. A. Lewis of Camden East, then replied to the greetings.

After the roll call, which was answered by a Bible promise, the reports of the Circles and Bands were given. The Enterprise Band delighted the audience with a chorus.

In the absence of Mrs. Frank Harrison, of Picton, Mrs. Reddick's paper "Life as a Sacrifice," was read by Mrs. D. B. Wilson, Napanee. Romans 12 : 1 was the basis of the address, therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable until God, which is your reasonable service." She said that the Christian law of life is "service" Besides our money and possessions we must give time and prayer.

An appropriate solo was then sung by Mrs. Edmund Wilson, Enterprise, in her usual pleasing manner.

Mrs. Hooper of Napanee, introduced the guest speaker, Dr. Retta Kilborn, who has spent forty years in China. Dr. Kilborn said the W. M. S. was the home base for foreign missions, and without it a great amount of missionary work could not be carried on in foreign countries. She asked the audience to first consider the needs of China, and then consider the small area in which missions are carried on. The W. M. S. had stations in only three provinces, which are a great distance apart. She then told of some of the harrowing experiences which she and other missionaries had to undergo during their early work in China. She said missionary work is divided into three sections—educational, evangelistic and medical, and proceeded to tell how the medical work is carried on. Their first hospital was a small, ill-equipped house, having twenty beds. Now they have an up-to-date, well-equipped hospital, having ninety beds which is self supporting. They still have many needs, however, such as workers, money, radium and a hospital for sick children. The sources from which these might come are blocked by such things as theatres, bridge, cosmetics, cigarettes, etc.

Dr. Kilborn closed her address by referring to Christ's appeal to Peter, "Lovest Thou Me? Then feed My Sheep."

Resolutions Passed

The following resolutions were then brought in by the Resolution and Courtesy Committee :—

1. That this Society desires to express to our beloved Presbyterial President, Mrs. Atkinson, of Newburgh, our sympathy in her physical disability at this time, our very great regret that she deems it necessary to relinquish her activities in this organization in the interests of which she has so much at heart and our sincere and loving appreciation of her efficient leadership through the years, and of her kindly and helpful personality. We assure her that our prayers follow her as we know hers do us, in this great work.

2. That we extend to Mrs. Switz-

WEDDING BELLS

ALLPORT — PURVIS

A pretty wedding took place at the United Church parsonage, at Robllin, on Saturday, September 22, when Rev. W. D. Craig united in marriage Gladys Caroline, fourth daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Purvis, of Marlbank, to Fred Abraham Allport, eldest son of Mrs. Allport and the late Henry Allport, of Kaladar.

The bride was lovely in a gown of sunset blue crepe, grey hat, shoes and gloves to match. Her sister, Estella, was bridesmaid, and wore a gown of sunset blue crepe, grey hat, shoes and gloves to match.

The groom was attended by his brother, Charles Allport.

The groom's gift to the bride was a Packaway suitcase; to the bridesmaid, a pink ivory brush, comb and mirror set; to the groomsman, a folding shaving set.

The happy couple left on a motor trip to Ottawa and Montreal. The bride travelled in her wedding gown and a black fur jacket.

Although several smaller shipments of apples were made earlier in September th, the Canadian apple export season may be said to have been inaugurated on that date by the first movement in volume when the Fruit Foundland sailed from Halifax N.S., with approximately 13,500 barrels of Nova Scotia apples destined for Liverpool. In accordance with regulations, this shipment consisted entirely of No. 1 grade apples, mostly Gravensteins.

Woman's Auxiliary L. & A. Deanery Meeting at Bath

Beautiful weather greeted the joint meetings of the Ruridecanal Chapter of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Deanery of Lennox and Addington at Bath, Friday, October 5th.

There was a celebration of the holy communion, in the historic church of St. John, at 10 o'clock. Rural Dean Leech being the celebrant, assisted by the Rector, Rev. O. L. Walker as epistoler, and Archdeacon Dumbrille, Napanee, as gospeller. The other clergymen present were Revds. Radcliffe, H. Pringle, C. Quarterman and A. Redding, the Rev. Canon Spencer being unavoidably absent.

The altar was radiant with festal curtains, beautiful flowers and lights.

The Rev. O. L. Walker preached a good sermon, full of valuable lessons, from Romans 16, verses 1-2. The organist, Mrs. Baker, with a large surpliced choir, rendered the musical portions of the service, very impressively. There were 165 communicants.

A delicious dinner was served at twelve noon, in the Masonic Hall, to a large number of people by the parishioners of Bath, Hawley and Marven. A very hearty vote of thanks was moved by Rev. E. Radcliffe, seconded by Rev. H. Pringle and Mrs. A. H. Coleman, vice-president of the Diocesan W. A.

At 2 o'clock the business meeting was opened by Mrs. Radcliffe presiding. With her on the platform were Mrs. Coleman, Miss VanStrander, Mrs. Huyck, Miss Ruttan and Mrs. Leach. These diocesan officers delivered addresses and were followed by Miss Horobin, a missionary on furlough, from Japan, who gave a most inspiring address. Mrs. Pringle gave a short paper on the Jubilee Fund, of which she is the secretary-treasurer. Mrs. Radcliffe was unanimously re-elected deanery secretary and thanked the meeting for the honour conferred upon her.

Votes of thanks were given to the Napanee Beaver, to the Rev. O. L. Walker, parishioners, organist and choir.

Archdeacon Dumbrille gave a short address, after which he pronounced the benediction.

Tea was then served to the delegates, who returned to their homes filled with inspiration and the thought that it was good to be there.

Injurious To Wire Fence

Many times the advice is given in the fall of the year to "burn out the fence rows" to get rid of harmful weeds and insects. This, of course, is a good policy from those standpoints, but it should be kept in mind that it is distinctly harmful to any type of wire fence. Zinc melts at a comparatively low temperature and the heat from burning grass or weeds is often sufficient to scorch the protective coating and will probably shorten by several seasons the useful life of the fence.

Weekly Crop Report

Pasture conditions have been wonderfully improved since the heavy rains of September, according to reports from many sections of Ontario, and cattle should go into winter quarters in good condition as a result. Fall wheat, alfalfa fields and pastures are all showing splendid growth. In many counties the seeded crop is the best in many years and corn cribs will be well-filled. Haldimand County has experienced some difficulty with rot in potatoes owing to the abundance of moisture, and farmers are harvesting the crop with all possible haste. From Prescott comes the report that farmers are not reducing their herds to the same extent as last year, thus indicating that the feed problem is not as critical as a year ago.

O. A. C. Team Third

Th dairy cattle judging team of the Ontario Agricultural College placed third, only five points behind the winners, among the 16 teams representing in the intercollegiate judging competition at the Waterloo Dairy Conress. Cornell University was first and Pennsylvania second.

The Ontario team consisted of A. C. McTaggart, Agincourt; R. T. Jefferson, Malton; J. A. Dalrymple, Smithville, and W. A. Muir, Woodstock, all fourth-year students. They were coached by Prof. Georee E. Raithby of the Animal Husbandry Department.

The team placed second in Holstein judging; fourth in Jerseys, sixth in Ayrshires, ninth in Guernseys, and tenth in Ayrshires. Individually, Mr. MacTaggart was fourth in the whole competition and third in Jersey judging. Jefferson was fifth in judging all breeds and ninth in Ayrshires. Dalrymple was third in Ayrshire judging.

Menace of Low Grade Seed

Low grade seed is a menace to the reputation of Canada in the export markets and a drug in the domestic market. The marketing of seeds in general is the last three of four years has been attended by serious difficulties and competitive. by low prices to growers, but has, at least, taught the value of producing a high seed product. No. 1 seed has almost always sold at a profitable price, while low grade seed has been unsaleable or sold at a loss to the grower. It should be the practice of every producer to save seed only from clean fields, so that it may be cleaned to grade No. 1.

Marketing Geese

The time to prepare geese for market is when the weather turns cold in the fall. They should then be taken off pasture and those selected for market should be placed in small penned enclosures and fed with plenty of water and grit and kept clean. They should be fed hevily on whole corn, the best medium for the fattening of geese, and about two weeks' heavy feeding should fit them for market. Twenty-four hours before killing geese should be starved, but given plenty of water. Care should be used in plucking, the dry or steam methods being recommended, for the reason that the feathers are particularly valuable bringing as much as 60 cents per pound. The dressed bird should be rubbed over with a damp cloth and set aside to cool. The shrink-bird box makes a desirable market package.

Canadian Wool Demand

One of the most encouraging factors in so far as Canadian wools are concerned is the increasing use of Canadian wools by Canadian manufacturers. Well-graded wools, whether co-operatively consigned or offering grading from producers' shipments, or wherever graded for the market, are in steady demand for immediate mill requirements. There are still some lots of wool in farmers' hands, having been held over from low-price years. These will likely be marketed in 1934, if present prices are maintained. In addition, depression conditions have increased home spinning and weaving, as well as other textile handicrafts, relieving the Canadian market of from five to six million pounds of wool per annum.

When To Apply Lime

A test of the soil should be made to make sure that it requires lime. If the soil proves to be acid then the answer to the question when to apply lime might be "when you have time." Lime is for the benefit of all crops in the rotation, but particularly for those with a strong heat from burning grass or weeds is often sufficient to scorch the protective coating and will probably shorten by several seasons the useful life of the fence.

SELBY Y. P. S.

On Friday evening, the Young People's Society held its first meeting since the summer holidays. A fine start was made in the new season's programme by the very enjoyable social evening, under the leadership of Mrs. Marion Winter, the Social and Literary Convener. Over fifty were present, including the members of the Trustee Board of the church, who, with their wives and families, were especially invited as guests for the occasion.

The programme consisted of community singing, musical numbers by Joe Dudgeon and Dorland Jackson, and extempore addresses by several of the trustees, all of whom were warmly applauded. The programme was brought to an extremely amusing climax in an address from a famous German professor, impersonated by Mrs. Smith. This address accompanied the "unveiling" of a new oil-stove, recently purchased by the Trustee Board. After a contest and a jolly game, in which the guests were the players, the new oil-stove was put to a good test, and coffee and buns were served.

The next meeting next Friday will be in charge of the Citizenship Convener, Dorland Wood. A hearty invitation is extended to everyone in the community, to attend the meetings of the Y. P. S.

LOCAL AND DISTRICT NEWS OF WOMEN'S ORGANIZATIONS

Miss Edna Wells gave the latest current events, which were followed by the roll call, "Little things that make life beautiful." Interest was added by short readings from the members.

Rev. C. H. Quarterman gave a most timely and instructive address on "Canadianization" in which he stressed four most important factors in the character-building of a nation — one being the traditions and lessons handed down to us from our ancestors. We cannot be too careful in the selection of immigration if we would build a healthy, robust, progressive and prosperous race of people. Each individual has his part to play and his responsibility to discharge in building up fine character and moulding life and tradition. Another factor is the nation's literature— "a nation is known by the literature it produces and reads." There must also be the spirit of building well, in all civil works. There will never be true national greatness apart from the applications of Christianity. The religious and spiritual influences are the most splendid and most paramount. We must keep more consistently the Christian standards of living if we would merit the great privilage given to us to lay the foundations of our nation, to-day, and give our descendants a heritage of which to be most proud.

A very fine demonstration on applique work, by Miss VanDyck, was much appreciated. Miss VanDyck chose the Dresden plate and Butterfly patterns.

SEED CROPS MORE FAVOURABLE

Seed crops in Ontario, generally speaking, are more favorable than was considered possible a few weeks ago, leading the seed firms report. There is, it is true, an extreme shortage of Early Alsike as the result of a curtailed acreage followed by a dry summer in 1933 and a cold winter and spring in 1934. In most other lines, however, sufficient supplies to meet a normal demand are indicated.

To build up the alsike stock for next spring, seed will have to be purchased and prices are likely to be high. It is pointed out that only the very best No. 1 seed should be used for this purpose as the crop to be sown will be the foundation for future commercial seed yields.

Alfalfa seed is more plentiful than was anticipated. Quality is reported high.

Fair crops have been produced in the regular seed sections and there is considerable volume coming in from scattered lots all over Ontario. With the small carryover from the previous year, it is believed that sufficient seed is in sight.

It is too early to make definite predictions regarding red clover. The crop has not all been harvested and there has been scarcely any threshing. Reports indicate a fair yield in certain districts and scattered lots from some points. Color and quality will depend on the weather of the next few weeks. There is a fair carryover of this seed and if domestic falls short seed can be imported from United States and Europe.

Timothy seed is a fair quantity is reported for timothy. The domestic harvest will probably be sufficient to meet a good deal of normal demand. The size of the 1934 crop represents a considerable advance over a few years ago when 80 per cent of the country's requirements were imported. As baying prices in Canada are now getting close to the cost of high grade American seed, freight and duty paid, steadier prices here in the immediate future, are anticipated.

Recipes & Hints

It is the desire of " The Beaver " to devote this section of the paper, regularly, to the publication of Recipes and Household Hints, received from local women or women's organizations. We would be pleased to receive recipes and suggestions and would withold or publish the contributors' names, as requested. Contributions will be used as space permits.

" (Send them in early in the week.)

FISH BALLS

One cup salt codfish, one egg, two heaping cup potatoes, half a tablespoon butter, one eighth teaspoon of pepper.

Wash fish in cold water and pick in very small pieces or cut, using scissors. Wash, pare and soak potatoes, cutting in pieces of uniform size before measuring. Cook fish and potatoes in boiling water to cover until potatoes are soft. Drain through strainer, return to kettle in which they were cooked, mash thoroughly (being sure there are no lumps left in potato), add butter, egg well beaten and pepper. Beat with a fork, two minutes. Add salt if necessary. Take up by spoonfuls, put in frying basket and fry one minute in deep fat, allowing six fish balls to each person. Drain on brown paper. Reheat fat after each frying.

GREEN GRAPE JELLY

Take three pounds green grapes, which have been thinned from the bunches, wash them well and put them into a preserving pan with one pint of water. Bring to the boil and simmer to a pulp. Strain, measure the juice, and allow three-quarters of a pound of sugar to each pint.

Boil the juice for ten minutes, and add the sugar, and stir till this is dissolved. Then boil fast until a little of the preserve will set when tested. Seal in small, dry jars.

BACON RINGS

Line muffin pans with rindless strips of bacon, laying first put fine bread or cracker crumbs in bottom of each individual space. Drop an egg into each, bacon cup and bake in a moderate oven till bacon is cooked and egg set. The bacon and egg will come out nicely in shape.

CHOCOLATE TEA BREAD

Three cups sifted pastry flour, three teaspoons baking powder, and one-quarter teaspoon salt. Add one cup brown sugar, one egg, one-quarter cup milk, four tablespoons of melted butter or other shortening, two squares bitter chocolate.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt and sift again. Add brown sugar and mix well. When thoroughly mixed pack firmly in oven after rolling on molding board. If you stretch a sheet of oiled paper over the board and roll it with your pin this you'll find it very easy to handle. Beat egg well and add milk. Melt chocolate over hot water. Slowly add egg mixture to dry ingredients, mixing thoroughly. Add melted chocolate and melted shortening and stir enough to blend. Turn into an oiled loaf pan, 8x4x3, and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.), for one and one-quarter hours, or until done. Let cool thoroughly before slicing for sandwiches.

Cream cheese combined with finely chopped walnut or pecan nut meats make a delectable filling to use with brown bread slices or buttered chocolate bread. Another enticing filling for this particular bread is made with cream cheese and orange marmalade.

ORANGE BREAD

One of the unusual baking powder breads is flavored with orange peel and marmalade. This is the recipe for it :—

Four cups flour, six teaspoons baking powder, one and one-half teaspoons salt, half a cup of sugar, two tablespoons melted butter, two tablespoon and one-half measures only one orange marmalade, one egg, and one and one-third cups of milk.

Mix and sift flour, salt, baking powder and sugar. Beat egg until light, and add with remaining ingredients, to dry mixture. Mix thoroughly and turn into a well oiled bread pan. Let rise fifteen minutes and bake one hour in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.). Nuts may be added to this recipe, if liked.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Lemon juice combines with many vegetables, to increase flavor. There is nothing like a little lemon, for instance, to help restore that fresh flavor to canned vegetables, to which the housewife must resort more and more, as winter comes.

Save the green leaves of celery, dry them in the oven, then rub down into a powder and store in a glass jar. They make a good flavoring for soups and stews.

Small under - blankets will keep firmly in place if snap - fasteners are put on corners of mattress and blanket.

Odd lengths of wool crocheted into pieces about 16 inches by 10 inches, make excellent stair pads to have the carpet.

Apples Are Appetizing

BY BARBARA B. BROOKS

Have you ever seen anyone pass a tree whose apples were within reach without picking one and taking at least a bite. Even the knowledge that the apple is still green will not deter a trial in the hope that it may taste good.

This is the time of year when we can eat apples to our heart's content. Many delicious kinds are on the market for eating and cooking. Apple sauce, apple pie, apple dumplings and cobbler, apple strudel and apple charlotte are some of the popular deserts. Fried apples, apple fritters and baked apples apear with meat. Apple salad and fruit cocktails with apples are found in the menu. In addition, apples are being canned, made into jelly and marmalade and put into mince meat. In short, this is apple time.

Have you ever made apple dumplings lately ? In our family, we always had two kinds—steamed and baked. The former must be served immediately upon removing them from the steamer or they will be heavy. The latter can stand but should be kept hot. The baked dumplings were considered a treat when I was children so, of course, we all wanted them steamed.

Apples have excellent food value and rarely everyone likes their flavor. Although they are available nearly all year round, in the fall of the year the loaded trees and baskets of them in market make us think more about them and we have more frequently than in other seasons.

Place folded side down in buttered baking pan and bake in a hot oven (400 degrees F.) for about 30 minutes.

Serve with cream or hard sauce.

HARD SAUCE

Two tablespoons butter.

PLOUGHING PRACTICE

A series of experiments carried out at a government experimental station has given some interesting results in regard to ploughing at different depths and times.

On an average period of nine years, ploughing four inches deep for a rotation of corn, oats, clover and timothy, has given higher yields than has ploughing seven inches deep, except in the case of oats, in which the yields have been practically the same. The shallow ploughing is particular advantage to the corn crop.

In the preparation of sod land for grain, it has been found that ploughing in July, as soon as the hay is off is better than fall ploughing the summer has not only given higher yields of oats, but has also left the land free from couch grass. The experiment has shown that on sandy loam soil, it does not pay to either rib the land or replough in the fall. On heavy clay soil, rubbing or replouhing in the spring has resulted from a chance to mellow the soil and to kill a crop of weeds.

In the preparation of sod land for corn, manuring on the sod and spring ploughing has given higher yields than manuring and fall ploughing.

It would, therefore, appear that for corn and sandy loam, the land should be manured and spring ploughed four inches deep, while for grain, it should be ploughed as soon as the hay is off and top-worked.

HEALTH SELDOM COMES BY CHANCE TO PERSONS OVER THIRTY

Good health cannot be taken for granted any more than a good income can. So for persons over thirty it is just as smart and business-like to plan to enjoy good health as it is to plan to enjoy a good income. And it's just as much a matter of plain common sense to check up on yourself.

In health, your shortcomings are, at first, likely to be those annoying, not-exactly-well feelings. At such times, if your blood were tested, it would most likely be found "low in count." That means a shortage of red corpuscles and the corpuscles themselves short of haemoglobin. Make up this deficiency, and you'll come up to normal health again. Neglect it and serious results may follow.

Observing, in his practice, the importance of keeping the vitality of the blood up to normal, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills—an authority acclaimed a blood-building preparation which has been helping run-down people back to health for nearly half a century. This preparation, now known the world over as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, definitely increases the number of "counts" in the majority of cases, thereby restoring vitality, steadying nerves, imparting strength and toning up the whole system. So the person over thirty who finds good health slipping, is well advised to take, at least a 30-day treatment of this excellent remedy. The element of chance has been practically eliminated in such a treatment, because tests recently made by an authority in a clinic of 40 people, proved conclusively by individual blood "counts" that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills certainly improve the health by enriching the blood. LONG OR SHORT HOSE FOR HALIFAX GIRLS

School Officials Say Stockings — Mothers Say No

And now that the agitation over "shorts" has quit the spotlight, it's the question of stockings that's bothering school authorities in Halifax.

Are they to be long or short? Around the question a battle is on already, with the new school term barely begun.

"Long!" say those in charge at Halifax Academy.

"Let us decide for ourselves" say the girls, with an eye to comfort, and some of their mothers, with an eye to the family budget. For they point out the cost of keeping daughters in silk stockings runs into money.

Why not cotton stockings? is Well-says one mother in a letter to the newspaper. "Whoever asks that question has no daughter over the age of 13 !"

"It seems to me," she adds, "that there are people who take an insane pleasure in shocking every longsuffering mother at this season of the year."

It would be better, she says, if the school authorities turned their attention, instead to finding a remedy for "overcrowded, unlighted and cold classrooms, where in winter colds and pneumonia lurk."

Principal P. G. Morehouse of the Academy figures it might be a good idea to let the school officials worry about the school. "We're running things in here," he says. And so the girls wear them long.

LESSON NO. 1
October 7th, 1934

A SMALL MEMBER OF A LARGE FAMILY

Soon after school closed, Mrs. Blacks received a letter from her sister in Wisconsin saying that her husband had to come East on a business trip and would bring their son Will with him. She added that Will had won a microscope for a prize in a debating contest and would probably bring it with him.

The Blacks were all delighted over the expected visit, particularly Alec, and when his cousin Will arrived with his microscope, Alec had a collection of specimens to examine with it. He had bugs and butterflies, mosquito larvae, fish eggs and bodies of stagnant water in which he hoped they might find an amoeba.

One day when they were looking at the hairy foot of a fly, Clara spied her friend, Grace's mother, Mrs. Sanders, coming into the yard with a small pitcher in her hand. By the time Mrs. Sanders reached the door Clara had it open, and Mrs. Black came forward to greet her neighbor and ask her to be seated.

"No, thank you, Mrs. Black, I can't stay," Mrs. Sanders said, "and I am sorry to trouble you, but I should like a little of your home-made yeast, if you could spare some. I think it is better than the yeast I buy."

"Why, yes, I shall be very glad to give you some," Mrs. Black replied, and took out the pitcher to get it.

"I hope you will have good luck with it. I find it makes very satisfactory bread." Mrs. Black remarked as she came back with the filled pitcher.

"Oh, I don't want it for bread. We buy our bread. I want to use it for making root beer," was Mrs. Sander's explanation.

Alec, glancing quickly at his mother saw that something was on her face change. She hesitated, said "Oh" and again waited, as if perplexed.

"I don't know," she began slowly, "as I want to let you have it for that; I don't approve of making alcoholic drinks."

"Oh, I'm not going to put any alcohol in it, just yeast, sugar, and let it ferment to give it a tang."

"You will have alcohol if you put yeast and sugar, and let it ferment," said Mrs. Black. "Didn't you know that?"

"Why no, I never heard you got alcohol that way. I thought it was only bought beer that had alcohol in it."

As Mrs. Black began to explain how the yeast caused the sugar to break up and form alcohol, Will turned from his microscope and interrupted.

"Aunt Mary, did I hear you say you have yeast there? May I have a little to look at it through the microscope?"

Mrs. Black handed him the pitcher and proceeded with her explanation to Mrs. Sanders.

Presently exclamations began to come from the group over the microscope.

"There, did you see that burst out!" "See, there is another one budding!"

THEY crackle IN CREAM

THERE'S no other cereal like Kellogg's Rice Krispies. Serve it at a price so crisp they crackle and pop in milk or cream.

Children, especially, like this fascinating cereal. Wholesome, too—let them eat all they want. Fine for breakfast, lunch, or the kiddies' supper. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

Listen!—

get hungry

"Yes, those are the young ones and they'll soon be as big as the old ones."

"They grow fast."

"Yes, when they are where it is warm and have plenty of sugar."

The excited talk attracted the attention of Mrs. Sanders so that she did not half hear what Mrs. Black was saying about the way she put up unfermented grape juice. Seeing this Mrs. Black asked the boys if they would let Mrs. Sanders look through the microscope.

They quickly made way for her, and Will explained how the yeast plant grew by budding and how it used up sugar and formed alcohol.

"But where is the alcohol?" You didn't show me the alcohol!" complained Clara.

Mrs. Black caught Alec's eye in time to keep him from laughing at his sister, while cousin Will patiently explained.

"No, you can't see the alcohol because it doesn't look any different from the water, or whatever liquid the yeast is in; but it is there and can be found, though it can't be seen."

"Well," said Mrs. Sanders finally, "I'm no friend of alcoholic liquors, I've seen enough harm come from them, and I guess I won't take the yeast, Mrs. Black, but I'll write down some of those recipes for summer drinks, of you'll let me have them; and then I'll be going. Thank you, boys, for letting me look through the microscope.

There are a large number of substances which come under the name of "alcohols," but generally this term is used for "ethylic alcohol," the compound found in the beverages which are known as alcoholic liquors or drinks. It is the alcohol in these liquors that causes drunkenness.

Yeast is a small, cell-like plant. Its favourite food is sugar. It breaks sugar up into water, carbon dioxide and alcohol. This process is called "fermentation." Yeast-cells float in the air or are found on the skins of fruits. And so, when grapes are crushed, these cells get into the juice. Fermentation starts and alcohol is produced. This is how wine is made. Through malting and mashing, the starch in grain such as barley is changed to sugar and from this sugar by means of the action of yeast, the alcohol of beer is produced.

Alcohol is a colourless liquid, with a slight odour and a sharp taste. It is easily changed into a gas by boiling, but it has a very low freezing-point. It is difficult to obtain pure, because of its affinity for water. To remove some of the water from alcohol, the fermented liquor is heated. Since alcohol boils at a lower temperature than water, it comes off the liquor as vapour, and then may be condensed to a liquid again, in a purer form. After this process has been repeated a few times, the alcohol is so strong that it can be obtained through this process. It still contains about 10% water.

Because of its properties, alcohol has many varied uses. Its great tendency to absorb water makes it valuable as a preservative; It takes water from specimens of animals and other bodies. It is used as a solvent in drugs, dyes, and especially varnishes.

Because it kills bacteria, it is a valuable antiseptic. It burns in spirit lamps with a smokeless flame. It is used in automobile engines. As alcohol has a very low freezing-point it is used in thermometers to register very low temperatures.

These, then, are the most important properties and uses of alcohol. Perhaps the most interesting thing about it is its great tendency to absorb water. And think for a moment what effect its continued use must have on the delicate machinery of the body.

QUESTION 1.— Describe the process involved in the fermentation of yeast. (Value 18.)

QUESTION 2.— Discuss some of the legitimate uses of alcohol. (Value 18.)

Chemistry In Canadian Industries

(Condensed from The Royal Bank of Canada Monthly Letter for October, 1934.)

With the value of its products averaging more than one hundred million dollars a year, the Canadian chemical industry constitutes an excellent example of the advanced development of Canadian manufacturing. It confutes the ideas of those foreigners who still consider Canada an undeveloped country largely dependent upon wheat, lumber, fish and furs. On the whole, the chemical industry has come through the depression in a notable manner. The period since the war has been peculiarly notable because of tremendous gains in industrial chemistry in the United States. The direct outcome of this period of intensive research was the creation of a number of new materials, and the indirect outcome was a series of rapid changes in almost all industries as new chemical products which competed with old-established products, were put on the market. As a result many materials were substituted in the manufacture of established products.

There are a few articles in common use which have not been materially affected in their composition as the result of recent chemical discoveries. On the one hand, as in the case of cotton, a new material is put to various uses; on the other hand, wood pulp in the form of rayon and celanese constitutes a new competitive factor in the textile field. In each of these instances, Canada has large, new manufacturing plants which supply the requirements of the home market and are able to manufacture on a sufficiently efficient scale that they export to other countries on a substantial scale.

There has been no more startling development in the pulp and paper industry than the rapid spread in the use of cellophane, another chemical transformation of cellulose. New chemical discoveries promise further developments in the pulp and paper industry. At the present time, well-developed experiments are under way in the direction of producing a new transparent grease-resisting wrapping paper and a paper milk bottle so cheap that it may be destroyed after being used once. Tough paper bags are now being made from the topmost layer of wood, and the time may not be far off when this type of bag will have supplanted jute bags in other important industries.

Cellulose

Among the most interesting chemical products are those derived from cellulose. Cellulose was first used chemically as a base for gun cotton, and by transforming it, the chemist transforms it into celluloid, rayon, cellophane, Cellonite, Duco,, and in combination with resins, it is used in the manufacture of many other products.

When one considers the widely varying forms into which cellulose may be transformed, it is not surprising that a chemical company should have many comparatively few raw materials. Many chemical products are used almost entirely for the production of further chemical products. Thus, from an industrial point of view, there are few chemically more important products than sulphuric acid. At Copperclift, Ont., this metal is now used by the International Nickel Company contains a large proportion of sulphur. This ore is now used by Canadian Industries for the manufacture of sulphuric acid at the rate of about one hundred and fifty tons per day.

At Shawinican Falls, Quebec, a chemical industry is established which is essentially Canadian in character. It was developed by Canadian chemists and has utilized Canadian resources. Even before the war this plant produced calcium carbide on a large scale. Calcium carbide, in turn, is used to produce acetylene, which is of importance in modern welding. By the application of hydro-electric energy to lime and carbon, calcium carbide is made; carbide a series of synthetic organic compounds. Some of these are used in explosives, some products of petroleum refining are used in the manufacture of rubber, and the finest grades of lime are used in the paper industry as a substitute for shatter-proof glass. In the meantime, other forms and uses of lime are being discovered and are being used for new and attractive sets of paints and coats and varnishes decorative containers.

Perhaps the largest source of sulphuric acid in Canada, the plant of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company at Trail, British Columbia, from the great stacks of this plant, emitting huge volumes of sulphurous smoke, were considered a menace to vegetation in the surrounding country. When the wind blew over the border, the International boundary, famous lawsuits ensued. Now the Smelter makes use of this smoke for the production of sulphuric acid and then use the sulphuric acid for fertilizers, trouble from this source is a thing of the past.

Because of the great fertility of the Prairies, Canadian farmers have not felt that it was worth the while to make much use of fertilizers. Plant growth, however, is a chemical process and since the plant food found in the soil have been reduced in

Mr. McCormack Suffered With His Kidneys

Dodd's Kidney Pills Worked Wonders For Him

Webbwood, Ont., Oct. 16. (Special)— "About five years ago I was troubled with my kidneys," writes Mr. Richard McCormack, well - known resident in this locality. "I made a habit of taking them regularly and they just worked wonders. It was not long before my kidneys were working fine and my rheumatism disappeared. I must say that I was about 10 or 12 boxes. I am well over three score years and ten and believe that if Dodd's Kidney Pills are taken regularly they will relieve any kidney trouble."

Mr. McCormack realized that his rheumatism was the result of faulty kidneys and profited by the experience of others and used Dodd's Kidney Pills, with the result that his kidney trouble quickly disappeared. At the first sign of kidney trouble turn confidently to Dodd's Kidney Pills—for over three generations the favorite remedy for all kidney ailments.

Creamery Operations Survey

An analysis of the operations of approximately 100 creameries in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta is being undertaken by the Dominion Department of Agriculture in co-operation with the Department of Agriculture in the three provinces concerned. Supervision of the work is being handled by the Economics Branch of the Dominion Department in co-operation with the Dominion Dairy Branch in Ottawa. The co-operating units in the provinces are the Dairy and Economic Divisions of the Departments and Colleges of Agriculture.

Creameries have been selected in the three provinces in proportion to the total number of creameries operating and the total volume of butter made. The primary purpose of the study is to provide information that will assist creamery operators to increase the efficiency of their plants. Factors affecting costs, management policies, methods of financing, sales policies, and other matters, will be given consideration. Producers of milk and consumers of butter who will benefit by lower costs resulting from such a project have a direct interest in its results.

This study is part of a general program conducted on behalf of the dairy industry by the Dairy and Economics services. The work was initiated two years ago as a result of recommendations made by the Conference of Agricultural Services held in Toronto. Previous to the present creamery survey, an analysis of the operations of 43 cheese factories in Ontario and Quebec was completed and also a study of the cost of operating creameries in New Brunswick. Both studies were conducted on the same basis of co-operation between Dominion and Provincial Departments and Colleges of Agriculture.

It is expected that the field work in connection with the present study will be completed this Fall and will be followed immediately by an analysis of the information obtained. Final results will be available some time during the coming year.

Religions are many and different but reason is one. The broad-minded see the truth in different religions and the narrow-minded see only the differences.—Confucius.

Baseball Teams Are Tendered a Banquet In Honor of Success

About Ninety Guests Were Present

On Friday evening, October 19th, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Fitzpatrick and the staff of the Paisley House Hotel, were hosts to the Gibbard "A" and "B" teams, and other citizens of the town, at a complimentary dinner, in recognition of the teams' success in winning the Ontario championships in Intermediate A and B baseball.

About ninety people were served a delicious dinner in the dining room of the hotel at tables decorated in green and white, the teams' colors. A combined souvenir program and menu, also done in green and white was presented each guest.

At the program which followed the dinner, Mayor George J. Tustin presided as chairman. In his opening remarks the chairman thanked Mr. and Mrs. Fitzpatrick for their entertainment and extended congratulations to the teams for the honor they had done themselves and the honor they had brought the town by winning the Ontario championships.

In a short address, the host, Mr. J. H. Fitzpatrick, expressed the pleasure of himself, his wife and the staff at being able to entertain the boys of the baseball teams. He spoke of the fine record of the teams in the past and complimented the management, the coaches and the teams.

For a short time after the opening addresses, Normile's Orchestra played some selections and led in community singing. Rene Paquette sang a solo accompanied by the orchestra and Dave Stinson gave an exhibition of tap dancing. Both numbers were accorded prolonged applause by the guests.

The Rev. G. H. Challies, who was introduced by the chairman, spoke on co-operation and its relationship to success. He congratulated Napanee on having attained its foremost position in sports and expressed the hope that the ball teams of next year would meet with the same success as in 1934.

The first toast of the evening, the O yard "A's," was proposed by ex-Mayor John G. Daly. Himself, one of the most enthusiastic fans in the constituency, Mr. Daly commended the citizens for their support and spoke words of praise for manner in which the teams and the park were maintained. In a reminiscent mood, Mr. Daly referred to the Tyendinaga League of 1876-78 and the "Greasy Nine" of 1882-3, two well-known sports organizations of days gone by.

In responding to Mr. Daly's toast, Mr. G. Ernest Gibbard expressed his own appreciation and that of the teams for the generosity of Mr. and Mrs. Fitzpatrick and the staff of the Paisley House in tendering the complimentary dinner. Mr. Gibbard gave particular mention to the splendid way in which the newspapers had supported the teams. Their help, he said, was necessary and was something which could not be bought. In his words of thanks he also included all the merchants and the fans of the district, whose support had helped, materially, to bring victory to the teams.

Ex-Mayor M. P. Graham, speaking for ex-Mayor A. S. Kimmerly, proposed a toast to the Gibbard "B's." In doing so, he spoke of the splendid material in the team and the fine sportsmanship they had exhibited throughout the season. He paid a tribute also to the management and the coach, without whom success could not be attained.

Replying to the toast to the "B's" Walt" Gerow, the coach of the teams, said that the teams were made up of hard workers, who cooperated and preserved a commendable spirit of harmony. He thanked the local fans for the generous attitude toward himself and the players, and said that the generous feeling shown players of outside teams when in Napanee, was something to be proud of.

Councillor Cowling proposed a vote of thanks to the hosts of the evening, which was endorsed by loud applause.

The program of the evening was brought to a close by each member of the teams being presented by the chairman. Each one acknowledged the introduction by expressing a few words of pleasure at playing on the teams. Roy Wilson spoke particularly of the Subs, who, though not playing as often as some of the regulars, gave loyal support in the pinches.

Recognition of the mascots, of "Danny" Ellis and the gang was also shown in hearty applause.

Beer and Wine To Be Discussed in N.S.

Halifax — Legislation authorizing the sale of beer and wines in the province will be the main subject of discussion at the fourth annual meeting of the Nova Scotia Hotelmen's Association, it was announced recently. The meeting will be held on November 17th.

Kingston C.W.L. Holds Convention

More than two hundred delegates assembled in Belleville for the fourteenth annual convention of the Catholic Women's League for the Archdiocese of Kingston, extending from Trenton on the west to Kemptville on the east.

The delegates were officially welcomed by Alderman Thomas Chatting, acting for the Mayor, who was absent from the city; Monsignor J. F. Nicholson, V.G., pastor of St. Michael's Church; T. V. Scanlon of the Knights of Columbus, and other societies of the Church; Mrs. P. J. Coffey of Montreal, head of the League in Canada, is the honored guest, and spoke of the work that is being done in the different dioceses, particular attention being paid to child-welfare.

Rev. F. D. Hyland, Diocesan Chaplain, dwelt particularly on the Study Clubs, urging the members to take up thoroughly the study of the doctrines and history of the Church. Miss Nadine Hardy of Kingston advocated that more time be spent in the Girl Guide movement as the training prepared them for work in the League, in later years.

Reports of the various departments of the League were given the convention, and his Excellency Archbishop M. J. O'Brien of Kingston, was the principal speaker at a banquet given by the Local Council of the Women's League, in St. Michael's Auditorium.

On Thursday the delegates were driven to points of interest in the Bay of Quinte district, after which they met to elect their officers for the ensuing year.

Baseball Teams To Be Honored At Banquet

At the last meeting of the Town Council, a committee was named by Mayor G. J. Tustin, to make arrangements to recognize the Gibbard "A" and "B" ball teams, who brought honor to themselves and the Town of Napanee, by winning the Ontario championships.

Plans have been formulated to hold a banquet in the Napanee Armouries on Tuesday evening, November 6th, to be followed by a dance in the Town Hall. Tickets will be sold and all citizens who are interested may attend this function.

Invitations have been issued to prominent officials of the O.B.A.A. and C.O.B.L. and to representatives of teams in the Bay of Quinte Baseball League. In addition, prominent sports writers from Toronto are expected to be present.

Seats for the dinner may be reserved at Hooper's Drug Store, where the plan will be opened on Monday next.

On Wednesday last a large group of the Companions of Mt. Sinai Chapter R.A.M. met in regular convocation to receive the official visit from the Grand Superintendent of Prince Edward District, No. 11, Mr. W. T. MacKenzie.

Mr. MacKenzie, who has been visiting the various chapters in the district, received his final visit for his own home. In addition to the members of the home chapter, who turned out to greet the distinguished guest, a very representative group of visitors were present. Among the visitors were Rt. Ex. Companion F. M. Dure, Past Grand Superintendent of Prince Edward, No. 11, of Brighton; Rt. Ex. Companion Thomas Solmes, Past Grand Superintendent of Prince Edward, No. 11, of Stirling; Rt. Ex. Companion A. Moira Chapter No. 7, Belleville; Ex. Companion L. C. Patrick, Z. Moira Chapter No. 7, Belleville; Ex. Companion William McIntosh, P.Z., Moira Chapter No. 7, Belleville.

Two interesting events took place in the Chapter Room; one was that the chairs were all taken at one part of the work, by Past Superintendents, and the other was a presentation of jewels to Dr. Morden, on behalf of Grand Chapter, presented to him by Mr. Walters, a jewel in recognition of 25 years standing as a Past First Principal.

After the work in the Chapter Room a banquet was served in the banqueting hall. Here Mr. MacKenzie met with the Companions, expressing the need in our modern society of men and nations practicing the principles for which the Order stands. This Mr. MacKenzie illustrated by instances which he had observed during his residence in Napanee.

Several of the visiting Companions brought greetings from their own Chapters.

Municipalities Adopt Cash Relief Plan

Recipients of Thirteen Centres Must Work for Aid Under Ontario Policy

Toronto — Thirteen municipalities in Ontario have adopted the policy of giving cash relief in return for work from those on relief, it was announced last Thursday by Hon. David A. Croll, Minister of Public Welfare, inaugurating the Government's policy of cash relief.

The following municipalities have adopted the policy: Galt, Teck Township, Deseronto, Welland, Belleville, Aylmer, Brockville, Nepean Township, North York Township, Hamilton, Sudbury, Woodstock and Chatham. The City of London has submitted and received approval for plans involving nearly $1,000,000 which have yet to be approved by its council.

Initial projects approved represent more than 4,500-00 man-hours of work, an estimated labor cost of $750,000 and a cost, including material, of over $900,000.

In addition to the regulations governing cash relief, Mr. Croll announced that municipalities under the cash relief scheme would be permitted to pay those who work under it the full amount they are entitled to earn at casual labor, without deduction. Under existing unemployment relief regulations the head of a family on relief is permitted to earn up to one-third of his family's food allowance in any month without deduction from his relief. The addition to the plan announced extends the privilege to unemployed relief workers.

Bay of Quinte Clerical Union At Tyendinaga

Belleville, Ont. — The annual meeting of the Bay of Quinte Clerical Union was held in Christ Church in the Parish of Tyendinaga, of which the Rev. Herbert Pringle is rector. There was a large attendance of the clergy and the proceedings were most interesting.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Rev. G. G. Wright, rector of Christ Church, Belleville; Vice-President, Canon H. Symons, Napanee; Honor Law; Secretary-Treasurer, Rev. Herbert Pringle, rector of Tyendinaga Parish; Committee, officers and the Rev. A. Beauchamp Payne, Vicar of St. Thomas' Church, Belleville; Rev. Napanee Merchants Report Best Results on Community Days

Results of Drawings For Prizes

It is the general opinion of all the merchants taking part in Napanee's "Community Days" Thursday, Friday and Saturday, last week, that this season's sales event was the most successful since "Community Days" were inhituted, two years ago, by "the Napanee Beaver."

The first and third days of the sale brought the best results, but even on the second day, sales were much greater than they ordinarily would have been.

Six thousand copies of The Beaver, carrying the special 10-page advertising supplement, were distributed throughout the district. Every householder within a radius of twenty miles received a copy of the paper. From Shannonville and Melrose on the west, Erinsville and Harrowsmith on the north, Collins Bay and Amherst Island on the east and the Bay front on the south, the papers were distributed by mail. The result was that the merchants report having customers from all their areas who had not been in for years. In addition, mail orders were received in some instances from many places at a greater distance, where the paper goes regularly.

The splendid results were achieved by the merchants making preparations to give sound values and by "The Beaver" making a complete coverage of the trading area, with copies of the advertising.

More real enthusiasm has been evidenced on the part of the merchants, following this season's Community Days, than ever before. Many in the cash register is the most convincing proof of the worthwhileness of the effort. The customers also have been satisfied with the results, or they would not have spent their money so freely.

Prizes Offered

Three grocery cash prizes were offered for lucky tickets given with each purchase of 50 cents or when money was paid on account. On Saturday evening, at 11 o'clock, Mayor Tustin, in the presence of a large crowd, drew the tickets.

The first prize of $15.00 was for ticket No. 41161, which was held by E. J. Dafoe, Napanee.

The second and third prizes of $10.00 and $5.00 have not yet been claimed. The lucky number are:—

Second — No. 5242.
Third — No. 15174.

The persons holding the duplicates of these numbers should secure their prizes by applying to Mr. M. P. Graham, secretary-treasurer, Napanee Board of Trade Committee.

A few of the individual merchants offered, in addition, prizes in their own stores.

The Dominion Store prize of a set of dishes, goes to ticket No. 4051, (not yet claimed.)

Linson's prize goes to holder of ticket No. 12218, now on display at McGreer's prize of 50 lbs. sugar was won by Mrs. Thomas Whiter, Mill Street, ticket number 20315.

At the Canadian Department Store, three prizes were given, one each day, for the person naming the nearest number of prizes sold displayed. The prize winners were:—

Thursday — Mrs. J. B. Allison, of Napanee.

Friday — Mrs. Adrian Miller, of Napanee.

Saturday — Mrs. William Evans, Napanee.

At Webster's Red and White Store, Mrs. A. D. Pretts of Napanee, won a case of Heinz soup for guessing the nearest correct to the weight of the Heinz demonstration. Her guess was 174½ lbs. and the actual weight was 174 lbs.

Britain Now Second In Chemical Field

Reflecting a steady decline in the value of American shipments of chemicals abroad, Great Britain has advanced to the position of the second largest exporter of chemicals in the world.

Germany retained first place in the ranks of chemical exporters last year, according to a compilation by the Manchester Guardian, with shipments valued at 49,700,000 pounds sterling. Britain shipments were second at 23,600,000 pounds sterling, and the United States third, with 22,300,000 pounds sterling. In the three previous years, Germany and the United States had held first and second place, respectively, with England, third.

All exports of chemicals in 1933, according to the newspaper's compilation were valued at 176,400,000 pounds sterling, compared with 175,900,000 pounds in 1932 and 187,900,000 pounds in 1931.

These figures were interpreted as indicating that the chemical industries, owing partly to their continuous expansion, have displayed considerable resistance to the depression. Both production and price levels have been maintained more successfully than in most industries.

Presenton Made To Rev. and Mrs. W. D. Craig at Roblin

The congregation of Roblin United Church gathered, recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Paul to welcome their pastor, Rev. W. D. Craig and his bride, who had returned from their honeymoon.

After an hour of social intercourse, Mr. Garnet Brooks read the following address:—

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Craig:

We, the members of the United Church, neighbors and friends of the Roblin appointment, can not let so great an occasion as the marriage of our pastor, pass without expressing the congratulations and best wishes of the community.

To Mrs. Craig we would extend a hearty welcome to our village, and very best wishes for a happy wedded life and many years of happy service together.

We would ask you to accept these two chairs from the friends of the Roblin appointment, and hope that wherever your work extends to different fields of service, that these gifts from your Roblin friends will always remind you of these friends and the beginning of your first home together.

Signed on behalf of the communities,

MRS. W. YORK,
MRS. D. RICHMOND.

Rev. Mr. Craig in a few well-chosen words, thanked the people for their kindness and expressed the hope that each one would visit them at the parsonage.

The remainder of the evening was spent in contests and music. Mr. W. Paul, one of the oldest members at Roblin appointment, sang a solo.

Dainty refreshments were served and after a vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Paul, for their hospitality and for opening their home for the social, all repaired to their homes singing "Auld Lang Syne." Mr. Craig many years of happiness.

Fugitive Girls Found, Indian Reservation, Tyendinaga Twsp.

Two 15-year-old girls who escaped from the Alexandria Industrial School less than a month ago were taken back to Toronto recently by Inspector T. D. Rushton of Belleville. The girls were located in the Mohawk Reservation in Tyendinaga, by the inspector, after a trail of misguided note revealing their wheresbouts was slipped under the door of his home. One of the girls is an Indian from the reserve and the other a Woodstock white girl. They told the inspector that they had walked along the railway tracks all the way from Toronto to Belleville, but he doubt their story. They also informed him that another girl had accompanied them to Belleville, but they had left her in that city when they went to the reservation to stay with relatives.

The third girl has not yet been located, although she was seen in Belleville, recently. She has made three escapes from the institution.

ENGLISH TO BE TAUGHT IN TURKISH BOYS' SCHOOL

English is to be the "official language" taught in the Ghazi Lycoum, an important Government secondary school for boys in Ankara, Turkey.

Car of Provisions For Western Relief Leaving District

The United Church is a missionary church. This has been most beautifully demonstrated in the faindreds of car loads of vegetables that have been sent, in the last three years, to the dried-out areas of Western Canada.

This section of the Belleville Presbytery made its contribution to Western Relief on Monday, October 22nd. In spite of the rain, about nine tons of vegetables, canned goods, etc., were stored away in the large refrigerator car, to be sent to the West.

The following circuits sent truck loads and car loads of vegetables, etc.: Roblin, Selby, Newburgh, Odessa, Wilton, Adolphustown, Morven, Bay, and the three United Churches in Napanee. Many of the bales and bags were personal letters of good cheer to the unfortunate folks out West.

Mr. C. A. Joynt, the general C. N. Railway station agent, did splendid work in his power to assist in the work of loading, and much credit is due the canvassers, the truck and car drivers and the ministers, for the very liberal response.

The car left on Monday afternoon for Belleville, where under the direction of Rev. H. H. Mutton and Rev. T. B. Naylor, again contributions will be placed in the car, and then on Wednesday, the load will be completed at Stirling, where Rev. E. W. Rowland and his helpers will put it to the doors.

If you think you need any special thanks for your contributions, then imagine a group of former Ontario citizens, sitting down to a meal of boiled potatoes, mashed turnips, with pumpkin pie and honey, and that picture ought to be all the expression of gratitude anyone needs.

Schools of Ontario To Teach Agriculture

Women's Institutes Informed Of Plan

Stratford, Ont. — Hon. Duncan Marshall, Ontario Minister of Agriculture, last night told the 300 delegates to the district convention of the Women's Institutes, that before the present year was over agriculture would be taught in virtually all Ontario public schools. He made his statement on the authority of Hon. Dr. L. J. Simpson, Minister of Education, Mr. Marshall said.

There were plenty of qualified teachers in the province, he said, who could be used in the plan, he declared at the Institute banquet. From these teachers would be chosen those who wished to teach agriculture.

In order that pupils might obtain a knowledge of agriculture it should be taught in second grades, he continued. At present just a "smattering" of agriculture was taught. There were two essentials for the successful farmer — education and markets.

He praised agricultural colleges and said not so long ago they were looked upon as developing a life of uselessness for young farmers. It was recognized today, however, that farming was the most scientific business in the world, and those engaged in it required a good education.

Former Pastor Speaks at St. Andrew's Church

Rev. J. R. Conn Preacher at Anniversary

On Sunday, Rev. J. R. Conn, of Toronto, occupied the pulpit of St. Andrew's United Church, at both services. Mr. Conn was a minister of this congregation for seven years. Sunday was the first time since he left the town, twenty-four years ago, that he has preached here. In spite of the rain, large congregations were present at both services.

On being introduced at the morning service, Mr. Conn spoke feelingly of the changes in the church in the past twenty-four years. He missed the familiar faces of those who had been his advisers and fellow-workers when in the town. Mr. Templeton, Mr. Robert Birrill, Mr. Coxall, Mr. Alexander, Dr. Simpson, Mr. Chase, and others.

The morning sermon centred round several verses in the epistle of John, which Mr. Conn wove together in orderly sequence so as to show the writer's philosophy of life. By apt illustration he made his knit reasoning and with finely tempered emotion. Mr. Conn unfolded the author's thought, that love actively operative in society was the only hope for individual, congregational and national peace.

In the evening, Mr. Cohn chose as his topic "Co-operating with God." In this sermon, the speaker drove home to the hearts of his hearers the responsibility which God has placed on men and women, as His co-operators in saving society and civilization. In this address Mr. Conn showed himself as a discriminating student of world movements, not only in the realm of religion but in politics and science, as well.

The music of the day was of a high order. At the present time, St. Andrew's has a choir of which the congregation might well be proud; well balanced, well trained and possessing ability and fine dramatical appreciation. Their contribution to the service of praise on Sunday, was inspiring to all those who had the privilege of hearing them.

In the morning Mrs. Enolett sang: "Trust in Him," Bernard Hewdenn and the choir sang "Still, Still with Thee," with solo part by J. Caldwell.

In the evening, two anthems were given, "Jesus Saviour Pilot Me," in which Miss Mary Daly sang a solo part.

Dinner and Entertainment Monday Evening

On Monday evening, St. Andrew's United Church observed their annual anniversary supper and concert. About two hundred were served. After the supper the audience moved in the auditorium of the church. Mr. Wilson, the pastor, acted as chairman and expressed pleasure in meeting so many present on a rainy night.

The programme consisted of an anthem by the choir. This was followed by a trumpet solo by Gordon MacGregor. Mr. MacGregor's rendering of "The Holy City" was applauded to the echo and in his encore he gave something of quite a different tempo. As a musician of versatility and accomplishment, Mr. Mac-

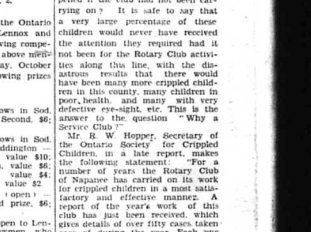
Napanee Rotary Club Does Worthy Work For Crippled Children

Need For Service C Explained

Since the Napanee Rotary Club was formed at Napanee in the year 1927, between 300 and 400 children have received medical attention for various ailments, through the efforts of this club. What would have happened if the club had not been carrying on? It is safe to say that a very large percentage of these children would never have received the attention they required had it not been for the Rotary Club activities along this line, with the disastrous results that there would have been many more crippled children in this county, many children in poor health and many with very defective eye-sight, etc. This is the answer to the question "Why a Service Club?"

Mr. R. W. Hopper, Secretary of the Ontario Society for Crippled Children, in a late report, makes the following statement: "For a number of years the Rotary Club of Napanee has carried on its work for crippled children in a most satisfactory and effective manner. A report of the year's work of this club has just been received, which gives details of over fifty cases taken care of during the year. Each one of these provides an intensely interesting story and points to the conclusion that this club is one of the most progressive and active in this work, in the province."



BEFORE

At the present time the Club has five crippled children under its care, and several cases waiting for treatment. This work can only be carried on by the active co-operation and assistance of the people of the county of Lennox & Addington. The very least amount of money that will suffice is $2000.00 a year, and if this amount is not realized, some children will have to go without assistance.

The people of this district have been most generous in their past support, and a hospital equal is made for a continuation of this support. The annual Rotary Frolic will be held on Wednesday, October 31st, and Thursday, November 1st, in the evenings, at the Armouries.

Tickets are on sale at convenient points for the drawings of prizes. Get behind this worthy work and have the satisfaction of knowing you are helping some child on the road to health and happiness.

Of a total of some 850 votes cast on the lists, 660 voted, 458 for the continuance of local option, and only 215 for beer and wine. Smithville, the leading place in the township, has been in the dry column for the past twenty-eight years, and voted 258 for local option to 146 against. In the Fulton poll, the vote was more decided, being 102 for local option and only 14 for beer and wine.

President Roosevelt Advances Extensive Housing Scheme

Washington — A housing program with many ramifications will be part of President Roosevelt's recommendations to the new Congress.

Convinced that the housing program is successful, the President indicated that the new proposals would fit into the public works program.

At the same time he cited benefits of the national subsistence homesteading, pointing out that there was no relationship between that type on one side and the producing farmer on the other.

What the Government was trying to do, he pointed out, was to have humanity and in doing so remove persons from strictly relief and by giving them the opportunity to make themselves self-sufficient and sustaining.

AN APPEAL FOR THE HANDICAPPED

The Napanee Rotary Club is in the midst of its annual drive for funds. Once a year an appeal is made for public support of the work which the club is doing for the 11 handicapped children of the Town and County. Since the inauguration of the club in Napanee, approximately four hundred crippled and otherwise handicapped children have been given medical care and expert attention. Beginning with the crippled children the club has enlarged the sphere of its activities until now it cares not only for the deformed and the maimed, but as well for those underprivileged in the community who are in need of surgical attention in any way. Modern civilization makes a terrific demand on the courage, stamina and ability of men and women in the struggle for existence. In this struggle many children with correctable ailments or physical deformities, would undoubtedly have been crushed to the wall but for the sympathy and practical generosity of these men who have made this their chief form of service to the community. Lives have been made happier, homes brighter, and boys and girls given a real chance in life, because somebody cared.

In addition to the value which Rotary has had to the crippled children, and only second in importance to their ministry of healing, is the reflex influence on the members of Rotary themselves. These business men, gathered from all walks of life, meeting week after week, discussing children's problems, hearing reports of human suffering and planning to give time and money to these causes, have themselves learned the meaning of co-operation in a very practical and helpful manner. In this way, the whole community gets knit together in a fine trinity of co-operative helpfulness — the Rotarian who sponsors the work, the children who are helped, and the community which puts up the money.

Amid all the numerous demands which are made on the public for financial support, this of the Rotary must have a large and sympathetic place. So often we hear it said, that the demand for funds is too insistent, that "it is just one thing after another." Well, what if it is. If there is one possible good that has come from the unexampled suffering poverty and unemployment of the past few years, it is that great masses of people have been led to see that it is not only a duty, but a privilege, for those who have to share with those who have not.

This appeal merits the generous support of every citizen in the Town and County.

A COURAGEOUS ACTION

College students are often charged with having little interest in sport except the winning of games. Almost every fall, when the universities open and the football season begins, we hear unfounded rumors and idle gossip concerning the college and football. Students it is said, are given classes and other concessions, if they are able to make the first team. If anything was needed to give the quietus to such ignorance, the events at Queen's, last week, provides it.

The student body at Queen's have charge of the discipline of their own members. By vote, after long discussion, they have decided that fraternities do not make for a good spirit in a university and have forbidden them at Queen's. But a number of students among them—five members of the first team—defied this ruling and joined a fraternity.

The Student Court was immediately convened and sentence imposed. None of these students were to be permitted to take part in athletics or attend any social function.

To pass sentence on five first team football players the night before the game with Varsity, required a lot of courage, and strengthens our faith, not only in student government but in the moral integrity of the student body.

In spite of the loss of five players, the badly handicapped team went into action on Saturday and defeated Varsity 4 - 3, in one of the most thrilling games of the season. It was more than a football victory, however. It was a practical demonstration to all and sundry, that there are some things more important than team students may not do, without bringing on themselves the condemnation of their fellows.

"Oh what denomination are de chile?" asked an old colored preacher of a young couple who had brought an infant to him for baptism. "Sah !" said the young father, evidently perplexed by the word "denomination."

"I axed you oh what denomination de chile was?" repeated the minister, a little severely. The parents looked at each other in evident confusion for a moment, then the father stammered out: "I—I—doesn't know what yo' mean by 'denomination,' suh."

"Hush, yo' don't," replied the preacher, scornfully. "Well den, I'll simplify it 'cordin' to yo' ignorance so yo' kin understand it. Are de chile a boy or a gal chile ?"

PREMIER BENNETT IS BACK

Premier Bennett has returned home from a trip to Geneva, where he represented Canada at the League of Nations. While there, he met representatives of practically all the nations of the world, and had unexcelled opportunities for sizing up world opinion. Two statements which he has made on returning, are reassuring, and tend to allay, somewhat, the fears of our people. In the first place, he is convinced that there is no immediate danger of a war in Europe. That is good news to all but the armament makers. During the past year there has been an increasing tension in European relationships. The shift of political alignments and the setting up of dictatorships, in many of the European countries, have been the cause of grave apprehension.

Then the affair of the last two weeks, in which King Alexander of Jugoslavia, and M. Marthou, the French Minister of Foreign Affairs, were slain at the hands of an assassin, has left the world gasping for fear of possible complications and repercussions. But the tension seems to have been relaxed somewhat and Premier Bennett is able to report that there is no immediate prospect of war.

This should give heart to all true lovers of peace and lead them to redouble their efforts to create a warless world. The peace movement in Britain and in certain European countries has made really great progress. In Canada, its efforts have been rather feeble. All the same, there are thousands of men and women in our country who are determined that, so far as they are themselves concerned, they will do all they can to prevent any future resort to arms. What is needed is that peace organizations should be perfected and this sentiment, in some way made audible and given visibility. Only by persistent and continuous education will it be possible to break down the age-long belief that in war can disputes be settled.

The other statement which the Prime Minister made was to the effect that Canada alone with Britain, was emerging from the period of depression quicker and more steadily than any other nation in the world. Trade returns would bear this out. There are slight increases in all indices by which improvements are determined and quite a decided improvement in certain of these returns. Unemployment is not quite so prevalent as it was, while the amount of money spent on relief is not so large. And yet there is still much poverty, much uncertainty and much technological unemployment. The world is still struggling in the slough of despond, and it is doubtful if it will emerge until there is made available for all, more of the fruits of the natural endowments of our richly and abundantly blessed Dominion.

THE NOVELIST IN POLITICS

The State of California is in the midst of an election campaign of an unusual character. The star figure in the contest is Upton Sinclair, the novelist. Mr. Sinclair, for years, has poured out his criticisms of modern civilizations and institutions. He has made the novel the vehicle of his thought. These writings of his are characterized by sharp and bitter condemnation of many of the so-called accepted things of society. As a Socialist, he protested against the present capitalist order, with its insistence on competition and rugged individualism, and pled for a co-operative system, which is the dream of the Socialist. Then he went into politics. Very soon it became evident to Mr. Sinclair, that there was little hope of getting elected on a straight socialistic ticket, so he set himself out to capture the democratic nomination for Governor of the State. He had little money backing, but he financed his campaign by charging admission to his meetings and by the sale of pamphlets. When the time for taking the vote came, Mr. Sinclair had secured the much prized nomination.

Since then, he has turned all his powers against his reactionary Republican opponent. Mr. Sinclair is seeking election on what he calls his "Epic Programme." The word "Epic" is formed from the first letters of the slogan of his campaign: "End Poverty in California." During the first part of the contest he seemed to be winning support from many sides, and large numbers were flocking to his standard. But as the campaign advances, all sorts of tricks are being tried by his opponents, to discredit him. Just now, the attempt to draw the red herring of religion across the trail seems to be meeting with some success. Passages have been culled from a book—The Prophets of Religion—which he wrote fifteen years ago. In this book he had some rather caustic things to say about the institutions of religion. These clippings, the champions of political reaction are using to discredit the candidate. It is an old trick. Once you stir up the people to believe that their religion is in danger, even though they may be not working very hard at it, they will invariably fight to the last ditch for its retention.

Thus the fight in California may be decided by religious prejudices, rather than by the great issues which the socialist leader has brought so vividly and dramatically before the people.

"The evening lesson was from the Book of Job, and the minister had just read, 'Yea, the light of the wicked shall be put out,' when immediately the church was in total darkness.

"Brethren,' said the minister, with scarcely a moment's pause, 'in view of the sudden and startling fulfilment of this prophecy we will spend a few minutes in silent prayer for the electric lighting company.'"

MISSIONARIES

Is it adventure you want? Become a missionary. It's a he-man's and she-woman's job nowadays. Among 100 missionaries who have just said farewell to their friends, in England, one is going to live among African hill-men who have never seen a white man before. Another is going to stand up to the Chinese bandits and tell them how to behave, and a third, a woman, who had been home for a year with malaria after years among lepers, is going back to her charges. The rest are equally willing to risk their health and their lives. There was a time when the missionary was a stock figure of the comic papers. That time has past. — Manchester Sunday Chronicle.

DISARMAMENT CONFERENCE

We notice that efforts are being made at Geneva by certain busybodies, including M. Litvinoff, to reinstate that discredited "dud"—the Disarmament Conference. Nothing could be more profoundly injurious to the cause of true peace. The Conference, long since degenerated into a Disarmament of Britain Conference. The one result which stands to its credit is the destruction of British security by the fatal weakening of the British Air Force, for which it is largely responsible. — London Evening News.

PRESS AND POLITICS

At the recent weekly newspapers' convention, Hon. Maurice Dupre made some outstanding comments. Amongst others, he said: "I wish all newspapers independence, for I believe the party newspaper has had its day. It is outside of politics that originality is found." That is said with authority. "The party newspaper has had its day." For us poor journalists with Conservative affinities, it is a notice of dismissal, politely formulated, certainly, but inviting us to resume our liberty of appreciation and conduct. There have no more use for us. Very well. It was just as well to tell us. It is fortunate that divergence of opinions need not affect personal friendships. We shall therefore realize Mr. Dupre's wish: "political independence." It won't be long now.—L'Illustration, Quebec.

RADIO ADVERTISING

Something that would be easy to control would the quantity of advertising given over the air. Everybody admits that there is abuse. This abuse could be corrected by a law of brief similar to that imposed on newspapers. Everyone knows that the postal regulations require that the advertisements in a newspaper shall not take more than half the space. Otherwise the paper loses the advantage of the special postage rate. Why not oblige the radio stations to devote a specified proportion of their time to other things than advertising ? — L'Ordre, Montreal.

Range for Farm Poultry Breeding Stock

Range is one of the essentials in developing vigorous, thrifty chickens. The brooder house should be located so that the young chicks may run out on plots that are new and free from parasites which are almost certain to occur wherever older poultry have been. Chicks thrive best when they can run out in the sun whenever the weather permits.

The area of range should be extended as the chickens get their feathers. When the cockerels develop comb, the sexes should be segregated and given separate quarters. A free range or sufficient so that they will not eat all the turf to make the ground bare, is highly desirable. If range shelters are provided, the pullets and cockerels will greatly benefit. If they need free range, they separate grain fields after the harvest has been saved. In this way they should secure a large part of their food at very little cost for a month or more.

Breeding stock should have range during the early spring when hatching eggs are being laid, even though there may be snow on the ground. The pens need not be large but a run in the sunshine is believed to improve fertility. At the Dominion Experimental Station at Charlottetown, we have not been able to give the hens range during their pullet laying year. During this period, it is very doubtful if allowing them range would decrease production, in fact many claim that if a ration of other requirements, the pullets will lay best in confinement.

We are practically sure that, on account of their high production and other desirable qualities of type and breeding, are selected for the mating pens for the following season, should be allowed free range as soon as their pullet year is completed. They might be given the range shelters mentioned above and allowed to run free on the grain fields after harvest.

A colony house placed near a straw stack makes a very suitable shelter and the straw provides plenty of exercise for the hens as they search for the grain that has remained on the straw or among the chaff.

PIGS AND FARM PRODUCTION

With reference to the hog market, the Live Stock Market Report says that "while the hogs may follow the usual seasonal tendency, there are few reasons to expect any excessive weights." Corn, barley and other pig ration ingredients is likely to play a large part in the fall pig breeding operations. Pig producers are, however, not likely to forget the strong part which pigs have played in the farm production programme during the past two years, and the majority of producers continue to feel that pigs are among the best paying propositions in agriculture at the present time.

CAPITALISM

Is it not time that we concentrated our attention on turning to profitable account the machines we possess, rather than for ever applied ourselves to the invention of new machines we cannot use ? This idleness of the machines has led to the absurd Socialist charge that capitalism is congenitally incapable of exploiting them. Capitalism may have undernourished its thousands, but Socialism, in its Russian paladium, has starved its millions. The bentpossess

NEWBURGH

Newburgh, October 22.—Mrs. Thos. Camden, a resident of Newburgh, celebrated her eighth birthday anniversary on Wednesday, October 17th. Her daughters, Mrs. and Mr. Kohr Dowdle, Mrs. and Mr. William Dowdle, and Miss Alice Dowdle, of Wesley, were her guests. Also her sons, Mr. Edward Graham and Mr. Archie Graham, with whom she resides. Mr. J. H. Cameron, of the caching staff of Windsor High School, was not able to be present. A number of relatives and friends called to extend their congratulations. She was the receipient of many presents, a bouquet of roses, and other greetings. Her many friends throughout the district extend to her many happy returns of the day. Mrs. Cameron has been a life long resident of Camden district, living on the farm about four miles north of Newburgh until retiring to live with her sons in Newburgh a few years ago. She enjoyed a very happy birthday, is enjoying very good health and does her own house work.

The seventy-sixth anniversary services of the United Church were held on Sunday, October 21st. The Rev. Prof. J. M. Shaw, M.A., D.D., was the guest preacher at the morning service. In spite of the rain there was a good congregation to worship. Dr. Shaw took for his text, Rom. 12:1, "The Living Sacrifice". It was a deeply spiritual appeal to a dedication of our lives to the service of our Lord and our fellow men. At the close of this service Communion was observed. In the evening the Rev. A. K. Edmison, M.A., of King Street United Church, Trenton, was the guest preacher. The Rev. Mr. Edmison gave a very practical discourse on "Christ, Lost and Found", in exposition of Luke 2:41-52. It was a very timely and impressive appeal to parents to live the Christ life in their homes and recognize their responsibilities to make their homes christian for the sakes of their families. Miss Marguerite Wartman presided at the organ and her rendering of the music was deeply devotional. The music by the choir, both in the morning and evening, was very superior. Mesdames Finlay and Ramsay, in the morning sang together beautifully in the duet in the chorus, and Mrs. Ramsay was delightful in the solo. In the evening the choir sang splendidly the anthem. Mr. Garnet Brooks rendered a very suitable solo effectively.

THE WORK OF DOMININON MARKETING BOARD

The Dominion Marketing Board, which was established recently, has had many problems to deal with during its brief existence. Since the Natural Products Marketing Act, the new legislation to meet parts of Canada, there is considerable uncertainty concerning the method of operation. The nature and volume of correspondence suggests that the Board will be called upon to deal with a great variety of problems.

Few commodities which had been prepared by interested groups, for the establishing of the Board, have been dealt with finally and definitely of those provides for the regulation of the exportation of apples and potatoes, the other being with the marketing of British Columbia tree fruits. Both schemes appear to be operating with relatively little difficulty.

There is much interest concerning the provincial plans submitted, schemes and a little impatience at what appears to be delay in dealing with them. In this connection it should be noted that a scheme for the marketing of a product must be submitted by farmers or persons engaged in marketing. It is not the function of the Dominion Board to frame schemes for the industry. When a scheme has been prepared it must be submitted to the Minister of Agriculture at Ottawa with a petition indicating the amount of support back of the proposal. If the Minister is satisfied that those making the petition are adequately representative of the persons engaged in marketing, he will submit the scheme to the Marketing Board.

Schemes cannot be dealt with hastily. They request powers which are quite significant and should be investigated in the light of international relations and trade agreements. The legality of the provisions included in the scheme and their relationships to other acts and agreements must then be considered. If the scheme is to deal with export trade, consideration of its effect on the importing country and its reception by competitors, must be given. In short, everything that should be noted that a scheme for the marketing of a product must be submitted for consideration. This may require correspondence with those submitting the scheme, as frequently the provisions are not clear. The effect of the scheme on producers and consumers

Beverage Room License Fees Announced

The cost of next year's licenses for hotel beverage rooms will range from $300 to $8,000. The application forms for the licenses were mailed last week out to the hotels and to all hotel-keepers' hands.

Liquor Control Commissioner E. C. Odette, states that the cost of the licenses is based on the recorded purchases of the past three months. Admitting that this period of time has not been considered as an average for the year, Mr. Odette said :—

"We have already taken into consideration the fact that the winter will decrease sales." Explaining the rationale behind his levies, the Commissioner offered the following example: "Say that an authority holder purchases $3,000 worth of beer and wine in the last three months. We divide that by three to find one month's purchases, but then we multiply that by seven instead of twelve to arrive at annual purchases."

The Commissioner indicated that this was only an example, and that varying forms of the principle had been applied in varying instances. He cited a case in which only the figures of purchases for September were available, and stated that in such an instance the annual estimate might have been arrived at by multiplying by eight.

In addition to the license fee, the hotels pay 5 per cent. tax to the Government on all purchases during the year of $5,000 and over.

New Diphtheria Serum

Definite progress has been made at the Animal Diseases Research Institute, Health of Animals Branch, Department of Agriculture, Hull, in research problems connected with distemper of foxes and other fur-bearing animals.

Beginning in 1931, following the epidemic of which was prevalent in the Maritime Provinces in 1930-31, which was so severe and the resultant losses so heavy that the fox industry in that part of Canada was seriously threatened, an intensive study has been made of the viruses causing the disease. An anti-distemper serum has been developed which, when administered under experimental conditions affords adequate protection against distemper, and in practical trials on fur farms where distemper has made its appearance, has been used with decidedly encouraging results. Under present conditions, and in limited quantity, the serum can now be furnished for more extensive trials on fur farms on the owner's application.

The research work in connection with distemper in fur-bearing animals was undertaken following representations by the Canadian National Silver Fox Breeders' Association and from the proprietors of fox farms in various districts throughout Canada. It was necessary, in order to carry out the necessary research work and essential experiments to provide special facilities at the Animal Diseases Research Institute at Hull, that Animal houses, breeding compounds and a foundation stock of foxes, minks and dogs to supply the needs for animal experimentation were required to carry on the research programme over a period of years.

While the research studies and experiments on canine distemper were wholly applicable or effective in the case of distemper, which is common among fur-bearing animals. Distemper among dogs is more or less an annual outbreak. Among foxes and other fur-bearing animals, it occurs periodically or what may be termed, in cycles, which strike suddenly with particularly devastating effect. Moreover, the disease among fur-bearing animals is not readily as manifest as it is among dogs. The study of this disease is very important from an economic point of view as the value of fur-bearing animals on the fur farms in Canada in 1932 was over $6,750,000, and the value of fur pelts sold in that year exceeded $3,000,000.

While there still remains much work to be done in this study, certain definite findings have, so far, been established. One is that a hyperimmune distemper serum is safe and can be used without fear on fur-bearing animals, immediately the disease makes its appearance. The aim of this product is intended not so much to cure or save the lives of animals as to prevent suffering actively from the disease, but to passively immunize them. The presence of the disease in contact with the diseased animals and those which may be in the incubative stage of infection, and other necessary measures for stopping the spread of infection and reducing loss to a minimum. How effective this procedure will prove only extensive trials will disclose. If the desired results are wholly attained, it will mean that the fur farming industry will be given virtually protection against the ravages of distemper, a disease that carries with it a higher mortality rate than any other, with the consequent loss to those engaged in the industry.

Canada's National Poultry Breeding Programme

Performance, ability to reproduce, distribution of progeny, flock appraisal and hatchery approval are the policies which enter into the new National Poultry Breeding program announced by the federal Department of Agriculture, which will be carried into effect through its own organization in co-operation with the various provincial departments.

Testing poultry for performance will be continued through the existing agencies for the work, namely Record of Performance and laying contests. Both are popular with poultry breeders. Record of performance certificates will be issued for the birds qualifying through either medium. Included in the check up on the number of eggs laid will be egg weights, shell texture, shell strength, shape of egg, strength of albumen, and position of yolk. Type for market requirements, fleshing texture of skin and flesh will also be noted. If and when any of the characters noted prove to be hereditary they will be included as additional primary qualification requirements.

Much valuable breeding work has already been done with birds that have qualified on the basis of egg size and number of eggs laid, but those responsible for the outlining of this breeding program recognize certain needs which have as their basis sound pedigrees. These will be given recognition on a generation basis. Volume production is also needed before any appreciable effect can be made on the industry as a whole. More advanced methods of breeding are also an essential.

The National Poultry Breeding scheme protects the breeder by insisting upon at least two generations of sound breeding on both sides for these Record of Performance cockerels. In the further improvement tests of qualified R.O.P. males and females, three generations of sound pedigree breeding will be required in addition to the birds under test having themselves passed the performance test.

Backing all this breeding work will be the grading of hatching eggs based on grades of breeding stock covering males, females and chicks. There will be two grades for males—R.O.P. and R.O.P. pedigreed; similar grades for females, for chicks, approved R.O.P. chicks and approved hatchery chicks.

As far as cockerel distribution is concerned, an effort will be made to link together the record of performance and the hatchery parts of the programme.

This is the last session of Parliament the Live Stock and Live Stock Products Act was amended in order to make provision for Hatching Egg Grading Regulations. Several of the provinces expressed a desire to co-operate and the proclamation of the hatchery regulations in these provinces is pending. Hatcheries will be inspected annually as heretofore and operating under regulations which will enable the Department to grade as chicks approved for breeding, and others as approved commercial hatcheries.

Flock approval also constitutes an important part of the breeding programme. This does not include trapshooting or pedigree breeding, but it does include flock improvement work conducted by the provinces. Breeders are urged to continue in this work and to keep in touch with their provincial work. Many good pedigree breeders have come from the ranks of the flock improvement schemes and the supervision given such schemes by provincial officials has been and will continue to be a very valuable aid to national breeding work.

The whole National Poultry Breeding programme is outlined by the Federal Department of Agriculture, has for its objective a sound and effective breeding and distributing service for poultry. It provides for further co-operation with provincial departments of Agriculture.

For a number of years Canada has led the world in poultry development from the breeding and market standpoints, and this new programme and the many importances are indicative of a desire to maintain that supremacy.

LICENSING OF NEW VARIETIES OF CEREALS

The Dominion Seeds Act, of 1923 gave to the Minister of Agriculture the authority to license cereal varieties. The need for this change was urged after representation had been made by seed growers and those interested in the seed trade, generally in order to prevent the flooding of the market with a large number of varieties whose only value lay, in many cases, in the fancy and often misleading names given to them by high-pressure salesmen.

Now, no new varieties of certain specified kinds of seed, such as cereals which had not been known to the trade previous to March 31st, 1922, may be sold, unless the Minister of Agriculture has first issued a permit or license. A further safeguard is provided whereby a license may be refused unless or until a propagation test has been made and the mature plants examined. In the case of cereal grains, if the variety is found to possess such inferior qualities as to make it undesirable in comparison, the issuing of the license may be refused. This latter clause was found necessary and added in 1928 in order that the quality of our spring wheats, on which Canada has built up its reputation, might not be damaged by the inclusion of poor and inferior quality wheat varieties.

Outstanding plants are occasionally found in fields of standard varieties of various degrees of purity and the finders of these plants are tempted to propagate these until they find they have several hundred bushels on hand and the problem is then what to do with this quantity of seed. It is generally the tendency to imagine that the selection has unexpectedly good qualities and to think that a new variety is available to offer to the country. A great deal of time, money and disappointment could often be avoided in such cases by writing the Dominion Cerealist Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, Ont., requesting his advice as to whether or not to proceed with the further propagation of the supposedly "new" variety while as yet the quantity of the seed is relatively small.

New Varieties are not always good varieties, and it is advisable, before going in extensively for any new kind of grain, to seek information from the nearest Experimental Farm or Agricultural College. They will gladly examine the new variety under their themselves or will have information as to the relative merits of the variety for your district.

FLASHING BEACONS THAT GUIDE LONDON-PARIS PILOTS

"Fly-by-night" is a phrase which deserves a new definition.

Once it meant something unpleasant, but to-day (or rather, to-night) it means something entirely different. Indeed, it might be used as a slogan by any of the air companies carrying passengers to and from Paris.

Especially since the Air Ministry has put into operation the three-way flashing beacons near Edenbridge, Tunbridge Wells and Ashbridge, England.

The installation of these new lighthouses (automatically controlled) is what is called a "fun-valve," a device so sensitive that a passing dark cloud starts it working—and completes the night illumination of the whole 235 miles of the route between London and Paris.

A lighthouse, or, as airmen call it "Pillar of Fire" now exists at every ten miles, each one throwing its friendly and guiding beam into the sky, visible for miles, even when visibility is at its lowest.

Captain Bairnsfather In Bankruptcy Court

Tributes Paid to Author of "The Better 'Ole"

London — On behalf of Captain Bruce Bairnsfather, an application was made in the London Bankruptcy Court on Thursday last, for his discharge from bankruptcy. He failed last October.

The Assistant Official Receiver said the ranking indebtedness was estimated at £14,823, and the assets amounted to £312, of which £177 represented payments made by Capt. Bairnsfather out of his earnings since his failure.

According to Capt. Bairnsfather he was granted a commission in the Warwickshire Regiment and was demobilized in 1919. During the war he contributed sketches to papers, and in 1919 contracted to draw sketches for two papers and to write a third at a remuneration of £3,000 a year.

When that contract was cancelled in 1921 he accepted £1,000 as compensation.

Capt. Bairnsfather attributed his insolvency to the loss of £8,000 on the production of his revue "Ubique," lack of remunerative employment, heavy claims for income and supertax, and costs connected with a divorce proceedings which his wife contemplated taking while he was in America.

Mr. J. W. Goldman, said he was instructed by the trustee in the bankruptcy of Capt. Bairnsfather, the Trustee would be pleased to duly a short account of the discharge were improved. He agreed to allow £20 a month for five years from his earnings, and had honorably carried out that agreement.

Mr. W. J. Crossfield, for Capt. Bairnsfather, said it was understood that the producer of "The Better 'Ole" made £100,000 profit. Capt. Bairnsfather received about £2,000 (in accordance with the terms of his agreement), and thought that if "Ubique" was a similar success, he might just as well have the £100,000 for himself.

Mr. Registrar Mellor, suspending the discharge for only fourteen days, said Capt. Bairnsfather contributed very largely to the public funds during that very serious time in the war.

Rumble Seat Mystery Exploded by Police

Kingston, Ont., Oct. 22—Prospect of a "rumble seat mystery" being added to the list of current detective thrillers were believed shattered today by police who heard Allan Carscallen and Howard Woodcock, of Tamworth, relate seeing the body of a woman draped from the rear of a coupe on the Kaladar road.

Driving to Kaladar Saturday night the men stopped to change a tire and, while screwing on the spare, sidecoat. Then a coupe came from the roadway and started for Kaladar. Overtaking the automobile, the men claimed they saw the body of a young woman dangling from the rear part of the car between the space occupied by the tire and the body of the machine.

Investigating, Provincial Constable F. W. Barrett, of Napanee decided "It was a cold night and I am sure what was supposed to be the body of a woman was merely wrapped in an overcoat, sitting in a rumble seat. I am satisfied it was a case of foul play."— Montreal Star.

Address on Ceylon

The feature of the evening was an address by Mr. R. C. Bingham of the Ceylon Commission, which has headquarters at Montreal. Mr. Bingham is a versatile, cultured English-man, who spent twenty-five years in the British diplomatic service in India and Ceylon. He has travelled all over the world, and in his travels has had many unusual experiences.

Mr. Bingham gave an address on Ceylon, in which in an inimitable manner and with fine British humor he traced the history of the Island. He gave a vivid description of the nature of the country, of the inhabitants, and of its industries.

The second part of the lecture consisted of running comments on a series of moving picture films. These were thrown on the screen and as the pictures flashed by, Mr. Bingham made explanatory remarks. The first film showed the Island, the scenery, some of the important buildings and docking facilities. The second film portrayed the process of picking and manufacturing tea, which is the Island's greatest industry. The film followed the production of tea from the time the seed was planted, through the various stages until the plant matured, on through picking, drying, curling, oxidizing, sorting and packing, until it was landed on the steamers for export.

The Late Joseph Paul

Another of Newburgh's most esteemed men, Mr. Joseph Paul, passed away early on Sunday morning, October 14th, at the General Hospital, Kingston, where he was a patient for a couple of weeks. He was in his 77th year. He had not been in good health for several months, but was not thought seriously ill until a week before his death. He was youngest son of Mr. James Paul and Hannah Wood, and was of a quiet, unassuming disposition and was well liked by everyone.

He was a member of the Quarterly and Trustee Board of the Newburgh United Church; a member of the Council this year and a few years ago officiated as Reeve of Newburgh. He will be greatly missed both in church work and the community in general.

He lived his life on the farm on which he was born, about one mile west of the village, until last spring, when he purchased the home of the late William Sutton, Main St., and moved to the village to reside.

The funeral service, which was held in the United Church, Thursday, October 16th, at 2:00 p.m., was largely attended by his relatives and friends from Napanee, Switzerville, Selby, Roblin, Wesley, Moscow, Centreville, Strathcona, Tamworth, Odessa and Camden East. Rev. T. H. P. Anderson officiated. The casket was laden with floral tributes from the family and relatives, the Quarterly and Trustee Boards, Sunday school and Anti Bible Class, of which he was a regular attendant, and from many friends. The cortege proceeded to the cemetery, where he was laid in the family plot.

The pall-bearers were his six nephews, Messrs. Ross Paul, Napanee; Vernon Paul, Switzerville; Walter Paul and Percy Paul, Wesley, and Albert Clarke of Newburgh.

His brothers, Messrs. Harvey Paul William Paul, George Paul of Wesley Stewart Paul and Henry Paul, of Napanee; Robert Paul, Manitoba; Charlie Paul, Saskatoon, and Mrs. Sam Shields, of Manitoba, and his parents all preceded him, as did also his only son, Joseph Franklin, a couple of years ago, his sister, Miss H. M. Paul, the beloved missionary, passed away last March.

He leaves to mourn his loss, his wife, formerly Miss Kate Wartman of Wesley, two daughters, Queenie Paul and Mrs. Stewart Moore, residing on the homestead; two sisters, Mrs. M. Paul Selby and Miss Elma Paul of Newburgh.

Their many friends wish to convey to the bereaved ones, their deepest sympathy.

Reciprocity With U. S. Still Liberal Aim

That the Liberals still believe that commercial reciprocity with the United States would greatly benefit Canada and Canadian producers was made clear once more by Hon. Fernand Rinfret, ex-Secretary of State in the former Bennett administration, speaking last night under the auspices of the Leteller de St. Just Club, in Montreal. Mr. Rinfret said that it was utter nonsense to look for markets in the Antipodes when at the very doors of the country could be found a market of 130,000,000 consumers, just as eager as Canadians, to buy and sell.

The former minister emphasized that there was no question of a coalition government in Ottawa, except in those Tory circles which know that their party will be defeated, at the next general elections and who hope thus to evade their responsibilities. He also said that the Liberals would not countenance changes in the constitution unless the consent of all the provinces was obtained.

Every careful and observant mother knows when her child suffers from worms. She also knows that if some remedy be not speedily applied much harm will result to the infant. The best application that can be got is Miller's Worm Powders. They drive worms from the system and set up stimulating and soothing effects, so that the child's progress thereafter is painless and satisfying.

RAILWAY COACH USED AS "HOTEL ON WHEELS"

The gold rush to the Sturgeon River area, adjoining the line of the C. N. R. through Northern Ontario to Port Arthur and Fort William is reminiscent, in miniature, of those days of early 1900, when the great silver and gold camps in the Cobalt district came into being. Prospectors and tradsients have flocked into Jellicoe Station, the centre of the new "strike," by the hundreds and so great is the demand for accommodation that the newcomers were forced to sleep upon the ground and the floor of the station waiting room. In an effort to relieve the congestion and provide additional facilities, the Canadian National Railways parked a tourist car on the station siding. Its fourteen lower and fourteen upper berths were sold out each day at the regular fee of $1.25 per lower, plus a 25 cents government tax, and 25 cents less per upper. Although the weather was reported as turning decidedly cold, the car was adequately heated by a Baker heater and running water supplied the "guests." Each day the train from Port Arthur stopped at Jellicoe and the locomotive was run off and attached to the car to pump the air pressure to capacity to operate the taps. Oil lamps were also installed, as electrical current was not available to charge the batteries used for lighting purposes. Station agent A. C. Leggitt stated that unless the rush into the Sturgeon area shows signs of abating, it will be necessary to requisition another tourist car for sleeping purposes.

TOWEL SOAKED IN SALT AIDS WOMAN TO BEAUTY

Because I really have wonderful skin and quite a beautiful back, I'd like to tell one of my beauty secrets to you," writes an out-of-town correspondent.

Aside from the fact that we think her letter most interesting, her formula clever, we're so pleased to hear from anyone who has been successful in working out her own beauty problems that we pass the contents of the letter on to other readers. It follows :—

"Once a week I soak a medium-sized bath towel in a solution that contains one pound of ordinary table salt and a pint of warm water. When the towel has dried, I rub it between my hands to soften it.

"After each morning bath, when I've finished drying my body with a plain towel, I rub myself briskly with the salt towel, which lasts a week. Then I use either bath powder or a scented lotion."

Now that sounds like a fairly simple routine and certainly it is an effectious one. In the first place, the slight friction caused by the salt towel stimulates circulation in the entire body and when circulation is good, the chances are ten to one that the skin will be clear and smooth.

Secondly, salt water has long been considered beneficial to health and beauty. However, not many of us can bathe in the ocean the year around and few have the time to prepare a salt bath in the tub several nights a week. But we certainly have the time and energy for a salt towel of the type that this woman with the beautiful skin describes.

NEWS AND INFORMATION FOR THE BUSY FARMER

(Furnished by the Ontario Department of Agriculture)

Cement Wash Helps

The increased use of wall-board in the construction and linine of poultry houses shows that birds sometimes peck at the wall-board materiel and do considerable damage. An effective way to overcome this difficulty is to use a mixture of equal parts of lime and cement mixed with water to the consistency of a thick paste and apply with a brush. This mixture forms a hard durable surface on which the birds can make no impression.

Information on Tomatoes

Since the value of the tomato has been fully realized, its production and use has increased tremendously, until now in Eastern Ontario alone there are 2,039 growers supplying the canning factories. They plant, in a normal year, over 8,000 acres of tomatoes. The centre where most tomatoes for canning are grown consists roughly of a strip of land five miles wide and extending along the shore of Lake Ontario from Port Hope to Napanee. This includes all of Prince Edward County. In this district there are over seventy canning factories. In addition to the acreage grown for canning, there is a considerable acreage grown for soup companies, who operate in other localities. The returns to the growers from this crop amount to approximately $800,000 in a year.

It is essential that these growers know the latest methods and the correct prevention of diseases and insects if they are to succeed, and to this end the Department has published an excellent circular on the subject which should be in the hands of every tomato grower. The bulletin is very concise and everything is tabulated and easy to find. The circular No. 53, may be obtained free by residents of Ontario by writing to the Department of Agriculture, Parliament Buildings, Toronto.

Keep the Pullets Well Fed

The time is at hand when pullets should be confined to their winter quarters, but the pens should first be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected. Birds will not do their best work if infested with lice or mites. It is during the winter months that the birds make their best profits, and for this reason they should be housed and fed in a manner that will keep them healthy and vigorous. They will require a full ration of suitable feed, besides plenty of clean water, green feed, shell and grit.

The change from the growing ration to the laying mash should be made gradually. Home-grown grains cannot be sold for much on the market, and while they may form a large proportion of the birds' ration they do not supply all necessary ingredients for the production of eggs. The use of a high protein commercial mash mixed with chopped home-grown grains, will give much better results than the grains alone.

Good Care Essential

The properly balanced ration accomplishes wonderful results when fed to stock that is rightly bred, well managed and correctly housed.

Houses and equipment, such as brooders, feed hoppers, drinking pans, etc., that are sufficient to accommodate 100 chicks, will not take care of 500. Satisfactory growth cannot be made under such conditions. Growing stock needs lots of feed, provide a good grain feed and a good growing mash in hoppers so the birds can get it.

The condition of a carcass when it is marketed depends almost entirely on the way the bird is cared for up to the time it is killed. This means the way in which it is grown and the way it is fattened for market.

A poorly grown bird will not take on weight satisfactorily; its digestive organs have not developed sufficiently to handle the more or less concentrated feed that is fed during the fattening period, nor does the bird have the vitality to stand up under the fattening process.

Planting of Evergreens

The nurserymen's slogan, "It is not a home until it is planted," is very true; and the farmhouse which has to stand on its own merits, and is often set among unsightly outbuildings, would seem to be more in need of background and foundation planting than the town or city house which, in many cases, gains in value and appearance from the plantings on neighboring grounds. Evergreens are being successfully used for foundation planting now and where circumstances permit are unquestionably the most satisfactory. Once established, evergreens require a minimum of attention and are attractive at all seasons.

Dwarf Mountain Pine, Japanese Yew, and certain varieties of junipers and cedar are most suitable for foundation planting; and, while the cost is greater than for many other shrubs, they are worth the difference.

After planning on the shrubs to be planted, the work can be accomplished over a period of years. In this way the outlay at any one time need not be unreasonably high. Watering can also be better attended to when only a few are planted at a time, because evergreens must not be allowed to dry out during the first year.

Weekly Crop Report

Mangels and turnips are reported to be a very good crop in many localities. Dufferin County farmers have planted only 25% of the acreage of fall wheat seeded last year. Corn growers in North Simcoe have a surplus over the amount needed for silo. Corn ear worm there has been serious, causing considerable loss in late crops of sweet corn. Demand for farm labour in Simcoe County has exceeded the supply. Fall plowing and after-harvest cultivation is well advanced in the majority of districts. Livestock is in much improved condition, due to improved pastures. Sales of blood among cattle have been reported in Lincoln County and some have died as the result of eating too much green alfalfa. A larger quantity of alfalfa seed has been harvested in Lincoln, than for some years. Oxford reports a big improvement in the feed situation, with an abundance of feed everywhere. Heavy frost in Prince Edward County caught many tomato vines, pumpkin and other tender foliage. Many canning factories there will cease operations at once. Spring seeding in Victoria County appears to be excellent. Barley was an excellent crop there selling as high as 70c a bushel. A number of cheese factories in Frontenac have closed owing to lack of sufficient milk to carry on. Renfrew County reports the largest acreage of alfalfa that has ever been saved for seed, this year. Yields have reached as high as 350 to 400 lbs. per acre and red clover is giving about 150 lbs. to the acre.

FOR HEALTHY HAIR

The use of olive oil is most beneficial to the hair. Massage the oil well into the scalp the night before washing the hair and give the scalp daily friction with a good hair tonic.

FLOWER COLLARETTES

Flower collarettes about three inches wide and fitted close up to the throat are a novelty this season.

Pretty intriguing when made of fresh flowers, though one of honey-colored artificial buds to match the floral design of a lame dinner dress had equal originality and chic.

C. W. BUCHANAN, B.S.A.,
(Agricultural Representative)

The Achievment Day in connection with the Boys' Dooley Potato Club was held on Tuesday, October 16th, in the Agricultural boardrooms. Seven members brought in a few of the potatoes they had grown and the exhibits were judged by Mr. A. W. Sirret, agricultural representative of Kingston, who was assisting the representative with the Achievement Day.

The final awards were based on the year's work and following are the results:—

1st	Howard Henderson	837
2nd	Arthur Perry	810½
3rd	Alan Benn	757
4th	Ernest Benn	739
5th	Bruce Cuthill	662
6th	Morley Lake	653
7th	Arthur Chambers	538
8th	Lewis Wagar	233
9th	Leon McCutcheon	213
10th	Wilfred VanSlyck	204

	(Ross Lasher	171
15th	Jack Galt	135
16th	Fred Oliver	111
17th	LaVerne Weese	102

The boys took a keen interest in the Potato Club this year and we plan to carry on a second year club. Each member of the 1934 club shall plant at least one-half acre of potatoes, next year. These may be selected from seed grown in his plot this year or certified seed.

The club members will exhibit lots of potatoes at Ottawa Winter Fair and the Royal Winter Fair, Toronto.

The Provincial Inter-Club Competitions in cattle, swine, grain and potatoes were conducted on Friday, October 19th, at the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph. The two high boys in the above competition, Howard Henderson and Arthur Perry, were eligible to represent our potato club. However, Howard Henderson was unable to make the trip so the club was composed of Arthur Perry and Alan Benn. The team stood 11th in the competition at Guelph and Alan Benn was successful in winning some prize money.

The printed prize lists for the Plowing Match have been distributed. As announced last week, the match will be held on Saturday, October 27th, on the adjoining farms of Mr. Harry Oliver and Mr. Stewart Clute, R. R. No. 5, Napanee (four miles west of the town on Highway No. 2).

Owing to the change in date of the match, we have been advised by Mr. J. A. Carroll, superintendent of Agricultural and Horticultural Societies Branch, that it has been found necessary to change our judges: Mr. J. J. Tierney, Ontario Hospital Farm, Brockville, will be in charge instead of Mr. L. H. Winslow, as previously announced. The merchants of Napanee and Deseronto have been very generous in offering special prizes and all in all the prize list is an attractive one. We would appreciate the co-operation of every plowman in making an entry and thereby helping to make our Plowing Match a success. Prize lists and membership tickets may be secured at this office.

The Annual County Judging Competition will be held on Tuesday, October 30th, in the agricultural boardrooms. Contestants will register at 9:00 a.m., sharp, in the agricultural office. Classes of grain, potatoes and live stock will be judged and oral or written reasons taken on same. The handsome Canadian National Exhibition Shield will be awarded to the high boy in the competition who has not previously been a member of judging teams at Ottawa, or Toronto. Teams to represent the county at the Ottawa Winter Fair and Royal Winter Fair will be chosen from among the high boys—three members and a reserve of substitute each team. All boys in the county who have not reached their 20th birthday by November 1, 1934 are eligible to compete in this competition. We would like to have all the young men in the County take part in this competition on Tuesday, October 30th.

Prior to the County Plowing Match two meetings will be conducted in the county on Thursday, October 25, with a view to giving instruction to plowmen and others who expect to take part in the match on October 27th. Mr. L. H. Winslow will give instructions in adjusting the plows in the proper way to strike and finish lands and other information that goes to make good plowing.

The meetings will be held as follows:—

Thursday, October 25th — At 9:00 a.m., on the farm of Mr. George A. (Percy) Johnston, 4½ miles east of Napanee on the Hamburg Road.

Thursday, October 25th — At 2:00 p.m., on the farm of Mr. Hiram Shannon, on the Slush Road.

A special invitation is extended to the boys and young men to attend these meetings and take advantage of this excellent opportunity to learn the best methods of striking and finishing, in plowing.

WARN CHILDREN DANGER OF EATING WILD BERRIES

About this time of year, when the countryside is gay with bright foliage and berries, one occasionally hears of children who have been poisoned by eating some of these deceptive and dangerous things. Parents should warn them of the danger of sampling strange leaves and berries.

Most children recognize haws which may be eaten in safety. Deadly nightshade and other poisonous plants caused a flushed skin with a quickened pulse, whilst the breathing is slow and deep. The pupils are widely dilated and the victim may complain of seeing everything double. There is usually purging and, in severe cases, delirium. After an emetic, warmth and stimulants, e.g., strong coffee should be given until medical aid is obtained.

Recipes & Hints

It is the desire of "The Beaver" to devote this section of the paper, regularly, to the publication of Recipes and Household Hints, received from local women or women's organizations. We would be pleased to receive recipes and suggestions and would endeavour to publish the contributors' names, as requested. Contributions will be used as space permits.

(Send them in early in the week.)

HAM CROUTES

Grill some thin slices of ham. Fry rounds of bread to a light golden color, coat them with grated cheese, place ham between them, and serve instantly.

APPLE SNOW

Apple snow is simple to make and effective.

Bake or stew eight apples and pass them through a sieve. Add the rind and juice of a lemon, a cup of powdered sugar, and the whites of three eggs. Beat the whole into a firm froth and pile up in a dish.

DEVON POTATO PUDDING

Line a basin with suet crust, pack with sliced potatoes, dust with seasoning, and add some cream. Cover with a suet crust lid and steam for about one and a half hours.

BAKED RICE WITH CHEESE

Baked rice and cheese is an excellent dish for the first cool days of fall. Simply put a layer of cooked rice in a greased baking dish, cover with grated cheese and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Continue adding alternate layers of rice and cheese until the dish is almost full. Pour in about one cupful of milk and cover the top layer with toasted bread crumbs and a few pieces of butter. Bake in a moderate oven.

MARROW PICKLE

Here is a good pickle which may be made from vegetable marrow. Four pounds of marrow, free from pith and skin, cut in small squares, two pounds of onions, cut small, one tablespoon each mustard and salt, one clove, one cup sugar, one dessertspoon each turmeric ground ginger, and three and a half pints of vinegar.

Sprinkle the marrow with salt and leave overnight; drain, put into a saucepan with the onion and cloves tied into a bag, mix the mustard, turmeric and ginger to a paste with the vinegar. Bring to the boil, lastly adding the sugar, and boil for one and half hours.

PLUM PRESERVES

Cut the washed fruit in halves, remove the stones and tie them in a muslin bag.

Put the water and plums in the preserving pan and boil very gradually until boiling. Boil rapidly for a few minutes to reduce the quantity, then add sugar.

Bring to the boil again, and boil rapidly, stirring all the time, for 20 minutes, or until a little tested on a cold plate will set readily. Pour into jars and skim. Cover with waterproof paper brushed on both sides with white of egg, or seal with paraffin.

The stones should be boiled with the fruit, then broken and some of the kernels added to the jam during the last few minutes of boiling.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

A strip of oiled silk, tacked to the back of an armchair or Chesterfield before the loose cover is put on, will protect the parmanent upholstery from possible stains or grease marks.

To use up odd pieces of wool, cast on 14 to 16 stitches and knit a strip about 14 inches long in plain knitting. This makes an ideal non-slip cover for a footstool. Place the centre of the strip and sew the edges all round together.

To clean white felt hat:— Stuff the crown with soft paper and cover the hat thickly with dry calcined magnesia. Rub this in, in one direction; with a piece of soft muslin, then shake and beat well to remove all traces of the powder.

Mrs. Scilley gave the scripture reading taken from Psalm 1 The roll was called and the minutes were read and adopted. Business was discussed and arrangements were made for an anniversary tea.

Mrs. Will Weese was appointed programme leader for the October meeting, to be held at the home of Mrs. Robert Nuvent.

Miss Daisy Moore then gave a report of the Ladies' Aid held in Newburgh in September. This was very interesting and was given in splendid manner.

Mrs. William Campbell, who was present, gave an interesting short talk on a book which an aged uncle who was a preacher had written. He told of his experiences in those pioneer days and of the hardships endured.

Miss Verene Campbell read an extract from the book referred to.

Miss Moore's report and Mrs. Campbell's talk and Mrs. Verene Campbell's reading, all connected with the talk, were greatly appreciated by those present.

The mizpah benediction closed the meeting.

HAWLEY W. M. S.

After the conducting of the business, Mrs. Ackerman took the devotional part, which was of a thanksgiving theme. Mrs. Vannest gave an interesting reading from the study book. A thanksgiving poem was given by Mrs. Clement. The offering was received and the meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction, after which a social time was spent, consisting of musical numbers and dancing by the young men's orchestra. BRITISH POULTRY COMMENTS

In view of the increasing interest being taken in the British market by the Canadian market poultry producers and dealers, the following extracts from a recent paper by Dudley Clarke, of Clarke & Son, Smithfield Market, London, is of timely interest.

"If I am asked: 'What weight of chicken is required in the London Markets?' I should say plump chickens of all weights, but the prices of chickens under 3 pounds will inevitably be below the price for those over that weight."

"Prior to the restrictions on imported poultry, large quantities of 2½ to 3 pound chickens were arriving from the Continent in a frozen or chilled condition, and were finding a ready market at wholesale prices of 8d to 1s. per pound. These chickens were largely bought by caterers and also largely by fishmongers, butchers and provision merchants as a sideline, and could be kept in refrigerators and used as required. Further, they were meaty little birds, and very closely graded for weight. Certain brands had become well-known for their quality grading. They were neither sold nor bought out of preference for foreign goods, but because anything similar in English goods was not obtainable, nor is it to-day."— Egg and Poultry Market Review, Dominion Department of Agriculture.

HUGE TURTLE TO BE SEEN IN MONTREAL

A turtle 1,000 years old and weighing more than half a ton is being exhibited at the Boywell Market, 1319 St. Catherine Street west. The turtle, caught near Lockport, N. S., by Capt. Hebert Williams of the ship "Lindy," measures 70 inches in length and about 70 inches in width with the flippers open. Its weight is 1,029 pounds and its age is calculated by the fact that it gains about a pound a year.

IT'S LIVER THAT MAKES YOU FEEL SO WRETCHED

Wake Up Your Liver Bile and Get A New Lease of Life. No Calomel Is Necessary.

For you to feel healthy and happy, your liver must pour two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels, every day of your life.

Without that bile, trouble starts promptly. Your food just won't digest the way it should and your bowels are sluggish. Food decays inside you and your entire system is undermined by this poisonous waste matter. You have indigestion—the discomfort of gas, bloating, heartburn and sometimes, dizziness. Your skin looks sallow, a tongue like rotten wood, a nasty taste in your mouth, bad breath and ugly skin. You have only nothing like the pep & sparkling person should be. A laxative merely relieves constipation.

How can you expect to clear up a condition like this, unless you get the liver bile into the bile ducts, mixed properly with food? Laxative candy or chewing gum, or roughage? They can't wake up your liver bile!

Avoid calomel (mercury). Buy yourself a box of old reliable Carter's Little Liver Pills. All vegetable, sure, gentle, safe. They'll wake up your liver without upsetting you. Bring back the glad-to-be-alive feeling; once more.

Don't waste your money on substitutes. Be definite. Ask for Carter's by name and get them. Look for the name, Carter's, on the red label. 25c at all druggists. 47

NEW ZEALANDERS USING MORE CANADIAN PRODUCTS — LARGE INCREASE IN EXPORTS SHOWN

New Zealanders are again washing with Canadian soap, imports of which show a substantial increase in the first six months of 1934 over the same period last year. Canadian soap was formerly imported into New Zealand in quantities as high in recent years the supply had come from Australia. New Zealanders however, have again turned to the Canadian product. Latest figures covering Canadian imports into New Zealand, show a most gratifying state of affairs. For the first six months of this year, as compared with the same period last year, imports from Canada into New Zealand increased 51.11 per cent. Among the principal commodities showing increases are automobiles, tires, and chassis for cars, flour, twine, fur skins, Douglas fir, wallpaper, soap, iron bars and rods, electric meters, batteries and cells, rubber heels, iron pipes, artificers' tools, wireless apparatus and woodenware. The greatest increase is in motor vehicles and tires, automobiles showing a phenomenal increase. Decreases are shown in rubber boots, newsprint, wheat and canned fish, although the newsprint is still the largest individual item imported from Canada. A considerable quantity of these commodities were carried in vessels of the Canadian National Steamships fleet in the direct Canada-New Zealand and Australia service. Exports to all the leading consuming countries, including Canada, also increased materially.

ROGER W. BABSON REVIEWS ECONOMIC SITUATION

GOLD — AN OUTSTANDING RECOVERY FACTOR

We are accustomed to think of the "gold rush" days as long since over—romantic and glamorous periods of a more distant past. Consequently, when we learn that $160,000,000 worth of gold will be dug out of Canadian soil this year, it makes us realize that the gold prospectors of by-gone days literally only scraped the surface of Canada's gold resources. Furthermore, the possibilities ahead are breath-catching.

IMPORTANT ROLE OF CANADA'S RESOURCES

The history of Canada has been closely allied with the development of her natural resources, with which she is richly endowed. Prairie came for fur—British for fish. Later her vast lumbering and agricultural resources attracted settlers. As a pioneer in opening up new territory for these economic pursuits, the name of Canada was synonymous with lumber before it became associated with another great natural resource—wheat. Mining was the latest of the major resources to be developed, and is undoubtedly becoming more wide spread and valuable. In fact, it was as a by-product of the agricultural industry that mining came into being.

The story of the construction of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway, undertaken primarily to develop the great "clay belt" for agricultural purposes, led to the revival of the discovery of Canada's buried treasures. In the course of the Temiskaming's building, the famous Cobalt silver deposits were discovered in 1903, the great Porcupine in 1909, and the vast mineral wealth in Kirkland Lake in 1912. In like manner, the Canadian Pacific Railway's builders disclosed the great greates body of nickel, at Sudbury.

In the past twenty-five years, mining has grown from an infant in swaddling clothes to the second largest Canadian industry, in point of value of product. Mining operations are carried on in all provinces, leading among which is Ontario. The value of mineral products annually tends directly or indirectly to every corner of the Dominion. Increased calculations have a bearing on the demand for innumerable kinds of manufactured goods, and on agricultural products, expanding employment — all these and more can be laid to the mining industry.

THIS IS MINING'S AGE

All branches of mining are on the increase — metals, fuels, and non-metallics. Some of the figures for months of this year showed substantial gains over the same period of 1933. For example, the metallic production in this period amounted to $131,942,000 — an increase of 45 per cent. Similar comparisons could be made in nickel, gold, copper, zinc and silver. In fact several metals produced in Canada are practically never before surpassed in valuation. And now radium—that most mysterious of metals—is added to the substantial volume of production.

This may well be called the "Mining Age." Canada has already taken a leading place among the world mineral producers, and with her vast resources she ranks first; in gold, platinum, cobalt, radium, and asbestos production, third, and in lead and silver, fourth. Today Canadians produce more metal per capita than any other nationality. The value of mineral production in 1933 was $23.23 for every man, woman and child. In addition to her wonderful natural resources, there have been other forces to which Canada owes her present position. Among the most important have been the Geological Survey, the research of the Department of Mines, and scientific methods of mining, with the products for Mines, and scientific development of new uses and products for minerals.

THE DAZZLING GOLD SHOW

Gold production is, of course, holding the spotlight in the mining drama at present, and in this field Canada has played a most important role during the past two decades. A quarter of a century ago this type of gold mining were primitive affairs —today complex and expensive machinery has taken the place of the prospector's pick and -cradle which he toted on his back. In short, adventure has been replaced by industry in so far as the actual removal of gold from the soil is concerned. The rough-bearded man of whom Robert Service has sung so effectively, has been replaced by keen-eyed, technically trained mining experts, who plumb for gold with the cold accuracy of the multiplication table.

With the world in confusion over the gold standard, Canada's opportunity was never so good in this field as it is today. The greatly increased value of the yellow metal is the motivating force behind the dazzling show that is centering in Northern Ontario. At present price levels the low grade ore can be profitably extracted and mines which many new ones are being promoted. Where there were 40 gold mills in operation two years ago, there are 50 today. Most of the $160,000,000 realized this year from the production of gold will be put into circulation within the Dominion.

Remember that an inevitable consequence of any expansion in a new industry is the era of speculation which it invites. Nothing is more fascinating to the average person than a hole in the ground from which wealth may be brought forth. Hence there is no more fertile field for wild-cat securities than is offered by the gold mining industry. Certainly, of course, good gold mines are real producers which are legitimate investments. For every one of these, however, there are a thousand illfated ventures. So let me caution readers against the obvious dangers of speculation in mining stocks, where the operations are not thoroughly known and the investment before it purchases his good Canadian currency. EDUCATION

If education is to equip the child to solve the problems of life aright, it must include awakening and developing the latent spiritual qualities which are inherent in every human being. . . . Such qualities as honesty, truthfulness, obedience, loyalty, trustworthiness, humility, patience, love, and consideration for others, self-control, justice, and so forth, are spiritual qualities—not material or physical, nor merely intellectual.—Theodore Buckhart.

LET THINGS ALONE

"Let things alone," and all the excuses by which those who stand on firm ground allow themselves ignorances when they leave their brother to sink. How does it look when applied to the affairs of the Lord Jesus ? Does "Let things alone" man take lifeboats ? Do the inexorable laws of political economy save the shipwrecked sailor from the boiling sea ?

No desire for profit created the National Lifeboat Institution: no hope of simply good deeds actuates the volunteers who risk their lives to bring the shipwrecked to shore. What we have to do is to apply the same principles to society. We need a National Lifeboat Institution—a Social Lifeboat Brigade that will snatch from the abyss all those who fall. For themselves we may see as little miserable as the crew of a ship that flounders in mid-ocean.—From an address by General Booth.

"OUR HERITAGE"

Being the popular report of The British and Foreign Bible Society for 1933, by the Rev. Dinsdale T. Young, M.C., M.A., Literary Superintendent.

"The Bible in the mother tongue is the rightful heritage of all men." Around this principle the current Popular Report of the British and Foreign Bible Society centres. Seldom has any report of any society contained more useful information in so small a compass.

The titles of the chapters are indicative of the contents of the Report : "The Priceless Heritage of the Bible"; "Sharing the Heritage with the British Commonwealth"; "Spreading the Heritage with the Whole World"; "The Blessing of the Heritage"; "The Heritage in the Mother Tongue"; "The Cost". The booklet is well illustrated and beautifully printed and produced. The frontispiece representing the last moments in the life of the Bible Seller.

The cost of this world wide task of publishing and circulating translations of the Holy Scriptures is enormous and the need for increased support clearly indicated.

No one can rise from reading this report without feeling how great has been the influence of the Bible on the British race and all its institutions; how dangerous it will be if that race misuses or neglects its heritage; and how urgent is the call to make this Book the heritage of "all kindreds and peoples and tongues."

AMERICA DISCOVERED IN THOUSANDTH YEAR

Once again the runic stone, found at its last resting place in Kensington, planted in the Yarmouth public library, has come into prominence as offering additional evidence that the Norsemen discovered America almost a thousand years before the days of Columbus.

The runes of the stone were photographed and forwarded to Prof. Olaf Strandwold, Professor of Scandinavian Literature at the University of Schools in Benton County, Washington, a well known educator and runic expert. He has made a careful study of them. A recent letter received from him, states that he has completed the translating certain of the runes and now finds that part of the inscription reads, "Eight goths and 22 Norwegians on exploration." He is of the opinion that Leif Erikson himself was present and either inscribed, or had a number of his party inscribe, the runes on the rock, and that it was carved in the year 1081 A. D. He also points out that the place where the rock was discovered corresponds with the description contained in the old Norse sagas of Leif Erikson's voyages of discoveries to Vineland.

PROPHESY OPEN WINTER FOR PARTS OF ONTARIO

Indications that there will be an open Winter in many sections of Ontario is foretold by Chief Yellow Robe, of the Tobikway Indians, and Tribal Prophet Dave Simcoe, according to an advance received from the Rama reservation. Both the Chief and the Prophet, the latter claiming to have inherited the forecasting ability from his forefathers, base their weather conditions for twenty years without error,share their calculations upon the habits of the bear in the condition of animals in general, the bleakedness of the muskrat in building houses, and the fact that the squirrel is not stocking his usual quantity of nuts. Then wild fruits and nuts are scarce and the silk of the corn is unusually thin. Lastly these is a scarcity of water in the lakes and rivers which indicates a lack of rainfall up until January. Just one more indication is wanting to confirm the fact of a mild winter. That is whether the geese fly high. If they do so then all signs are complete; but the geese do not fly far together fortnight.

Statistics are no substitute for judgment.

THE LAST TASKS OF THE SEASON WITH BEES

The active season closes for the beekeeper after the feeding of the bees and giving them the necessary protection for the coming winter. Feeding should be completed by the second week in October, but if any there is short of forty pounds of food at that time, and the weather is suitable, feeding may be continued until the necessary amount is stored. Bees that are to be wintered outside should be placed in their cases and given bottom and side packing before being fed, as they are then easier to handle, and there is no disturbance to the bees after feeding. When the feeding is done, the top packing can be put in place any time before cold weather sets in. Any type of case may be used, provided it is large enough to allow for at least four inches of packing material at the bottom and sides of the colony, and eight inches on top, together with a two inch air space above the packing. The case must also keep the packing material dry during the winter months. It must be proof against rain, snow and bees at all times. It is also advisable to drill a hole at least one inch in diameter, at each end of the case, just below the cover, so that a current of air playing above the packing may carry off any moisture that may arise from the colonies. The Bee Division, Dominion Experimental Farm, Ottawa, has experimented with many types of cases, but the packing case standard case holding four colonies en bloc, the most economical. Wind breaks are important in winter protection. If natural ones are not available, open fences should be erected on, or at least, three sides of the apiary. Bees that are to be wintered in cellar or pits, should be carried in immediately after the last good cleansing flight, which is likely to get. At Ottawa, this is usually during the first week in November. An ideal cellar is one that can be kept dark and dry, and the temperature held constant at about 45 degrees Fahrenheit. After placing the bees in the cellar, leave the hive entrances wide open, remove the hive covers and spread two or more thicknesses of sacking over the quilts. Do not disturb the bees during the winter months.

Treatment of Greenhouse Soils With Chemicals

(Experimental Farms Note.)

The soil sustaining the greenhouse industry of Canada through wilt, blackleg, root-knot and other troubles is very heavy. The parasitic fungi and nematodes that cause these diseases are more apt to develop in greenhouse soils than out-of-doors, owing to the practical impossibility of establishing satisfactory crop rotations and to the more or less artificial conditions of greenhouse soil management.

Many growers eliminate these troubles by systematic steam sterilization of the soil, but steam is not always available, especially to small growers. Such growers have to rely upon replacing their "sick" soils with fresh soil from outside. These soils themselves are subject to contamination, by sterilizing with chemicals all seed-bed and potting soils can be rendered safe and sterilize at once any area upon which a diseased plant appears.

The Dominion Laboratory of Plant Pathology, at Saanichton, has tested many chemicals for this purpose and studies to date suggest that formalin is the best general disinfectant. Soil for seed-beds or potting should be moistened with the formalin solution and placed in heaps. Start with a layer about six inches deep and build up in layers, soaking each with a solution containing one gallon of commercial formalin to each 100 gallons of water. Finally, cover the heaps with canvas or boards tipped in the one per cent solution. Ten days should elapse before using this soil, to allow all the fumes to escape. This should result. A cubic yard of soil requires 15 to 20 gallons of solution. Flats, pots, and the like for seedlings should be dug and soaked with one gallon of one per cent solution per square foot; or well beyond the area of infection and cover with formalin solution. Pots may be sterilized by placing fresh soil in a bed or bench, the bottom and walls should be soaked with the formalin solution. Formalin vapour is toxic to plants so the greenhouse should be empty for several days after using.

Chestnut compound, prepared by crushing one pound of sulphur to stee and eleven parts ammonium carbonate, mixing and storing in an air-tight container for at least 24 hours, is a useful fungicide for use when damping off or wilt first appears in a crop. A solution made by dissolving one ounce of this Chesnut powder in a little hot water, is made up to two gallons with cold water and it will check these diseases if the soil is well watered. Without significant injury even to small seedlings. A plot of ground where compound should be spoured into the hole before replacing diseased plants. The importance or regular sterilization of seed-bed and potting soils cannot be too strongly emphasized, since so many troubles originate in the early stages of plant growth.

CONSCIENCE MONEY SENT FROM INDIA

Conscience would seem to have a long arm.

India, evidently was not feeling comfortable about the minutes of a G. T. P. Railway ticket, so the other day C. N. R. officials in Vancouver, B.C., received a draft on a bank in Madras, India, for $34.00. No explanation of the importance or regular amortization of seed-bed and potting soils cannot be too strongly emphasized, since so many troubles originate in the early stages of plant growth.

Fish Meal as a Protein For Dairy Cows

(Experimental Farms Note.)

There are three factors that combine to make fish meal deserving of consideration in our live stock feeding program. It is a Canadian product; it carries a very high protein content of animal origin; it contains a high percentage of minerals, chiefly of phosphorous and calcium, both lacking in our home-grown feeds.

With these points in mind, experiments were coducted during the last two years at the Dominion Experimental Farm, Nappan, N.S., to determine the value of high quality fish meal as a source of protein for milch cows. A basal ration of home-grown grain, (oats and barley) was balanced with fish meal in one case and oil meal in the other. 12 pounds of fish meal or 10 pounds fish meal being used for each 300 pounds of grain. The results of these experiments may be summarized as follows :—

Slightly higher milk production was secured from oil meal as compared with fish meal, but the difference was not significant. The actual production secured was 22.56 pounds per cow per day from mish meal and 23 pounds from oil meal.

On basis of the consumption of dry matter per unit of production, the two feeds were practically equal.

The feed cost to produce 10o pounds of milk was one cent higher on the fish meal ration than on oil meal, an insignificant amount.

During the second experiment, records were kept of the body weights of the cows on test. When receiving the fish meal ration, the average gain per cow was 36 pounds, while the oil meal ration gave a gain of 6.5 pounds.

The fish meal used was of high quality, (being 3 per cent in oil content), and no difficulty was experienced in feeding, either as to palatability or from their flavour.

Using oats and barley as a basal ration, costing $30 per ton, the results would indicate that with oil meal costing $40 per ton, fish meal, costing $45 per ton, $50.56, or with oil meal at $45, fish meal would be worth $60.80.

While the data given are based on only two experiments, the results are so nearly identical that their application: Fish meal is a valuable and economical source of protein and minerals for the feeding of dairy cows; fish meal may be recommended without fear of any injurious results, providing it is of good quality, and adding in protein and minerals and low in oil.

HARVESTING SWEDES FOR SEED ROOTS

When harvesting swede roots for seed production only those roots that are typical of the variety which they represent, should be saved. The roots should be smooth, without pronginess and have neat necks. In order that uniformity may be maintained and improved, fully matured roots should be selected. Where considerable quantities are required, smaller roots may be selected for the main crop and larger, fully matured roots for the seed plot, which should be grown at as great distance from the main crop as is possible. This practice will be somewhat more economical than using large roots throughout, and if seed for further multiplication is always taken from the seed plot, reasonable uniformity can be maintained.

Where a club-root resistant variety is being grown, seed should always be grown on land that is definitely known to be infested with this disease and only roots that are absolutely free from disease, selected.

When pulling the roots, do not carry of the small rootlets, but simply shake off as much of the earth as is possible without undue injury to the rootlets.

The tops should be cut off about an inch and a half above the crown. The woody part of the neck should not be cut, as the main shoots from this will be much more satisfactory growth next spring than will the lateral shoots which develop when one main one is injured. Seed from the main shoots will ripen more uniformly and plants with this type of growth are easier to work among with hoe and cultivator and do not break as readily with the wind.

Seed roots can be stored either in pits out of doors or in a dark, well ventilated cellar free from frost, yet sufficiently cool to keep them from sprouting too early in the spring.

OFFER BRED SOWS AT COST

At this time of year, with the swine breeding season approaching, when sows must be bred for spring and early summer litters, a farmer should consider breeding only sows of bacon type. Those farmers who have not such a suitable type sow will be glad to learn of the services of the Brood Sow Policy, administered by live stock branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture. Under this policy, farmers may secure bred sows of suitable type, at cost.

Any farmer who may be interested can get full information by applying to the Dominion Live Stock Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, or to the representative of the Department at his nearest stockyard.

The Weakening Agony of Piles (Haemorrhoids) Ended

Thousands Bless This Famous Herbal Ointment

Piles or haemorrhoids cause excruciating pain and often serious loss of blood. The famous Zam-Buk ointment is a wonderful healing agent. It soothes the swollen veins and itching parts. Zam-Buk derives its healing and mildly astringent influence from herbal extracts of special value in this weakening and agonizing complaint. Zam-Buk has a wonderful record of success.

THE BEST OF PROOF

Mrs. R. E. Darley, of 2545 Ohio Avenue, Southgate, California, a nurse, writes as follows:—"My husband suffered from Piles for years, but a year ago they reached an acute stage and he could neither sleep nor attend his work. He had medical advice, tried all sorts of baths, hot packs, enemas and obtunents which cost him hundreds of dollars without obtaining any relief. Finally a friend gave him a box of Zam-Buk; after application for a few days he obtained a good night's rest. He continued the treatment and by the time he had finished a second box he was completely relieved of this painful ailment and able to resume his work."

Mrs. J. Alcock, of Ottawa, writes:—"We have used Zam-Buk ever since I married, and I would not have been without it. My husband, who has been troubled with itching piles for years, says the soothing relief Zam-Buk brought was wonderful."

The unparalleled success of Zam-Buk lies in its original and valuable formula. Zam-Buk is compounded from certain herbal extracts of an extraordinarily healing, soothing and antiseptic nature. Zam-Buk soon stops all pain and itching. It gets at the root of such troubles as eczema, salt rheum, bad legs, ulcers, scalp disease, poisoned arms, etc., and is also a fine ever-ready first-aid for injuries. FREAK OF NATURE FOUND IN BIG WOODS

Hens may crow as cocks and roosters have been known to lay eggs. Now comes the fact that a doe can grow a fine pair of antlers, the same as the buck. This freak of nature was brought to light in Beaucoust County, Quebec, by two hunters, J. A. Challour and T. E. Ciroux, of Beaufort, who were greatly surprised to find that their prize was with a good growth of antlers, was actually a doe. They showed the proof of their discovery to Dr. Arsene Brassard, Director of the Zoological Gardens at Charlesbourg, Que. Antlered does have been found before but these are usually spikey and in velvet covering. Instances have also been reported of male deer without antlers.

American Aeroplane Lost in Heavy Snow Lands in Napanee

Supply of Fuel Almost Exhausted

A nine-passenger Curtiss-Wright Condor plane of the American Airlines, made a forced landing here about 8:30 p.m. Sunday. It was en-route from New York to Buffalo, with full complement of passengers and three of a crew.

The plane left Albany at 5:40 in the afternoon and encountered heavy snow. Endeavoring to escape the snow and ice, the pilot got off his course and was running short of fuel. For miles, a suitable place to land was sought, and finally, after flares were sent down, a large, ploughed field on the farm of W. H. Hunter, was selected. The plane circled the town for half an hour before the location for landing was selected.

Passengers and crew were all landed unharmed. One wing of the plane was slightly torn when it struck a post after the machine came to a stop in a wire fence.

Conditions for landing were extremely bad. There was no light, except from the flares sent down, and the field was recently ploughed and very soft. The passengers were calm under the conditions and gave the pilot credit for his skill. The nine passengers, three women and six men, were removed and took the midnight train to complete their journey to Buffalo, N. Y.

No attempts to move the machine were made until daylight, after suitable gasoline had been secured and necessary repairs made.

The machine was piloted by Pilot Deater, who has been with American Airways for 6½ years. His home is at Akron, and the stewardess is Miss Grace Hall.

Among the passengers were Edward C. Grelle, 14 W. Elm Street, Chicago; Mrs. Charles Miller, Buffalo; S. P. Nye, Buffalo, and A. B. Smith, of Brooklyn.

Crew Interviewed by Representative of The Beaver

On Sunday evening, and Monday morning, hundreds of people from Napanee and the district visited the city, visited the American Airways plane which made a forced landing about 8:15 p.m., Sunday, at Napanee.

The plane is one of the best in the American Airways fleet and, later, one of the most experienced by the company's employ. Deater has had eleven years' experience as a pilot. In conversation with The Beaver representative he said that for 5½ years he had been on the Montreal-Detroit route and for 1½ years has been on his present run. Asked about the attitude of the passengers, whilst he was searching for a place to land, Mr. Deater said: "They were simply great! But, of course, I don't know how passengers generally act under such conditions, as this is the first time I have had to make a forced landing with passengers aboard."

Powerful Plane

The plane itself was one used for sleeper service, but recently has been employed in the day schedule. It is a twin - motored Curtis - Wright Condor, with 720 horse power, holds 94 gallons of gas per hour and develops a speed of 145 miles per hour. It's full complement of gas is 374 gallons, and oil 120 quarts. At the time Napanee was reached the supply of gas was very low.

Mr. Deater said that they had encountered heavy snow storms after leaving Albany at 5:40 p.m., Sunday, and the plane was becoming coated with snow and ice. In order to avoid the snow, he had gone many miles north of his course and apparently lost his bearings. It is evident, from his description of the country over which they were flying, that they came up the St. Lawrence. At one point the pilot thought he sighted Oshawa, but decided the lights must have been attached to power lines.

Citizens Watch Landing

Citizens of Napanee watched anxiously for half an hour as the plane circled at a low altitude over the town before making a landing. Two flares, attached to parachutes were released and were high when landed in the landing. The parachutes are made of strong silk and each are valued at $75.00 each. Spectators present when the landing was made, say it was a marvel of manoeuvring. The plane circled slowly above the field and then suddenly came down and almost immediately after reaching the ground it came to a standstill. It was a very fine piece of pilot's part, as otherwise serious damage might have been done for the plane became entangled in a low wire fence. If greater speed had been used, the plane might easily have been capsized.

Stewardess Gives Impressions

Miss Grace Hall, the stewardess, when interviewed by The Beaver, shortly after the landing, showed no

Important Announcements Made by Premier Hepburn Affect Ont. Municipalities

Amends Beverage Law

Premier Hepburn made three important announcements on Monday evening. They were: First, Municipalities will receive 20 per cent of the revenue derived from authority fees and from government profits on wine sold in their boundaries. Second, Municipalities will be relieved of the obligation of paying 20 per cent toward provincial highway costs. Third, Beverage rooms throughout the Province will close at 11:00 p.m. standard time.

The Premier's Statement

In making the announcements, the Premier said :—

"Commissioner Odette conferred with the Cabinet in the matter of wine and beer regulations. As we pointed out when we passed the original Order-in-Council, beer-sale regulations would be in the nature of an experiment, up to the end of the first fiscal year.

"Now we have decided that, starting November 1st, all beverage rooms in the Province shall close at 11:00 p.m. (standard time), instead of midnight, as heretofore. We are desirous of having the closest co-operation between the Liquor Control Board and the police departments of the municipalities toward the enforcement of the regulations."

Cash Refused

"Commencing November 1st," continued the Premier, "the Government will refund to the municipalities, by the 20th of each month, 20 per cent of the revenue derived from authority fees and profits on wine and beer. This will of course, be refunded only to those municipalities in which profits are created. We reaffirm the Government's policy of local option and from this policy we shall not depart. The responsibility is free to prevent beer-sale within its borders."

Highway Levy Removed

"It is our further intention to abolish the 20 per cent. levy demanded the municipalities for Provincial highway construction and maintenance. Until now there has been too little profit left to the cities, towns and villages from the sale of beer, auto tags, succession duties, and so on: A truck driver may never leave Toronto, but no portion of the tax he pays goes to the city. The tendency has been gradually to deprive the municipalities of all sources of revenue, except that a part of the license fees for liquor sale, and this, in a measure, is being restored."

Rev. Harry Pawson Addressed Rotarians At Weekly Luncheon

At the Rotary Club luncheon, on Tuesday, Rev. Harry Pawson, speaker of the day, was introduced by Rev. W. R. Thurston of Oshawa, a former pastor of Trinity Church, and a charter member of the local Rotary Club. The subject was "Wilson MacDonald and his Poetry."

Mr. Pawson told of the impression made on him by Mr. MacDonald, when he spoke to the Collegiate pupils, last year. He pointed out that Canadians, generally, do not sufficiently appreciate the work of Canadian poets and artists.

Although he could not be clasped as a religious poet, his work shows a deep realization of spiritual vision and Christian character. He is always on the side of "the under dog," and his poems show a wide sympathy with the struggle for a more equitable division of life's rewards.

He has the distinction of possessing sheer creative genius, a delightful humour, an amazing versatility, an exquisite choice of words, and rare imagery. His poems have frequently appeared in Scribner's, The London Mercury and in The Outlook.

Among the poems read by Mr. Pawson, were "Grannies," "Convocation," "The Cynic," "The Real Chicken," "The Students," "The House of Heebie" and "Immanence." The thanks of the Club to the speaker, for his interesting address, were given by Rotarian Ven. Archdeacon Dumbrille.

Ex-Premier Henry Says Car Was Used Officially

Car No. 100, for which he ran up a $3,000 bill at the Government garage, was used primarily on public business, ex-Premier George S. Henry claimed in a statement issued on the week end. The Conservative Leader settled the account last week, after Premier Hepburn threatened to institute suit on the Government's behalf.

Mr. Henry explained that he had bought the car himself, but since he used it chiefly in official capacity, he believed the Government should pay the upkeep.

His statement follows :—

"Since the regime of Sir James Whitney, Cabinet Ministers have been entitled to receive up to $1,000 in each year for travelling allowances. Since Mr. Hepburn's accession to power he has approved of this policy with respect to the present Administration. I personally have not drawn any travelling allowances for some years.

"During my incumbency of the office of Prime Minister I lived at Oriole. My official engagements frequently were not terminated until late at night. I would not care to ask a Government chauffeur to drive me to Oriole late at night, as it would mean that the man would be left without his proper hours of rest. Usually the chauffeur would drive me to the Parliament Buildings and bring me my private car from the Government garage. I drove myself home and back to my office the next morning. I never asked my chauffeur to work on Sundays. During the week days my car was retained in the Government garage and was occasionally used by the department for governmental and public business purposes as a spare car.

"In view of the fact that I drew no travelling allowances and that my private car was used in the main, for Government and public business, I felt it only right that the upkeep of the upkeep should be borne by the department. I might mention that the depreciation of the car being borne by me.

"On receipt of the request from the Provincial Auditor for payment of supplies for my car, I promptly forwarded a cheque in payment therefor, as I did not wish there to be any question as to the propriety of my attitude in the matter."

The slaughtering and meat packing industry, which might be termed an offshot of agriculture, is one of the most important of the Canadian manufacturing industries. On the list of the leading forty industries in 1932, the latest year for which complete figures are available, it stood first in order of value of materials used and third in order of gross value of output.

Hon. H. H. Stevens Leaves Dominion Cabinet Post

Disagrees With Members about Probe

Hon. H. H. Stevens has handed in his resignation as Minister of Trade and Commerce in the Bennett Cabinet. The action was taken as a result of a difference of opinion in the Cabinet, on Mr. Stevens' actions as chairman of the Royal Commission on Price Spreads and Mass-Buying. Members of the Cabinet claim that Mr. Stevens acted improperly in making public statements concerning cases which came up for consideration by the Commission. They object, also to Mr. Stevens' statements about certain individuals connected with concerns, being probed.

Reason for Appointment of Commission

It was the Toronto speech of Mr. Stevens, delivered before the Retail Shoe Merchants' Convention at the Royal York Hotel on January 15th, which gave birth to the parliamentary inquiry in price-spreads and mass-buying. In that speech Mr. Stevens alluded to the practice of mass-buying by department stores and chain stores organizations, to "brutal-price practices" in the clothing industry, to the baking and meat-packing industries. Within twenty-four hours, complaints had been made to the Prime Minister, who took the attitude that the Minister of Trade and Commerce should have consulted him before making addresses which were not in accord with Government policy. Mr. Stevens subsequently tendered his resignation as a member of the Government, but the matter had to be reckoned with. The offending speech had been broadcast by the radio, and mail by the bushel delugged Ottawa for the succeeding fortnight, commending Mr. Stevens for his stand. Farmers' mail shop-keepers in town and country, industrial workers, Liberals, Conservatives, tobacco-growers, women and girls wrote to tell the Minister he had scored a bull's eye.

Heney Committee

The upshot was the appointment of a special Parliamentary committee of eleven members, including seven Conservatives, three Liberals, and one Progressive, to launch an investigation into the affairs of meat-packers, tobacco manufacturers, canning companies, the rubber industry, the clothing industry, minimum wages, working hours and the like. The actual inquiry produced some startling revelations, which were published throughout the Dominion and abroad, in huge headlines.

Mr. Stevens Remains on Commission

In the afternoon discussion over the withdrawal of Hon. H. H. Stevens—the point being stressed by the Government is that the Price Spreads Inquiry is going ahead just as if nothing had happened. The break in the Cabinet, due to the withdrawal of the Minister of Trade, and Commerce, and his relinquishment of the commission chairmanship, will have no arresting effect. Moreover, with Mr. Stevens intending to continue as a member of the Commission, and to follow through by calling and examining witnesses, should add to the interest in the doings of the Inquiry, while Had he remained away, the investigation would have gone on just the same but many imagined that it would have been a rather lifeless affair.

The Government selected a successor to Mr. Stevens as chairman of the commission. He is W. W. Kennedy, M. P., of Winnipeg, who frequently acted as chairman when the Minister was called away for brief periods.

Madame Karinska Russian Singer in Montreal

Madame Karinska, at one time of the Court of the Czar of Russia and famous grand opera singer, assisted at the morning service in Stanley Presbyterian Church, Montreal, on Sunday.

The singer was on board a trans-Atlantic liner bound for New York to fill a number of grand opera engagements when she met the well known Presbyterian missionary, Dr. Jonathan Goforth. This meeting led to Madame Karinska's conversion to the Presbyterian faith. Having already renounced all grand opera, appointments and started out to sing the Gospel songs with great success.

Not only will Madame Karinska sing but she will also tell her life story, conversion and subsequent work.

Madame Karinska appeared in St. Andrew's Church, Napanee, a year ago and gave a recital of sacred songs.

Large Crowds Attend Anniversary Services

Grace Ch. Congregation Hear Special Speaker and Singer

Grace United Church Anniversary was observed on Sunday and Monday, October 28th and 29th, in special services.

On Sunday, Rev. R. T. Richards the minister, presided at the services with Dr. Frank Langford of Toronto as the guest preacher, and Mrs. (Dr.) Stobie, of Belleville, the special soloist.

All services were largely attended by the members of the church. At the evening service the congregations of Trinity and St. Andrew's churches were present, and Rev. A. J. Wilson assisted in the service. Rev. Harry Pawson of Trinity Church was unable to be present as he was anniversary preacher at Sand Hill.

In the morning, Dr. Langford spoke on the Parable of the Dragnet. He said the task of the Church was the same as that of the fishermen, to sort out the good from the evil and that the one only of the worth-while things. The choir, under the leadership of Mrs. Seymour and with Mrs. B. M. Black at the organ, sang as the morning anthem, "Spirit of God." The solos were sung by Mrs. Black and Miss Mildred Loucks and Mrs. B. Seymour. Mrs. Stobie, the soloist, sang one number.

Evening Service

At the evening service the large congregation gave Dr. Langford a splendid hearing as he preached on the subject: "The Mission of the Church." He based his sermon on the story of the temptations of Christ. He said the temptations of the modern church were much the same as that of Christ—to meet only the physical needs of man, to aspire to temporal powers, to resort to the spectacular. The one great task of the church of all times is to bring men's hearts into touch with God.

The evening music consisted of an anthem by the choir. "The Holy City," in which Mrs. Harold Dennison's lovely soprano voice was most effective in the solo part. Mrs. Stobie sang two solos, "By the Waters of Babylon," and "The Lord is my Light." Both were sung with fine finish and dramatic effect. Mrs. Stobie's voice is a rich soprano with a wide range. Her delightfully clear enunciation made her selections most pleasing to the audience.

Dinner and Entertainment

Over five hundred people attended the anniversary dinner and concert on Monday evening. An abundance of delicious food was served from six to eight o'clock, after which the concert was presented in the church auditorium. Rev. R. T. Richards, minister of the church, acted as chairman. The following program was given :—

GETTING ACQUAINTED WITH WALES

In another column will be found a copy of an essay which won the prize, recently, given by "The Western Mail and South Wales News" of Cardiff, Wales. It deserves careful study by the people of the district, not because it describes Welsh scenery alone, but, as well, because it is part of a wider programme designed to bring Wales and this part of Ontario closer together.

Mr. Schuster, of Belleville, is the leading spirit behind this movement. Last summer, he spent some weeks, interviewing business men and influential publicists, in Wales. He succeeded in receiving their warm approval of his efforts and their promise of co-operation. One of Mr. Schuter's suggestions was that Canadian tourists who land in Liverpool in great numbers, each year, should be routed to London through Wales. In this way they would not only see the beauties of Welsh scenery, but they would, as well, get to know the Welsh people better. This suggestion was immediately taken up by business men and newspapers. A prize was offered by "The Western Mail and South Wales News" for the best essay setting forth the advantages of such a route. The prize was won by Mr. B. Price Davis, the City Engineer of Bangor, who directed that the prize money be spent to prepare new Welsh Sunday School lessons for Welsh children.

The need for closer co-operation between the people of the Bay of Quinte area and Wales is perfectly clear to anyone who gives it a moment's thought. We know very little about the conditions in that important part of the British Isles It is quite probable that they know as little about us.

Our material happiness and prosperity in this district, depends to a very large extent on the ability of our farmers to dispose of their produce at a reasonably fair price. At the present time, with milk selling at seventy cents a hundred, and cheese on the Cheese Board, the lowest in years, the farming community is in a rather bad plight. Consequently, our town reflects those conditions and in not securing all the business that our population justifies. On the other hand our needs have not diminished. We need coal, for example. Our long, cold winters make it essential that we burn a great deal of coal for domestic heating. This we must import. Now, Wales has the coal, and they need our cheese. We have the cheese and we need their coal. What more reasonable arrangement, then, could be conceived than that an exchange be made. All that seems to be necessary is that some simple machinery be set up, to effect the exchange with a minimum amount of overhead costs, and agents' fees.

It is along this line that Mr. Schuster is working. A good deal of education, both in Wales and in Ontario, is necessary. But the printing of this essay is our small contribution to the better understanding of our Welsh brothers and their lovely country.

SAVING LIFE IS NOT NEWS

If a commentary were needed to show the extent to which our metropolitan Press has descended to the sensational, the landing of the aeroplane in Napanee on Sunday, provides it. A large passenger plane, one of the largest in America, flying from New York to Buffalo, got lost in a snow storm. It flew quite off the track and finally landed in a field in Napanee. Those who have seen the plane and know the locality are lost in admiration and astonishment, for the skill and care with which the pilot was able to land. There are wire fences within a few feet. Not a hundred yards away are high tension Hydro wires, carrying 42,000 volts. The field is rough and newly ploughed. The night was inky black, with slight snow flurries blurring the vision. And yet the pilot brought his machine to a dead stop in a good position for a take-off, with no harm to anyone.

Inside the cabin were nine passengers, a stewardess and two pilots. Had the machine turned over, as it might easily have done; had it struck the Hydro wires and shorted them, photographers and special interviewers would have hastened to the scene to carry to the public its vivid and harrowing tales of disaster and death.

But the saving of nine precious lives by skill and self-control, brought only a few lines in the great dailies, even though all the details were available long before they went to press.

A story of kidnapping note is sufficient to call forth blazing headlines, but a magnificent handling of a huge air liner in a forced landing and the miraculous saving of nine lives, is not news. It gets a tiny place on the bottom of the front page with an 18-point heading.

THE RESIGNATION OF MR. STEVENS

The resignation of Mr. Stevens has come as a distinct disappointment to the men and women who had looked on him as a champion of a new order. It is some satisfaction, however, to know that he will remain a member of the Conservative Party, and, as well, a member of the Price Spreads Commission, though, of course, not as its chairman. It would have been a calamity had he been placed in a position where he found himself unable to bring before the Commission the vast amount of expert evidence which he has gathered, during the parliamentary recess.

With respect to the immediate difference between Mr. Bennett and Mr. Stevens, the public is, as yet, unable to form a reasoned judgment. The Prime Minister has said that Mr. Stevens, in the suppressed pamphlet, made statements which were untrue in whole or part, and that Mr. Stevens ought to acknowledge the error and apologize for the misstatement. Mr. Stevens claims that his statements were all correct and he promises to give chapter and verse later on. On that score then, we shall have to reserve judgment.

On the larger issue, however, there is no question as to what the public will think. They have already arrived at the conclusion that the Prime Minister was trying to prevent Mr. Stevens from going the whole length, with the enquiry. The publication of the correspondence which took place in February, between Mr. Bennett and Mr. Stevens, and which is now published, very materially strengthens this contention. In that correspondence the Prime Minister displays, in no uncertain manner, his disapproval of the speech which Mr. Stevens gave in Toronto, which precipitated the demand for an enquiry into the conduct of large scale business. There is no doubt but that the Prime Minister and Mr. Stevens represent two totally different points of view.

In the meantime, the general public is keenly disappointed, for they had hoped the investigation would have brought some measure of relief to the small retailer, and to the hard-pressed working men who are scarcely able to keep body and soul together on the wages which are paid in certain industries.

The issue which has thus eventuated, shows how difficult it is for those who would seek to direct the trends of the new day to make any headway. Always the reformer, the prophet, the pioneer, has to reckon with the reactionary conservatism of those who are in control of the affairs of state or of business, and who refuse to see that changes are inevitable.

When Mr. Stevens made his first attack on the abuses of mass-buying, last January, he had this important paragraph in his remarks: "I am a Conservative in politics, in business and in my general outlook. I believe very strongly in private property rights and individual initiative which I consider the best method of handling the business of a nation. At the same time, I realize that greed, selfishness and avarice cannot rear a state, and that other delinquencies common to human nature, will creep into any system. At the same time I have no sympathy with the destructive argument that in order to correct obvious abuses within the economic system, the best way is to destroy the system. I still believe that democracy is the best system, the most enduring system, economically, socially and politically, that any country can have. I challenge the business men of this country to face some of the evils that have developed into a cancer. I warn them that, unless they are destroyed, they will destroy the system."

That struck a new note in Canadian Government speeches. A note which thrilled Canada with a new hope. When Mr. Bennett announced the Commission to investigate the abuses which Mr. Stevens revealed, it seemed as though the Government meant business. And yet we were not overly optimistic that the matter was to be settled, merely by appointing a Commission. Commenting on this, in our issue of February 7th, we said: "This announcement—the appointment of the Commission—gives heart and encouragement to the great number of small storekeepers, who are feeling the pinch of the present depression, sorely. It will find a ready response, too, in the hearts of most customers. For few customers would object to paying a legitimate price for their goods, if they knew that by paying the little extra, they were enabling others to keep off starvation wages.

"But the question, after all, is not merely as to facts, which will undoubtedly be uncovered, but the recommendation which the Commission will make as to future action. It is doubtful if the Government is ready to deal effectively with the situation. To do so would necessitate a totally different relationship between Government and Business, than that which has existed heretofore, or which exists to-day."

That we were not mistaken in what we then said, the events of the past week have abundantly shown. It has become quite evident as the facts have been unfolded, that they were pushing the Government further than they were prepared to go.

However, the last word on the subject has yet to be spoken. No matter what the Government may do, the people of Canada stand aghast at the conditions so far revealed by the Price-Spreads Commission and are not going to permit those conditions to continue. It may take time, but sooner or later, and perhaps sooner than later, the public dissatisfaction with the intolerable situation under which tens of thousands of our people labor and live, will reflect itself in government. Changes will, inevitably, be made that will lift the whole of our Canadian citizenship to a level of happiness, peace, and security, which is rightfully theirs.

TWENTY PER-CENT—AN OPIATE

The new policy announced by Premier Hepburn has cleared the air with respect to the Beer and Wine Policy of the present Government, and made it possible for those who are interested in the welfare of our citizens to make their plans. A few weeks ago The Napanee Beaver took a straw vote in the town, and secured an overwhelming demand for early closing. The new regulation closes the beverage rooms at 11:00 p.m., instead of 12:00, this cutting off one hour from the time of sale of liquor in Napanee, which is not enough. Eleven o'clock for Napanee is too late.

But in order to win support for this flood of debauchery which the present Government has let loose on the country, Premier Hepburn seeks to win the support of municipalities by throwing them a sop in the form of 20% of the revenue derived from the sale of beer and wine. Unless we mistake very seriously the temper of the people of this area, they will not be bought over by a mess of pottage in the form of 20% of the beer revenue.

Now that the Government has made regulations that will prevail for at least a year, the issue is clear-cut to the citizens of the town. They should at once organize to take a vote under local option. That seems to be the only method left for Napanee. So great, however, is the feeling against the sale of beer and wine by all classes in the community, that unless we are much at fault in estimating public opinion there would be an overwhelming vote to clear these drinking rooms out of our town, altogether.

WHERE DEER ARE TOO PLENTIFUL

That deer have become a serious pest in many parts of New Zealand can no longer be disputed. The damage they are doing entirely outweighs their sporting value, and for the Province and supply work to many unemployed. the Department of Internal Affairs should accelerate rather than check its campaign of destruction. Its operations have been severely criticised by English visitors, sometimes in terms that disclose complete ignorance of the real issues. They dismiss in a word the case for destruction or assume that it has been marshalled out of all reason. It certainly is the desire of the Dominion to provide for visitors the widest possible range of sport, but as far as deer are concerned far too much is at stake to allow the considerations of sport to sway policy.—Auckland News.

EMPIRE FREE TRADE

We are the happiest nation in the world In this country there is work for many. The rising figures of employment tell. We require to advance the movement so that there is work for all. We want a peaceful form of government. There is need for dispersing such elements of disturbance as exist in our politics. When men are busy at work they have no mind for trouble. The rapid development of Empire trade is opening up new prospects of business and employment. We must accelerate that development. It is the only way to prosperity. — London Daily Express.

TRADING WITH CANADA

Price attacks upon Canadian wheat by a European trader combine matinged from Paris are in the way of being smoothed out by new revisions in the 1933 reciprocal trade treaty between the French and Dominion Governments. Revisions were focussed chiefly upon wheat. Under the 1933 treaty Canadian wheat enjoyed a minimum French tariff but this was revoked and the Canadian product went back to the general tariff basis when Canada declined to make certain concessions on other products. . . . The recent conclusion of this negotiation appears to have quickened the movement inaugurated by the United States Chamber of Commerce and foreign trade organizations for an extension of reciprocal trade relations with Canada. American exporters of consumer goods and importers of liquor are active in this connection and Canada is pushing its export trade in a competitive fashion with England. Pressure for early decisions in this matter is being exerted in Washington in the hope that a new treaty may become operative within this year.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

THE COMMON COLD

British medical science is in full retreat before the common cold, however. Some obscure disease, you may think, treated in some remote corner of the far-flung Empire, has taken our best brains. Wrong! It is the common cold, that attacks three out of every four men, women and children. It is the ordinary sniffling horror that costs this country fifteen millions a year in lost working time. And the Medical Research Council continues its search for a preventive in despair. This will not do. The search must go on, not only to relieve colds, but to avert the disastrous complications that so often follow.—London Sunday Dispatch.

BRITISH AND AMERICAN RECOVERY

The British Government, in the opinion of many of its critics, might have been far more venturesome than it has been. But President Roosevelt is justified in saying that Britain has made great headway in the direction of recovery cannot be attributed to a policy of letting Nature take its course. He has far less justification for implying that British activity has been all in the same direction as the New Deal. Much of it has been, but there are many exceptions. Britain was not forced off the gold standard; the United States went off voluntarily. Britain has first of all banked recovery on reduction of governmental and labour costs and restricted production. That difference is fundamental. Mr. Roosevelt now appears to be at least partially aware of it, and to be retreating from the unconscious planning for poverty which maimtained restriction.—Boston Christian Science Monitor.

The King of Siam has offered to resign his throne, but the offer has not been accepted. The King and the Government are not in accord over proposed legislation.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, NOVEMBER 4TH, 1934

"CHRISTIAN GROWTH"

LUKE II: 42-52; II PETER I: 5-8.

The lesson to-day centres around two passages. The first is from Luke and describes the growing life of Jesus. The second is from Peter, in which the writer gives certain instructions to the young converts to whom he speaks as to the way in which they should strive to develop a complete Christian way of life.

We are fortunate, indeed, that Luke has preserved for us the only authentic record of Christ's youth and the account of his first recorded words. At what point Jesus became aware of Himself as the Messiah, is not clear. Of this, however, we are sure, that in His spiritual life His progressed normally through the various stages of childhood, youth and young manhood. He increased as the account here says, in wisdom and stature, and in favor with God and man. As His intellectual life widened, as His physical life developed, so there grew, as well, those qualities which we may fittingly describe as a complete Christian way of life.

We are fortunate, indeed, that Luke has preserved for us the only authentic record of Christ's youth and the account of his first recorded words. At what point Jesus became aware of Himself as the Messiah, is not clear. Of this, however, we are sure, that in His spiritual life His progressed normally through the various stages of childhood, youth and young manhood. He increased as the account here says, in wisdom and stature, and in favor with God and man. As His intellectual life widened, as His physical life developed, so there grew, as well, those qualities which we may fittingly describe as a complete Christian way of life.

The common factor in all living things is the ability which they have to grow. Growth is the essential quality of every developing, expanding form of existence. Nor is the spiritual life exempt from the operation of this universal law. Indeed, the spiritual and the intellectual form an integral a part of life that, to suppose them incapable of growth, is to fly in the face of all established facts. The spiritual life must grow if it is to attain the full fruitage of a mature morality and God's consciousness which marks the life of the true searcher after perfection.

It seems strange that for a long time this was not clearly recognized nor acted upon by the Christian Church. It was supposed that in every life there had to be some emotional upheaval which was tantamount to a completely new start. Gradually however, we are recognizing that the life of our young people need not be marred with sin in order to make effective God's redeeming grace. But that it is capable of gradual and persistent growth unto the fulness of Christian fellowship with God.

Of course, when we speak of growth in this way, we do not mean that the child should be allowed to "take whatever course nature and its environment may prescribe. We know full well that, if left to itself a plant will soon be choked to death by the weeds which will surround it. That the plant intended and meanted to will be subject to every prevailing blast of wind and so grow up crooked, bent, and ill shapen, is quite common knowledge. Plants and trees need constant care, training and nurture.

The same is true of ourselves on the spiritual side. Modern science has perfected to an unbelievable degree the methods by which we may care for the plants. The secret of the Dionne Quintuplets have been saved by assiduous care, and by the application to their lives of the latest and most up-to-date knowledge, is a challenge to all and sundry to make the most of the amazing mass of information that is available for the preservation of physical life.

In somewhat the same fashion the spiritual side of man must be regarded. We are all born with certain divine potentialities and possibilities. There is no reason why they need to be wrecked, marred and ruined by sin, carelessness and inattention. The belief that a period of conversion is necessary to bring them to God. The spiritual life is capable of unfolding itself as the bud of the flower unfolds. This does not mean that there is no place for conversion. It is a marvellous provision of God that the divine urge present in us all is powerful to overcome every wrong tendency and every evil desire and every blighting habit—that at any time the prodigal may come to himself; that at any time a Saul may die and a Paul, be born.

In our physical lives the time comes when growth ceased, when the body becomes progressively weaker and the natural powers dwindle and die. But in the spiritual life there need be no such degeneration. The older we grow in years the greater our possibility for Christian goodness. Every experience of life may be used to strengthen the ties which bind us to God and to each other. As the years pass the Christian must become more sympathetic with the weaknesses of others, more anxious for the salvation of the race, more steeled to evil and more consecrated. The passing years but add to the sum of spiritual worths. There is no sight in all the world more lovely than that of those so long young, whose eyes have lost somewhat of their luster, whose hearing is less acute, and whose limbs fail to respond to their wishes, but whose love has deepened through the passing years, whose spiritual eyes have brightened with the passing days, and whose faith in God and in the essential goodness of man, has been intensified through the growing experience of a varied life.

The prophet in the second passage quoted from it in the form of an injunction, in which he urges his hearers to add to their faith, virtue to their virtue, knowledge to knowledge, temperance to temperance, patience to patience, Godliness to Godliness, brotherly kindness to brotherly kindness and charity.

These are wise and important instructions to young converts. But they will, of themselves, come in due time if the spirit of Christ dwells in our hearts, and its growth is unimpeded by the cares and desires of the world.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

SNAPSHOTS AT NIGHT

Just a few bright lamps and a little care make indoor snaps like this easy. Arrangement of lights, subjects and camera indicated in the diagram.

UNTIL recently, the idea of making snapshots at night ranked alongside that other chaotic picture taking impossibility—a snapshot of "a black cat in a coal pile at midnight". But now, with the new extremely sensitive films and brilliant, inexpensive lights, snapshots indoors at night are as easy as any others.

Let's say you want to snap Sue at the piano—assuming that Sue looks and feels natural there—taking your stand, with camera, off to the side of the piano. There's an ordinary floor lamp—one of those three-light affairs—just beyond the piano and another on your side. Both lamps are just beyond the field of your camera finder. Tilt the shades so that the light reaching your subject is soft and full. Put two or three photoflood-type lights in the lamp that's beyond your subject, one in the nearer lamp, turn 'em on—and blam away.

If yours is a box camera, better use a photo-flash bulb. (The method is described a few paragraphs ahead.) On the other hand, if you use a more advanced camera with a lens that's "faster" than f.6.3, you won't need the photofloods quite so close to the subject.

The regular snapshot exposure—1/25th of a second—will do the trick nicely, assuming your lens has an opening of f.6.3 or greater.

The diagram above indicates the relative placing of subject, lights and camera for the picture of Sue at the piano. Naturally, you will arrange the lights as you see fit, but keep in mind these simple rules:

First, light intensity decreases rapidly as the lamp is pulled back from the subject. Six feet away, a lamp's picture making brilliance is only a quarter what it is at three feet.

Third, while you can use photofloods (they cost a quarter and are good for at least two hours of picture making) in ordinary fixtures, they are more efficient in reflectors —either home-made or inexpensively purchased.

Fourth, don't try to light up everything in a picture. Shade it just as important as the highlights.

Fifth, avoid lighting that illumines both sides of a subject's face equally. The result will be flat and unnatural.

Sixth, always use modern, super-sensitive film. It's available in the standard makes, at very slight extra cost.

Indoor snapshots may also be made with photoflash bulbs. If you want to stop ping-pong players in action, for example, these handy, safe, inexpensive flash bulbs are just the thing. One of the medium-size bulbs will do very well in an average room. If you haven't a battery-operated holder for flash-bulbs, you can screw the bulb into any standard electric light socket and, when all's set, turn on the current.

The possibilities for indoor snaps are endless. If you haven't tried your hand at this kind of snapshooting, you're missing a lot. And that's the last word.

JOHN VAN GUILDER.

Duets were given by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hiver, and Mrs. E. O. McCabe and Mrs. P. Brown. Mr. Paul Jocks gave several musical numbers. During the business part of the meeting final arrangements were made for the tea meeting. The November meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Hambly and will take the form of a special seventh anniversary occasion. There was an abundance of good things to eat, and the social half hour was much enjoyed. The Brown's were especially remembered for the special effort made to make the social such a decided success.

The Anderson Ladies' Aid met at the home of Mrs. Rockwell Parks on Wednesday afternoon last. The attendance was well above the average. The President, Mrs. Allan Baldwin, had charge of the meeting, and the programme was of a special thanksgiving type. The November meeting is to be at the home of the President. At the close of the meeting Mrs. Rockwell Parks invited those present to the diningroom and all sat around the table and enjoyed the good things set before them. Much credit is due those ladies who so willingly entertain these Ladies' Aid groups.

The Anderson Young People's Union held their annual Hallowe'en social at the home of the President, Miss Wilma Purra, on Monday evening. On entering the home a ghost and a witch warmly welcomed the guests of the evening. The program was prepared by Mrs. Allan Baldwin and Miss Marion Pickett. The latter, in his address, pointed out the many changes that have taken place in people's ideas of things during the years, and especially with reference to Hallowe'en. He expressed pleasure that churches and service clubs are helping to make Hallowe'en a christian celebration. Following the programme, games were enjoyed for a half hour, and then lunch was served with an abundance of good old-fashioned pumpkin pie. The thanks of the group were extended to Mr. and Mrs. Percy Purra and Wilma for their kind hospitality.

ROGER W. BABSON REVIEWS ECONOMIC SITUATION

WAR OF CURRENCIES NOT OVER

Babson Sees Orient Re-Entering Money Fight

When President Roosevelt announced the devaluation of the dollar last January, many felt that this was a big step toward ending the currency war. Since then many things have happened which have prolonged the money struggle. Outstanding among these developments are the crises in Germany and Austria, the plight of the "gold bloc" nations and the nationalization of silver by the United States.

Bleeding Chins of Her Silver

The purchase of silver by the United States has raised the world price of the metal from about 42 cents an ounce to around 55 cents per ounce. Although we have been paying more than the world price for silver, the metal has been sucked out of the Orient into this country. This has had the same effect on prices, wages, and employment in China as the draining of our gold has had on conditions in the United States in 1932-1933. The drop in prices at Shanghai shows that deflation is in full swing in China. Political leaders fear a panic. While China is not directly affected by our silver operations (Japan is theoretically on a gold standard; China on silver); nevertheless she would be forced to protect herself against any sharp decline in the Chinese dollar.

The rise in the price of silver may force China to place an embargo on silver exports. This in turn would mean the deflation of the Chinese dollar and possibly of the Japanese yen. Naturally this would only add to the uncertainty which already exists in world trade. As an example, a further drop in the Japanese yen would again give Japan's textile merchants a big advantage over those of Great Britain. Such a move would come at a very bad time. Manchester merchants are already having exchange difficulties in the German markets. Moreover, oriental devaluation would be a stumbling block in reaching an all-important stabilization agreement between the dollar and the pound.

Will France "Go Off" Gold?

At the same time that the currency problem is again becoming acute in the Orient, the situation is growing more critical in the European "gold bloc" countries. So far the franc, the guilder, the lire, and the belga have all stubbornly resisted the terrific pressure of first, the drop in the pound, and, then, in the dollar. Many economists firmly believe that before we can again reach prosperity, the "gold bloc" countries will be forced to abandon the gold standard. This will depend upon the course of foreign trade. If these countries continue to lose their world markets at the present rate, there will be an irresistible pressure to devalue their currencies and join the money war.

If the internal pressure because of deflating prices forces the "gold bloc" countries to devalue, this will have a depressing effect upon certain prices in those countries which have already devalued. Rather than suffer price declines, it is probable that these countries would initiate further currency devaluation. So the war will be on in grand style. The real problem will be to determine at what relative levels currencies should be stabilized. In the jockeying for position, those powers, which are responsible for currency matters in the different countries, will each seek to secure a stabilization most satisfactory to its own country.

Grave Danger U. S. Must Again Devalue

The United States continues to hold the spot-light in the currency tangle. Rumors are flying around Washington that we will again cut the gold content of the dollar. In a recent interview with the press, the President frankly stated that immediate devaluation was not being considered. He did not deny, however, that there might be eventual devaluation. There is a distinct relationship between the possibility of further devaluation and the tremendous increase in the Federal relief burden. While there is no immediate danger that Federal Government credit will crumble, the present spending program cannot be maintained indefinitely without serious results. Personally, I feel that the chances are better than 50-50 that we will see a further cut in the dollar.

The first devaluation was for two purposes—first, to raise prices internally; and, second, to help trade. If we are forced to devalue again, the decision will be one of necessity. While the Administration is still vitally interested in raising the price level, I doubt if President Roosevelt has any such stimulation rather than by currency tampering. Hence, if the dollar is again devalued, it will be by involuntary rather than voluntary action on our part.

Currency Agreement Vital for World Welfare

World commerce cannot be carried on successfully with constantly fluctuating currencies. In spite of the fact that there has been a very substantial improvement in business throughout the world, foreign trade has lagged noticeably. The United States has taken the position that our domestic problems must be solved before the foreign puzzle can be attacked. This will be putting the cart before the horse. Our domestic recovery has reached a stage where further improvement depends on broader world recovery. The same is true in many other nations. In turn, honest-to-goodness world prosperity depends upon currency stabilization. Eventually a statesman of the key countries will recognize the vital necessity of a currency agreement. It is futile at present when such an agreement may be reached, but the important thing to remember is that there cannot be a revival in world trade until this currency problem is settled. Meanwhile we are apparently in for another period of disorder and confusion. Surely the silver question is a little more. For any nation to get the greatest benefit from bi-metallism, all nations must be on the same bi-metallic standard.

PALE, PEPLESS GIRL BECAME PRETTY —AND WASN'T SHE PLEASED!

It all happened in 30 days! In November the girl was pale, run-down and lacked vitality. Weight subnormal; only 91½ lbs. Her blood, when tested, was found to be low in red corpuscles and lower still in haemoglobin, the red substance in the red corpuscles. She was given a 30-day treatment and what a happy change took place!

She gained nine pounds and her complexion glowed with rosy health. Her face rounded out and she became positively pretty. The treatment—as shown by a second blood test—had greatly increased the red corpuscles and haemoglobin in her blood, consequently she felt and looked radiantly well. The preparation that worked these wonders was Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

This famous old remedy restores health in a most constructive way. We know that the blood carries nourishment and vitality to every part of the body. But unless the blood has a sufficient number of red corpuscles and red colouring substance called haemoglobin, it cannot carry on its vital work. It is here that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills produce constructive benefits. This remedy increases, in most cases, both the red corpuscles and the haemoglobin. Blood tests prove it!

Good looks and good health are too precious to neglect or experiment with. If your feelings and your mirror tell you that you are under-weight, nervous, ailing, easily tired out—take this tested remedy. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, for 30 days, as the girl mentioned above did. Then check up on beauty and health you have gained. They'll also last in the future.

Lennox and Addington Plowing Match Results

The annual plowing match, under the auspices of the Lennox and Addington County Branch of the Ontario Plowmen's Association, was held on Saturday, October 27th, on the adjoining farms of Mr. Harry Oliver and Mr. Stewart Clute, four miles west of Napanee, on Highway No. 2. The match was a very successful event and was supported by the farmers and plowmen of the County. A total of twenty-seven competitors took part, making keen competition in each class.

The Sod Classes were conducted on the farm of Mr. Harry Oliver. There were thirteen contestants taking part in these classes. Outstanding lots were plowed ; the land in Class 2, plowed by Hugh Burns, won for him the Silver Cup, as the highest scoring man in the County. This cup was donated by Mr. John Wesse, M. P., in 1932, and is to be won three times before becoming permanent property. (Hugh Burns was the winner in 1932 as well). Three lands in Class 3, plowed by residents outside of the County, were in very close competition, only one point being between them. However, Thomas Brant, Deseronto, won out by one quarter point.

In the Stubble Classes, held on the farm of Mr. Stewart Clute, excellent work was done by all plowmen. In Class 4, Ralph Aylsworth won 1st, having a narrow margin over John Kent, the veteran plowman of the district.

In Class 5, boys under 21, Albert Holland, Crookston, won 1st place in a competition of six. A new feature at our match this year was the discplows, Bruce Alkenbrack winning 1st over Harry Oliver. Excellent work was done by both of these men.

Tierney, Ontario Hospital arm, Brockville, judge of the match, and who is past president of the Ontario Plowmen's Association, gave an interesting talk on "Plowing," and "The Work of the Association." He congratulated the plowmen upon their good work, and particularly referred to the Indians who came to the match and did such excellent work, adding that they also are plowmen of the future in the provincial matches. He made an appeal to the boys and younger men to take an interest in their plowing and do a more active part in the local matches. He suggested Home Plowing Competitions and Demonstrations to help the boys get started in this important work.

Mr. Tierney is also President of the Ontario Provincial Fairs and Exhibitions, and President of the Provincial Seed Growers Association.

Following Mr. Tierney's address the cash and special prizes were presented to the winners. The John Wesse Silver Cup was presented to Mr. Hugh Burns by the President of the Local Branch, Mr. W. H. Hunter. The boys' banquet then broke up and the banquet, owing to a previous engagement. The cash and special prizes were presented to the winners by the Vice President, T. D. Creighton, and the Secretary-Treasurer, Mr. C. W. Buchanan.

Through the kindness of Mr. Oliver and Mr. Clute dinner was served to the plowmen at noon time. Excellent accommodation was also provided by these men for the teams. The thanks of the Association are extended to all those who contributed so generously towards the cash and special prizes.

New Books Received At The Local Library

SHIKAR MEMORIES, by Lieut.-Col. H. S. Wood, I.M.S.—The author was, for many years, attached to the Royal Corps of the British Army in India and Burma. He tells his experiences in hunting large game in a most interesting manner. It is a very readable book for old and young.

MAID FROM THE SOVIETS by Tatiana Tchernavin. — The man or woman who can read this book without being profoundly moved, is not human. It is one series of thrills, heart-rending experiences and convincing records from cover to cover. Read it, and then you will understand why those who preach communism in Canada dread deportation to the home of communism in Russia.

THE LAWS OF THE WILDERNESS, by Isadore Mortiian. — The book is packed with thrilling stories of adventures with gorillas, lions, baboons, elephants, leopards, pythons, wild cattle with an episode with a tribe of snake worshippers which is one of the most amazing adventures which it can have been the lot of man to experience.

THE WOLF DOG, by Joseph Wharton Lippincott. — A story connected with an unconquerable pack of wolves in Alberta. Lippincott, well known for his stories of real animals, has observed and hunted this pack, and he gives here a tale that mingles truth with fiction, recounting what may, in actual fact have been the adventures of the splendid wolf king.

CLAWS OF AFRICA, by Roger Courtney. — This is the first account of his experiences written by a professional Big Game Hunter ; and that, carefully selected band of men who act as official guides and hunters to distinguished visitors and expeditions, in Equatorial Africa.

WILD STRAWBERRIES, a novel by Amanda Thiselton. — This book will provide a delightful entertainment which will make you laugh with or at most of its characters and perhaps make you shed a sentimental tear or two.

FROZEN AS THE WAVES, by Simon Dare. — The author is not a man, but a brilliant and charming young lady and in this her latest novel has produced a romance of very real entertainment, a plot in which a very lovely young lady undertakes the impersonation of a spy and passes-loving widow. Complications, not unnaturally, quickly ensue.

DEATH IN THE QUARRY, a new and thrilling detective story by G. D. H. and M. Coll. — Superintendent Wilson, Scotland Yard's greatest trouble-shooter, faces the most baffling of his cases in this absorbing book.

THE YOUNG MAN'S GIRL, by Robert W. Chambers. — This romance of New York society presents those intimate glimpses of social circles, those delightful characterizations and all the deft handling of plot and incident which have won for the author, his unique reputation.

THE EMPTY HOUSE, by Francis D. Grierson. — If the reader is looking for a detective story abounding in adventure, mystery and thrills, here it is.

NEW CAREER FOR YOUTH, by Walter B. Pitkin. —The boy or girl without a job is apparently wanting one, should read this book.

THE PEEL PORTRAIT, by Joseph G. Lindon. — In this book we shall discover all the salty tang and nithy humor for which this author is so widely known.

THE BOADED STICK, by Naomi Jacobs. — Here is intense love, wild passion, tragedy and pathos, built under all these runs the love of the land. It is a novel which could only have been written by someone who knows and loves the old customs which have survived through the ages. It is filled with details regarding the work and the anxiety of a farmer, with intimate knowledge of "seed time and harvest" and a deep understanding of the character and nature of the people who live north of the Humber.

Quality in dressed poultry depends almost entirely upon the manner in which a bird has been fed or finished in preparation for market. Temperance Address Delivered At Trinity Ch.

Rev. F. L. Grafton of Toronto was the special speaker at Trinity United Church on Sunday morning. Mr. Grafton, representing the Ontario Temperance Federation, delivered a forceful and vigorous address on the temperance situation in the province and the need for activity on the part of temperance workers.

The speaker likened the temperance cause to the Eiffel Tower in France. Like that amazing structure, the temperance cause has stood up against many a storm. The tower stands on a foundation of concrete, bedded on solid rock. The temperance cause has as its foundations, the Church of Christ and the principles of Jesus Christ, which nothing can shake.

In Ontario, to-day, we stand at a place in temperance history, never before reached. Temperance legislation, unfortunately, is tied up with the machinery of government. We seem helpless to alter this and must face it as a fact. Despite the fact that the former premier of Ontario, personally, has temperance sympathies and has the support of 500,000 Ontario people, who petitioned him to not bring in legislation to permit the establishment of beverage rooms, nevertheless, the representatives of the brewery and distillers were so strong that the legislation was introduced and received, as well as the support of the opposition, as well as only huge if temperance advocates to change the law is to choose representatives of strong temperance sympathies.

The people of Ontario are unquestionably aroused over present conditions under the new beverage room law. They thought they were rid of the bar with all its depravations, but find they have something equally as bad—the table, accessible to men and women alike.

Service clubs, churches and other organizations are voicing strong protests against existing conditions. The Ontario Temperance Federation is being reorganized for action in the matter and the people of the country must fight if they would win against the evil.

Forecasts Cure For Pernicious Anaemia

Boston. — A complete and final cure for pernicious anaemia is foreseen by two Boston physicians who, with a Rochester, N.Y., doctor were announced at Stockholm, on Thursday last as sharers of the 1934 Nobel prize for medicine.

"We are on the track of a cure," exulted Drs. Frank Hunter and George R. Minto, Harvard professor and director of the Thornlike Memorial Research Laboratory at Boston City Hospital. With Dr. William Parry Murphy, also a Harvard professor and Dr. George H. Whipple, of Rochester, N.Y., he will share an approximately $42,000 that goes with the Nobel award.

Wrote Treatise on Japanese Buddhism

Toronto — A Canadian, Dr. Harper H. Coates, who took an unusual interest in the culture and religions of Japan, has just died. Early in his residence in Japan, Dr. Coates became interested in Japanese music and in the classical literature of the country. One of his most important writings, a volume of more than one thousand pages on the life and times of Honen, a Japanese saint, was published by the Chion-in temple of Kyoto as a memorial volume in connection with the 750th anniversary of the founding of the Jodo sect of northern Buddhism. This work displays the mastery which its author had acquired of the fundamental conceptions, doctrines, ritual, history, shrines and temples of the Buddhist faith in Japan.

Dr. Coates was a Christian missionary, representing the Canadian Methodist Church, yet his book has been called "A treasurius of Japanese Buddhism." At the time of his death he was being prepared, its author was active in Christian evangelism in various Japanese cities. He was also a scholar in Christian doctrine and for years served as professor of the New Testament in the Aoyama Theological Seminary, Tokyo.

Dr. Coates spent 41 years in Japan and, although he had reached the age for retirement, was permitted to finish out his days in that country, which he loved.

SEA MONSTERS YIELD TO FREAK FISH

Down in Nova Scotia sea monsters are giving place to freak fish. Just recently a sea-horse was taken from the waters of the coast, an unusual occurrence, and a black swallower, approximately eight inches long, was caught by a Lunenburg skipper. Capt. E. C. Mack, a hundred miles south of Nantucket Shoals. Inside the black swallower was found one of the species of lantern fish measuring one foot in length. According to old Euclid the lesser can never contain the greater, but the black swallower evidently pursuaded to get around the foot length of the lantern fish, probably temporarily extending himself for the occasion. The sea-horse is a quite familiar denizen of the waters off Bermuda. While to many the name "sea horse" would convey a somewhat large marine animal, the sea horse measures a little over three inches in length. It gets its name from its resemblance to a horse's head and swims in a peculiar position.

Two negroes were boasting about the merits of their respective motor cars, both worn, shabby, old wrecks.

One of them said : "Deys jus' one reason why Ah ain't run dis cah more'n 10p miles a hour."

"An' what's dat reason ?" asked the other.

"Da distance is too long fo' de shortness of de time," said the first.

Girls' Basketball Season Bay Quinte League Opens, Belleville

Junior and Senior Teams Defeated

The opening games of the Bay of Quinte Basketball League were played at Belleville High School Friday evening. The visiting Napanee Junior and Senior girls teams were defeated by Belleville.

Senior Game

In the senior tilt, Napanee were outplayed by a smarter, faster and more experienced team. From the opening whistle the game was never in doubt. Belleville steadily adding to their lead all the way. They lead at half-time by the score of 15 to 3.

The Belleville team were especially strong defensively. With their quick, short passes they completely demoralized the defensive tactics of the local girls. The final score was 23-8 in favor of Belleville.

The high scorers for Belleville were Artemese Cruji and Florence Trifts; for the local team, Letitia McCullough and Dolly Chapman.

The teams were as follows :—

Napanee	Belleville
Right Forward
Letitia McCullough	Florence Trifts
Left Forward

In the junior struggle the game was more closely contested. Napanee in this game were headed for victory in the first half, leading, at the whistle, by the score of 8 to 5.

In the second half the experience of the Belleville girls along with the continual change of players, defeated Napanee. In the last few moments the Belleville girls ran in three baskets in quick succession, thus winning by the score of 17 to 12.

Taking into consideration that Napanee's junior team was made up of inexperienced players, they played a sparkling game. With more practice and experience this team will certainly make things interesting for senior teams in the Bay of Quinte League.

A whitewash can be made glossy like a coat of enamel by a pound of cheap bar soap in a gallon of water and adding to it five gallons of thick whitewash mixture. Lime can be made more soluble and will penetrate further into the wood by adding a pint of molasses to every five gallons of white wash.

sign of nervousness. When asked if she had felt excited, she said: "Well just a little. But I had confidence in the pilot who is one of the best in the service. I thought if we did crash, whatever happened would come so quickly I wouldn't know, anyway !" Her comment about the passengers was : "They were simply swell." This opinion was very well borne out by the lack of nervousness or excitement evident on the part of the whole nine passengers — three women and six men.

Miss Hall, the stewardess, is an attractive young woman, just recently graduated from the University of Wisconsin and a trained nurse, as well. She was busily engaged looking after the passengers' needs while they were awaiting removal to the Model Paisley, where they remained until they left for Buffalo on the 2:00 a.m. train, Monday. Miss Hall remained with the other members of the crew in Napanee.

On Monday morning, Pilot Dender and his assistant were busy making arrangements to hop off. Some preparations were made to clear the field for the take off. A machine was sent from Buffalo to make some necessary repairs to the ship and everything else was ordered from Kingston and Syracuse. Only high test gasoline can be used in this type of plane, and it is not available locally.

Pilot Dester, in discussing plans for the take-off from Napanee, said he had approximately 1400 feet of level ground. He was confident he could get the machine off the ground in 600 feet, but required the balance of the clear space to fly low in order to get up speed.

Plane Takes Off

On Tuesday morning, preparations were completed for the take-off of the plane. The flight was delayed on account of the late arrival from Buffalo of an American Airlines mechanic and a tank of special gas, which was brought from Syracuse.

On the way to Napanee, on Monday, the car carrying the mechanic broke a spring, which delayed arrival until late in the day. The slight rip in the wing, caused by striking a fence post in landing, was repaired. The plane was re-fueled and re-oiled, and at 11:40 a.m., the return flight started.

The plane taxied to the extreme east end of the field and after running for a few hundred feet on the ground, gradually rose into the air and quickly gained height. The pilot circled the town once and then headed for Albany, the nearest American airport.

The most necessary baggage was carried as the supply of gas was not sufficient to warrant any excess weight.

During the morning, three planes from the Trenton Airport came to Napanee and, in close formation, flew several times over the field where the American plane was standing.

Economic Conference Aimed at Building French Trade

Paris.—France's Government fixed her Colonial Economic Conference—a conference to rival Great Britain's Imperial Conference—to start Dec. 3rd.

A miehty, closely-knit empire of 107,000,000 souls—the dream of Pierre Laval, who was Minister of Colonies until the Cabinet shake-up two weeks ago—will be the object of the conference, which will seek to tie the homeland and her colonies into one tight economic system.

Louis Rollin, who succeeded Laval when the latter was named Foreign Minister to take the place of the assassinated Louis Barthou, will carry out plans for the Conference.

Balance to Germany

France has 40,000,000 inhabitants within her borders. Germany has 60,000,000. In the colonies France can make up the difference, for the Great War stripped Germany of her possessions abroad.

Essentially, however, the conference will be economic. In July, 1932, France's foreign trade was 5,000,000,000 francs ; in July, 1933, it had fallen to 4,000,000,000 ; in July, 1934, it was down to 3,000,000,000.

Thus, France, seeking for the past year to bring the colonies into closer relations with the mother country, will strive at the forthcoming conference to co-ordinate the exchange of colonial products for things manufactured in France.

Chief stumbling block in the way is the fact that French wine and wheat producers want no competition from the colonies.

Clouds of Locusts Darken African Sky

Famine Created in Angola Under Eyes of Canadian Resident

Toronto, Oct. 30. — A plague of locusts in Angola and Belgian Somaliland is reported by Dr. W. Sidney Gilchrist of Picton, N.S., who has arrived in Toronto. Recently Dr. Gilchrist saw crowds of locusts, 50 kilometres square, "too large to cope with in any known way."

Deaths from starvation began last year, according to Dr. Gilchrist. Villages elders visiting his dispensary at Canmandongo began telling him of persons who had died from the food shortage in their districts. They blamed the locusts, who were eating everything in sight.

"We first saw the locusts in 1930," Dr. Gilchrist said. "They were then few and scattered, and were not taken personally. The plague that has since developed over a vast area is considered by the natives to be the severest in the memory of all persons now living.

"The insects have increased in number until all the Gonga District and northward over the Belgian Congo border is devastated. When the locusts first came in small clouds they were smoked down out of the trees, cooked and eaten. This year and last, they have been too numerous to be driven away.

Planting had begun this month, but in many places there was no seed left and white traders were trying to get seed grain to keep alive.

"In earlier times a parasitic has developed when the plague reached such proportions as to threaten famine. Now there is nothing in sight to wipe out the locusts. There will be appalling conditions of starvation next year, unless seed can be obtained and some crops harvested."

The young physician added that patients came to him needing food more than medicine in many cases. Thus the mission hospitals tended to become relief stations as the money available for medicines had to be used for food. Dr. Gilchrist has been serving in Angola with the mission of the United Church of Canada and plans to return after a period of furlough.

October Snowstorm of 1933 is Recalled

A decided contrast between the cold and heavy snowstorm of a year ago last October 24th and nature's gift on the same day, this year, when health-giving sunshine and atmosphere warm enough to shed the fall coat, was enjoyed by the community.

With reports emanating from meteorological centres of a changing weather cycle towards "more moisture and cold" on the western hemisphere, and weather prophets calculations for the next six months confusing the minds of the population, the beautiful fall weather gives one cause to stop and wonder, It was just over a year ago that the worst snowstorm in October weather history hit the community, disorganizing communications and causing much damage, and laid a chilly veneer of ice on the streets that lasted all winter and caused untold worry and expense, not to mention inconvenience to pedestrians and motorists.

Canada supplied Malta, in 1933, with over $200,000 worth of goods, mostly wheat and flour. The imports from Malta to Canada for the same year totalled $150.

MAPLE LEAF PRIZES OFFERED BY RAILWAYS

Maple leaves are noted for their beauty of coloring and their charm of formation. This year the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways are offering prizes for the most beautiful leaf and the largest leaf. Last year more than 10,000 leaves were submitted in the nation-wide contest and the winning leaves were selected by judges elected by the Royal Canadian Academy. In view of the fact that it is the intention of the railways to arrange a coast-to-coast exhibition of the most beautiful specimens selected, all leaves submitted must become the property of the railway companies.

The rules of the competition are simple. Leaves entered must be gathered within two miles of a station of either railway. The contest is not open to employees of the two railways, although in view of the fact that children are taking such a keen interest in the competition, members of their families may compete. The railways are offering $100, in prizes divided into five sections, with the first prize for the most beautiful leaf of $50.

All entries must be addressed to P. O. Box 1500, Montreal, Que.

Of all the joys of life which may fairly come under the head of recreation, there is nothing more great or more refreshing, more beneficial in the widest sense of the word than a real love of the beauty of the world

Journeying Through The Welsh Wonderland

BY R. PRICE DAVIES

And the land they love and the land they made and the place men know them by

Is a land where a tree is a singing thing and the wind is a lullaby.
Where the mists are white in the morning light as a maiden's bridal veil—
Is a home that is ever the harp of song and legend and fairy-lale."
(From " A Song of the Welsh" by A. O. Prys-Jones; "Western Mail," St. David's Day, 1923.)

Our route through Wales will be partly coastal and partly inland, but throughout it will be one of unsurpassable charm and teeming with memories of ancient, medieval Cathedrals, priories, castles, cromlechs, and ancient bridges, all so dear to the American tourist, as to be seen in profusion, and what a few hundred miles to those who are used to thousands?

Leaving Liverpool by boat and making for Llandudno, our visitors will cross the waters of the Welsh Dee and will be able to look inland on the Welsh mountains of Flint and Denbigh. They will see the beautiful sands of North Wales and the seaside resorts nestling under them. They may not be able to see the castles of Flint, Dolwyddelen Dinas Bran, and Rhuddlan—but these will await future pleasures.

The visitors will land in the shelter of the Great Orme, and the well-planned town of Llandudno can offer "first impression" and hospitable accommodation. Then by motor-coach around the Great Orme past the thirteenth century castle of Conway and through the narrow gateways of the ancient walls of the town and on to Bangor. Here we have an old cathedral in the valley and a modern university college crowning the hill, while the site of a Roman camp and a Dominion friary also exist."

The cornice road of Bangor should not be missed, for from it can be seen all that is famous and is known as the Menai Straits. Anglesey is quite near, and we are able to show the scene of the struggle between the Druids and the Romans Anglesey is a county which teems with ancient stone circles upright stones, hutments, caves, hermitages and churches.

Wonderland of Snowdonia

Next we come to the wonderful bridges of the Straits — Telford's road suspension bridge and Stephenson's railway tubular bridge— both graceful spans in a romantic setting and each the work of its kind, whilst the water is the little island church of Llantysilio, dated 630 A.D. The walled town of Caernarvon (the old Roman Segontium) is now on our route, with its castle ranking as one of the very finest of its type in Europe. The first Edward built it, or well as the castles of Conway Beaumaris, Criccieth, and Harlech They all reflect Edward's opinion of his Welsh foe. Edward's son, the first Prince of Wales, was born at Caernarvon in 1284, and the present heir to the Throne was invested there as Prince of Wales by his father, King George V, in 1911.

Turning inland we come to Llyn Padarn, with Snowdon as its background; then through that eerie gulch—the Pass of Llanberis. Here we burst into the wonderland of inner Snowdonia. The enchanting valley of Gwynant with its beautiful lake, is below us, and we pass by it to Beddgelert (the home of Prince Llewellyn and his faithful hound Gelert), and on through the charm of the Aberglaslyn Pass to Criccieth. Here we have Criccieth Castle and the old home and the new home of David Lloyd George. Then we double back through the spacious old square of Tremadoc and through the slate port of Portmadoc and on towards Harlech. We are now on the coast again, and as we gain the height we see a view which stirs one's whole being, for here indeed do "the mountains and moorlands roll down to the sea."

A Welsh Washington

We are now in beautiful Merioneth, and piled on a rocky point is the next "sight"— that grim and grey old castle of Harlech.

Then on through the beautiful old Welsh town of Dolgelley, passing along both sides of a beautiful estuary and around Cader Idris to Machynlleth in Montgomeryshire. Here we show the Parliament House of a George Washington of 1400 A. D.—a man who dared to pit himself against the might of England—Owen Glyndwr.

Keeping to the coast we come to Aberystwith, with its "college by the sea" with its fragments of an old castle and its National Library of Wales, and then down through the beautiful little coast towns and villages of Cardiganshire.

En route for St. David's in Pembrokeshire, and along a magnificent coastline, we pass by the castles of Cardigan town and Newport (Penn.) with its ancient earthworks, castles, churches, hermitages, Celtic crosses, and other historical associations, and on to Carmarthenshire and Carmarthen town. Here again we are in history, with a castle and with monuments of Waterloo.

King Arthur

Oh again to Brecon via Llandilo, Llandovery and Builth. At Brecon we are able to show a cathedral and priory, some remnants of an old Dominican friary, a castle, a notable Welsh public school and the birthplace of that famous actress, Sarah Siddons.

So far, laboratory experiments have shown that honey possesses several of the chemical requirements for the purpose, but the ideal material for golf ball centres has not yet been discovered.

"Mistress" Janet, I have already told you that those curtains are odd. Why don't you change them?
Janet - Please mum, I do not know which one is odd

Monmouthshire is the next county in our route, and we travel in company with rocky bed of the Usk River and through the fine old towns of Crickhowell, Abergavenny and Usk with their castles and old churches), through King Arthur's Chorlon (with its Roman amphitheatre) into Glamorgan and the city of Cardiff.

Here in the well-zoned environs we are able to show the fine results of modern initiative and responsibility alongside an ancient tradition. The civic centre ranks with the world's foremost and nearby is an area rich in sites of friaries, old town walls, and a magnificent castle, while Llandaff Cathedral is but a few miles distant from the civic centre, and yet well within the city boundaries.

Still by motor-coach we send our visitors out of Cardiff to catch a railway train at Gloucester, sending them through the towns of Chepstow and Monmouth. On this exit they will pass along the beautiful valley of the Wye, and will bid Wales good-bye in the shadow of that wonderful Cistercian building of the thirteenth century—Tintern Abbey.

FURTHER IMPROVEMENT OF SHEEP IMPORTANT

At this season of the year when farmers are marketing their lambs and making preparations to cull out their ewe flock and place a pure bred ram at the head of the flock, many will be interested to know that ram grading is now nearing completion. A list of officially graded rams of the various breeds is available for each county at the office of the Agricultural Representative. Through the assistance of the Federal Department of Agriculture, purchasers of graded pure bred rams are entitled to the following premium if they comply with the rules and regulations for Ram Bonus Policy.

XX Lamb	$2.00
XX Yearling	3.00
XXX Lamb	3.00
XXX Yearling	5.00

The Province of Ontario has made substantial progress in the improvement of its sheep industry. This is evidenced by the winnings of pure-bred breeders at National Exhibitions such as the Royal Winter Fair at Toronto, and the International Live Stock Exposition at Chicago.

The quality of lambs marketed in Ontario is due largely to the use of purebred sires. Toronto is now the largest lamb consuming market in Canada and provides a market outlet for good quality well finished lambs at all seasons of the year. Graded pure bred rams are available at very reasonable prices from the various breeders of pure bred sheep and no farmer who keeps a flock of breeding ewes should be without the services of a pure bred ram.

SPIDER MEETS LIZARD IN BATTLE TO DEATH

Calcutta.—A battle to the death between a lizard and a spider was witnessed recently in the Bose Research Institute in Calcutta. Superior strategy and better equipment proved the deciding factor in favor of the spider, an insect far lower in the scale of life than the backboned lizard.

The lizard-eating spider measured three inches across its leg-span and it had a web three feet square, with a fluttering dragon-fly. The fly had not been killed, probably because the lizard was on the wait for bigger game. The lizard, of the common house type, measured three and three-quarters inches from head to tail and weighed considerably more than the spider.

The officer of the day was going his rounds when he saw that one of the sentries was a very raw recruit, who was having his first spell of guard duties. Determined to find out whether the young fellow understood his duties, he began to question him.

"If you saw a general approaching, what would you do?"

"Call out the guard," the recruit answered.

"Very good! And if you saw a battle-cruiser coming across the parade ground, what would you do then?"

"Report to the hospital for mental examination," came the prompt reply.

.NEWS AND INFORMATION FOR THE BUSY FARMER

(Furnished by the Ontario Department of Agriculture)

In the production of wheat in 1933, Canada was in the eighth position with 269,729,00 bushels, being exceeded by Russia, China, the United States, British India, France, Italy and the Argentine. In the export of wheat in 1933, the Dominion led the world.

Quality in dressed poultry depends almost entirely upon the manner in which a bird has been fed or finished in preparation for market. Milkfed is a term applied to birds which have been finished through feeding in crates or pens on a ration of finely ground grains and milk. This process increases the proportion and flavour of edible material.

Soybeans More Popular

The soybean gives every indication of becoming a valuable addition to the field crops of Ontario. Its possibilities are being actively investigated in other provinces too, but production at present is limited almost entirely to this province. The acreage has grown from 1,000 in 1929 to 15,000 at present. This indicates the increasing interest in the soybean as a field crop. Present production is chiefly for seed, which being extremely rich in protein and oil, has a high commercial value. The industrial uses for which the soybean can be utilized are numerous. The seed has also considerable value on the farm for livestock feeding, and since the soybean plant itself possesses a highly nutritive value, for fodder, it is quite possible that as production increases the crop may find its greatest use on the farm rather than in industry.

Horse - Shoe Pitching Championships

Horseshoe pitching, the typical old farm sport, has lost none of its grip on rural Ontario and information from local clubs reaching the Royal Winter Fair points to a higher level of attainment and keener interest in the sport than most old players can recall. Again the championships of Canada are to be decided during the last four days of the Royal Winter Fair. November season, with the result that the market has not been at all affected by them. The largest English pears are quite plentiful, as well as English plums.

TOMATO JUICE

Tomatoes are rich in both mineral salts and vegetable acids. They therefore, have the merits of both green vegetables and fruits. They also contain three vitamins necessary for human growth and development and so rank high among protective foods. Much of the nutritive material is found in the juice. Tomato is one of the few foods that retains its vitamins almost unimpaired when cooked.

Tomato juice has the same beneficial properties as orange juice and therefore is equally good for babies especially if they are being fed pasteurized milk. Tomatoes are one of the easiest fruits to can in the home, on account of their acid content. They may be easily canned at home. Tomato juice canned ready for use is sometimes a convenience. Now is the time to provide this winter's supply.

The following recipes were prepared by the Fruit Branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture :—

Canned Tomato Juice

Twenty-four ripe tomatoes.
Three Tablespoonfuls salt.
One-quarter teaspoonful sugar. (optional)

Wash and cut tomatoes, but do not peel. Cook very slowly for half an hour. Press through a coarse sieve extracting the pulp. Then through a fine sieve to remove seeds. Boil five minutes. Seal in sterilized jars and process five minutes in a water bath or oven.

If to be used for babies, omit seasonings.

Tomato Cocktail

Fifteen ripe tomatoes.
One cup chopped celery.
Half a cup chopped onions.
Three sweet green peppers.
One sweet red pepper.
Two tablespoonfuls salt.
Two tablespoonfuls vinegar.
One-quarter cup sugar.

Wash and cut tomatoes, but do not peel. Chop the peppers finely. Mix tomatoes, celery, onions, peppers and salt together. Boil for half an hour Strain through a coarse sieve. Add the vinegar and sugar. Boil three minutes. Seal in sterilized jars.

HONEY BREAD

The following recipe has been thoroughly tested and proved in the Central Experimental Farm kitchen at Ottawa : Honey Bread—two cups boiling water, two tablespoonfuls butter, two tablespoonfuls honey, one-half cup cake dissolved in one-quarter cup lukewarm water, six cups sifted flour and two and one-half teaspoonfuls salt. Put butter, honey and salt in a large bowl, pour on boiling water; when lukewarm, add dissolved yeast cake and five cups of flour, then stir until thoroughly mixed, using a knife or wooden spoon. Add remaining flour, mix, and turn on a floured board, having a clean bowl; knead to mix ingredients until mixture is smooth, elastic to touch and bubbles may be seen under the surface.

Some practice is required to knead quickly. Return to bowl, brush with a clean cloth and board or tin cover, let rise overnight in temperature of 65 degrees Fahrenheit. In the morning cut down, toss on board slightly floured, knead to distribute air, shape into loaves or biscuits, place in greased pan, having pans nearly full. Cover, let rise again to double its bulk and bake in a hot oven. This recipe will make a loaf of bread and a pan of biscuits.

British Apple Market

Mr. Andrew Fulton, overseas fruit representative, reports that since arriving in England, a few weeks ago, he has found the principal markets all heavily loaded with cheap English apples, with the result that ordinary quality Canadian apples are making comparatively low prices. On the other hand, Ontario dessert apples of outstanding quality and colour are meeting a good demand in Glasgow, Liverpool and the south of England. While seeing no hope for cooking apples of any variety short of colour making satisfactory prices before the New Year, Mr. Fulton is favourably impressed with the immediate prospects for red dessert apples, providing that values ranging from 22 to 24 shillings are sufficiently remunerative to the grower. We shall see whether the prices in sight for a while. In other words, if shippers can make sales for their fancy and No. 1 grades of Spies, Snows, Starkets and McIntosh, at about $2.50 to $4.00 a barrel f.o.b. car, then it looks like good business to sell locally.

The advices Ontario shippers to place such varieties as Baldwins, Ganos, Ben Davis, Grennings and Starks, with shredded oil paper and place them in cold storage until they are required after the New Year. There is no doubt that good quality apples are going to be scarce and will make good values before the season is finished.

The English apple crop is the largest in many years, the quality is generally very good, though practically every market has more than its share of inferior grades. Values are extremely low, a fact that is influencing the price of coloured Canadian apples.

Ontario Bartletts have met an unfavourable market. The pears have landed in excellent condition, but unfortunately many of them are very small this season, with the result that the market has not been at all what they had been largely. English pears are quite plentiful, as well as English plums.

Cutting Bees Away for Winter

Bees that are to be sentered in cellar or dug-out should be carried in immediately after the last good cleaning flight they are likely to get. At the Central Experimental Farm this is usually during the first week in November.

The last two weeks in October is the best time to clean up the garden to reduce insect infestation. The Department advises burning all leaves, rotten weeds, fallen fruit and other material after being raked up, and then ploughing or digging the soil deeply. Fences, arbours and trellises should be brushed with a corn broom.

Proper Ration Needed

A hen may lay a few eggs early in the pring without receiving much feed or attention or she may lay at the end of the season when feed may be picked up in the fields, but the hen has not yet been developed that will lay without the proper ration during the fall and winter months. A good mash is important if the hens are to lay, and it should be before the birds all the time. If any one of the necessary elements required for the making of eggs is absent, production is impaired. Pullets require a little different mash than the old hens and it is a mistake to house them together and have them feed from the same hopper. Home-grown feeds with the addition of some purchased concentrates may be mixed, or a commercial mash may be purchased that will supply the necessary ingredients to the bird. Chickens will pay handsome if properly housed and given the right rations.

Royal Winter Fair

The Royal Winter Fair is being held November 21st to 29th, at the Royal Coliseum and Winter Fair buildings, Toronto. Its objects are the promotion of Canada's basic industry, to ling the nine provinces in common interests, and to set high national standards for farm products. The Royal Shows for horses, cattle, sheep, swine, dogs, cats, poultry and pet stock, fruit, flowers, seed and grains, are large and specialized shows for each. The assembly of so much excellence under one roof gives the Royal a distinctiveness not matched anywhere else in the world.

THE BLACK WIDOW

Although many naturalists and others interested in insect life maintain that the majority of the various species of spiders do not and cannot bite human beings, there is not the slightest doubt that the venom of the spider known as the black widow, It is so named from its habit of eating its mate, and is usually found alone because it will ravage its mental companion or any other spider in its vicinity. Its web is coarse and irregular, fixed in dimly lighted or dark corners, in old and unfrequented houses, barns or other outbuildings for preference. On rare occasions the spider has been discovered in motor cars. This year it was found for the first time in Canada, a specimen being captured at Trail, B.C., and identified by the staff of the Kamloops Laboratory of the Dominion Entomological Branch.

The black widow, is a shiny, coal-black spider, usually brilliantly marked with red or yellow, or both in the shape of an hour-glass on its abdomen, and is mainly encountered in the southern belt of the United States from the Atlantic to the Pacific, principally in California and Florida. However, it has been reported as far north as New Hampshire, Ohio, and Illinois. Instances of serious poisoning from its bite have occurred in more than a dozen states and certain deaths have been notified recently in western States. In all, over 300 cases of Arachnidism or poisoning from the bite of the black widow have been reported in the United States, and similar symptoms to this poisonine have resulted in Europe, Asia, Africa, and Australia from the bite of a black spider with a red mark. The bite is followed by excruciating pains in the arms and shoulders of the victim, involving all the large muscles of the body, with extreme abdominal rigidity. Any one bitten by this spider should summon a physician immediately.

(Send them in early in the week.)

LEMON SPONGE (or cake) PIE

Three egg yolks, beaten thick; 6 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind, 1 cup sugar, 3 tablespoons flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon melted butter, 1¼ cups milk, 3 egg whites, uncooked pastry. Combine all ingredients, folding in last stiffly beaten egg whites. Turn into pie tin lined with plain uncooked pastry, put into hot oven (450 deg. F.). After ten minutes reduce heat to moderate (350 deg. F.) and bake forty minutes longer or until filling is firm.

LEMON BAVARIAN PIE

Soak thirty minutes : 12 marshmallows, cut fine, in 1 cup whipping cream. Soak also for five minutes 1 tablespoon gelatine, in ¼ cup cold water. Bring to a boil. ¼ cup water and ¼ cup sugar. Add to gelatine. Then add: ¼ cup lemon juice.

Let cool until beginning to stiffen. Fold in whipping cream and marshmallows which have been beaten to a froth. Pour into crumb crust pie shell. Chill. Garnish with additional whipped cream is desired, and for a novel touch, chocolate shot.

CRUMB CRUST

Twenty graham crackers rolled fine and mixed with a pinch of salt, 6 tablespoons each sugar and butter. Pat into pie plate. This is a good company dessert.

LEMON COCOANUT PIE

Sift another cup of lemon pie if our old friend, lemon meringue, glorified with cocoanut.

One cup sugar, 3 tablespoons flour, 3 tablespoons cornstarch, 1½ cups boiling water.

Sift dry ingredients, add water, and cook in double boiler until thick (about fifteen minutes.) Add: ½ cup lemon juice and grated rind of 1 lemon, 2 egg yolks, beaten slightly. Cook two minutes longer. Add ½ cup grated cocoanut. Cool and turn into either a baked or crumb crust pie shell. Cover with meringue made of: 2 egg whites, ¼ cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon baking powder.

Beat egg whites until frothy, add sugar and baking powder and continue beating until stiff. Spread meringue with 1 tablespoon cocoanut. Put in moderate oven (325 deg. F.) for fifteen minutes to brown.

CHEESE PATTIES

Minature cheese patties are delicious to serve at a cafeteria type lunch, as they are more easy to handle than meat pies or sausage rolls. First make a quantity of puff pastry in the usual way and have it ready to roll out. Cut into small patty pans. Prepare the cheese filling by mixing two ounces of either grated or cream cheese with half a teaspoonful of mixed mustard, and salt and pepper to taste. Brush the inside of the pastry cases with melted butter and then fill up with the cheese mixture. Bake the patties quickly in a hot oven.

AN EGG DISH

A good egg dish is made by covering the bottom of a fireproof dish with tomato puree. To make this stew a pound or more of tomatoes in a little well-seasoned water or stock; when soft press the pulp through a sieve and thicken it with two teaspoonfuls of cornflour blended in cold milk. Tinned tomatoes can be used if more convenient. Break as many eggs as are required on the top of the puree, and bake in a moderate oven until the eggs are just set. If served with spaghetti or macaroni which has been mixed with plenty of grated cheese, this forms a complete meal.

ORANGE FRITTERS

If prepared correctly orange fritters can be delicious. The orange quarters should be rolled in castor sugar before they are dipped in fritter batter, and dredged with sugar again after frying. This will make all the difference to their flavour, and, to complete the dish, they should be served with orange sauce. Make the sauce by thickening orange juice slightly with cornflour, adding a few pieces of shredded rind.

WITH HOT TEA

Creamed cheese balls topped with raspberry jam and served with crisp wafers are good with hot tea.

— HOUSEHOLD HINTS —

A STRING HOLDER

Balls of string, if not kept in a special box or holder, are liable to be mislaid, or wasted through untying and tangling. It is a good plan to use an aluminium funnel of suitable size as a holder. The funnel is hung in a convenient place and the ball kept inside it. The end of the string is led down through the funnel, and when required unrolls without becoming loose or tangled. If a more ornamental holder is preferred a plain flower pot may be lacquered in any suitable shade. Attractively coloured holders of this kind, complete with balls of coloured string to match may be sold at reasonably low prices at sales of work.

STONING RAISINS

Stoning raisins or sultanas for use in cake making is always a sticky business and a lot of the fruit is wasted owing to fact that it adheres to the stones. The quickest and most economical way of stoning all sticky fruits of this kind is first to place the fruit in a basin and pour boiling water over it. Leave the fruit to stand in the water for some minutes and then drain well. It will be found that the stones will squeeze out of the fruit without trouble, taking none of the flesh with them. Care should be taken that the water which is poured over the fruit is boiling.

HEATED PLATES

Any dislike fat food served on unheated plates. If you do not care to light the oven, place the dishes in a pan of boiling water for a few minutes before dishing up. They will dry quickly and be nice and warm for service.

KEEPING LETTUCE CRISP

Wash lettuce thoroughly and while dripping place in a tightly covered jar or pail. Store in a very cold place. The lettuce will remain crisp for several days.

COOKING FISH

Fried fish has a nicer flavor if brushed well with milk—no egg—before coating with seasoned crumbs.

Boiled fish must be gently cooked and well drained before serving.

Water or fat for fish must be hot before putting in the fish.

For delicate people, fish placed in a deep dish, or soup plate, covered with skim milk, and lightly steamed over a saucepan of water, is a very digestible dish.

CLEANING MATERIALS

SOME ECONOMIES

Soaps, polishes, and cleaning materials are apt, especially at spring-cleaning time, to claim a disproportionate share of the housekeeper's allowance. But with a knowledge of the cleansing properties of articles in common use and the exercise of economy in their application the housewife can save many shillings in the year.

Soap, the most ordinary cleanser of all, is liable to be wasted if it is used indiscriminately. It should always be bought in a large quantity as possible, cut into pieces, and stored for a few weeks in a warm place so that it dries thoroughly before use. Soap should not be used when just a soap lather is required—for soap flakes, which can be bought cheaply in pound packets, will serve the same purpose more economically. Soda is cheaper than soap for washing, as it will remove grease just as effectively. All the odds and ends of toilet and household soap should be placed in a jar covered with water and stored in a warm oven until the soap melts. The resultant soap jelly is excellent when a lather is needed.

To use furniture cream is unnecessary, as the best, and cheapest, is the cheesecut, way of polishing wood and leather is to wipe it thoroughly free of dust with a leather wrung out in a weak solution of vinegar and water and to polish it with a soft duster. Varnished furniture may be successfully cleaned by rubbing it with warm bran, which should afterwards be brushed out. Now and again carpets should be rubbed with a cloth dipped in ammonia and water, using a teaspoonful of ammonia to a quart of water. Polish is often erroneously applied to oxidised brass, silver, and copper articles, and to chromium-plated taps and fittings. This, however, removes the layer of "patina" leaving the bare surface of the metal exposed, which tarnishes readily so that the polishing has to be continually repeated. A damp cloth, quickly followed by rubbing with a dry clean duster, will do all that is required. Silver, too, can be kept beautifully bright if it is washed in soapy water, drained, and polished with a dry cloth ; but if it is tarnished, clean it with a little common salt and vinegar.

The bath and wash bowl should be cleaned with a rag dipped in paraffin or with powdered whiting, as scouring powders are too harsh for use on delicate enamels and porcelains, besides being expensive ; their use should be confined to the kitchen sink. Windows and mirrors can be beautifully polished with a little paraffin or vinegar applied with a cloth. Aluminumware should be cleaned with wire wool to which a little soap should be applied if the articles are greasy. The wool can be bought cheaply in half-pound rolls ; and a little can be cut off at a time one roll will last for months in the average household. A piece of wool will clean tarnished copper and brass ; when the article is clean it should be rinsed in soapy water, rinsed, and dried. Soiled wallpaper should be cleaned with a piece cut from the end of the piece being discarded as it gets dirty. —L. M.

RECORD CLAIMS STAKED IN NEW GOLD FIELDS

The rewards of months spent in the bush in the Hudson Bay Mountain area in Northern Ontario, in hunting for gold, is now being shown, as prospectors are coming to Port Arthur to register their claims. While no official figures are as yet available, it is said that they will be a record for Ontario. One group, alone, paid $800.00 for recording its interests. Port Arthur has become the centre of negotiations and the lobbies of the Prince Arthur Hotel are the headquarters for mining and deal conferences. It is reported that many major deals have been made, and am'ounts, up to $225,000.00 have been paid for grants of claims. The city itself has benefitted greatly from the rush into the gold area and business conditions at the lakehead have improved through supply orders coming from the mining camps.

SHOE DESIGNERS TRYING TO BRING BACK FOOTWEAR OF YESTERYEAR

"Boots, boots, boots, boots, moving up and down again—"

Shoe buyers are asking themselves, in the words of Kipling, if that is what soon can be expected in feminine styles. The new definitely higher cut shoes and the reported reappearance of high tonged shoes at a recent Paris fashion openin' e have prompted the speculation here.

And so the big question is :

Will women now well accustomed to the ease and comfort of low cut shoes for all hours, bite at the high top boot bait that shoe designers are shyly dangling ?

Some of the 1935 styles have taken their inspiration from pre-great war days, when high topped shoes were smart, but can the business woman, who likes her last few winks of sleep, be persuaded to arise five or 10 minutes earlier in order to lace up her tall shoes ?

One buyer in a leading department store has audaciously placed an order for a model that is a compromise and a "feeler". It is a sort of semi-boot that covers the ankle.

But aside from this, daytime shoes are decidedly higher cut.

I'M in the habit of buying a car "on time", like most other people. I'm buying a Chevrolet—and saving money! Here is why:

Comparing cash prices, I found that you can buy a Chevrolet Standard Series Six for less than any other car in Canada. And that the Master Series Chevrolet, with all its extra features, costs no more than the others in its class.

Naturally, low cash prices mean that the cost of buying on monthly payments is going to be low, too. So I investigated the G.M.A.C. plan, on which Chevrolet cars are sold.

I found that GMAC is General Motors' own time payment plan. The manufacturers of Chevrolet stand squarely behind every time-payment sale.

I found that the GMAC financing rates have been recently reduced—making it cheaper than ever to buy on this plan.

I found that every Chevrolet sold under the GMAC plan is fully protected by insurance—Fire, Theft, Accidental Physical Damage and $50 Deductible Collision.

And I found that one of the biggest reasons why the GMAC plan costs less and gives more is because more people buy on this plan than on any other.

I'm buying a Chevrolet on the GMAC plan, because I've found that there's a lot of difference in time payments—and that you save when you get the facts.

Local And District News of Women's Organizations

ADOLPHUSTOWN W. M. S.

The October meeting of the Women's Missionary Society was held at the home of Mrs. D. King, on Friday afternoon, October 5th.

The devotional exercises were in charge of Mrs. E. Foster, and opened with a hymn, followed by prayer offered by Rev. M. Sanders. Psalm 46 was read by Mrs. Foster and Hymn 34 was sung.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted. The roll call was answered by a verse of a hymn or a poem. We have thirteen annual and four life members on the roll. The Autumn thankoffering envelopes were distributed. After another hymn and the Mizpah benediction the meeting closed, and lunch was served by the hostess.

HAYBURN LADIES' AID

Hayburn Ladies' Aid met at the home of Mrs. Alex. Magee, Tuesday afternoon, October 16th, with thirteen members and six visitors present. The president had charge of the meeting. At the opening of the meeting a hymn was sung, followed by the Lord's Prayer, after which the 23rd Psalm was read. The roll call was responded to by the name of a book of the New Testament.

The secretary's and treasurer's reports were read and adopted. After the business was finished, Mrs. John Dickson and Mrs. Alex. Magee sang very sweetly "Once I thought I walk'd with Jesus." Mrs. James Powell also gave a splendid reading. Mrs. A. Wicket read the 130th Psalm and the meeting was brought to a close. A dainty lunch was served by the hostess and the lunch fees amounted to $2.55.

On Friday evening, October 26th, under the auspices of Hayburn Ladies' Aid, a "Pot-Luck" supper was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Loyst. About 75 people were served at tables, well-filled with good things. Later in the evening a sale of numerous articles was held. Proceeds of the evening were $15.00 The ladies are certainly to be congratulated for the wonderful management and success of the undertaking.

A hearty vote of thanks was extended to Mr. and Mrs. Loyst for the use of their home.

SELBY W. C. T. U.

The October meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union was held in the home of Mrs. B. F. Denison. After a discussion on temperance in Sunday Schools, the minutes were read and approved. Miss Helen Rose, through her mother, Mrs. Rose, wished to thank the Union for sending her to the "Y" camp at Cobourg.

Mrs. Pringle took charge of the devotional, reading several passages of scripture. Prayer for temperance and co-operation was the kev-note. These passages show co-ordination and organization. Temperance people should train our minds to think only of victory.

The president drew attention to an article in our daily paper on Saturday last, headed girls smoking. Out of eleven thousand inmates in a delinquent school, only twenty were none smokers. Fifty twenty per cent of all fires are directly due to cigarettes. A cycle of prayer by the ladies followed.

The clip sheet on liquor advertising was thoroughly taken up. Many people are glad that the recently elected Premier of Ontario has decided that any of the local community welfare that the ban against the advertising of alcoholic beverages be not lifted. It is to the credit of those newspapers who have declared that they will not accept liquor advertising being allowed in Ontario, and at least two dozen weekly newspapers have intimated that they would not accept liquor advertisements. It has been the past experience of the press, where advertisements for liquors are printed, that temperance news must be left out.

The Union was pleased to announce that Doris Harnden was the winner of the provincial prize on the work book.

The meeting was then closed.

MORVEN Y. P. S.

A very successful Hallowe'en social was held in the basement of the White Church on Friday evening last. About seventy of the Morven and Fourth Line Young People were present.

The basement was attractively decorated with jack o'lanterns and other Hallowe'en decorations. The prize for the best girls' costume was awarded to Miss Grace Minone and Mr. Claude Craig was the prize for the best boys' costume. A number of contests and games were conducted by Miss Stella Craig, after which lunch was served.

The next meeting will be held in the Brick Church on Friday, November 2nd, in charge of Miss Grace Street, first vice-president.

THE IMPORTANCE OF MILK

Children's meals should be built around milk for it is a food which makes valuable contribution to the normal growth and health of their rapidly growing bodies. Milk not only supplies proteins of highest quality for muscle building, fat and sugar for heat and energy, vitamines for protection, but is the most abundant source of calcium and one of the best sources of phosphorus, the two minerals which form the foundation of the bones and teeth. It is, therefore, of paramount importance that every child should have sufficient milk to insure the development of a firm set of teeth and of a well constructed body framework.

Eminent authorities are agreed that a child requires about a quart of milk each day. This amount may be easily provided by serving milk as a beverage and by using it freely in making cream soups, milk puddings and other nourishing dishes. Children should be taught to drink milk slowly and to take it at the end of the meal, as they may neglect to chew their food thoroughly if they drink milk along with it.

The majority of children like to drink milk, but occasionally there is a child who is not fond of milk, in which case the mother should experiment with a real problem Patiently and tactfully she must create a "milk appetite" in the child by practically it in appealing ways. Good results have been obtained, particularly with younger children, by using simple methods such as these: allow them to drink milk through a straw; change the appearance and flavour of the milk by adding a small amount of chocolate, caramel or maple syrup, fruit juice or honey; tell them interesting stories which incidentally, bring out the value of milk: allow them to serve themselves — a child likes to be independent and enjoys using his own pitcher and pouring the milk into his glass; paste a coloured picture on the bottom of the glass—the child is attracted by colour—and will drink the milk in order to see the picture which should be changed frequently. children are hero - worshippers— tell them about the athletes and other well-known people who drink milk in order to grow strong.

NATIONAL CHEESE WEEK NOVEMBER 10TH TO 17TH

National Cheese Week in Canada, to be held from November 10th to 17th inclusive, is being promoted by the cheese industry in this province in order to try and enlighten Canadians on the advantages of this dairy commodity as a food product worthy of more general use.

The per capita consumption of cheese in Canada is less than four pounds per year, compared with over fifteen pounds in Britain, less than four and one-quarter pounds in the United States, ten pounds in France and twenty-five in Switzerland and yet Canadian Cheddar cheese is not equalled for quality by the cheese of any country in the world.

NEWBURGH W. I.

The October meeting of the Newburgh Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. George Paul, on Thursday, October 25th, with a good attendance of thirty-four members and visitors.

The meeting was opened with singing the familiar ode, followed by repeating the creed. The roll call was answered by members telling "Where I first went to school and my first teacher." The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved, followed by the reports from the treasurer and conveners of committees. Plans for a social and fruit relief and health.

Various other correspondence was dealt with. The president then suggested that we send $1.00 to Mrs. Ames' reward a farewell gift to the retiring superintendent. Mr. George A. Putnam, B.S.A., which was agreed to.

An article from "Home and Country" read by Mrs. A. Gerow. Arrangements re catering for the Masonic banquet were completed.

Current events in health was delivered by Dr. Munroe.

Mrs. Wilford Wilson entertained the members with an instrumental solo which was much enjoyed by all. Current events were given in a very pleasing manner by Mrs. James Wilson.

A very interesting parade of kitchen aprons was put on, the judges being Mrs. (Dr.) Mounce and Mrs. Moffatt, and the prize was awarded to Mrs. George Walker.

The meeting was closed with the singing of the National Anthem, after which a very dainty lunch was served by the hostess and her assistants.

The president announced that the next meeting will be held at the home of Miss M. Cameron owing to the illness of Mrs. Lochhead.

SELBY Y. P. S.

The Y. P. S. met on Friday night with a very good attendance. The programme was in charge of the Citizenship Conveners, Dorland Wood, who read an interesting paper on pioneer life in Ontario. At the close of the programme several games were played and the prizes were greatly enjoyed by all the members.

Next Friday's meeting will be in charge of the Missionary Convener, Dorland Jackson. Everybody welcome.

MOSCOW Y. P. U.

The Moscow Young People's Union which was organized on October 8th, held its second meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Stuffman, Friday, October 19th. The object of the rose is threefold, namely, to instruct the young people in religious, educational and social activities, which aims and its large membership, this club should prove of great value to the younger set of Moscow. A very important step it has taken, is to establish a library for the benefit of the club members.

It has an enthusiastic executive with Mr. Charles Darling acting as president.

"TOUCH NOT, TASTE NOT, HANDLE NOT"

Study 5 — November 4th, 1934

"Why the brown study ?" teased Alec late one afternoon as he came into the living-room and found Clara curled up on a sofa, sitting very still and looking straight ahead at nothing in particular.

Clara laughed. "I was trying to get the meaning of the words my teacher gave me today to copy. 'Touch not taste not, handle not.' Sounds like a lot of nonsense to me, wise. "I think my father knows a story that will make that clear," he said. "Perhaps we can get him to tell it this evening."

Clara jumped up and clapped her hands. "Oh, a story ! I love it, I know." and it did not require very much urging after supper when they were all gathered in the living room to persuade Uncle Edward to tell them a story which the Japanese call:

Shajo - Hi

The Japanese make a kind of woollen cloth called "Shajo - hi" which they dye red. The colour for this dye, story-tellers say, is obtained from a queer animal that can walk and talk, and that lives down at the bottom of the sea. It is not easy to get these animals to come up, for they are said to be very wise and they seem to know all about the way men try to catch them. There is one trap, however that is said to catch them, and that is sake, the Japanese beer, made from rice.

The fishermen put sake in large jars, place these in the meadows that border the sea, and put dippers beside the jars. They then wait for the grass growing around and without cutting it off shape it into the form of shoes and put them on the feet. The men then hide in the grass to watch what happens.

The odour of the beer soon reaches the bottom of the seas and presently one shajo says to another. "Sansuke shajo, isn't there some smell in the pleasant odour here ? It smells like sake. Let us go up out of the water and see."

But the other shajo says, "Oh no ! We must not go near the place to go up out of the sea. It is only a trap of those men to get us to drink their sake. If we do we will get drunk and then they will catch us and kill us."

Then another shajo says, "It is all right to go up provided we do not drink any of the sake. It is much fairer to drink some and get drunk and sake than to be here and smell this disagreeable sea-weed."

All the shajo are pleased with this odd exclaim, "why of course. that is true. There surely cannot be any harm in just smelling of the sake That will not make us drunk. Come, everybody, let us go."

So they go up out of the sea, and tiptoe carefully, to the sake jars. There they sniff and smell the sake much stronger than they did down under the water and they like it so well they keep sniffing it until they are overcome with a desire to take a drink.

Finally, one shajo will say, "Oh I can't stand this mere smelling. Let each take just one little drink."

But another shajo says, "No, no it would be too dangerous to drink any of the sake. Let each just dip in to dip our fingers in and lick them off would be quite safe. Let us do that."

So they all put their fingers in the sake to lick it off and then they turn around and round the jars doine it again and again and smacking their lips.

Soon one shajo will say to another, "Really this is not enough for me. I like to keep licking sake from my fingers. If we only drink a little from the jars and put them back when full, we shall not get drunk."

All respond, "That's so ! That's right."

So they all take up a little of the sake in the dippers and drink it and smack their lips harder than ever. Presently one will say, "Unless one fills up on sake one gets very thirsty. There is no use in drinking it. Besides, there is nothing to show that we who smell sake from my fingers were caught because they were drunk. Why just look down at your feet and see what we have about them. Our straw shoes were the traps. The former shajo were foolish enough to put their feet in these shoes that are all tied town, and go to dancing. We will put on the shoes, and then how we can get drunk without danger."

By this time there is no one wise enough to utter a warning, so they all drink until they are drunk. Then one will say, "Oh, why not put on our shoes ? If we do not dance and tumble over, there will be no dancer in just slipping our feet into the shoes."

So they slip on the shoes and begin to feel very well pleased with themselves because they are wise enough not to get caught. They feel so pleased that they sing, and as soon as they sing they want to dance to keep time with their singing.

"It will be safe to dance if we don't tumble down," they say. So they try to dance with their feet in the shoes that are tied fast with the grass, and of coltse, as they dance they tumble down and easily are caught.

"The Japanese have a proverb which this story illustrates," said Uncle Edward. "It is this: First the man takes a drink; then the drink takes a drink; then the drink takes the man."

"I see," added Clara. "I think I can write Touch not, taste not, and handle not," better tomorrow, now that I know what it means."

It is true, however, that alcohol is used most extensively. It has been found that many thousands of years ago, at the beginning of the agricultural are, a primitive man crushed the juice out of grapes, and going away for a few days, left it standing. On his return he drank the liquid, and discovered its drugging effect—that it enabled him to forget for a time all the hardships of his life. The excitement and throwing off of self-restraint produced by the drinking of this fermented liquid, led to its use in ceremonies and festivals.

Twelve science has found out some definite facts about the use of alcohol as a beverage. First of all alcohol is too strong to be taken pure. It must be diluted with water or some other liquid. All drinks containing alcohol are called "intoxicating." This word means "poisonous." "Tyrian" is the poison wherewith the Greeks used to make their arrows more deadly. Intoxicating drinks come under three classes: wines, beers and spirits. "Fortified," wines are those which have distilled spirits added to them, thus increasing the amount of alcohol in them.

Water is regarded as the greatest beverage. Let us see if alcohol has any of the properties which give water this distinction: First of all alcohol will burn, while water will not burn; alcohol has no taste, but alcohol has a sharp burning taste. Alcohol hardens food by taking the water from it; water, on the other hand, softens food. The greatest difference, however, is in the fact that whereas water is a real thirst-quencher, alcohol actually creates thirst. We have seen that alcohol has a great tendency to absorb water from substances. It has this action on the tissues of the body. When the body loses water, thirst is created. And so alcohol is a thirst-producer.

Unfermented fruit juices have a very refreshing effect. They also possess valuable substances which are important for the smooth-working of the body. They have none of the injurious effects which are brought about by the alcohol in fermented liquids. When the juice is pressed out of the fruit it should be heated to the boiling-point and sealed right away. It should not be allowed to stand uncovered : lest yeast germs get into it from the air.

We have plenty of refreshing and wholesome drinks. We know that alcohol does harm to our bodies. What basis then have we for drinking beverages containing it ?

Question 1. What does the word "intoxicating" mean ? (Value 10.)

Question 2. Discuss "Water versus alcohol as beverages." (Value 10.)

CLYDESDALE STALLIONS ARE IMPORTED FOR BREEDING PURPOSES

A shipment of five Clydesdale stallions for the Dominion Department of Agriculture, imported by the Scottish ones as easily one of the best consignments to leave Scotland for some time, arrived recently at the Central Experimental Farm, at Ottawa. These horses were purchased by the Dominion Live Stock Branch. For the time being they will be located at the Central Experimental Farm, and eventually will be stationed at Dominion Experimental Farms in Canada for mating with selected mares and for the improvement of the breed generally.

The group of five stallions includes one five-year old, three two-year olds and a yearling, all with extensive show ring winnings, and of the weighty drafty type very necessary and not too plentiful in Canada. They should create a lively interest among horsemen.

STEAM - LINE TRAINS MAY BE POSSIBILITY IN NEAR FUTURE

Toronto — Railway history is repeating itself and again, as nine years previously, the attention of steam road executives is focused upon a streamline train, not unlike a huge caterpillar but with the speed of a hawk, which is rushing across the continent from Los Angeles to New York in its operating schedule calls for it to cut up the 3,200 miles, separating the Pacific and Atlantic seaboards, in 57½ hours.

It was on November 1st, 1925, that the Canadian National Railways pioneered the way in the adaption of the oil-electric motive power for railway use and constructed an oil-electric car which made a dash across the continent, covering the distance of 2,937 miles between Montreal and Vancouver, in 67 running hours. This test trip proved out and for all the feasibility of the oil-electric motive power to meet the trying operating requirements of American railroads.

"The progress of the new Union Pacific train on its test run from coast to coast will be watched with particular interest by railway officials, both in Canada and the United States," said W. A. Kingsland, vice-president and general manager of the Canadian National Railways, who at the time of the oil-electric car trial run was general manager of the Western Region, where the first streamline performance of the car was shown. "In many ways the tests are similar. Speed was not the prime factor; but rather that of the endurance of the movtie power and its capabilities under actual operation conditions.

"In operating on a schedule of 72 hours from tidewater to tidewater, and making the run in five minutes less than 67 hours actual running time, the oil-electric car set three world records in railway operation. The diesel engine never stopped running during the trip, although the car itself might be standing at a station, at least never before accomplished; the actual running time established a new record for transcontinental travel, although a special Union Pacific train, in 1906, ran from San Francisco in 71 hours, 23 minutes and it was the first time that a single car, propelled under its own power, had ventured upon such a lengthy run. apart from this, a new power, which could be adapted to railway locomotives, received a severe and gruelling test."

In other ways, however," Mr. Kingsland pointed out, the equipment was dissimilar. The historic oil-electric car weighed only 40 tons. The streamline Union Pacific train consists of a six-car unit, the power car, three Pullmans, a mail and express car combined, and a buffet-kitchen car. "All railroaders wish the Union Pacific every success in this endurance test," Mr. Kingsland concluded. "If the schedule is kept up to, as we hope and believe that it will be, new world records will be achieved and, as many improvements have been made since Canadian National engineers adapted the diesel engine to railway operation, this test run of the steamline train may have an important influence upon railway equipment in the future."

DESERONTO

Deseronto, October 29.—A well attended community dinner was held in the White Hall on Thursday evening, October 25th. This event was sponsored by a group of public spirited men, who are loyally endeavoring to promote the welfare of Deseronto through the organization of a Chamber of Commerce. The catering for the excellent meal was done by the Women's Citizens' League. An atmosphere of good cheer was greatly enhanced by the Acme band's merry music throughout the dinner hour. Mr. Murray Dimmell contributed an appropriate solo, "Friend Of Mine", with Dr. A. G. Cameron as accompanist. Mr. Reg. Wiseman, in the role of song leader, capably directed some much appreciated community singing. The invitation, which was extended to the ladies, to be present and share in the inspiration provided by the guest speaker, Mr. Owen Herity, Secretary of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce, was very generously accepted, and proved a helpful means of maintaining the enthusiasm which is required for any successful venture of this nature. Mr. Sigano Wessman acted as chairman, while Mr. E. F. Metcalfe, in the absence of the Mayor, Mr. Leo Therrien, introduced Mr. Herity. At the conclusion of the address the audience was tendered Mr. Herity a vote of thanks by Dr. A. G. Cameron spoke briefly, reviewing the beneficial results of the work of the Chamber of Commerce in other towns with which he was familiar. Dr. Cameron suggested that success in the Deseronto venture was inevitable if the citizens were willing to pay the price, that price being a little time, effort and their town. The sacrifice of within motives and the complete suppression of one question : "What's in it for me?" Mr. J. B. Hough, speaking in support of the proposed organization, stressed the value of living for the future. He suggested that citizens put away their hammers and prepare to boost,—not forgetting that no one can ever take out of a town what has been put in. A scintillating item on the evening's programme was provided by that high priest of good humor, Mr. Charlie Dolan, of Belleville. Mr. Dolan went from one humorous story to another and kind Providence in supplying man alone of all the animal kingdom with the ability to laugh made Mr. Dolan considerately placed laughter first. Nothing that no man can laugh and worry at the same time. In a whirlpool of reminiscences of an earlier Deseronto, Mr. Dolan presented a most delectable melange of excursion boats, pock-marked board walks, five cent beers, the great days of the railway, culminating in a grand melee of a jack ass, a pig and a parish priest. His reminiscences provoked many remarks with his own inimitable readings of "Casey at the Bat" and "Curfew Must Not Ring Tonight." His closing selection, "Just Before the Battle, Mother," was most appropriately rendered and should make a lasting impression.

Armistice Day Service In the Armouries Sunday Afternoon

Annual Memorial Service to Commemorate Dead

Arrangements have been completed for holding the annual Remembrance Day Service on Sunday in the Armouries. The service will be conducted by the local clergy, who, along with the executive of the Legion, the officers of the Frontinac Regiment and representatives of the Town Council, have arranged the order of service.

The service will begin promptly at two o'clock p.m. The Boy Scouts, the Daughters of the Empire, the Town Council, Frontenac Regiment, the Legion and any other organizations desiring to take part will meet in the Armouries at 1:45 to have their positions alloted to them. Plans are being made to have a massed choir on the platform, to lead the singing. The music will be provided by the Frontenac Regimental Band. The Armouries will be warmed and seats will be provided. Special places for mothers and widows will be arranged.

At the conclusion of the service in the Armouries, a parade of the organizations and citizens will form and led by the band, will march to the Memorial Monument at the County Court Buildings. There the wreaths will be deposited and the Last Post sounded.

This service began in a very humble way, some years ago, when two of our returned men laid a wreath on the monument. It has grown until it is now the official memorial service held annually. Once a year the whole community, regardless of church affiliation or creed, meet in solemn remembrance of those who gave their lives in the Great War.

The committee in charge have been at great pains, this year, to arrange a service in which all may take part. They urge that every citizen attend. The service is in the Armouries and will begin at 2:00 o'clock sharp, and will conclude at the Monument, about three-thirty.

Plate Glass Window At Hogarth's Store Broken Sunday Eve.

On Sunday evening, about ten o'clock, when three young men were shuffling on Dundas Street, a large plate glass window in Hogarth's window was broken. The men were Glenn McKown, Gordon Wood, and "Mush" Robinson. McKeown, who went through the glass, was slightly cut in fore ear.

Mr. Hogarth was called from his home and made arrangements to cover the hole in the window, where the glass fell out.

"Beaver" Santa Claus Fund Dance On Wed., Nov. 28

Preparations are now well on the way for "The Beaver" Santa Claus Fund dance, the date of which, Wednesday, November 28th, was announced a few weeks ago.

Each year the dance is one of the biggest events of its kind, in the season. Great interest is displayed on the part of all citizens, who combine to make the dance a success. A feature of the affair is that there is absolutely no expense entailed. Every service is donated by interested people and all the proceeds are devoted to the work of the committee in charge of the expenditure of the money.

Last year, in all, $268.70 was expended by The Beaver Santa Claus Fund. Under the direction of Miss Josephine Lasany (who again has charge this year) and her committee, the Rotary Club, 92 Christmas dinners were distributed, and 282 Christmas stockings were given to children of the town.

The need this year is almost as great as last year.

Tickets for the dance will be on sale this week and the committee are expecting the usual generous response.

Former Magistrate Town of Deseronto Found Dead in Bed

On Sunday morning, former police magistrate George F. Palmer of Deseronto, was found dead in bed at his home. Mr. Palmer had returned to Deseronto, on Saturday, from Brockville, and had complained of feeling unwell to Mr. Sidney Hearns, a neighbor. Mr. Hearns called Dr. H. A. Boyce, who gave him medical attention and when Mr. Hearns left, Mr. Palmer seemed to be resting comfortably. In the morning, when Mr. Hearns went to the house again, he found Mr. Palmer had passed away, evidently some time early in the night.

Mr. Palmer was, for three years, Police Magistrate of Deseronto before the Hepburn Government came into power. Before that time he was circulation agent for the Kingston Whig-Standard for a number of years. Recently he had been employed by the Mail and Empire, on circulation work.

Mr. Palmer had been married three times. His present wife, whom he married a few months ago, was visiting her daughter in Rochester at the time of Mr. Palmer's death.

Harry Johnston's Home Completely Destroyed By Fire

On Thursday morning, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Johnston, near Dorland, was completely destroyed by fire. The contents of the main floor were saved but the furnishings of the second floor were nearly all burned.

Early in the morning, Mr. Johnston started a wood fire in the kitchen stove and went to the barn to do the chores. Mrs. Johnston prepared breakfast and when Mr. Johnston came back to the house, smoke was issuing from a partition back of the stove. When discovered, the fire had made considerable headway and could not be controlled.

The building was all frame and was quickly consumed.

Neighbours immediately came to assist and the furniture of the main floor was removed, but the contents of the bedrooms were lost. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

Canadian flour imported into Hong Kong during the first six months of 1934 showed a considerable increase over the figure recorded for the corresponding period of 1933.

GEROW, SR. POINTER CAIRNS BRENNAN WILSON R. CARD SIMMONS GEROW, M't

MEMBERS OF "A" TEAM

"TOMMY" POINTER, who pitched the most of the games this year, deserves the reputation he has in the east, of being the outstanding Canadian baseball pitcher. He has been with the "A's" for two seasons. He was previously with the Belleville Nationals for two or three seasons.

"UDY" BLAZETICH shares with Pointer, the honor of pitching the teams to success in the finals. His home is in Welland. He has been in Napanee for one season, and in 1933 was with St. Cyprians, last year's Ontario champions.

"HUGHIE" BRENNAN, the man behind the bat, was always on the job. He came, this year, from his home town Toronto, where in 1932 he was with the T. A. B. A. champs, St. George's, and in 1933 with the Riverdale Grads, who lost out to the Kingston Ponies.

On first base ROY WILSON turned in a great game with a lot of put-outs and assists to his credit.

"ERNIE" GIBBARD, as well as being playing-manager and a champion hunter, had on his mind the management of the team. Ernie made the hit which brought in the run that tied up the series with Southampton.

"MILT" DUNN, the third baseman, who came this year from Yarker team, did some fine work in his position and carried off the Laidley Cup for most runs of the season.

"RAN" CARD, short-stop, got his early training in softball at Kingston. In addition to his great service at bat, he was very effective in the field.

MORRIS KINKLEY, in left field, spoiled many a batter's hope for a home run, when his long arm reached out and picked off a ball headed for the fence.

In centre-field, "REG" DOREY, an import, this year, from Gananoque, almost always "got his man." When at bat he could be depended on for a hit and as a spare pitcher drew the admiration of the fans.

FRED BENTLEY was a most efficient right-fielder. Usually first man at bat, he had many a hit to his credit for the season.

The spares, "CHUCK" CAIRNS, GERALD SIMMON and JACK ANDREWS always showed up well in the pinches and deserve equal credit with the regular team members.

"WALT" GEROW, Jr., the "A" team mascot, kept close watch on the balls and bats at each game.

MEMBERS OF "B" TEAM

VERNON BISHOP, the youthful import from Toronto, this year, was formerly with the juveniles in his home city. He carried the "B's" to success with his sensational twirling and outstanding infield work.

"DARVE" CARD a native of Newburgh, as well as being spare pitcher, covered first base in a capable manner.

"DAVIE" STINSON, the "B's" catcher, is a Napanee boy, with a long experience in baseball. He and Bishop made a battery that was hard to beat.

"BOB" LUCAS (Sunoco)—stopped many a fast one slipping by, near second. At bat he turned in a splendid game.

RENE SWITZER, lanky third baseman, captured the admiration of the fans by the way he fielded all that came his way and by his smooth throwing to first.

Few balls got by "JAY" STEWART, whose years of ball in Napanee fit him well for the strategic position of short-stop.

"FRED" BENTLEY, another Napanee boy, noted, as well for his boxing prowess, took care of left field in a capable manner, throughout the season.

Centre-field was occupied by "HAP" GROSE, a new man this year, who came from Tweed. His fielding was excellent and his batting of a high order.

"BILL" SWEET, the diminutive right-fielder, made some sensational catches during the year. The most sensational of all was when he caught the rabbit in a flying tackle. When at bat he was the despair of the pitchers. How he can run!

"DOUG" FRASER, as subpitcher, "KEN" MURPHY, GERALD CURRY and HAROLD JOHNSTON, as subfielders, gave the team great strength when they were hard pressed.

MORLEY PERRY, the "B" team mascot, was on the job at all times chasing foul and lost balls.

GIBBARD AND GEROW — THE MEN BEHIND THE SCENES

Through the interest and generosity of "Ernie" Gibbard, Napanee has been supplied with the finest baseball park in Ontario. He manages both teams and plays on the "A" team.

"Walt" Gerow has been connected with baseball for many years. He managed Belleville Nationals from 1926 to 1929, and coached them to win six or seven O.B.B.A. championships, and the O.B.A.A. championship in 1928. He has coached Gibbard's teams for three years.

'A's' Success Achieved by Co-operation and Hard Work

Success in any organization depends, to a large extent, on "team play." Observance of this fundamental rule may well be said to be the basis for the final success of the Gibbard "A" team. Team play, together with co-operation and hard work, won the Ontario Intermediate "A" Championship for them.

Much of the credit for the achievement goes to the Coach, "Walt." Gerow, and the Manager, "Ernie" Gibbard, who gave the boys real leadership. But the boys, themselves, are keen sportsmen, ready to take direction and with an eye to the team's success rather than any personal glorification.

During the season of 1934, the "A's" played eight league games, and thirteen play-down games. The Bay of Quinte League started out with four teams, Picton, Brighton, Belleville and Napanee, but Belleville dropped out at the beginning, leaving three teams. Napanee played four games with Brighton and seven games with Picton and emerged the victors in the local league, with one game lost, and that to Picton—the second game in the first round of the play-offs.

In the play-downs they met, in order, Runnymede Grads, Copperclift Aylmer and Southampton. Of the twenty-one games played, eighteen were won by Gibbard's and three lost. They scored a total of 137 runs in the series and their opponents a total of 49 runs.

In addition to the scheduled and play-off games, the "A's" played twenty-seven exhibition games.

SWEET STEWART JOHNSTON LUCAS STINSON MURPHY H. CARD

Gibbard 'B' Team Won Harry B. Card County Trophy

In the members of the Gibbard "B" team, there is being rounded into shape material which, when needed, will be available for the "A" team. Here again, as in the "A" team great progress has been made in the past three seasons, in the quality of the play. The same management and coaching, in the hands of "Ernie" Gibbard and "Walt" Gerow, and the same loyalty and hard work, brought them to the foremost place in their class in the Province.

In the County League there were four teams, Hayburn, Enterprise, Forest Mills and Gibbard's. The "B's" won ten out of the twelve league games, being beaten twice by Enterprise.

In the play-downs they met Enterprise first and won two of the three games played. Then three games were played with Sydenham of which Gibbard's took two. West Lake, Deseronto and Huntsville were the next three teams to go down to defeat before the "B's", each being defeated in two straight. Courtright, the last of the play-down teams, administered a stinging defeat in the first game at Courtright, but the next two games, played at Napanee, went to Gibbard's, and gave them the title for the Province.

For the season, Gibbard "B's" played twenty-seven scheduled and play-down games. They scored 189 runs and their opponents scored eighty-five.

The "B's" played, in all, thirty-four games, including league games, playdowns and exhibitions.

Annual Rotary Frolic Brings Greater Results Than Previous Years

Net Proceeds $1560.00 Announced

The members of the Napanee Rotary Club were pleased with the interest shown by the citizens of the town and county in their annual frolic, held on Wednesday and Thursday last week. The financial results were greater than last year. All of the money raised by means of the frolic is used for the club's work with crippled children. The work is not confined to the town, but extends to the furthermost parts of the county.

On Wednesday, despite the heavy rain, which fell during the early part of the evening, the Armouries was well filled. A parade of the children in fancy costume, left the Town Hall about 6.30, headed by the Rotary Boys' Band, and proceeded to the Armouries. For a short time the band gave a programme, under the leadership of Rotarian Max Epplett, while the people were gathering.

Attractive Booths

The interior of the building presented an attractive appearance, with the various booths decorated in Hallowe'en colors. At the left of the entrance was the refreshment stand, in charge of Rotarian "Pete" Canniff, who was assisted by Roy Moore and Walter Thompson.

The chicken booth, under the direction of Geo. Switzer and Merle Sills, was well patronized both evenings. Frank Correll, "Tony" Holmes and "Doc" Hall had charge of the next booth, where the prizes were thermos bottles, thermos jugs and

Firemen Extinguish Blaze in old Henry Home in Clarksville

About eight o'clock on Friday morning, the firemen were called to a fire in the home of Nelson Woodcock in Clarksville, the house formerly known as the Henry home.

Jack Sharp, who lives next door, saw smoke issuing from the roof around the chimney at the rear of the main part of the house. When the firemen arrived they found fire working through different sections of the roof. It had, evidently, started from a defective chimney. By the use of chemicals and whatever water was available, the fire was confined to the roof and the upper storey.

All the furniture was removed. The loss was covered by insurance.

Another Plane Pilot American Airlines Averts Disaster

Newark, N.J. No. 4. — The expert hand of H. Little, veteran pilot, at the controls of a giant transport aeroplane, with landing gear disabled, today averted a crash that might have brought injury and possibly death to ten persons.

The craft of the United Airlines took off from the airport at 12 noon bound for Chicago. When it reached an altitude of 1,000 feet, Little pulled the lever operating the landing gear, but found the mechanism was faulty leaving the ship's wheels only half-way up from their landing position. Then began an hour of intense excitement. Little circling over the field and trying to dislodge the locked gear. He was unable to do so, and, in wireless conversation with his company, decided to attempt a landing. Ambulances and fire trucks were summoned and the exact spot of the landing was arranged.

Little swooped down at the appointed time and cut off his motors the moment the ship touched the ground. The ambulances, fire trucks, and police cars raced alongside the plane for a distance of 300 feet, where the plane halted without damage.

The passengers were grinning when they alighted. They slapped Little on the back and praised him highly for his feat.

At the conclusion, Mrs. Corkill and Miss Light, conveyed the appreciation of those present to the speaker for her enjoyable address.

The meeting closed in the usual manner.

Fish Poachers Busy At Gov't Nets In Bay

Three men alleged to be poachers were interrupted in the act of taking fish from the Government pound net off Point Anne in the Bay of Quinte, Wednesday night, by G. K. Manore, superintendent at the local fish hatchery, and by McLeod, fish hatchery supervisor from head office in Toronto. When they were approached from the main land, west of Point Anne, two of the men in a boat pushed ashore, while a third standing guard, beat a hasty retreat, one being caught and held for questioning. The matter was reported to the Provincial Police, early Thursday, and charges will likely be laid.

When interrupted, the men had already made a visit to the government pound net, east of the city limits, and cached, it is believed, 425 pounds of white fish along the north shore. These fish were neatly hauled by the guard left behind, while the other two men returned presumably for a second load.

Nat. Cheese Week Nov. 10th to 17th

National Cheese Week in Canada, is to be held from November 10th to 17th inclusive, is being promoted by the cheese industry of the Dominion, in order to try and enlighten Canadians on the advantages of this dairy commodity as a food product worthy of more general use.

The per capita consumption of cheese in Canada is less than four pounds per year, compared with over nine pounds in the British Isles, four and one-quarter pounds in the United States, ten pounds in France and sixteen pounds in Switzerland, and yet Canadian Cheddar cheese is not equalled for quality by the cheese of any country in the world.

TAX COLLECTION

A week ago, a press dispatch originating in Simcoe, appeared in the Toronto daily papers. This dispatch had to do with the amount of uncollected taxes on the books of the Town Treasurer, and is as follows: "The distinction of leading Canada in tax collecting is claimed by Simcoe, County Town of Norfolk, where the tax arrears are only 82 cents per capita."

Several centres have recently laid claim to the honor. Truro, N. S., started the competition by announcing its unpaid taxes were only 4.75 per head; Preston, Ont., went one better by claiming arrears of 3.17.

Following these came a blast from nearby Tillsonburg, which claimed leadership over all with 1.46 per capita. Now Simcoe rises to challenge them all. The Town indulges in a boast of its "well-managed municipal financing."

This set us thinking. Perhaps Napanee might be able to enter the competition and put them all to shame. But alas! We discovered that the amount of unpaid taxes in the Town of Napanee, amount to $42,000. Assuming that the population is 3,000, we have a per-capita tax arrears of approximately $14, as against Simcoe's .85 cents. There are about four hundred names on the list of tax arrears. It comprises all classes in the community, professional men, business men, men in the public employ, churches, lodges, and men in administrative position. It is a diversified list of those who have been unable to pay their taxes, shows the difficulty of the times through which we are passing. And yet, it would appear to be the part of wisdom, as well as good business, to kindly but firmly undertake some method of reducing this large amount of arrears, if the credit of the Town is to remain unimpaired. Of course, much of this will come in through the year. But we all know how difficult it is to meet accounts long overdue. Those in arrears should be urged and encouraged to pay something systematically and regularly, be it ever so small an amount. This would add materially to their peace of mind and, as well, relieve the Town Council of a very difficult and delicate position.

Not only was Brillat-Savarin an inventor of the first order in the field of gastronomy, and a sedulous student of the inventions of other men; he was a philosopher who surveyed his art from a distance and made it the subject of a thousand aphorisms. Here are a few of his mots:

Animals feed, man eats; wise men alone know how to dine.

The destiny of nations depends on the manner in which they take their food.

Tell me what thou eatest and I will tell thee what thou art.

The Creator, though condemning man to eat to live, invites him to do so by appetite, and rewards him by enjoyment.

The discovery of a new dish is more beneficial to mankind than the discovery of a new star.

New Books Received At The Local Library

A CONQUEST OF TIBET, by Sven Hedin — Entering that strange and forbidden country of Tibet, the world - renowned Swedish explorer Sven Hedin and his scientific companions, were opposed at every turn by the militant disciples of Buddha, set upon by Mongolian bands of robbers, and had to resort to disguises in order to enter Lhasa, the Buddhist Holy City. These perilous ventures and exciting experiences form the rich nucleus of Hedin's thrilling new book.

WAYNE OF THE FLYING W, by Arthur Henry Gooden. — The characterization in this Western thriller is particularly good, and the story is an excellent one of its kind.

JOAN OF GLENGARLAND, by Mary Lean. — Every girl will love Joan, the happy, high-spirited and unselfish Guide, who had such a splendid influence over her adventurous-minded friends. This book was written in response to repeated pleas for such a tale from many Canadian Girl Guides; its charm is such that undoubtedly these same Guides will, after reading it, clamour for more.

ALBERT, THE BRAVE KING OF THE BELGIANS. — This biography originally appeared under the title Albert, King of the Belgians and has now been revised and brought up-to-date at the recent tragic calamity.

THE SCORING PLAY, by Ralph Henry Barbour. Mr. Barbour's rousing story, containing an element of mystery and something new in the way of football plays, shows what happens when a dignified old prep school goes in for football publicity.

PLAY TO THE WHISTLE, by Michael Pools. — This story in its early chapters centres in a feud between the captain of football at Medchester School—a bully, though not brilliant—and the goal-keeper—a brilliant player on occasion, but essentially unreliable. The efforts of Duff to weld his team into a harmonious whole are for a time thwarted by the other faction; but in the end the good football doctrine of playing to the whistle prevails.

DRAKE'S HORD, by Merrill P. Allen. — This swashbuckling historical tale, set in the middle of the 17th century, deals with a period when Henry Morgan was engaged in his famous buccaneering activities in the West Indies and Panama. Covertly aided by England, this resourceful fighter was no saint. But if he took his loot, he had a genuine hatred for the Spaniards and handsomely served his country's interests by keeping them out of North America, where England's colonies held them in dread.

THE BOY SCOUT'S YEAR BOOK — This volume of the widely popular "Boy Scouts Year Book" should constitute an especial treat, for it is exclusively devoted to tales of bravery, and excitement is the keynote from beginning to end.

BACKFIELD COMET, by William Heyliger. — "Backfield Comet" is the story of a star in high school football. When he goes to college he receives some bad advice and, as the "flaming comet" he is overadvertised and over-publicized.

THE WHITE PHANTOM, by John Hunter. — How that arch-crook Malicott worked the bullion robbery and pirated White Phantom, and the amazing events that followed, provide a thrilling and fast-moving tale, specially written for boys by the author of When the Gunman Came and other successful novels.

IRELAND DOPE OR HEROINE, by The Earl of Middleton, K. P. — The student of Irish affairs will naturally find much that is new, for their inner history has not been written before. Lord Middleton does not mince matters; perhaps never before has an Irishman written so frankly about his own people, and the relations of Ireland with America.

BIGGLES OF THE CAMEL SQUADRON, by W. E. Johns. — More flying adventures from the log of Captain James Bigglesworth—popularly known in the 266 Squadron, R.F.C. as "Biggles." "Biggles" is, without doubt, the most popular character of aviation fiction. A most wonderful book of flying thrills.

ARMISTICE DAY

On Sunday we shall observe the signing of the armistice which, on November 11th, 1918, brought to a close the most colossal war in all history. This is no time for heroics, but for clear thinking and a serious facing of the facts with respect to the present situation throughout the world. When the war ended, the Nations were weary of all the slaughter of mechanized brutality which had blighted the peoples of the earth for four long years. For several years following the armistice, high hopes were entertained that sanity would prevail among the Nations, and that international understanding would supercede the former jealousies and economic rivalries which precipitated the holocaust in 1914. Machinery was set up to effect this understanding. The League of Nations, The Locarno Pact, The Pact of Paris, The Court of International Justice—these all designed to facilitate the settlement of international disputes by conference, rather than the resort to arms.

But this fine enthusiasm for peace has gradually waned. A new generation has arisen which knows nothing of those terrible years. The glories of war, the glitter of the uniform and all the trappings of pageantry, are making their appeal to the youth of our land. Along with this has come a revival of all those bitternesses, national hatreds, and national arrogances which preceded the outbreak in 1914. The withdrawal of Germany and Japan from the League of Nations, the apparent helplessness of the League to settle major issues; the setting up in Europe of totally new types of government; the failure of the Disarmament Conference; the demand of Japan for naval parity — all these have set the peace movement back a long distance. Accompanying this is a notable revival of the old spirit of rivalry and competition in armament. The world today, is spending more on armaments in preparation for war than was being spent in 1913, the year of greatest preparation for the last war. The Foreign Policy Association is authority for the statement that France is spending twenty-five per cent more than in 1913, Britain forty-eight per cent, Italy twenty-six per cent, Japan three hundred and eighty-eight per cent and the United States one hundred and ninety per cent. Germany alone shows a decrease of twenty-three per cent. In addition to that, there has been, particularly in Europe, an increasing number of men living under military control. In Italy every male, from eight years old to thirty-three, must take military training.

Yet there are a few rays of light, even in this dark picture. While the official representatives in governments are thus being swept off their feet in this wave of war preparation, still there are ever increasing body of non-official and influential groups who are opposing this movement, outright. Church councils, labor organizations, study classes of many kinds, are placing themselves on record as opposed to this suicidal programme of the nations.

On the lowest basis possible, that of self-preservation, it seems incredible that the leaders of the nations would ever go the length of plunging the world in war. Another war, with all the advance which has been made in chemicals and in mechanics, will undoubtedly wreck our whole civilization.

The creation of a peace sentiment, strong enough to prevent war, is not, by any means, an easy matter, which is all the more reason why men and organizations should never let up in their efforts.

This Armistice Day, more than any other since 1918, should be a day set apart, not for military display, not for the glorifying of war, but for sober and serious thinking of the present situation. Every speaker and writer should take this opportunity, not to indulge in heroics but to issue a clarion call to all lovers of peace to redouble their efforts to prevent another war.

"Tube" Trench to Prevent Suicides

London.—Many a platform of the London "tube" station is just now being surrounded with long piles of loose rubble, making it look not unlike the bigger dugouts of the Western Front in the war.

These piles of rubble are excavated from underneath the rail track, the clearances being made in the dead of night, during the few hours when the "tube" is free from passing trains.

The railway authorities have resolved to make a trench below each stretch of track alongside every platform. The reason for this is a sinister one. The number of people who take their lives by throwing themselves in front of a "tube" train as it enters a station has steadily increased. Coroners have commented upon the fascination which the "tube" seems to hold for the intending suicide.

It is unlikely that the new trench under the track will do much in saving a would-be suicide's life, but it will make it more easy for his body to be recovered, and will thus obviate a prolonged delay in re-starting the train service.

We can't take anything for granted. Less tricks are prearranged and planted.

GERMANY'S HARDSHIPS

In his speech at the opening of the Winter Help campaign, Herr Hitler came to closer grips than usual with realities. In view of the economic situation developing in Germany, he had little choice in the matter, but the language he found it necessary to use, must arouse even in the most subservient German breast some question as to whether the Nazi regime has conferred on the country nothing but undiluted blessings. The aim of the Government, of course, is to attribute Germany's hardships to foreign malignity, in particular to what is called "the devilish international boycott Plague." But there is no boycott of Germany till Hitlerism appeared and Jew-baiting became, and the Führer has no one but himself and his Nazi colleagues to thank if sympathies which might in other circumstances be taken practical form, remain completely alienated today. — The Spectator, London.

ARCHBISHOP STRINGER

The Indians and Eskimos of Canada's far northland, have lost a true friend through the death of Archbishop Stringer of Rupert's Land. For thirty-eight years, this faithful servant of Christ laboured in and near the Arctic wilds, teaching, nursing, and helping the scattered inhabitants. His diocese extended over 1,000,000 square miles. His untiring and devoted wife was his constant helper for over thirty years, and the work they did for the natives is, in itself, a true saga of the Arctic. It was his own choice and he left it with the deepest regret. He set an example of devotion and self-sacrifice that will be hard to equal and impossible to excel. Such men bring Christianity a living force in a materialistic world — Montreal Daily Star.

THE MOVIES IN AUSTRALIA

The real offence of the films is not that their vulgarities and indecencies corrupt those who frequent talkies, but that they outrage the susceptibilities of people who know little or nothing of the talkies but who are compelled on their visits to the form, of salacious advertisements and publicity stuff. Owing to these abuses, a formidable body of hostile opinion has been mobilised, not only in the U. S. A., but in other countries, including Australia; and if the controllers of the business cannot somehow bring about something disastrous is certainly going to happen to them.—Sydney Bulletin.

ACCIDENTS AND COMPENSATION

There were 5,236 accidents reported to The Workmen's Compensation Board during the month of October, as compared with 4,685 during September, and 3,558 during October, a year ago.

This brings the total number of accidents reported to date, this year, to 39,387, as against 38,101 and 30,807 for the same period, last year.

The fatal cases reported during October numbered 33, as against 18 in September.

Compensation benefits awarded amounted to $422,820.58, of which $345,396.06 was for compensation and $77,424.53 for medical aid, which brings the benefits awarded during 1934 to date to $3,669,826.62, as compared with $2,887,643.05 for the corresponding period of 1933.

THE LIFT AT THE PAGODA

The blessings of electricity make their way into almost every place. Recently we read that an electric lift was being installed in the Vatican. Now comes a report that a similar convenience is to be built inside the Shwe Dagon Pagoda at Rangoon, the most ancient and sacred shrine in Burma. Many chuzzes have taken place since the Shwe Dagon Pagoda (writes a sailor) since I first saw it in 1912. Then Chinese lanterns decorated the golden spire and the temple grounds. In 1912 also a European tourist made a report that a similar convenience is to be built inside the Shwe Dagon Pagoda at Rangoon, the most ancient and sacred shrine in Burma. Many chuzzes have taken place since the Shwe Dagon Pagoda (writes a sailor) since I first saw it in 1912. Then Chinese lanterns decorated the golden spire and the temple grounds. In 1912 also a European tourist made a report that a similar convenience is to be built inside the precincts of the pagoda without removing his boots. In 1928, when I next entered a station hall steadily followed to enter the grounds without removing their footwear, and electric lights were fixed to the trees and allowed to enter the grounds without removing their footwear, and electric lights were fixed to the trees and shadows through the grounds, and therefore few of them say the bejewelled Buddha. Enterprising Burmese found a way of making money out of the new rules. At each of the gates men waited to wash and dry your feet as you left. As the walls were not too clean, tourists found this a comfort. The electric lift will probably mean a further charge to ascend the temple.

REVIEWING OTTAWA

There will certainly be no lack of subjects for the Premier's preliminary conversations which must prepare the ground for the next Imperial Conference, due to be held in 1935. The King celebrates next year the silver anniversary of his accession to the Throne. There will be a great gathering of Dominion statesmen in London to take part in the rejoicings, and the opportunity, no doubt, will be taken to discuss, informally, the new pact and review the questions which have arisen since the conclusion of the Ottawa agreements. Experience has proved that these agreements have been of great benefit and have increased the trade both ways between Great Britain and the Dominions at a time when international trade in a whole has been stagnant or even declining. Recently, it has also exposed defects and omissions and has revealed differences of interpretation which call for adjustment at the next Conference. Perhaps what has been demonstrated most clearly is the necessity for machinery to ensure more frequent, if possible continuous contact between the Governments of the Empire, enabling them to discuss each point of difference as it arises and to adjust their policies to constantly changing circumstances. — London Times.

STEVENS' RESIGNATION

The departure from the Cabinet of the Minister of Commerce is the latest link in a long friendship between Mr. Bennett and him whom he considered the most brilliant of his colleagues. Mr. Stevens, in turn, has had a difficult problem to solve he would be heard to say, "Do and get Harry Stevens." It will have its echo in the next session of Parliament. We will know more of it then. There may be more than insubordination in it. Mr. Stevens, active, intelligent, tenacious, energetic, was a force in the Bennett Cabinet, and it is understood that in Ottawa they consider his resignation a calamity. —L'Evenement, Quebec.

CHINA WANTS STARCH MADE FROM POTATOES

There is an increasing demand in Shanghai, China, for potato starch for industrial purposes, chiefly in the textile industry, and it would appear there is an opening for the Canadian product in this market, particularly from the Maritimes and the Western Provinces. Indications point to a permanent growing market in the event for potato starch, due to the migration of the textile industry to the Far East.

Two rival editors fought bitterly for years. One died and the other sought to make amends in the obituary. But unfortunately the item became mixed up with the report of a fire and it read: "When the beautiful casket was lowered to the last resting place, lurid flames shot upward."

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, NOVEMBER 11TH, 1934

"THE CHRISTIAN CITIZEN"

GALATIANS 5: VERSES 13 - 26

Paul's experience following his conversion, was the basis of his whole theology. In other words, the whole of Paul's teaching subsequent to his conversion was an attempt to explain what happened to him on the Damascus Road. One of the first of these experiences which he set himself to explain, was the exhilarating feeling of a fourfold freedom. He realizes, after his conversion, how completely he had been bound by the law and what a restricting influence it had on his life. The religion of Jesus had freed him from all that and from the compulsion imposed on him from some external authority.

Paul was well aware of the objections which were taken to his gospel of freedom, which he, at once, began to preach. It was argued that Paul's religion of freedom sapped morality and allowed a man to act as he pleased. In the passage chosen for today's lesson, he shows that this is not the meaning, at all. And he warns against so understanding it. Men are not to use their freedom as an excuse for gratifying their lower nature. Christian freedom implies the love and genuine service (verse 1.) He then quotes Jesus' interpretation of the summing of the law: "Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself."

In the heart of Christian people, as Paul points out, love as an active note, must direct and control all conduct. Service which is the outward expression of this motive in relation to others, is the dominant attitude of a Christian, in his fellowmen.

True freedom is not licenced. During the past few years we have forgotten that to some extent, as we have been so altogether too strongly accentuated emphasis on one side of freedom. During the recent struggle between the forces of temperance and the liquor interests, there have grown up numerous liberty leagues, the chief part or motive of designed apparently to secure the right of the individual to do as he pleases. This is, of course, quite an untenable position. The right of one person stands where those of another begin. The liberty to do as one likes even with what he may consider his own, is no longer possible in a world which takes taxes of all sorts from the living and the dead, and compulsorily even life itself in a time of emergency or national danger.

This emphasis on liberty was, as well, evident in the national as in the social realms. When Wilson issued his famous fourteen points, a wave of nationalism swept over the world. Even the smallest and most out-of-the-way places agitated for the right to determine, without reference to any other nation, its own destiny. This has given rise to a frenzied nationalism which is the main cause for the disunity we have sought to make amends in the obituary. But unfortunately the item became mixed up with the report of a fire and it read: "When the beautiful casket was lowered to the last resting place, lurid flames shot upward."

This freedom means the voluntary giving up of personal or national freedom for the sake of the higher good. We have restricted liberty in the family, where the individual soon discovers that he has to submit his own freedom for the sake of the happiness and harmony in the family. It is the same in the world, where we give up our freedom and hand it to the police and the magistrate for the sake of law and order and the well-being of all. We have not, however, to learn it in the world of international relationships. Not until we have learned that world happiness can be achieved by voluntarily giving up of our freedom for the sake of the good of the whole world, can we ever hope to end the suspicions and the fears, and the distrust which marks our present life.

Paul then goes on to indicate that the essential factor in life is that of the spirit. This was good teaching in Paul's day. It is good teaching still. Following the war, there was a very pronounced anti-war feeling abroad in the world. It read occasion there followed the establishment of the League of Nations, the Court of International Justice, the Locarno Pact, and Kellogg-Briand Pact—all of these were designed to ensure the peace of the world. But, during the past three years, there has been a reaction. The withdrawal of Germany and Japan from the League, the failure of the Disarmament Conference, the withdrawal of Japan for naval parity, the prospect of failure for the impending Naval Conference—all these have made it quite apparent that the peace of the world will not be won by peace machinery alone.

The essential factor is the peace spirit in the hearts and souls of the love of people quite apart from racial differences and a determination to serve all those who, in any way, need our help.

CUBA DOES NOT GROW ANY WHEAT

Cuba does not grow any wheat nor does it make flour, with the result that wheat flour has to be imported. Seventy per cent. of the imports of flour are made from Canadian wheat. Cuban methods of baking require a touch which retains its elasticity during a long period of fermentation, which, it was necessitates the use of flour that has a high content of fine cereal gluten; and the Canadian wheat satisfies all requirements in this respect. During the first six months of 1934 imports of wheat flour into Cuba amounted to 624,007 bags of 196 pounds each, which exceeds imports for the same period for the last two years. In consequence, there is a decided increase in Canadian flour imports into Cuba.

Although the mineral content of honey is very small, it is worth noting, says the Dominion Apiarist, that such elements as lime and iron, necessary to the well-being of the human body, are present.

It is this quick, sure relief that makes BUCKLEY'S MIXTURE the largest selling cough and cold remedy in Canada. If you have a cough, cold, 'flu or bronchitis, take Buckley's.

Mr. Justice Hope presided at the session of the Fall Assize in Napanee on Monday and Tuesday, this week. There were no criminal cases and the jury were informed not to attend. There were three civil cases.

Still vs. Loft. — An action brought by Claude M. Hill, against Louis Alexander Loft (both parties residing in Mohawk Indian Reserve in Tyendinaga) for a declaration that the plaintiff is the lawful owner of certain lands on said Indian reserve, and is entitled to possession of same. Also an injunction restraining the defendant upon entering said lands. The plaintiff claimed $1500 damages against defendant.

The judgment of the judge in this case was that Hill is to have possession of the property in the question and is awarded $300 damages.

Barnhart vs Barnhart — An action brought by Susanah Barnhart against David H. Barnhart, for the sum of $1,054.00, money loaned by the plaintiff to the defendant.

The case was dismissed.

Lloyd vs Ohlman. — An action brought by Hannah Elizabeth Lloyd who sued for the benefit of herself and all of the children of Edward Lloyd, deceased, against Ohlman. The plaintiff claimed $10,000 damages for the death of Edward Lloyd, and also claimed the defendant was driving his truck upon the highway and drove the same in such a negligent manner that said truck struck and killed Edward Lloyd. The alleged accident occurred on May 14th, 1934.

The judgment in the Ohlman case was for $1,800 damages and costs to be paid by Ohlman to Mrs. Lloyd. The jury said, from the evidence, Ohlman was on the wrong side of the road when he struck Lloyd and there was neglect on the part of the defendant, Ohlman.

other useful articles. The dart game was supervised by "Duff" Dafoe, who had with him Geo. Vankoughnet, Doug. Graham, and others, during the two evenings.

Kingston Kiwanis Help

At the west end of the building the prizes for the grand drawings were displayed. The tickets for these articles were in charge of "Bill" Wiggins, who reports a better sale than the previous year. Members of the Kiwanis Club, of Kingston, showed their interest by taking charge of a booth, from which all the proceeds were turned over to the Napanee Rotary Club.

Mark Graham, Jack Simpson and Harry Card looked after the booth where tickets on the grand prizes were given as prizes. The blanket and sweater section was manned by "Mack" Mackenzie, "Puss" Laidley and "Charley" Walters. The chocolate booth, a new venture this year was very popular. It was in charge of "Vic" Zender, "Toad" Pollard and "Jamie" Jamieson. Bingo, as usual, attracted a large crowd all through the evenings. Harry Boyle was assisted by Harry Scott, Byrne Black and several other non-Rotarians. In the centre of the floor, the ring toss game, which was well patronized, was looked after by Geo. Tustin, the President of Rotary, and Doug. Mayhew, who were also assisted by Ryerson Humphries.

Drawings For Prizes

On Wednesday evening two prizes were given on lucky numbers drawn from the tickets sold on the grand prizes. The prize of $25.00 went to J. B. Allison of Napanee, holding ticket No. 3475. On the first draw the ticket number was 6853, held by Percival York, Napanee, who was not present to claim his prize, so Mr. Allison, who was present, was the lucky man.

Three drawings were made for the second prize of $15.00. First ticket, No. 2343, Mrs. M. L. Perry, Napanee; second, 5162, Miss Ethel Hawley, Napanee; third, 3012, Mr. Archie Denison, Napanee. As the first two were not present, the prize was awarded to Mr. Denison, who was in attendance.

On Thursday evening, at 11 o'clock, the drawing for the grand prizes took place.

The first prize, $100.00 in cash, went to Mrs. Wm. Owen, Napanee, holding ticket No. 5676.

Former Resident Newburgh District Honored in West

Mr. J. S. Miller, of Manitou, a member of the Masonic Order for the past sixty-five years and a past master of Ontario for fifty-one years, was the recipient of a long-service medal, the gift of the Grand Lodge of Canada in Ontario, in recognition of his valuable services to the craft. The presentation was made by Arthur Cameron, of Roland, district deputy grand master, at a special meeting held at Manitou, October 17th. Visiting members from Roland, Pilot Mound and Souris were present at the ceremony.

Mr. Miller, who was born September, 1844, joined Prince of Wales Lodge, Newburgh, December 15th, 1869 and has been past master of Ontario for 51 years. He was instrumental in forming the Victoria Masonic Lodge at Centreville and Tamworth Lodge, and was first master of both lodges. In his early days, Mr. Miller was a member of the Ontario legislature and held a commission in the Canadian Militia for many years. He came to Manitou in 1884 and has always taken a prominent part in community, provincial and national affairs. For many years he was reeve of the Municipality of Pembina.

Despite his advanced years, Mr. Miller responded to the presentation in a clear, firm, able manner, thanking the donors for the valuable gift and expressing appreciation of the honor conferred on him.

Resident of California Felicitates H. Purcell On Birthday

Mr. Henry Purcell, of Colebrook, who recently celebrated his 80th birthday, has just received a letter of congratulation from Mr. Earl P. VanLuven of Colton, California.

Mr. VanLuven was reminded of the birthday of Mr. Purcell by the article which appeared in "The Beaver" a few weeks ago.

We reproduce Mr. VanLuven's letter below:—

Colton, California,
October 23rd, 1934.

Mr. Henry Purcell,
Colebrook, Ontario.

My Dear old Friend:

Pardon me for calling you old. Press accounts I read in The Beaver say you are not old, in spirit or activities.

I congratulate you on your ninety-fifth birthday anniversary and hope that succeeding birthdays will find you in good health and happiness.

I carry many very pleasant recollections of my friendship and associations with you and others in Ontario, in the years gone by. I was pleased to read an account of the celebration of the 65th wedding anniversary of our good friends, Mr. and Mrs. Milo Huffman. Many of our old friends have passed on.

I am thankful for the good health that I enjoy when nearing my 74th birthday.

With best regards and all good wishes, I remain,

Yours very truly,
EARL G. VANLUVEN

Belleville Relief On Same System As Last Year

As a result of a lengthy interview held with the Hon. Mr. David Croll, Minister of Public Welfare for Ontario, in his office at Queen's Park, Toronto, last week, by Mayor Geo. O. Tice, Alderman W. A. Woodley, chairman of Finance, H. B. Stock, city treasurer, and Warren Soules, city relief clerk, this city will not adopt the new relief regulations as specified by the Ontario Government for municipalities throughout Ontario, but will revert to the same system of relief as carried on locally last winter, namely work for all relief.

"By carrying on as we did last winter, we're able to save the city at least $2,500 in administration costs during the winter," stated Mayor Tice. We received everything we asked for from the Minister of Welfare.

Potato Growers Formulate Plan

Ottawa—Meetings of potato growers in the five Eastern provinces for discussion of the potato marketing scheme now before the Dominion Marketing Board, are now being organized and an effort is being made to obtain a speedy expression of opinion from the producers in view of the low prices and congested condition now prevailing in the potato markets.

The scheme was drawn up at a conference of potato growers and dealers, in Toronto, recently during which several meetings with the Marketing Board took place. The board has had the scheme printed and is now distributing it to interested parties.

Compulsory Inspection

The plan provides for the extension of compulsory inspection of potatoes to Ontario and Quebec and the elimination of the lower grade tubers from the markets. Compulsory inspection has been in effect in the Maritime Provinces for some years.

A bumper potato crop this year and an almost total lack of export markets has created a surplus which is depressing prices below the cost of production.

Potato growers are facing a difficult situation and it is thought that by regulation of the marketing and ruling inferior products off the markets, a better return can be secured for them, while at the same time assuring the consumer a better grade of potatoes.

Partridge Hunters Have Six Open Days

November 12 to 17 General Dates With Some Areas Excluded

Hunters have only a few days left for pheasants. There remain only the two days on Pelee Island, November 2nd and 3rd.

The shoot which came to a climax last Saturday in the Counties of Bruce, Grey and Simcoe, and on Pelee Island, was far from successful in the three aforementioned counties due to the fact that hunters visiting these counties found the lands practically all "posted" and residents only enjoying the Thanksgiving Holiday.

On Pelee Island it was estimated that almost one thousand hunters had excellent shooting, nearly all returning with their full quota of four birds. The hunters paid over $2,000 into the Island Treasury for the privilege.

Per partridge hunters there are six days coming. In the part of the Province lying between Lake Nipissing and the French River to the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway and on St. Joseph's Island, the dates are from November 12th to 17th, both days inclusive.

In the part of Ontario lying south of the French and Mattawa Rivers, excepting the Counties of Bruce, Grey, Simcoe and York, and the areas lying south and west thereof, and the Counties of Leeds, Grenville, Dundas, Stormont, Glengarry and Carleton; from November 12 to 17, both days inclusive.

Body of J. McNamara Missing For One Week Found in Bay of Quinte

The body of John McNamara of Loudale was found Saturday afternoon in the Bay of Quinte, near the Napanee River, where it had been missing since Saturday morning, October 27th.

A search of a week was brought to a close when John Tompkins and Mark Cole saw the body when it was brought to the surface by the churning propellers of the "Salvage Prince". After being first seen, the body sank to the bottom of the Bay. An inquest will be held on Wednesday, November 7th, by Arthur Kendall is the foreman of the jury which was empanelled on Saturday.

Mr. McNamara, in company with family, spent the evening of Saturday with wife and other members of the family, October 27th, in Deseronto. At about 11:30 p.m., when the family was ready to leave for home, Mr. McNamara was missing. Search was carried on by the police and friends during the week.

He came to the platform in his native Galilean costume, with picturesque head dress and colorful cloak. His address contained references to his life as a shepherd boy on the hills of Galilee and a brief talk on the history of his race. His family since the time of Christ, have been Christians. While of semitic origin they are not of Jewish faith. Mr. Haboush's exposition of the twenty-third Psalm gave his audience a new understanding of the familiar shepherd's psalm.

On Monday evening, Trinity United Church was filled to capacity to hear Mr. Haboush's musical travelogue, "The Seven Wonders of Jerusalem and Galilee." Both Mr. Haboush and Madame Hoboush appeared in the native Galilean costumes. Madame Haboush spoke briefly to the audience.

The pictures shown to illustrate the lecture were partly in motion and partly in beautifully colored slides. Accompanying them were lovely synchronized musical selections from the world's best music which added greatly to the interest of the evening. Mr. Haboush gave a descriptive talk which supplemented the screen descriptions of the pictures.

Mr. Haboush was brought to Napanee under the auspices of the three United churches. The mission circles of the local churches shared in the proceeds of the Monday evening entertainment.

Arch. Turnbull's Truck Loaded With Furniture Burns on Road

On Wednesday, while transporting a load of furniture to Tweed, for Mr. Jaynes, a new G. M. C. truck owned by Archie T. Turnbull, of Napanee, was completely destroyed by fire, together with its load.

The fire occurred on the road near Roblin. It is thought that unextinguished embers left in a stove on the load had been fanned into a blaze by the wind and caught on the other goods. When discovered, the furniture, covered by a tarpaulin was a mass of flame and nothing could be done to extinguish the fire.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Jackson :—

We, your relatives and friends have gathered here tonight for a happy purpose, to celebrate with you your thirtieth wedding anniversary. We know we are a few weeks late as you were married early in the month, but "better late than never." Most of us gathered here have known you all our lives and have found you to be the best of neighbors, always willing to give a helping hand when called upon and kind and sympathetic and helpful in times of sorrow. While you have always given careful attention to the necessary work of farm and home, you have found time to interest yourselves in matters that have for their object the betterment and uplift of the community, and to give your time and talents, especially musical, in any good cause.

To-night we join you in the joy that is yours, as you look back over thirty years of happy wedded life. We congratulate you on reaching this special anniversary and hope you may be spared to celebrate your golden and diamond wedding days.

Now, as a token of our friendship, love and esteem, we ask you to accept these gifts—this casserole and this electric plate. May you enjoy them through the future years of health, happiness and prosperity, and as you use them, may they bring to you happy recollections of this your thirtieth wedding anniversary.

After a suitable reply was made by Mr. Jackson, a dainty lunch of cake, sandwiches and coffee was served by the ladies. Following this the gathering sang "God be with You till We Meet Again," and the guests dispersed to their various homes, wishing Mr. and Mrs. Jackson many happy years of wedded life.

Synopses of Addresses Given at Reception For Baseball Teams

Attended by Members O.B.A.A. Executive

Several hundred citizens of Napanee and the district attended the civic reception in honor of the Gibbard "A" and "B" baseball teams, champions of Ontario, at the Armouries on Tuesday evening, November 6th.

Preceding the public reception the Mayor and Council were hosts to the visiting members of the O. B. A. A. Executive at a dinner in the Hotel Paisley. Among the guests were W. A. Smith, President O.B.A.A.; W. J. Smith, Founder and life member O.B. A.A.; W. J. Snyder, Secretary O.B.A.A.; R. A. Elliott, Past President O.B. A.A.; Bert Smith, President T.A.B.A.; Max Swanson, of Peterboro, member of the C. O. B. I. Executive; Scott, O.B.A.A. Executive member, of Kitchener; Bill Kay, O.B.A.A. Executive, of Peterboro', and Mr. Perdue, sports writer for The Peterboro Examiner.

Mayor Tustin Chairman

Mayor Tustin presided at the gathering as chairman. In his address of welcome to the visitors he spoke of the honor it was to entertain so many members of the O.B.A.A. Executive and other baseball notables. He offered his own and the town's congratulations to the winning teams. "To-day," he said, "more emphasis is laid on skill in sports than in former days." In ancient days great importance was attached to the physical prowess of the players, but to-day it is the higher estimate of sport.

Mr. Bert Smith, President of the Toronto Amateur Baseball Association, replied to the Mayor on behalf of the guests. He thanked the town for its hospitality and expressed his pleasure at being able to attend the event. This year, he said, Toronto had the honor of winning the baseball and juvenile championships for Ontario. He thought that Toronto did a service to outside towns by training young boys, who very often go to the towns and become members of older teams. In this connection he mentioned Hughie Brennen, Ody Bisnette and Vernon Bishop, who formerly played with Toronto teams.

Mr. Elliott, the Past President of the O.B.A.A., before presenting the O.B.A.A. cup to the Intermediate "A" team, spoke of the aims of the O.B. A.A. These, he stated were three fold: (1) To encourage amateur sports; (2) To protect the members; (3) To arrange competitions to arrive at the winning team for the province. In all its dealings the O.B. A. tries to be fair and to think in terms of the whole province.

Aged Napanee Man Died in Hospital Following Accident

On Saturday evening, November 10, a truck driven by Thomas Kearns of Centreville, struck a man walking on the road near Westbrook, on No. 2 Highway. Mr. Kearns, in company with his wife and child, was travelling toward Napanee during a heavy rainstorm. The man, who was seriously injured, was removed to Kingston General Hospital, where he died later, the same night. His name could not be established for some time, but it was later learned to be Henry Nelson Martin, who has, for a short time, been residing in Napanee on Roblin's Hill, with his niece, Mrs. Eli Wagar.

Mr. Kearns, in reporting the accident, said the man, when about thirty feet in front of him, seemed to walk right into the path of the truck. He applied his brakes at once but was unable to avoid striking him.

The late Mr. Martin came, about four months ago, to Napanee from Campbellford. He was over 70 years of age.

His funeral was held at Napanee on Tuesday afternoon and interment followed at Riverside cemetery.

Mr. George Vincent Reports Incident Of Interest

While crossing the Atlantic Ocean last summer, Mr. George Vincent of Napanee, who with his wife spent some weeks in England, threw into the sea a bottle containing the following note: "Whoever finds this bottle please communicate with G. Vincent, Napanee, Ontario, Canada."

This week, Mr. Vincent received a letter from Barr, Scotland, saying that the bottle and note had been found by a girl named Mary McLeod about nine years of age. Walking with her mother on the seashore she had seen and picked up the bottle and, opening and reading it, had...

As a recognition, Mr. Vincent intends sending the girl a doll, for Christmas.

Moth Balls!!

The Squirrels around town have been the busiest little creatures of late. Scurrying from tree to tree, they scarce have time to chatter to the passerby.

They are making preparation! Up under the eaves of a house, in a sheltered nook, they are busy storing nuts and cones and other edibles against the cold and barren days of winter.

The other day we tried one out with a moth ball. He was so intent on getting his store filled, that he ran off quite a way before he discovered the hoax. Then he came back for the nuts he knew we had for him. When he secured them, he scampered off to his store-house and returned for more.

This instict is not confined to squirrels. In this Northern climate, men and women have to make hay while the sun shines. They get wood and coal in June and July and store it away against the cold of December and January.

But what of those who, from the lack of work, have been unable to get wood or coal or provisions? Relief will help. But, relief provides only the barest necessities.

The "Beaver" will receive "Gifts" for those little extras and distribute them as it has done for ten winters.

County Treasurer Held Tax Arrears Sale

Properties Sold at Low Prices

On Friday, November 9th, Mr. W. J. Shannon, treasurer of the County of Lennox and Addington, held a sale of land for arrears of taxes, at his office in the county buildings. The lands listed were properties from nearly all sections of the county. Richmond and South Fredericksburgh were the two townships which did not appear in the list. When first posted there were 128 pieces offered for sale, with a total tax arrears of nearly $10,000. Between the time of posting and the sale 72 of these were redeemed by the owners. The unpaid taxes on the balance amounted to a little over $2,000.

On the sale day, part of the unredeemed properties were sold for the actual taxes and expenses. The amount of money received in this way was $493.45. The remaining places will be disposed of on November 27th. An interesting feature of the sale is that the original owner has a year and a day in which to redeem his property from the man who purchased it for the taxes due. One piece of 100 acres in Abinger township sold for $10.62; 75 acres in Kaladar brought $22.10; 72 acres in Anglesea went for $9.84; 2.5 of an acre in the Village of Flinton sold at $12.60; 200 acres in Ennetown were sold for $198.88, and another place of 65 acres in the same township for $111.42.

Last year the original list posted contained 65 places, 60 less than this year.

Rev. N. Rawson, M.C. Made Fine Impression at Legion Banquet

Interested Both Veterans and Civilians

On Monday evening of this week, the Napanee Branch No. 137 Canadian Legion, held its Fifth Annual Remembrance Day Banquet, at the Masonic Hall. About 150 veterans and citizens of the town were served dinner, after which a program of addresses was given. Mr. Bert Beaubien, this year's president of the local branch of the Legion, made an efficient chairman.

The first toast "The King" was proposed by Mr. K. S. Ham. In a brief address Mr. Ham gave a splendid word picture of King George, telling of his sterling personal qualities and the example of service he sets for the nation.

The guests stood in silence for one minute, in silent tribute to the "Fallen Comrades."

Mr. Beaubien's address, as president of the Legion, gave a short review of what the organization stands for. He said it is non political, with its chief aim to help comrades who are unable to help themselves. Fortunately, he explained, there has been little in the way of relief work for the Legion to do amongst its members in Napanee.

The principal address of the evening was given by Major the Rev. Norman Rawson, M.C., minister of St. James United Church, Ottawa.

Mr. Rawson was introduced by Mr. A. V. Roy. Mr. Roy told of Mr. Rawson's brilliant war career. He enlisted in 1915 as a private and returned to Canada as a major. He was decorated and was appointed to the general staff. Today he occupies a prominent pulpit in the capital city.

"The Making of a Soldier"

Mr. Rawson's address was on "The Making of a Soldier." To reproduce the address would be a practical impossibility. From the moment he started until the end, he had his audience hanging on his words. The soldier's life was described in an unusual manner, Mr. Rawson depicted the tragedy, the horror and the glamour of the life of a soldier. He left no doubt in the minds of the people concerning the frightfulness of war. He advised the audience to think of the horror of war and balance it against the enthusiasm aroused over what he called the "Tin Parades." Referring in a most touching manner to the suffering of his own mother, who had three sons at the front, he said: "It is not those who go to war who suffer most, it is those who are left at home." "War" he declared "settles nothing, but who is strongest at the moment."

Mr. Rawson possesses the rare gift of being able to tell a story to move his audience up and down the scale of emotion. At one moment the guests were in gales of laughter and immediately after, moved almost to tears.

Mr. Rawson said that in his work as a minister, he had found his knowledge of men, learned in his experience in the army, most valuable. He had come to know men at their best and at their worst. He found men at leisure, at their work and under the stress of a crisis or in danger, at their best.

Since his return from the war he had found his greatest joy in his work as an "ambassador of the lowly Galilean," endeavoring to preach the gospel of peace and goodwill.

Every person present at the banquet will remember Mr. Rawson's stirring address. Certainly but will remember equally vividly the serious things he had to say about the futility of war.

Following the address, Rev. Harry Pawson expressed the pleasure of the guests at Mr. Rawson's address and moved a vote of thanks to him.

Jewel Presented to P. U. Laidley

Mr. Rawson made the presentation to Mr. P. U. Laidley of the Past-President's Jewel. In accepting it Mr. Laidley spoke of the pleasure he had working with the men in the Legion, who had given him splendid support during his period of office.

Mr. Laidley entertained the guests by showing motion pictures he had taken of the Canadian Corps reunion, held in Toronto, during the summer and views of the parade on Armistice Day in Napanee, in 1933.

The last toast of the evening, "The Ladies," was proposed by J. M. Simpson, K. C.

Mayor George J. Tustin spoke for a short time and reviewed briefly some of the principles for which the Legion stands.

Conservatives Plan Banquet for Premier

Annual meeting of the Eastern Ontario Conservative Association will be held in Brockville, December 5th, when a complimentary banquet will be tendered Prime Minister R. B. Bennett.

In announcing the convention, J. F. Sowards, Association President, said many Conservative leaders would be present to deliver addresses.

Thrown From Load Man Sustained Broken Leg

On Saturday Mr. Milton Thompson of Sharp's Corners met with a painful accident in Napanee, in which he sustained a broken leg. Mr. Thompson was delivering a load of wood to South Napanee and going down Centre Street near the swing bridge his horse slipped and fell. The load of wood was overturned, pinning Mr. Thompson underneath. He was taken into the coal office of P. Gleeson and medical aid was called. It was found that his leg was broken and he was removed to the Kingston Hospital for treatment.

Weight Cheating Charged to Shops

117 Toronto Stores Accused of Failing to Give Full Measure

Toronto. — A special court under Magistrate A. L. Tinker, started hearing charges against 117 Toronto chain, departmental and independent stores of short weights of perishable commodities when using faulty scales. It was estimated that the hearings will take almost one month.

The numerous counts were laid as follows: Thirty-four against Dominion Stores; 39 against Steinberg Shop, Limited; 32 against the A. & P. Stores; 10 against independent and three against the Robert Simpson Company. All three charges against the Robert Simpson Company alleged use of scales which over-estimated weight.

A total of $80 in fines was collected at the hearing from independent firms pleading or found guilty of selling short weights or using inaccurate scales.

Pay $25 And Costs

Caledonia Farms, Limited, paid $25 in fines and $2 costs for selling a pound of lard two ounces under weight and for using scales on registered one-half ounce heavy. Joe Cira was fined a total of $21 for using false scales. Nathan Swarts of the Victoria Park Cut-Rate Meat Market was fined $25 for selling meat which was two ounces short of the required amount.

G. B. Bagwell, counsel for Swartz, pleaded that an employee of the store and not Swartz had sold the meat. Magistrate Tinker said that the employer and not the employee was responsible.

Charges against the accused firms was launched by Sutherland Cuddy, Inspector of Weights and Measures, following authorization by Hon. R. H. Stevens, former chairman of the Parliamentary Mass Buying Committee and Minister of Trade and Commerce.

No authorization was necessary to bring charges of using dishonest scales.—Montreal Star.

New Government Not to Meet Until About March, 1935

The Hepburn Government will not call its first Legislature session until probably the first week in March or even later, it was learned at Queen's Park. The Premier stated that no date had yet been decided but that it would likely be later than last year. In 1933 the Henry Government opened its pre-election session on February 15. It was thought in many quarters that the present government would call an early session in view of the fact that the special session promised by Premier Hepburn was called off for various reasons. Quebec has already set January 8 as the date for the opening of its legislature, but this will have no effect on the plans of the Ontario Cabinet.

Famed Financier and Art Collector Dies

Baron Edmond James de Rothschild, famed art collector and financier, died in Paris. He was 89. He was the last of the third generation of the great Frankfort banking family, being one of the three grandsons of Meyer Amschel Rothschild in the French branch progenitors of that grizzled old financier of Frankfort-am-Main, who carried his family to fame and fortune. The Baron died at his castle in the Paris suburb of Boulogne-sur-Seine, surrounded by scores of relatives. The doctors attributed death to various complications.

A member of the Academy des Beaux Arts in the Institute of France Baron de Rothschild leaves one of the richest collections of art existing in Europe. He spent a lifetime collecting old engravings and has some of the finest known plates and original drawings.

Millions of his money was spent in providing homes for Jewish exiles in Palestine. He was one of the ardent founders of the Zionist movement. Thousands of Jewish exiles from Germany who took refuge in France after Hitler's advent to power were sent to Palestine by funds furnished by Baron de Rothschild.

Baron Edmond was the third son of Baron James de Rothschild, fifth of the sons of Meyer Amschel Rothschild. Baron James had been sent by the elder Rothschild to open the firm's banking house in Paris, thus founding the French branch of the family which has won distinction in finance, industry, art and through fast horses.

Frontenac Regiment Hold Church Parade

Attend Trinity Church Remembrance Day

On Sunday morning, November 11, "A", "B" and "C" Companies of the Frontenac Regiment attended Trinity United Church in Napanee, where Harry Pawson, the minister, conducted a special service of remembrance. Over one hundred officers and men were associated the following officers of the O. C. of the Regiment, Col. H. L. Babcock, of Napanee. With him were eassociated the following officers: Majors Hayden, Intermediate; Hayeock, Signal Officer Howitt, Lieut. Exley, Capt. Earl, Lieut. Haunts, Medical Major Cornell, Lieut. Lieut. Herrington, Lieut. MacGregor, Major McGill, Capt. Soderberg, Capt. West, Lieut. Wm. Powell, Lieut. Purcell. Lieut. Purcell. Visiting officers also present were Col. H. J. Smith, V.D., Inspector of the 9th Infantry Brigade; Brigade Major Pritz, and Capt. Graham, D. O. C. The Band of the Regiment, under direction of Bandmaster Christmas, led the parade to and from the church.

At 11 o'clock the two minutes silence was observed as the congregation stood with bowed heads. At the end of the period of silence, the Last Post and the Reveille were sounded by Bugler James Roney. Hymns, lesson and prayers were all specially chosen to fit into the theme of Remembrance. The choir sang an anthem, "Soldiers of Christ Arise," and Mrs. W. B. Gray sang as a solo, "In Flanders' Fields."

Mr. Pawson's Address

Mr. Pawson's address centred around the meaning of the words "Remembrance." The power of remembering, or holding in mind, he said, is one of the great wonderful gifts of God. Thought is marvellous, hope is a mysterious thing, imagination, desire and fear, also are great. But how powerful is memory! It is the capacity to keep experiences before one. Memory is like a strand on which all the beads of life are strung. No matter what life may do to a man, it may still be beautiful with memory. Memory can also be a terrific force. Hell is depicted, sometimes, as fire and brimstone, but memory can be a real Hell. Memory is powerful, too. So powerful. In fact, that it can shape future actions. It is not only a function of the brain, but a function of the heart.

Many Returned Men Pacifists

To-day, the men who went through the war are thinking about it in a different way than others. Their experiences were so terrible that it is no wonder the wish of most of them is "give peace in our time." There is much in war to remember, but also much that will help in forgetting. There were deeds that reflect credit on human nature, born of the spirit of sacrifice and sublime devotion, but on the other hand there were the wholesale devastation, suffering and sorrow which resulted from it.

It is not to be marvelled at that most returned men are the greatest pacifists today. They know there are some things which won't stand repairing.

In closing, Mr. Pawson said the best way to keep Remembrance Day is to make it a day of resolution. It was his wish that all could say, with Lincoln said on the field of Gettysburr: "It is for us, the living, to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they, who fought here, have thus far nobly advanced. It is for us to be here, dedicated to the great tasks remaining before us, that from these honored dead shall be increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion. That we, here, highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain. That this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom and that government of the people, by the people and for the people, shall not perish from the earth."

Citizens Pay Tribute To Fallen Soldiers Remembrance Day

Attend Service at Local Armouries

On Sunday afternoon, a large number of citizens of the town and county gathered at the Napanee Armouries, to pay a tribute of respect to the memory of the soldiers who fell during the Great War, which ended sixteen years ago.

The service was arranged by the clergy of the town co-operating with civic, military and legion representatives. Mayor George Tustin, as chairman, briefly explained that the occasion was one on which honor is done to the memory of those who fell in the war, and those who served and returned.

In an enclosure immediately facing the platform, special seating arrangements were made for the mothers and relatives of the fallen soldiers, for the town and county officials, the Daughters of the Empire, the members of the Canadian Legion, the Frontenac Regiment, the Veterans and the Boy Scouts.

Massed Choir Leads Singing

On the platform was a massed choir representing the choirs of all the churches of the town, with Mr. W. R. Reynolds at the piano. The members of the clergy present were Archdeacon Dumbrille, Ensign Russell, Rev. A. J. Wilson, Rev. Harry Pawson, Rev. R. T. Richards. Rev. Father Healy was unable to be present on account of a previous engagement at Prescott.

The service was opened with a call to worship, read by Rev. Harry Pawson, followed by the singing of "O Canada." Archdeacon Dumbrille led in the reading of a prayer in unison, after which Kipuling's recessional was sung.

Ensign Russell of the Salvation Army read a portion of Isaiah II, following which the choir sang as an anthem, the hymn, "Give to us Peace in our Time, O Lord."

Rev. R. T. Richards gave the address, a synopsis of which is printed at the end of this article.

After the address, Rev. A. J. Wilson announced the last hymn, "Abide With Me," and pronounced the benediction.

Blazing Wreaths at Cenotaph

Following the service at the armouries, a parade was formed and proceeded to the cenotaph. In it

Magistrate Farrell Hears Interesting Cases

On Tuesday, November 13th, Magistrate Farrell of Kingston, held court in Napanee.

Jack Bentley, charged with disorderly conduct on a Napanee place, while intoxicated, pled guilty and was sentenced to pay $10.00 and costs or to serve one month in gaol on default of payment.

Irvin Rook, an attendant at the beverage room in the Campbell House, was charged with unlawfully supplying liquor to a minor on Saturday, October 20th. He pled not guilty to the charge. Mr. W. S. Herrington, K. C., appeared for Rook and Mr. K. S. Ham acted for the crown.

Evidence was submitted by the crown, to show that Clarence Dafoe, then a minor, had received a glass of beer at the Campbell House by Irwin Rook, was only 17 years of age. His father, a witness, testified that Mrs. Perry, the proprietress of the Campbell House, had been notified not to supply beer to Clarence Dafoe.

Cecil Sweet swore he saw Rook serve beer to Clarence Dafoe and his brother, Jim. Sweet himself, aged 18 years, said that he was served beer on the night in question.

James and Clarence Dafoe both told of going to the Campbell House and drinking beer in the beverage room, served by Irwin Rook. One brother said that drinks were ordered by both, and the other claimed that at one time only was beer brought to them as they sat in the beverage room on the occasion in question.

Mr. Rook, on the witness stand, swore that he positively did not serve the Dafoes on the night in question.

Mr. Ballantyne, another attendant gave evidence that he had served the Dafoe boys and that he had asked them if they were of age, to which they replied in the affirmative. He said he had never been given instructions by the proprietress, Mrs. Perry, not to serve James and Clarence Dafoe.

Frank and Stanley Babcock both swore that Ballantyne was the man who had served the Dafoe brothers.

In view of the unsatisfactory and contradictory evidence, the Magistrate said there was no case for him to follow but to dismiss the case.

THE SAAR PLEBISCITE

A dispatch from London, yesterday, reports that Scotland Yard has sent special detectives to France to guard the life of Geoffrey Knox, the head of the Saar Governing Commission. It was also reported as busy, recruiting special British police to reinforce the police now in that territory.

These reports, along with other ominous rumblings which reach us from France and Germany, show how bitter the struggle is over the ownership of this little country. As the time draws near for the voting, there is an increasing sense of uneasiness over the outcome. This district is situated on the boundary between France and Germany. It is one of the smallest countries in Europe, but is rich in coal, which is a necessary complement to the iron ore in the Lorraine mines, fifty miles away, in French territory. By the terms of the Treaty of Versailles, this district has, for fifteen years, been governed by a Commission under mandatory powers of the League of Nations. On January 13th, the vote is to be taken to determine its future. The treaty provides that the people of the Saar shall have the right to determine their own future. The vote will be on three propositions : (1) Shall the people of the Saar continue to be ruled by the League, as at present; (2) Shall they unite with France, or (3) Shall they return to allegiance with Germany.

It is a stake worth struggling for, and both Germany and France are making persistent efforts to secure a vote favorable to themselves. The people are German by race, culture and sentiment. Under ordinary circumstances, the Saarlanders would undoubtedly vote to return to the Fatherland. But the actions of the present German Government have changed the sentiment, considerably. This is especially true since the wholesale murders perpetrated by the present German rulers, on June the thirtieth. Staggered by these outrages and especially by the cremation of the Catholic leader, Dr. Klousener, the Saarlanders begin to fear that return to Germany under present conditions, would mean the loss of their political and religious freedom, which they have enjoyed in full, under the Commission of the League of Nations.

Sensing this change of opinion, the Nazi organizations in the Saar have become bolder. Every known method of propaganda has been used to influence the vote. Newspapers, pamphlets and the radio, have been pressed into service. And now there are rumors of intimidation. It is this which has, apparently, led Scotland Yard to send special protection to Knox, who in the midst of all this, is seeking to secure a proper and honest vote.

Whatever way the vote goes, the issue is likely to be a source of discontent for many years. There is no hope that the Saarlanders will vote to attach themselves to France. The alternative is to remain under the League of Nations or to go German. If they continue under the League, the district will be the object of continued harrassment from the German people, who will undoubtedly regard them as disloyal to their race and traditions. If, on the other hand, they vote to return to German rule, the mines which produce about thirteen million tons of coal a year, will have to be bought by Germany and paid for in gold. It is not likely that Germany has enough gold to buy them back. In that event, France owning and exploiting the rich mines in a German area, would be the source of constant friction.

The compromise worked out for the Saar, by the Treaty of Versailles, sowed the seeds of future discord, the fruits of which Europe is beginning to foresee.

THE DEMAND FOR BETTER MOVIES

On Sunday evening a meeting was held in St. Clare's Catholic Church, in Toronto, for the purpose of forming a branch of the League of Decency, which has a very large following in the United States. Both Catholics and Protestants were in attendance at the meeting, and strongly condemned the movies which, for years, have pandered to the lowest instincts of mankind. The movie industry has gone on the assumption that the kind of movies they have been producing are the kind that the people have wanted. They had no way of sensing the desires of the people except through the box office returns. But once the League of Decency was formed in the States, the industry had to take notice. At first, they thought it was merely another spasmodic attempt on the part of a few puritan cranks to impose puritan standards on the industry. But as the membership in the League increased, and as increasing thousands refused to attend a movie which did not measure up to the standards of ordinary decency, the industry became frightened, as they observed their box office receipts diminishing.

The result of this boycott of indecent pictures is already being seen, even in our own country. Those who have observed the movie business even in a superficial way, cannot help but notice the difference in the kind of movies shown within the past few months. And the thing which has surprised the movie magnates is the popularity of the better movie. Box office receipts are the test and the new movies are standing that test, with the result that plans are being laid for a continuance of these better pictures. Already, the following pictures are scheduled for the 1934-1935 season :— "Barretts of Wimpole Street," "Call of the Wild," "Clive in India," "Dante's Inferno," "David Copperfield," "Earthworm Tractors," "Forsyte Saga," "Freckles," "Girl of the Limberlost," "Great Expectations," "Hoosier Schoolmaster," "Judge Priest," "Last Days of Pompeii," "Magnificent Obsession," "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," "R. U. R.," "The Good Earth," "The Little Minister," "The Scarlet Pimpernel," "The Three Musketeers," "Tish," "What Every Woman Knows," "Monte Christo," "One Night of Love," etc.

This is an attempt on the part of the movie magnates to meet the demand of the public for better pictures. They have been amazed at the response which has greeted the production of these films. Whether or not the policy is to continue will depend entirely on the way in which the people continue to boycott the trash with which we have been satisfied during the past, and support the better sort.

The League of Decency, now making its appearance in Ontario, should have the support of all lovers of the best in art and in pictures.

THE ARMISTICE DAY NOTE

Anyone who attended an Armistice Day service in Ontario — if the newspaper reports all record — one account of events—must have been moved by the note of high seriousness which dominated the speeches of all those in charge of the services. Gone are the days when these gatherings are used to capitalize war and the war spirit. All over the Province, men in all walks of life, pled with their audiences to have made the world face the question of war, not in any theoretical way, but as a practical possibility. And thinking men and women everywhere are seeking to use their influence, in every way possible, to thwart the efforts of the war-makers and the profiteers.

Premier Bennett, in a brief address which was given over the radio, spoke in the most serious strain, when he pointed out that increasing armaments is no sure guarantee of peace. The ministers whose sermons are reported, likewise stressed the need of instilling the spirit of peace in the hearts of the people. But more important than the speeches of ministers and politicians, was the unusually large number of laymen who addressed great audiences on the ideals and hopes of peace lovers. Premiers are expected to express hopes of peace and Ministers of the Gospel, who are followers of the Man of Peace, would naturally be expected to urge their hearers to seek peace and good will. But that laymen, teachers, professors and writers should mount the platform on Armistice Day and plead for peace, offer resolutions against munition workers, and refuse point blank ever to take up arms again, is a new thing in our national life. That these messages were received by thunderous applause shows, too, that there is a growing determination on the part of the masses of the people, and especially of the young people, not to be deceived into another reign of terror.

Joseph McCulley, head-master of Pickering College, addressed 2500 people in Massey Hall. He denounced war and declared that he would never go to war, either voluntarily or under conscription. Rabbi Eisendrath scored the Church for their failure to combat war, and protested against the emphasis placed on the pageantry of war by the military organizations, in the endeavour to capture the imagination of youth.

Colonel Drew, on Saturday night, at the University Veterans Association, made a slashing attack on the armament makers and on Sir John Simon, who opposes an investigation into the armament industry. Frederick Griffin, feature writer for the Toronto Weekly Star, occupied the pulpit at St. George's United Church in Toronto, and gave a stirring indictment of the whole war system. He urged the young people, particularly "to beware of popular catch cries and war whoops, and especially of flag-waving patriots." "For," he said, "the flag, symbol of honor and integrity, was often used as a cloak for personal greed and ambition."

All these statements and many others, by men who are not professional speakers, but are imbued with a burning desire to frustrate any attempt to plunge the nation into war, is emblematic of a deep undercurrent of unrest in this country, and the possibility of hostilities. When the common folk, who always have to bear the brunt of war and who so often are without a spokesman to voice their feelings see men of the calibre of those who took advantage of the Armistice Day services to voice the feeling against war, it gives them new hope and new courage.

A few years ago the sentiments expressed on Saturday and Sunday would have been considered highly unpatriotic, whereas, to-day, they are considered as representing the highest form of patriotism. That, in itself, is a moral gain, and represents a notable achievement in the direction of peace and goodwill.

PRICE AND QUALITY

There have been bitter complaints of late that the prevailing craze for low and ever lower prices is playing havoc with business, as well as with the true interests of the consumer. The evil, if evil it be, is by no means peculiar to South Africa (as people who have visited Europe of late will testify), but it is said to be as much worse here than elsewhere that South Africa is in real danger of becoming the dumping ground for the world's rubbish. Assuming this to be true, it is a sad reflection on the discrimination and good sense of large section of the buying public. But before we give way to a feeling of panic there are certain facts that demand consideration. Not all price reductions are at the cost of quality. New methods of production and distribution enable some goods to be sold cheaper. In Great Britain costs in some branches of industry have been brought down to a figure which a few years ago would have been thought impossible. A high authority in London was asked the other day whether British manufacturers of high and world-wide repute would not have to yield to the pressure of retailers to cut their prices at the expense of quality. The answer was "no".—The Cape Argus.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Napanee, November 12, 1934.

The Editor,
Napanee Beaver.

Dear Sir :—

On behalf of the Gibbard Athletic Association, and particularly the "A" and "B" basket teams and ourselves, we wish to thank the baseball fans and others in Napanee, who contributed to the watches which were presented to the boys on Tuesday night last. They were certainly very much appreciated by all the boys and we can assure you they were prized very highly.

We would also like to thank the public for the very fine support we received all year, not only from those who could and did attend the games, but the moral support of those who for one reason or another were not in a position to attend. This wonderful support and sympathetic spirit is a great help and is appreciated by all connected with the club.

We sincerely hope the teams next year will provide the fans with the interesting entertainment which they deserve and that another good season's sport will be enjoyed by all.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for this valuable space in your paper, we remain.

Yours very truly,
G. E. GIBBARD, Manager.
W. GEROW, Coach.

DROUGH OF HEART

(Contributed)

"Drought is not only the lack of rain
Not only . . . .
In drought man thinks he prays in vain,
Ah lonely,
Forsaken, resentful, he shrivels inside.
Apart
From the bon,-bare fields and the choking herd
There is drought of heart."

Editorial Comment

A BRITISH VIEW

Mr. Stevens, as Minister of Trade and Commerce, was chairman of the Royal Commission appointed to consider various charges against "big business" in Canada. While still holding that position, and before the Commission had reported or finished taking evidence, he made a speech indicting business leaders on the basis of testimony given before the Commission. The speech, he protested, was only made in private before the Conservative Study Society, but he had then to explain why the speech was subsequently mimeographed, not by a private firm, but by the official Bureau of Statistics. The language in which Mr. Bennett described his colleague to account was restrained, though he went so far as to call the statements at variance with facts," but Mr. Stevens' resignation necessarily followed. The Government has been seriously weakened; the Prime Minister has made a colleague into an enemy; and the impending general election may be less distant than appeared. — The Spectator, London.

A PEACE STRAW VOTE

Lord Northcliffe used to say that no one ever knew the result of Peace, and the point of that jest will be apparent to anyone who has ever tried to put over an idea in a country of 40,000,000 people. On this analogy, the League of Nations is still an obscure institution and the peace ballot, now being organized by the National Declaration Committee from the offices of the League of Nations Union, is abundantly justified if only because it will serve to make people think about our international obligations and ask for further information. The five questions are as unambiguous as short questions can be. Should Great Britain remain a member of the League of Nations ? Are you in favour of an all-round abolition of military and naval aircraft by international agreement ? Should private manufacture of arms be abolished ? If a nation "insists on attacking another," should the other nations combine to stop it by (a) economic and non-military measures, and (b) if necessary, military measures ? Such a ballot, if widely filled in, may give some general idea of the strength of feeling that exists for quickly producing planes, than France.

PLANNED SPENDING

When the present dislocation of trade and currency forced most people to retrench, it was natural enough employing their property to supplement their incomes, one school of economists advised everyone to spend their money freely. As it stands, that advice seems to be the antithesis of thrift. But if it is well qualified by the proviso that spending must be kept within the limits of what is possible, to bring some form of return to the spender, it is the highest form of thrift. If the sum total of the common wealth can be increased by clever management, everyone will be the richer. The wise spending by individuals of what they have earned is the best way in which to increase effective demand.—Johannesburg Times.

"SMILE"

As you journey on Life's Highway
Never fret or be cast down
But smile a smile upon your face,
If you meet a mortal frown.

When you see a mortal lonely
And their Spirits drooping fast,
Drop a gentle word, or
Smile a smile as you go past.

Every flower has its fragrance
So has every smile of cheer.
Sweet as Springtime's fairest flower
Is a smile that is sincere.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, NOVEMBER 18TH, 1934.

"THE CHRISTIAN AS A CHURCH MEMBER"

MATTHEW 5 : 12-16 — ACTS 2 : 41-47

The first section of today's lesson is taken from our Lord's Sermon on the Mount and the lesson to us from an early time in the ministry of Jesus. It is teaching rather than preaching that is meant, originally, not for the multitude but for the disciples. The directions are intended for Church members, those who have associated definitely with Jesus' cause. They have committed themselves to-it. Speaking to this group He says : "Ye are the salt of the earth." Jesus undoubtedly chose this simile with care, for there are two qualities to salt, which make it unique among the natural products. It is a preservative, and it adds a quality to food which makes it enjoyable and pleasant. There are disintegrating forces in society, as there are in perishable qualities in food, forces of decay and change. The Church member as Jesus conceived of him, is one who is able, through the quality of his life, to act as a preserver of all that is noble and good in human nature and in organized society as a whole.

In the second place, men were placed on this planet to enjoy life. But there are millions who are never able to take out of living all the joy and happiness it has for them. Disillusionment, defeated ambitions, unrealized ideals and the eternal struggle with poverty, rob life of any real joy, on the part of tens of millions. Jesus indicates that enjoyment and happiness are available for all who follow Him. But in either case this can come about only as the church member comes into close contact with the rest of the world. Salt is no use if left in the barrel. It is a preservative only as it is brought closely into touch with the food it is intended to preserve. It can bring pleasure to the eating of food, only as it is brought into touch with that food. So with Christianity. It is both an individual experience and a social process. It will bring happiness to the individual, but it must as well accept a responsibility to make others share in its privileges by injecting its life into the life of the world.

Jesus simply reinforces this idea when He says that the Church Member is a Light. And a light. He adds, must not be hid. A city set on a hill is placed there that all may see, and a light is not placed under a cover but set on a table to dispel the gloom and the darkness of night. So the members to whom He spoke, must not seek to keep for themselves that which Christianity has given them, but must let their light shine and must be seen as lights in a dark world.

In the second section we have a brief account of Pentecost. After telling of the great movement by which three thousand were added to the Church on one day, the writer goes on to tell of the way in which the early disciples lived and by which they were able to exert so much influence on the first generation. Two things stand out in their conduct. They continued in fellowship. This word has received new significance in the last few years, largely through the influence of the group movement. It is being discovered anew that men and women need fellowship, not merely for the sake of entertainment, but, as well, for the more serious reason that human nature is organized solely as a whole.

In the second place, men were placed on this planet to enjoy life. But there are millions who are never able to take out of living all the joy and happiness it has for them. Disillusionment, defeated ambitions, unrealized ideals and the eternal struggle with poverty, rob life of any real joy, on the part of tens of millions. Jesus indicates that enjoyment and happiness are available for all who follow Him. But in either case this can come about only as the church member comes into close contact with the rest of the world. Salt is no use if left in the barrel. It is a preservative only as it is brought closely into touch with the food it is intended to preserve. It can bring pleasure to the eating of food, only as it is brought into touch with that food. So with Christianity. It is both an individual experience and a social process. It will bring happiness to the individual, but it must as well accept a responsibility to make others share in its privileges by injecting its life into the life of the world.

Jesus simply reinforces this idea when He says that the Church Member is a Light. And a light. He adds, must not be hid. A city set on a hill is placed there that all may see,

SELBY

Selby, November 12.—The anniversary services in connection with the United Church were most successful. The auditorium was filled to capacity at both the morning and evening services. Principal Knox, of Queen's Theological College, was the guest preacher for the occasion, and delivered two forceful and inspiring messages. The text chosen for the morning service was from Isaiah, chap. 32, verse 2: "And a man shall be as an hiding place from the wind, and a covert from the tempest; as rivers of water in a dry place, as the shadow of a great rock in a weary land." As the theme of the admirable qualities of human nature and the same fine qualities of the men who served at the front, was unfolded we could not fail to feel the appeal of christian fellowship. During the service Dr. Smith dedicated the new communion table, the gift of the Young People's Society. The table given by the late Mr. and Mrs. John O. Sexsmith, which has occupied this place for so many years, will still have its part in Selby Church. In the evening the text was from II. Timothy, chapter 4, verse 7: "I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith." The rapt attention of the large congregation was a mute testimony of the wonderful appeal of the speaker as he spoke of the silent forces of the christian life. At both services the choir, which was assisted during the morning by Messrs. Brooks, rendered suitable selections, which contributed greatly to the occasion. In the morning a male quartette, consisting of Messrs. Geo. and Garnet Brooks, Dr. Smith and Ted Wilde rendered a selection, and in the evening Mr. Garnet Brooks sang "The Perfect Day" in good voice.

Dr. Smith gave splendid sermons upon both occasions which were highly appreciated by the congregations. The fowl supper and concert on Tuesday night was a great success. The supper was served in the hall, where two hundred and forty people or more partook of it and repast the ladies had prepared. The concert was held in the church, and the programme was given by elocution and Canadian talent, was of a very high type. The financial returns were very gratifying. With the quilt, on which tickets at ten cents each or three for a quarter had been sold, the proceeds were over $120.00. The ladies of the W. A. are to be congratulated on the fine results of their efforts, which go a long way towards liquidating the debt on the church caused by having it redecorated.

NO WONDER HE FELT AND LOOKED SO MUCH BETTER

Half in fun and half because he occasionally "felt punk", a college chap joined 39 other students to form a test class or clinic. It was desired to test on this class the recuperative power of a certain tonic preparation, the formula of which was known to but few blood-building qualities.

Like the other 39, this young man's blood was tested and the "count" of red corpuscles and red colouring matter was found well below normal. No wonder he "felt punk" at times. He was given the tonic and advised to take it for 42 days—to have his blood tested again. There was no doubt about improved health. He looked it and felt it. His blood test showed that the red corpuscle and red colouring matter had strikingly increased. No wonder he felt and looked so much better.

Would you like to feel better, too? Would you like to be keen again about study or work or play? Then take this "tested tonic" which proved such a benefit to the forty college students. It restores well-being by increasing the red corpuscles and red colouring matter of the blood—those carriers in the blood stream which must be kept up to normal numbers if the person is to possess health and vitality. This tested tonic is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Easy to take whether at home, at college or at business. Recommended for all who feel run-down, over-tired, nervous or "low", or are under-weight. Your druggist has this tested tonic—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, price 50c. 29 from the mere mechanics of the organization, there is a definite desire to make the players better citizens. Sports, Mr. Elliott said, help a boy to develop character and form a natural outlet for his energies. If he becomes a good sport, he will likely become a worthy citizen.

Mr. Elliott spoke words of high praise for Coach Walter Gerow, whom he said should be an asset to any community. He also expressed in glowing terms his appreciation of the Ernie Gibbard, and the Gibbard family, for their interest in baseball and for the fine gift to the town of the Geo. W. Gibbard Memorial Park. In closing, he asked the boys to show the same gentlemanly spirit in everyday life that they do on the baseball field.

Ernie Gibbard Accepts Cup

When Ernie Gibbard rose to reply to Mr. Elliott's address and accept the cup, on behalf of the team, he was greeted with rousing cheers from the audience. He spoke words of appreciation for the support given by the citizens of the town throughout the season, and for the reception accorded the players on their return from Southampton, and for the civic reception. He said it was a pleasure for him to be associated with the members of the O.B.A.A. Executive and hoped that he would always remain interested in baseball. He voiced his thanks to the boys on the teams for their good work; to the Park and Club assistants for their efforts; to the interested support of the members of the press, and to the bands of the town for their assistance.

W. J. Smith, founder and life member of the O.B.A.A. who presented the medals to the "A" team, gave his opinion concerning the reason why Toronto has not won a championship since the Oulers, in 1926, were victorious. Toronto teams, he said, gather what they think are all star teams, but many of the players are too busy playing softball and do not give sufficient time to the practice of hardball. The aim, he claimed, of the O.B.A.A. is to foster amateur sport in its highest degree. The organization will not allow the transfer of players from one town to another as is done in some sports. There is a definite attempt made to prevent anything that savours of professionalism in the O.B.A.A.

W. A. Smith, the President of the O.B.A.A., who presented the cup to the B2 team, said it had been his pleasure to act in a like capacity in several towns in Ontario this year. It was gratifying to him that the cups were going to such new places as Chatham, Stratford and Brantford. Walt Gerow, the coach of the Gibbard teams, accepted the cup on behalf of the boys and briefly thanked Mr. Smith for his words of congratulation.

Some O.B.A.A. Statistics

W. J. Sprinkett, who has been Secretary of the O.B.A.A. since 1928, presented the medals to the B2 team in his address he gave some interesting information concerning the association. In 1934 there were in the O.B.A.A. 400 clubs with 8,000 players. There were 79 leagues, and over 1,800 league games were played before the playdowns here were started. In the playdowns 179 games were played. During the past six years $24,000.00 has been paid into the O.B.A.A. by the teams. Of this amount $9,000.00 has been used to promote work with the minors, with an idea to promote good sportsmanship and build up character. Mr. Snyder thought that governments and municipalities would do well to render by giving sports consideration and support. By so doing the energies of boys would be directed to clean sport and crime would be lessened.

"Bob" Lucas expressed the thanks of the town for the medals.

Mr. C. N. Loucks, of Napanee, President of the Bay of Quinte League made the presentation of the M. A. Knox Bay of Quinte Trophy. Mr Loucks spoke of the value to the Gibbard Furniture Company of having the baseball teams connected with it. Among the players are some of the best mechanics in the plant. Hugh Brennan, catcher on the "A" team, accepted the cup on behalf of the players.

Mr. Harry B. Card, of Napanee, the donor of the Lennox County Cup, presented the trophy to the team's representative, Dave Stinson. In his opinion the community should be especially proud of the "B's", because, for the most part, they are local boys.

To Milton Dunn, third baseman on the "A" team, went the honor of receiving the Laidley batting trophy. Mr. P. U. Laidley, the donor, made the presentation. Dunn was at bat 69 times, had 45 hits to his credit, and a batting average of .466. Milton Dunn, in receiving the trophy, thanked the donor and the fans for the splendid support given him and the team.

Gifts From the Town

The final presentation, the gift of watches to the members of the teams was made by Mayor George J. Tustin. Funds for the purchase of the watches were subscribed by the citizens of the town, who showed in this way their appreciation of the success of the two teams in 1934. Mr. Gibbard voiced the thanks of the boys for the gifts, and again thanked the citizens for their interest and support.

During the evening's performance Sgt. Major Wilberforce entertained the audience with several character songs of an unusual type. Among his selections were "The Man on the Flying Trapeze", "The Egg" and "The Village Pump". Mr. W. Owens, of Napanee, also sang one solo.

were the Boy Scouts, bearing the wreaths, the Frontenac Regiment Band, the Legion and Veterans, and the members of the Frontenac Regiment. Wreaths from the following organizations and individuals were placed at the base of the cenotaph: Ward Wartman, Arcvil Lodge 713 I.O.O.F. Officers and N.C.O.s of the Frontenac Regiment, the Canadian Department Stores, I.O.O.F. Lodge No. 66, Gibbard Furniture Shops, Mrs. Fred Lauchlin, the Daughters of the Empire, the Province of Ontario, Col. H. J. Smith and Staff, 9th Canadian Infantry Brigade. The County Council, The Town Council, The Canadian Legion, Union Lodge A.F. & A.M. No. 8, the Women's Institute, Mrs. Perry Detlor and Wallace's Drug Store.

Mayor George J. Tustin placed the wreath from the Town of Napanee. Col. Smith deposited the 9th Infantry Brigade wreath; Warden Gordon L. Hawley placed the wreath from the County of Lennox and Addington, and Mrs. Katherine Powell whose husband, W. Edmund Powell, was killed in action in April, 1917 placed the wreath from the Province of Ontario.

After the placing of the wreaths while the crowd stood bare-headed and the soldiers stood at the salute, the Last Post and the Reveille were sounded by a bugler of the band, and the services of the day were brought to a close.

Rev. R. T. Richards' Address

In a forceful address which he named "Forward or Backward," Mr. Richards gave a rapid review of conditions since the end of the war. He said: "Sixteen years ago to-day after four years and three months of war, the order came to cease hostilities. It was a great day when the war was over and men could go back to their regular vocations. To-day we stand on a mountain peak and look in every direction. As we turn on the currents of our thoughts and attitudes, the question is, are we going forward or backward. In the first place we are going to a better balanced democracy or to an autocracy holding the destiny of nations. There are evidences of significant trends, for the nations are slanting in one class or another. We can easily see the similitude of the movements in Russia, Italy and Germany with their autocratic leadership. We can see the continuance toward a freer democracy in the English speaking countries. Considering these definite evidences, we may well ask, are we going toward democracy or autocracy?"

Peace or War

Again, the speaker asked, "are we moving toward peace or war. To-day the League of Nations is the subject of much criticism. But we must remember that whatever there is in the world, of goodwill and peace, is largely due to the efforts of the League. We should pay a tribute to those who have let or tried to lead toward peace and goodwill.

On the other hand, there are definite organizations leading in the opposite direction. There are those who are able to convince nations that they should put their neighbors unfriendly. They are able to sow fear and distrust in the minds of people in order to incite the nations to fortify themselves against imaginary foes. As a consequence the people's hard-earned money is being squandered on instruments of destruction. We stand to-day in the midst of a dynamic peace, fear-ridden with the possibilities of what a future war can do for the cause of destruction. We may we ask ourselves, are we heading for peace or war?

Christianity or Paganism

"Another question of supreme importance we may ask, is 'are we heading to a higher spiritualism or to paganism?' The cross is an emblem of idealism, but it is found in a world of stark reality. No matter where it has been erected or in what time, it has always been found where there was hate and bitterness met with streams of peace and goodwill. Is there the possibility that out of the cross of suffering of the Great War a nobler idealism will emerge? If we forget the sacrifice and suffering of those who served and died, then slowly and surely we shall drift to a paganism that forgets the supremacy of less and remembers only that 'the strong eat the weak.'"

Mr. Richards ended his address by expressing the hope that there may be breathed into the nations a higher ideal for things that are fine and noble and worthy of attainment. In closing he quoted part of Blake's idealistic poem:

"I will not cease from mental strife
Nor shall my sword sleep in my hand
Till we have built Jerusalem
In England's green and pleasant land."

This week has practically all been spent in necessary duties with the judging team and junior exhibits for the Ottawa Winter Fair, November 13th-16th. The Live Stock Judging was spent Wednesday in Prontenac County with Mr. A. W. Stirrett and his judging team. The day was devoted to live stock coaching and the boys received some valuable practical experience and instruction.

Five lots of potatoes went forward to the Ottawa Winter Fair from the boys of our Potato Club. There will be entered in the Boys and Girls' Club exhibit. Not more than five entries were to be sent in from a club. Eight cash prizes will be awarded.

In the Junior Section, in competition for the Senator Hayden Challenge Cup, eleven lots of grain and six lots of potatoes were forwarded to Ottawa. All first cash winners in these classes at the 1934 Rural School Fairs, were eligible to send in entry in this special section. Cash prizes will be awarded and, in addition, the County winning the most number of points in this competition will receive the Senator Hayden Challenge Cup, which is competed for annually. The cup has never been won by this County and it has been competed for since 1925.

On Friday afternoon, accompanied by the Ottawa Winter Fair Judging Team, Francis Way, Garnet Dupre and Clifford Hoeboom and I, left for Kemptville. Saturday was spent at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, where we had a successful day of judging practice. We returned to Kemptville for Sunday and Monday was spent at the Kemptville Agricultural School. Live Stock and Seed Judging practice was arranged for the boys and now we are all set for the Live Stock Judging Competitions at the Ottawa Winter Fair on Tuesday, November 13th, and the Seed Judging and Weed and Weed Seed Identification Competition on Wednesday, November 14th. We hope to be able to announce the results next week.

The annual sale of live stock will be held at the Kemptville Agricultural School, Kemptville, Monday, December 3rd, 1934, at 1:00 p.m. The following list of live stock is to be offered for sale:—

Horses—9 Yorkshire Sows (bred); 2 Yorkshire Sows (open); 4 Yorkshire Boars.

Cattle—3 Holsteins Bulls; 5 Ayrshire Bulls; 1 Holstein Heifer (bred); 4 Ayrshire Heifers (bred).

Sheep—9 Shropshire Lamb Ewes.

Horses—9 Half-bred Hunter and Saddle Horses, ranging from foals to 3 year-olds.

A catalogue containing full particulars of each animal may be secured at this office. Anyone interested would be well advised to attend this sale.

The number of producing maple trees on eastern Canadian farms is estimated at over 70,000,000, of which 24,000,000 will probably be tapped next season.

Graham and excerpts from the play will be read by Mrs. Katherine Powell and Mrs. Harry B. Williams, two well known readers of the town. Mrs. Cameron Wilson will play violin selections and Mrs. J. P.C.I. Defeated N.C.I. Two Quinte League Encounters

Friday, November 9, proved a disastrous day in the annals of girls' basketball in Napanee. Hoping to chalk up their first league victory, both the junior and senior teams were decisively defeated. Picton Collegiate Institute junior team took N. C. I. junior team to the tune of 65-12. In the senior fixture Picton team emerged victorious by the score of 33-11. The best basketball of the evening was witnessed in an exhibition game played between Y. W. C. A. team of Kingston and the N. C. I. "Exs" the Y.W.C.A. taking the honours, 24-11.

Junior Game

The Napanee team was hopelessly outclassed by the fast Picton team. From the opening whistle the Picton team forced the play, and before the half-time period had thirty attempts at baskets and scored thirty points. N. C. I. unable to work the ball past their taller and faster opponents, had twelve attempts at baskets with no points scored.

In the second half, Picton continued to pile up a large score with the Napanee team showing more fight. Picton outscored the Napanee team in this half, 35-12.

The final score was P. C. I. 65, N. C. I. 12.

Mary Reid, with Picton, had the honour of scoring 37 of the winners' points. For N. C. I. the scoring was divided between Doris Chapman and Harriet Madden.

P. C. I. Juniors— Norah Rorke, Frances McMullen, Isabel Mallet, Mary Reid, Grace Sayers, Betty Brown, Grace Hollingsworth, Mary Sargent, B. McWilliams.

N. C. I. Juniors— Doris Chapman, Harriet Madden, Jeanne Clarke, Hazel Shetlor, Marion Roney, Verna Harper, Vera Simmons, Isobel Norris, Georgina Vick, Miriam Miller, Evalena Clarke.

Senior Game

From the startling whistle is was easily seen that the P.C. I. team were a much faster aggregation. Their short passing tactics bewildered the Napanee team and the forwards had no trouble in getting through N. C. I's weak defence. The score at half time stood 24 to 8 in favor of the visitors.

In the second half Napanee showed that they are capable of playing a better brand of basketball, as the team, as a whole, played a much faster and smarter game. N. C. I. fought hard and defensive tactics were strengthened which enabled them to cope with the Picton forwards in a much more effective manner. In this half Picton scored nine points while Napanee secured six. The final score resulted in a win for Picton Collegiate Institute by 33 to 11.

June Gerow and Marjorie Cooper covered Picton's 33 points between them, with Dollie Chapman sinking 6 of Napanee's 11 points.

The teams were :—

P. C. I. Seniors — June Gerow, Mary Cooper, Maude Minaker, Marion Brisbin, Elenor Williams, Beth VanDusen, Ruth Walters, Margaret McMullen.

N. C. I. Seniors — Letitia McCullough, Dollie Chapman, Alice Walters, Dorothy King, Jean Gerow, Mary Hinch, Helen Norris.

Exhibition Game

The brand of basketball witnessed between the Y. W. C. A. and N. C. I. "Exs" was far superior to that of the other two games. The "Exs" who were strengthened by the addition of Harriet and Elizabeth Madden, were able to work the ball through the opponent's defence to shoot at the basket. In the opening half play was fast with Kingston showing more experience. Kingston led at half time 12 to 8.

In the last half Napanee, although losing two regulars by fouls, fought hard. Kingston added 12 more points making it 24. The Napanee girls scored four baskets and two free shots for a total of 11.

Violet Brooks took the honors for Y.W.C.A. with fourteen points. For Napanee Erma Grooms and Harriet Madden divided the honors. The outstanding player on the floor was Marion Walker, Kingston's jumping centre. The crowd witnessed in Miss Walker one of the finest players ever to play in the local "gym."

Y.W.C.A. Team — Violett Brooks, P. Gumwood, Louise Jordan, P. Marsh, U. Eashervell, Bessie Hewis, Fay Baldinse, D. Philips, M. McNevin, M. Campbell, D. Harrison.

N. C. I. "Exs."— Harriet Madden, Erma Grooms, Marg. McMillan, Elizabeth Madden, Ploy McLaughlin, Dorothy Card, Loretta McCullough, Guiste Boyes.

Wedding Bells

BARNETT — BARTLETT

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the United Church parsonage, at Selby, on Saturday evening, November 3rd, when the Rev. W. E. Smith united in matrimony Miss Winnifred Edith Bartlett, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bartlett, of Empey Hill, and Harry Barnett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Barnett, of Sherford, England.

The bride was gowned in blue crepe, with accessories to match and wore orange blossoms, the gift of her mother. The bride was attended by her sister, Gladys Bartlett, who was becomingly attired in a rust crepe dress with accessories to match. The cousin of the bride, Mr. William Coleman, supported the groom.

After the ceremony, supper was served at the home of the bride's parents, where a happy evening was spent. Later, the bride and groom left to reside in Napanee.

Still More New Books For the Public Library

MARKED MAN, by H. C. Wire — A western mystery story which has both plausibility and punch.

CHILD STORIES FROM DICKENS — These stories are taken directly from Dickens, very largely in his own language, and always faithful to his spirit. They are the stories of his most famous boys and girls, separated from the big books and crowded scenes where they first appeared.

THE SKY TRACKERS, by John E. Gundon. — Boys and girls interested in the aeroplane will enjoy this book.

THE SHIP WITHOUT A CREW, by Howard Pease. — Here is an adventure story for boys founded upon a mystery famous in the annals of the sea— the strange case of the Mary Celeste, a brig discovered adrift and deserted.

TREASON UNDER SEAL, by W. Victor Cook. Mr. Cook has the unusual gift of being able to construct and tell with vigour and accuracy a good story. He avoids, too, the deadly traps into which writers of historical fiction too easily fall. Treason under Seal is an historical romance of Sussex. But this time the period is more modern—those stirring days when England stood at bay against Napoleon.

MYSTERY ON SOUTHAMPTON WATER, by Freeman Wills Crofts.— Once more we are indebted to Mr. Crofts for a well-knit and ingenious tale of crime and detection.

ENGLISH JOURNEY, by J. B. Priestley. — It may well come to be recarded as its 'author's most important work. It gives a fair and rounded picture of contemporary England which no other writer has equalled; its people and its landscapes, towns and country. You may safely accept this as one of the best books of the year.

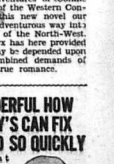
THE SON OF MARIE ANTOINETTE, by Meade Minnigerode.—The tender and tragic relationship between Marie Antoinette and her son is alive with pathos and breath. One sees the latter days at the court, the breathless flight to Varennes, the execution of Louis XVI, Marie Antoinette and the royal family, the imprisonment of the Dauphin in the Temple Tower. The author unravels and blends together the scattered and little known facts of this fabulous story and in measure arrives at a sound hypothetical solution.

TEAM PLAY, by Donal Hamilton Haines. — A good book for the boys who enjoy clean sport. Team Play is the story of two roommates at Hilton, Joe and Nick, one a hardworking and hard-practising trackman, the other a natural born tennis player.

THE WORLD IN MODERN SCIENCE by Leopold Infeld. — The intelligent layman can obtain from this book a profound insight into the problems of modern physics, and anyone who is anxious to acquire knowledge will find this book no less dramatic and absorbing than an exciting novel. But this book has also something to offer to the scientist.

CONNIE MORGAN IN THE BARREN LANDS, by James R. Hendryx. — In Connie Morgan the author created a character destined to become one of the most popular heroes of the Wild-West story reading public. Many have been the tales dealing with the adventures of Connie in various parts of the Western Continent, and in this new novel our hero wends his adventurous way into the barren lands of the North-West. James B. Hendryx has here provided a story which can be depended upon to meet the combined demands of adventure and true romance.

IT'S WONDERFUL HOW BUCKLEY'S CAN FIX A COLD SO QUICKLY



That's what surprises everyone who takes BUCKLEY'S for the first time. Accustomed to ordinary cough remedies they don't expect any benefit for several days, and often don't get relief then, and are astounded to find that the very first dose of BUCKLEY'S MIXTURE gives unmistakable relief. Mrs. Mary Bysary, Glenside, Sask., for instance, writes:— "Last Winter I caught a very severe cold. I tried several remedies without deriving any benefit. At a friend's suggestion I tried BUCKLEY'S MIXTURE. It is wonderful how it can help a cold so quickly."

Whether your cold is merely in the sneezing, sniffling stage, or away down, Buckley's will bring you prompt, sure, safe relief.

It acts like a flash—A single sip proves it.

NEWS AND INFORMATION FOR THE BUSY FARMER

(Furnished by the Ontario Department of Agriculture)

Cost of Producing Corn Silage

In a year like the present when hay is scarce and dear, corn silage is of more value than ever in supplying rough hay. At the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, this year the yield of corn averaged 19.3 tons per acre. The cost of growing and ensiling this crop amounted to $41.74 per acre, or $2.20 per ton. On the basis of 375 pounds of corn silage being equivalent in feeding value to 100 pounds of hay, at present prices of hay, silage has a value of over $3 per ton. Therefore, the crop produced a large volume of feed at a substantial profit per acre.

Potato Marketing Scheme

A proposed scheme for the regulation of the marketing of potatoes produced in the five eastern provinces of Canada, and marketed through the channels of commercial potato trade, has been submitted to the Dominion Marketing Board.

Copies of the scheme are available for distribution, and representations, with respect to it by those concerned, should be forwarded to the Secretary, Dominion Marketing Board, Ottawa. As the potato market situation is an urgent one, it is desired that any representations which are made should be forwarded promptly.

Richest Farm Manure

Poultry manure is undoubtedly the richest produced on the farm. Poultry manure, however, ferments very quickly, losing if left exposed, a large proportion of its nitrogen as ammonia. This fact emphasizes the desirability of systematically and frequently cleaning off the boards beneath the roosts, a plan that also conduces to the general good health and thrift of the fowl. In summer the manure, previously mixed with loam to destroy stickiness and facilitate distribution, may be applied directly to the land and worked with the surface soil—its best preservatives. In winter (and at other seasons when the manure cannot be used directly) it should be mixed with a fair proportion of loam, dried peat, muck sawdust, together with a little land plaster of superphosphate to fix the nitrogen. It should then be placed tightly in barrels or boxes and stored protected from rain until required in the spring. Lime and wood ashes should not be used for this purpose as they set free nitrogen. Poultry manure being essentially nitrogenous is particularly valuable for garden and leafy crops generally, and the majority of poultry breeders will no doubt do well to reserve it for this use. However, if the amount available permits, it can be profitably employed for the cereals, grasses, roots and corn.

Straw For Winter Feed

While straw is not generally considered as a nutritious feed for livestock, yet in times of fodder scarcity it is very valuable. Horses and dry cows may be wintered entirely on straw, if supplemented by one-half to three-quarters of a pound of linseed oil meal a day, or other similar protein food. A ration of half straw and half legume hay will carry each stock through the winter in excellent condition. Little straw should be used for bedding this year when it is needed for food. Good oat straw contains a considerable amount of total nutrients, though practically no protein. This is why straw alone makes a poor showing as an exclusive feed for live stock, but when supplemented with a little high protein feed, its carbohydrate content may be utilized to excellent advantage. When feeding straw, always provide plenty of mineral matter in addition. Give cattle, horses and sheep free access to a mixture of 25 pounds of bone meal, 50 pounds of finely ground limestone, 20 pounds of salt, 2 pounds of iron oxide, and one ounce of copper sulphate and one ounce of potassium iodide.

In feeding value, oat straw leads with barley, wheat and rye straw following in the order named. Corn fodder, when harvested before the leaves dry up and blow away, is considerably more valuable than the straw of the small grains. Sweet clover straw, after threshing out the seed is especially valuable in a year like this.

Ontario Crops Win

Seed of excellent quality has been harvested from the field crops in Ontario this year and farmers have a wonderful opportunity to surpass the fine records which they have made in the past at Ontario exhibitions and the International Grain and Hay Show, held annually at Chicago. During the last five years, Ontario farmers have entered a total of 661 exhibits of grain and clover seeds at Chicago, for which they have been awarded 382 prizes including 7 championships, 4 reserve championships and 18 first prizes. Peas, beans, soybeans, red clover, alsike, alfalfa, timothy seed and flint corn are classes in which Ontario has usually made a fine showing.

Fall Wheat and Rye and Hay

The total yield of fall wheat in Canada in 1934 is now estimated at 7,022,000 bushels from 425,000 acres, a yield of 16.5 bushels per acre, as compared with 14,021,000 bushels from 559,000 acres, a yield per acre of 25.1 bushels in 1933. The 1934 production of fall wheat is the lowest in the Dominion Bureau of Statistics records dating from 1908, due chiefly to winter-killing and severe drought conditions in the counties of Ontario where most of the fall wheat is grown.

The production of fall rye in Canada in 1934 is estimated at 5,230,000 bushels, an increase of 1,795,000 bushels as compared with 1933. This increase is largely due to increased acreages in the Prairie Provinces.

Winter-killing of hay and clover meadows in Ontario, and severe drought which has seriously affected all provinces except Quebec and British Columbia, have resulted in the lowest hay crop on record, namely 9,884,000 tons, as compared with 11,442,000 tons in 1933. The first cutting of alfalfa yielded only 778,300 tons, as compared with a first cutting of 1,194,000 tons in 1933, this large decrease being also due to the severe winter and lack of moisture.

Entries For The Royal Indicate Confidence

Entries for the forthcoming Royal Winter Fair, which closed on Thursday, November 8th, indicate that Prize Street offices in a most gratifying way and average, not merely larger than before but somewhat earlier to date than in previous years, according to a statement made by the management. This is looked upon as an indication of confidence among all sections of exhibitors from the owners of blood-horses to the poultryman with a back yard flock.

"It is decidedly satisfactory to know that the possibility of a feed shortage following last summer's drought has not materialized so far as entries are concerned," says A. P. Westervelt, secretary, "as beef and dairy cattle breeders, as well as those of sheep and swine, promise to be represented as fully as in former years, both from eastern and western provinces."

An Interesting Experiment

Because of the extreme shortage of hay and high price this year a small field of excellent feed owned by William Coose of Streetsville is of unusual interest. Contract farmers, Mr. Coose has demonstrated that it is possible to get an excellent yield of the best quality hay from seed sown in the same season.

Moreover, his crop is not of the emergency character, like green oats or millet, something that requires special knowledge and special care, but is largely alfalfa with a little red clover and timothy, and unlike the emergency crops, the field will be good for further yields of hay, next year.

The field was sown about the first of May last spring with a mixture composed of 15 pounds of alfalfa, five pounds of red clover and one pound of timothy. No nurse crop was used and the field has not been previously in alfalfa for 15 years. No inoculation was used but an excellent catch resulted. Owing to dry weather the stand was on the thin side when the first cutting was made about the first of July. At that time the plants averaged 18 inches in height and a crop of close to a ton per acre of cured hay was taken off. Had there been the usual amount of rain Mr. Coose believes that twice this yield would have been secured. The hay was of excellent quality, with plenty of valuable leaves.

Aided by timely rains the second growth was much finer and thicker with much of the original stand apparently not germinating until after the first cutting had been removed. While the first cutting was almost entirely alfalfa, by the middle of summer both the red clover and timothy began to appear. This crop was cut in early October and averaged three tons of green feed per acre, or between a ton and a half and two tons of cured hay. Mr. Coose estimated that one acre would provide pasture for a good milk cow for 140 days, if it was decided that hay was not needed.

This experiment seems to prove that it is possible even in the face of dry weather to produce over two tons per acre of cured hay from the first year's seeding. If applied on a general scale it would indicate that winter killing of meadows on a wide like last year need not be as serious as is the case today with the hay acreage very seriously reduced. From every standpoint the experiment appears practical and indicates that year-old meadows killed out in early spring may be made to produce a full hay crop simply by moderately heavy sowings without nurse crops. Furthermore, as a mixture rather than straight alfalfa is advised by Mr. Coose, the cost of the seed is very low, such mixtures as he used selling for less than straight alfalfa, or red clover. Fortunately for any farmer who may wish to follow Mr. Coose's example next spring, ample supplies of home grown alfalfa seed are in sight for the next spring, though red clover is going to be scarce.

The programme consisted of readings by Luva Perry, Marguerite Street and Harold Preslar. The roll call was answered by names of famous poets. The topic, "The Christian Family," was given by Grace Street.

On November 9th, a few of the young people motored to Tamworth and enjoyed the very successful meeting.

The Young People will meet this Friday, November 16th, at the home of Mr. Carl Craig.

MAPLE RIDGE W. I.

Mrs. Fred Smith was hostess to the Maple Ridge Women's Institute on Thursday afternoon, November 8. There was a large attendance of members, and a number of visitors were present. The meeting opened in the usual manner with the singing of the ode and the repeating of the creed. The roll call was responded to by giving "A Pet Proverb."

A number of letters and cards were read from members who had received letters of condolence and from those who received fruit, during illness. A contribution of $2.50 was donated towards the buying of clothing for the needy children in the north, which money is being sent by the Institute as a tribute to Mr. Putman.

We were honored by having with us Miss May Reid of the Women's Book Store, Napanee, to give a demonstration on the new novelty flowers made from the cans and crepe paper. She also showed how purses, hats, collar sets, etc. could be crocheted out of crepe paper. We are in hopes of having her again in the near future.

Miss Helen Lasher favored with a piano solo and this brought to a close a very profitable afternoon.

The hostess, and her committee served refreshments and a social half- hour was spent.

Canada supplies Newfoundland, Bermuda and the West Indies with practically all their imports of hay, totalling 13,000 tons annually.

Recipes & Hints

It is the desire of "The Beaver" to devote this section of the paper, regularly, to the publication of Recipes and Household Hints, received from local women or women's organizations. We would be pleased to receive recipes and suggestions and would withold or publish the contributors' names, as requested. Contributions will be used as space permits.

(Send them in early in the week.)

SARDINE EGGS

One of the best of "snacks."

Boil as many eggs, hard boiled, as required, remove the shells and cut the eggs lengthwise. Remove the yolks and pound each yolk with a boned sardine, a small piece of butter, pepper and salt and a pinch of chopped parsley.

Fill the eggs with the mixture, and serve on a lettuce leaf. Garnish with sliced tomatoes and a little chopped parsley. Serve with rolls and butter.

APPLE SUPREME

This delicious sweet may be made in a large glass bowl or in individual glasses, as preferred.

Peel and core some apples, and stew to a pulp with a very little water, sugar to taste, and the thinly pared rind of a lemon. Remove the lemon rind.

Make a pint packet lemon gelatine but add only sufficient water to make a quantity of three quarter pint. Mix the jelly and apples together, and put at the bottom of a bowl.

Allow to set, then make a pint raspberry gelatine. When this is starting to stiffen, whisk into it the stiffly whipped whites of two eggs, and pour on to the mixture already in the bowl.

Decorate with almonds and glace cherries.

BUTTERSCOTCH

Delicious butterscotch can be easily made with equal quantities of butter, white sugar and golden syrup. Put the butter into a saucepan and when it is hot add the sugar and golden syrup, stirring all three well together with a knife. Bring to the boil quickly, and when it has boiled for a minute turn down the heat and let it boil for twenty minutes more. Test it by dropping a little from the knife into cold water; it should float on the top and be brittle. When it is done, pour into a buttered tin and mark it into bars. This toffee is all the better for being kept for a day or two in an airtight tin lined with greaseproof paper, but if it is to be sent away, or kept for any length of time, it should be marked into squares with a sharp knife before it sets. When it is cold, break in the pieces, wrap each separately in greaseproof paper, and pack it in an airtight tin.

BAKED EGGS WITH CHEESE

Four eggs. Salt, pepper.
Three-quarters cup grated cheese.
One cup buttered bread crumbs.

Break the eggs into a buttered baking dish. Season with salt and pepper. Mix with this finely chopped olives. Mould into small balls on rolls and arrange on crisp lettuce leaves. Serve with salad dressing. Chopped parsley or lettuce may be sprinkled over the top. Cream cheese or cottage cheese may be used for this salad and are equally delicious in flavour.

CHEESE AND OLIVE SALAD

Put cheddar cheese through a meat chopper or grate finely. Mix with a little cream and season with salt

Mrs. F. Kennedy's group had charge of the program and Mrs. Harold Winter gave some selections on the guitar and sang. Miss Doris Kimmerly gave a reading and Mr. Ernest Scanlon rendered a number of piano solos. Mrs. Mr. Smith was called on and gave some humorous stories. The banner table was then the centre of attraction and all articles were quickly disposed of.

After a vote of thanks has been extended to Mr. and Mrs. Price, a pleasant social hour was enjoyed.

CAMDEN EAST W. I.

The members of the Camden East Women's Institute assembled at the home of Mrs. B. Vrooman on the afternoon of November 7th, for their regular meeting. The president, Mrs. A. Robinson, presided. The meeting was opened by singing the ode, followed by the roll call, which was reminded to by the donation of quilt blocks. Mrs. Alore read the minutes of the last meeting, also a letter of good wishes from the retiring superintendent, Mr. G. A. Buchan. Cards of thanks were read from Mrs. H. R. Purcell, Mrs. C. Wales, Mrs. J. Kennedy, Mrs. E. Clark and Miss J. O'Hara.

The Halloween masquerade party proceeds amounted to $35.90. During the business session it was decided to pay for gas of cars which went to Tamworth that Mrs. Alore buy clothes needed for a school boy; that the secretary forward $1.00 to Mr. Putman, as a remembrance gift.

Names of members were drawn for the exchange of Christmas gifts. The report of the convention recently held at Kingston was given in a very interesting way by Mrs. Ann Scott, after which Mrs. Scott was tendered a vote of thanks, and a presentation was made to the delegates' expenses.

Several interesting current events were given by members. The following readings were given in remembrance of Armistice Day: "We Will Remember Them," by Mrs. A. Robinson; "The Poppy Maiden," by Mrs. A. Lewis; "A Mother's Love and Prayer," by Mrs. G. Elack; "Remembering," by Mrs. A. Hall. Mrs. Robinson then read an instructive paper on symptoms and care of "Infantile Paralysis." Mrs. E. Hamilton displayed a hand-made artificial bouquet.

Several ladies were appointed to tell Christmas stories at the next meeting, which is to be held at the home of Mrs. Harry Robinson. Roll call to be answered by donating a gift suitable for a child's Christmas box.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem, after which a dainty lunch was served.

Jones : I thought you were courting.

Brown : I was, but she had a wooden leg, so I broke it off.

LIME LAKE LADIES' AID

On Tuesday afternoon, November 6th, the ladies of Lime Lake met at the home of Mrs. T. Busby for the monthly Aid meeting. Splendid weather prevailing, a good crowd was in attendance.

The president, Mrs. C. McConnell, opened the meeting with a hymn, followed by the scripture reading, in unison, taken from Galatians, 6th chapter, after which Mrs. C. Dafoe, led in prayer. The secretary, Mrs. C. Jarmin, read the minutes, which were approved, and after the roll call the meeting was open for business.

Moved by Mrs. Lizzie Brown, seconded by Mrs. Fred Wilson, that Mr. G. Henderson be paid for fixing the church furnace. Carried.

It was decided to answer the roll call at our next meeting with a verse of scripture having the word "prayer" in it. Mrs. M. Brown kindly offered her home for the next meeting, which will be held the first Tuesday afternoon in December.

Mrs. Harry Purvis favored with a very appropriate reading entitled "A Ladies' Aid Meeting, which was very humorous and was greatly enjoyed. Mrs. Lizzie Brown, who is well-known elocutionist, obliged with "Pot Pie was Scotch and so was Haggis." Mrs. Craig gave a short talk, taking as her topic "The First Woman's Organization." Going back to Bible history, she mentioned those memorable sisters, Mary and Martha, serving at the feet of Jesus, in their lowly home in Bethany, and coming on down through the ages she spoke of early workers as Mary Magdalene, Dorcas, and many others, pointing out as she did, their willingness to serve Christ in any capacity and naming those early Christian women as the original founders of our church organizations today. The address was exceptionally well given and was greatly enjoyed.

The collection amounted to $2.71.

Twenty-two members were present and five visiting ladies from Marlbank whose presence was greatly enjoyed. After a hymn the meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction.

A flower contest under the leadership of Mrs. C. Jarmin was put on the prize going to Mrs. W. O. Asselstine of Marlbank. A delicious lunch consisting of sandwiches, cake and tea was served by the hostess, after which a vote was extended her for her hospitality.

ADOLPHUSTOWN W. M. S.

The Women's Missionary Society held their November meeting Wednesday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. Charles Rombough. Despite the cloudy weather, there was a good attendance. The president was in charge of the meeting. The devotional exercises were arranged by Miss Margaret Moore and as this was her "New Name" time there was "peace." The scripture lesson was taken from verses in the seventh Psalm. Prayer was offered and the Lord's Prayer was repeated in unison. Mrs. Lewis Irwin, the secretary read the minutes of the last meeting, which were adopted. The treasurer gave her report and said we had a decrease in giving over last year. The roll call was responded to by giving a verse of scripture containing the word "thanks."

Miss Edna McGee, peace secretary, had arranged a peace programme and several selections were given, showing how women can promote the cause of peace. Rev. Mr. Saunders gave a remarkable address on a spiritual. "Ain't going to Study no More," which was greatly enjoyed.

Mr. Saunders then gave an interesting and comprehensive address on the aspects of international peace, which was very educative.

The offering was received and the meeting closed with a hymn. Rev. Saunders acted as accompanist and also gave the prayer of dismissal.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. C. Rombough and Miss Birdie Rombough, and a pleasant social time was enjoyed.

The December meeting will be held at the home of Mr. T. Davis, when the officers for the coming year will be elected.

Muwalini says that, every girl must marry and every young man will have to learn to fight. In that order.

VIOLET-SWITZERVILLE W. I.

Mrs. Andrew Moore entertained the Violet-Switzerville Women's Institute on Thursday evening, November 1st. There was a good attendance of members and visitors.

Roll call was answered by a "A good law and why?" Several items of business were attended to. The motto "Make all your friends know there is something in them," was dealt with by Miss Nina Wilson.

A solo and a musical reading by Mrs. William Close and Mrs. Harold Robson, was followed by the report on current events. Community singing was enjoyed, after which our guest speaker, Mr. Geo. A. Aylesworth, of Newburgh, was introduced. He took as his topic, "Laws concerning Women and Children." Mr. Aylesworth proved to be a very interesting speaker.

A very humorous reading was given by Mrs. Ernest Wright.

A vote of thanks to our hostess and those assisting with the program was moved by Mrs. J. A McCormick and seconded by Mrs. N. Wilson.

The meeting was closed with "God Save the King" and a social half-hour was enjoyed over a cup of tea.

Good foliage is essential to the production of good roses; moreover, good foliage is desirable in a rose garden, because of its appearance. Leaves badly curled, spotted, or eaten by insects, spoil the attractiveness of the rose garden.

Had Pains in Back And Indigestion

But Dodd's Kidney Pills And Dyspepsia Tablets Relieved Her.

These Two Remedies Can Be Taken In Conjunction

Henderson, Ont., Nov. 13. (Special.) "I was bothered with a pain in my back also suffered with indigestion," writes Mrs. J. Arney, a well-known resident of this place. "I got one box of Dodd's Kidney Pills and took them, and felt so much better that I purchased two more boxes. I have also taken Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets and found them excellent. I would say any one bothered with sour stomach or dyspepsia should give them a trial. My husband has also taken Dodd's Kidney Pills and found them good."

Thousands of grateful people have publicly testified to Dodd's Kidney Pills. Why not benefit by their experience? Make no mistake — Backache. Dizziness. Rheumatism. Sciatica. Lumbago and other symptoms of Kidney weakness are far too serious to be neglected.

THE INSTITUTE FOR THE BLIND

At the National General Meeting of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, held this month, the Sixteenth Annual Report, covering Canada and Newfoundland, was presented. Reviewing the report for Ontario particularly, we find that 2,503 blind persons reside in this Province out of a total registration of 7,11a for Canada. This includes all ages from infancy to the oldest registered blind person who two weeks ago attained his 108th birthday. Analyzing the registration figures it is noted that 23% are 70 years of age and over, 30% are between 21 and 70 years with the remainder of school age and under. Since the education of blind juveniles, like the sighted, is the responsibility of the Provincial Government, the Canadian National Institute for the Blind is concerned chiefly with the adult blind.

The Institute's Home Teachers who are themselves without sight, have been aptly named "the invisible soldiers because they, in most instances, are the first to help the newly blind person in his or her effort to regain confidence and independence in the face of one of the most discouraging experiences in life. Throughout the year, under review five full time and two part time Home Teachers gave lessons to 144 blind persons in Ontario. They taught them to read and write Braille or Moon Type, to typewrite, to make baskets of all descriptions, to cane chairs, to make leather articles thonged around the edges to sew, to knit and crochet. When considering the field of employment it is stated that those who become blind in middle life because of age, while many between twenty-one and seventy years of age suffer disability in addition to blindness, which make employment impossible and persons in this group are married women who are engaged with their household and family duties. Nevertheless 213 were employed in the factories or offices of the Institute, on news stands in various centres, on jobs located for them in general industry by the Institute's Placement Officer, and operating refreshment stands in hospitals, public and municipal buildings, or conducted their own business. In addition 328 Home Workers bought supplies at cost from the Salesroom Department and the total number of these were assisted in the sale of their finished products. This department loaned 3,96 reading embossed types to 535 active blind readers in the Province and in addition 2,143 copies of the Courier (a monthly Braille magazine published by the Institute) were sent to blind readers desiring this periodical.

Social service or aftercare was given to 386 blind persons whose individual problems needed especial attention and advice. Financial aid was granted with supplementary cash relief and over 200 more with relief in kind. Medical and surgical aid in varied character was extended to 1,109 blind persons. In the three residences rated by the Ontario Division of the Institute in Toronto and Hamilton, 66 blind men and women without homes of their own lived in comfortable, homelike surroundings.

The Prevention of Blindness Department of the Institute enabled 1,000 persons with serious eye defects who were unable themselves to afford the necessary care, to receive attention, treatment or glasses required, with the result that the vast majority of cases their vision was saved.

Blinded soldiers in Ontario numbering seventy, were given aftercare and other services by the Institute, under arrangement with the Department of Pensions and National Health.

All this work last year cost $152,-513.60, while other cash benefits to blind people served, through earnings from employment found or provided by the Institute or cash relief, amounted to over $227,405. Braille Embossing and Service Library, Home Teaching, Aftercare, Prevention, etc., were given without charge.

Since 1921 the Institute has advocated Government allowances or pensions for the unemployable blind, particularly those past middle life. During the past year a united request on behalf of the blind has been accomplished and sympathetic consideration has been given by each Provincial Government representatives. It is hoped legislative enactment will soon be effected.

A particular boon to blind voters is the right they now enjoy to choose a sighted relative or friend to accompany them into the privacy of the polling booth to assist them in marking their ballot at Dominion elections. In Ontario, Manitoba and Prince Edward Island the blind voter enjoys the privilege for Provincial and Municipal elections as well. The Institute was instrumental in bringing about these amendments to the Election Acts.

The deficit on the year's operations in Ontario amounted to $14,-714.74. The Canadian National Institute for the Blind is a philanthropic organization depending for support contributions from the general public for the greater measure of its support.

Lennox and Addington Sunday School Convention

The Fifty-second annual convention of the Religious Education Council of Lennox and Addington, met in Grace United Church, on Tuesday, November 6th.

The morning worship period was in charge of Ronald Basker, president of the Richmond executive and he was ably assisted by Garnet Dupre, Garnet Brooks, W. T. Wiser and Rev. R. T. Richards. The theme, "A Cal ito Service" presented a challenge in renewed consecration of Sunday School workers.

W. H. Mills spoke in appreciation of the splendid support received during his first term as president, expressing his confidence in the ability and enthusiasm of the leaders throughout the county.

It is regretted that contributions to the O. R. E. C. and to mission causes show a decrease from last year. Otherwise, progress has been made. One new school has been organized, making a total of forty schools with an enrolment of 3732 members. Graded lessons are provided in many pupils, more schools are providing separate rooms for children's classes, several held pupil-motion services. The report of Young People's work also showed progress from last year, with a large number of organized classes, and an increasing number of mid-week activities.

Rev. W. R. Thompson has spent much time and thought in arranging for a Standard Efficiency Training School, to be held in Grace Church, November 12th to 16th, inclusive. It is hoped that its efforts will be rewarded by a responsive interest on the part of Sunday School workers and pupils.

The Convention was fortunate in having as its guest speaker, Dr. Lansford, of Toronto. Dr. Lansford, who for many years has been closely associated with the O.R.E.C. addressed the morning session on "Evangelism in the Sunday School."

If the teacher would accomplish the highest results in evangelism, he must accept Jesus as personal saviour; become Christian and active in the service and grow and gradually grow to be Christ-filled lives—he must make it his supreme passion of his life. He must not only be present with his class on Sunday, but must carefully study and prepare for his material. He should be to his pupils an example of Christianity at its best in attractiveness, in earnestness and in beauty of character. If the teacher does not appeal and to produce immediate results, at least it does create a background of religious influence which may be crystallized into decision.

Sometimes much can be accomplished by personal conversation with the pupil. Decision days, when wisely planned with the prayerful co-operation of teachers, officers and pastor, are effective. Decisions should be carefully followed up and opportunities for public confession and service presented.

Afternoon Session

The afternoon session was opened by congregational singing, conducted by Mr. A. MacCrimmon.

Rev. Mr. Thompson led in an unusual and highly inspirational worship service. Appropriate hymns, the reading of faithful leaders of the past and a challenge to those of the present.

Following the worship service which was capably conducted by Dr. Fletcher, the following officers were elected for the year of Conventions; How to put in practice the knowledge gained; How to meet the present conditions of pledge-signing by Young People; Non-attendance of Sunday School workers.

Through the Resolutions Committee, the Convention expressed its appreciation to the officials of Grace Church for the use of their church; to the Ladies, for the bountiful dinner served; to Dr. Lansford, for His stimulating leadership; to those members of the choirs of Grace and Trinity churches who rendered the well-chosen musical numbers; and to all who contributed to the success of the convention. It was resolved, furthermore, that we urge efforts to educate our youth in temperance, and follow such education with an appeal to pledge themselves against the use of alcohol.

Officers Installed

Rev. A. J. Wilson installed the following officers for the ensuing year:

President—Wt. H. Mills.
First Vice-Pres.—Earle Bell.
Second Vice-Pres.—A. W. Fox.
Third Vice-Pres.—Clare Sexsmith.
Sec.-Treasurer—Miss Laura Parks.
Children's Division—Mrs. Earl Bell.
Girls' Division.—Miss Laura Rockwell.

Assistant—Mrs. Douglas Graham.
Boys' Division—Garnet Dunne.
Young People's Division—Ronald H. Babcock.
Adult Division—W. T. Winter.
Dept. of Religion—Allan Baldwin.
Dept. Leadership Training — Rev. W. E. L. Smith.
Dept. Missions— Mrs. W. H. Mills
Dept. Temperance—Mrs. A. Lassiter.

Denominational Representative — Dr. Fletcher.
Pianist—Mrs. Fred G. Anderson.
Ensign Russell, Rev. L. Sharp.
Clinical Director— Mr. A. MacGregor.

Dr. Langford's subject, "The Education of Jesus," of the Church's proved helpful to all present. He stressed the fact that while humans are educated and crystallized and of profiting by the mistakes and achievements of others, yet progress in any sphere is not automatic. It comes only through sacrifice and the sacrifice of life. This is particularly true of religion. We cannot expect to accomplish through our imperfect thinking only that which the Master Teacher sacrificed life itself.

Each church should work for the attendance and active service of one hundred per cent of its enrolled membership, as well as of those who should be enrolled. Dr. Langford is confident that this is being done in some communities and that in the Religious Education definite progress is being made.

We won't "press toward the mark of our high calling which is in Christ Jesus."

ROGER W. BABSON REVIEWS ECONOMIC SITUATION

THE NEW DEAL IN CANADA

Babson Says Capital Safer in Canada Than in United States

Many upsets of governments and economic systems are taking place throughout the world today. Some of my Canadian friends, becoming alarmed over the growth of radicalism in other countries, have inquired anxiously whether Communism would gain a firm foothold in the Dominion. Viewing with concern the spread of Fascism, they wonder whether Canada may not be headed for a rigid Fascist dictatorship. With their eyes on what is happening at Washington, they have wished to know how much of this intricate network of bureaucratic control will be imported into Ottawa.

Capitalism Best For a Healthy Nation

I have the same answer to all these questions. It is this: there is little danger of all Canada going Fascist or Communist. The vast majority of those with the New Deal will move northward across the boundary line. I consider Canada to have one of the most stable nations in the world today as to its form of Government and its continued adherence to the capitalistic system. Because of this fact, Canada has a total absence of any nation in the world, provided Canadians take full advantage of the opportunities which await them.

We are on the threshold of a new period of prosperity. It will not be like our last period of "Prosperity." New nations are coming to the fore; old leaders are dropping by the wayside. Fundamentally, however, the national qualities and abilities of a people will receive the same recognition that they always have in the past. Because of this, Canada which is now much further developed than in the last gilded era of ten years ago, should prove one of the leaders.

Our capitalistic system is by no means perfect ; but it is improving. It has been in those countries where it was abused that we have seen Fascism or Communism established. These now forms of social control, however, can find no foothold except where decay and corruption have set in upon a nation. Canada today appears to be the best method of economic and political control where a nation is young, vigorous and pushing ahead toward maturity. That is precisely what has happened since Canada has passed its pioneering stage and is now moving vigorously ahead in the development of her natural resources, of her industries —and most importantly — of her man-power.

Economic Decay Breeds Fascism and Communism

Let us step a moment and consider just for what all these various "isms," which we have to the right and left of us, are breeding. What are the conditions under which they thrive ? Fascism puts the suppression of the individual above all else. All political rights of the individual are scrapped. Economic and political control is in the hands of one man or a small group. Fascism has come into power in countries where extreme unemployment and want have thrown the people into a state bordering on revolution. With strong-arm methods, Fascism usually starts and the wheels of industry again and drafted all classes into carrying out a national program. But it must be Fascism can successfully be sown only where economic chaos exists.

Communism, like Fascism, is based on force. It spells rigid regimentation of the individual and his property in the interest of the state. Property in private use has the status of being leased to the individual by the Government, and all essential industries are run by the government. Socialism and Communism, although often confused, are based on principles as far apart as Pole and East. A Socialist is a Pacifist, while a Communist is a militarist. Socialism means taking over the industries of a country by the people —that is by purchase by the government from their present owners. There is little realization of the tremendous taxes plus inflation are on the program.

The experiments in government policy and alphabet regulations taking place in the United States under the name of the "New Deal" come very near to Socialism. If all the rumors prove true in the final analysis, the leaders of the Roosevelt Administration would be out-and-out Socialists. It seems to me, however, that they are not so much socialists as opportunists. It surely looks as if the New Deal is definitely another step in the peaceful invasion of the United States by Socialism. By a gradual chiselling of Capitalism, it is hastening the day when railroads, public utilities, telephones, oil, and other necessities will become socialized.

Canada Faces Future Unafraid

So, I repeat, Canada is in no danger of becoming infected with germs of radicalism, whether Fascism or Communist. These seem to thrive only in corrupted, decaying economic conditions. Canada is still young. Some of them are serious, but they are the problems of growth and development—not those of old age and decay. Her vigorous, healthy condition is being proven by her recent come-back in recovery. Her banking system, that was such a blessing during the depression, came through with flying colours and all the world turns to it with admiration.

Undoubtedly some of the valuable things which the New Deal has taught will be incorporated in the Ottawa Government. There is already agitation to do this. Some that have proven worthless will be carefully avoided. Canadians, however, will be proud of the fact that less than far they have let the United States make the huge costly economic experiments and become a labaratory from which Canada can glean the benefits.

Make Great Progress In Construction Northern Roads

For the motorist who is fond of wild scenery and who has not, as yet, travelled over Highway No. 7, which is said to be the most direct route between Toronto and Ottawa, a real treat is in store.

To those contemplating a trip over this highway, which has been under construction for the past three years, a check up on their supply of gas, oil and tires is necessary, due to the fact that service stations and the proverbial "hot-dog" stands are few and far between, while residences are just about as scarce.

For a distance of 38 miles from the Lake to Kaladar, there are less than nine residences, but the lack of either residences, hotels or gas stations is more than made up by the natural beauty that greets the eye on either side of the highway. As one travels west for a distance of nine miles, only three houses can be found adjacent to the new highway, and these are of the "shack" type.

The highway, along with construction on two other roads taken over by the Kenny Construction Co. at the beginning of the present year, are inspected by W. P. Noonan, resident engineer for the Department of Highways of the province with residency headquarters in Bancroft. Only yesterday a representative of the Recorder and Times, at the invitation of Mr. Noonan, covered 250 miles of the roads that come under his supervision.

Leaving Deseronto via highway No. 20 the first work gang contacted was a party of men who were engaged in the work of Prankville, painting white blocks every 100 feet directly in the centre of the highway. These blocks mark north the blocks were only 50 feet apart, and at another stretch they were even closer. Mr. Noonan stated this was an experiment being tried out for the guidance of the drivers at night. The surface of this particular highway is such that it absorbs rather than reflects the rays of light on foggy nights the new white blocks are for the purpose of indicating the centre of the road to the driver.

Leaving Highway 20 at Perth, a trip of 55 miles was travelled to Kaladar over Highway No. 7. This road at present has a crushed stone base, and is being macadamized by half-way foremen who cover their "stretches" daily. It is wearing well in a permanent and satisfactory manner, all make it one of the finest in the province. The scenery is natural and with its rocks and woods presents a beautiful picture in the fall of the year. A visit was made to the fish hatchery which has been constructed at White Lake, famous for its bass, and the hatchery is expected to commence operation in the spring. The sum of $25,000 has been expended by the Provincial Government on this project, which is, as yet incomplete in that at least two more units remain to be built.

Silver Lake is another beauty spot adjacent to this highway and here the government has constructed a road around surrounding the lake, built fireplaces and made a beautiful campsite. Accommodation at the week-ends from Ottawa and surrounding districts. The work on the lake was carried out under the supervision of the Brockville residency of the Highways Department.

On arrival at Kaladar, Colin A. Campbell, recently elected to the Provincial House of Provincial, in bye-election, joined the party and inspected a stretch of six and one-half miles of new road under construction of the "Perry" Road, acquired earlier this year as a provincial highway. This road leads from highway No. 7 to Napanee, a distance of 33 miles, and will eventually connect with the section being carried out by the Campbell Construction Company, Toronto, with William Clarke, C. E., as the highway engineer, in charge.

The cuts and fills feature the work of the contractors, solid rock having to be blasted for a greater part of the mileage now completed, although the 250 men employed. The meal consisted of bean soup, potatoes, beef, carrots, pickles, pie, pudding, tea biscuits, a variety of cookies and cake, all of which were served in a faultless manner.

The next road visited was that from Kaladar Lake, known as the Cataraqui Road, taken over this year and like the Kaladar-Napanee Road has yet approximately 7 miles to complete. This road, extending from Highway No. 7 to Highway No. 2, covers a distance of 14 miles.

At present, 14 miles are under construction, seven miles by the Dominion Construction Company, Toronto, with James Swift, C. E., as highway engineer, on another stretch of seven miles with the Angus Taylor firm of Toronto, carrying out the work under the supervision of Arthur Rabb, C. E., of the Highways Department at Belleville.

Part of the road is being constructed through a swamp in order to eliminate a number of "dips" or curves with which there abounds. Considerable difficulty is being experienced in this section of the road, the "fill" in the swamp, but for the most part the contract is well on schedule. From Shannon Lake to Kingston, there are eleven railway crossings on, this Highway, ten of which are on Kingston and Pembroke branch of the C. P. R. and the other is that of the Canadian National Railways. During the trip Mr. Campbell met many of his constituents, all of whom he was able to call by name. Arriving at Kingston, Mr. Campbell entrained for Toronto and the journey to Brockville was made over King's Highway No. 2.

BOYS' INTER - CLUB COMPETITIONS

Teams representing sixty-two Boys' Agricultural Clubs gathered at the Ontario Agricultural College on October 19th to vie for the honour of representing the Province of Ontario in an Inter Provincial Boys' and Girls' Club competition to be conducted at the Royal Winter Fair. Each Club competing was represented by two members between the ages of 16 and 20 years, inclusive.

In Ontario in 1934, there were 2,482 boys enrolled in 1933 Cattle, Swine, Grain and Potato Clubs, supervised by the Ontario Agricultural Representative Branch, under the direction of the Director, R. S. Duncan.

The Cattle Club Competition was closely contested by 24 teams and the honour of winning first place was captured by Ronald Bagg, Brinsville, and Lorne Petch, Millsken, members of the Markham Dairy Calf Club in York County. J. E. Alexander and Arthur Huff of Prince Edward County finished a close second.

In the Grain Club Competition, Harry Kennedy, Cavan, and John Holmes, Newcastle of the Durham County Grain Club were successful in winning the highest score in the competition, with 16 other teams, while Billy Johnston, Renfrew, and Harry Wilson, Pembroke, finished second.

First and second places in the Swine Club Competition were taken by representatives of Durham County, Garner Rickard, Bowmanville and William Rowland, Newcastle, being members of the winning team and John Rickard, Newcastle and George Werry, Hampton, of second place team.

The boys interested in Potato Club Work also featured keen competition, and Ralph Rowan, Bethany and Gordon Fallis, Millbrook, Durham County, were successful in winning first place from Duncan Fletcher, Alderton, and Winslow Skinner, Strathroy, of Middlesex County, who finished in second place.

Following the keenly contested competitions, the competitors, coaches and officials were guests at a dinner in the O. A. C. cafeteria. Following the announcement of the results, Dr. G. I. Christie, president of the College, delivered an inspiring address which climaxed an interesting and enjoyable day for the club members who had gathered from all parts of Ontario, from the east and Lambton in the west. Another pleasing feature of this function was the presentation of "The Farmer" trophies, by Editor C. T. Hodge, to the teams from York and Durham Counties, winners in the Cattle and Swine Competitions, respectively.

GRADING AND INSPECTION OF EXPORT POULTRY

Important amendments to the Live Stock and Live Stock Products Act, affecting the grading and marking of dressed poultry, have been approved by the Governor in Council, and will become effective at once after they have been published twice in the Canada Gazette. The original regulations under the act passed in 1923 have been changed to make compulsory the grading and inspection of dressed poultry for export.

In addition to being inspected at the point of shipment as to grading and packing, very definite regulations have been formulated regarding the marking of containers, and the tagging of each individual bird with its class and grade. Each container of dressed poultry for export or any fee which inspection is requested, must be legibly stencilled on one end in block letters not less than three-quarters of an inch in height. If all the birds in the box are tagged, also the gross weight in the lower left corner the net weight; and in the centre the kind and sub-kind on the first line and the class and grade on the second line. Another important clause in the amended regulations provides that upon the tag or boxes or bearing these stencilled directions, no mark or other misleading matter is allowed.

Unless shippers follow the regulations in all particulars the government is not compulsory as regard to placed on the boxes, nor can the poultry be exported. Making the inspection compulsory as applied to export shipments of dressed poultry will safeguard the poultry being exported and to maintain the splendid reputation already established for Canadian dressed poultry.

DESERONTO

Deseronto, November 12.—The Remembrance Day service held at the Monument, was attended by a large group of townspeople. Mayor Therrien acted as master of ceremonies. In a brief address he expressed his appreciation to all who had co-operated to make the day possible, and paid personal tribute to the memories of those whose names appear on the Memorial Tablet. The conclusion of the two minutes' silence was marked by earnest prayer by Rev. A. C. Hoare, that the true spirit of peace might be fostered in the lives of all. A half minute silence was observed in tribute to the memory of Mr. George F. Palmer, who so recently passed on, but who had in previous years taken a prominent part in the Armistice Day services. Mr. James Hill, M.P.P., recalled the first Armistice Day and what it had meant to a war weary world, and reminded his hearers more particularly of their duty to those who returned, unable to adjust themselves to a post war society, not forgetting the dependents of those who stayed in Flanders' fields. In conclusion, he asked a fresh pledge of loyalty to all those things for which these heroes had given their lives. "Our debt is great," said Mr. Hill, "for no man may do more than lay down his life for his friends and ideals." Dr. Cameron, in his address, asked that Remembrance Day should skip be Renewal Day, a day in which those who have gone on are remembered with reverence, not for any purpose of harrowing hearts, or indulging in the luxury of tears, but that this new generation, which, fortunately, knows nothing of war, may see alike with the older generation the necessity for renewing each year our pledges of loyalty to those standards of unselfish service which will equal in fervour and enthusiasm the efforts so willingly made during the war. Quoting the Prince of Wales, who declared that another war was unthinkable, and yet the past war must not be forgotten, Dr. Cameron remarked: "One day of remembrance each year is not enough. It is only by building a race which loves peace that we may prove our loyalty." The hymn, "Abide With Me", closed the service.

Town Council Considers Liability Insurance For Civic Employees

Will Investigate Costs

At the regular session of the Town Council, held on Monday evening, all members were present, and the Mayor was in the chair.

After the reading of the minutes the Clerk presented the communications for the consideration of the Council.

A letter was read from the Workmen's Compensation Board, concerning the disposition of the case of George Wheeler. The Board advised the Council of the Town of Napanee that it had decided the town is to pay Mr. Wheeler a monthly pension of $1.50 for life, beginning May 30th, 1934, and is also to pay a lump sum of $65.00. Mr. Wheeler was injured while working for the Sand & Gravel Co. A splinter of steel entered his eye and for some time he was a patient in Kingston General Hospital. As a result of the accident Mr. Wheeler's sight has been permanently affected. Considerable correspondence has been carried on between the civic authorities and the Board in the matter and the Board has finally made the above ruling. The question was discussed by the members of the Council and after it was made clear the Workmen's Compensation Board has power to make a ruling binding on the municipality. It was moved by Deputy Reeve Wilson, and seconded by Reeve Hughson, and carried, that the Treasurer make the payments to Mr. Wheeler.

A request from Mr. G. F. Smith that the assessment on the new vacant lot at the corner of Centre and Thomas streets, belonging to the U. M. Wilson estate, be lowered. The matter was referred to the Court of Revision.

Mr. Timothy Hunt appeared before the Council, to ask that the assessment on his property on the Newburgh Road, be reduced. On motion the matter was referred to the Court of Revision.

Mr. J. Ray Smith addressed the Council, giving information concerning the policing of public liability and property damage insurance with the town's fire truck, which is now only covered with fire insurance. For $50.00, Mr. Smith said, the town could get coverage of $10,000 for any one accident, or $5,000 for injury to one person, and $1,000 for property damage. On motion of Reeve Hughson and Councillor Keler's resolution was referred to the Finance Committee, with power to act.

Councillor Morden presented the Streets Committee Report, which showed expenditures to date of $6,564.87, and balance available for the remainder of the year of $235.13.

Councillor Luffman, Chairman of Town Property, reported the acceptance of $10.40 on the ceiling of the Public Library.

Councillor Topping, Chairman of Parks, brought in a recommendation from his committee that since the line has not yet been established between Springside Park and the property recently purchased by Rev. L. M. Sharp, that a government surveyor be asked to make a survey and give a decision, and also that since Mr. Sharpe is still using the land by a right of way, that the committee recommends that signs be posted to prevent this practice. On motion the recommendations were adopted.

Deputy Reeve Wilson spoke in favor of getting estimates from insurance companies for insurance on town employees against accident and death.

Councillor Luffman thought the idea was good, and made a motion which was seconded by Councillor Cowling, that the matter be left in the hands of the Finance Committee.

Reeve Hughson also spoke on the Utilities Commission intended to build the water main extension from Mill street to the Bwing bridge, and had been recommended by the Council. The Mayor, who is a member of the Utilities Commission, stated that the matter had been considered, but at present the finances of the commission did not warrant the expenditure but as soon as they do, the work would be done.

Reeve Hughson brought to the attention of the Council the question raised by the City of Kingston concerning the procuring of cheaper electric power for Eastern Ontario. At present, he said, there was a big difference between the rates paid by Eastern and Western Ontario. He could see no reason why the line from the Gatineau, which pass through the north part of the country, could not be tapped and power brought in at a lower rate than at present. The Reeve moved a motion, which was seconded by Deputy Reeve Wilson, and carried, that the Clerk write the Municipality of Kingston suggesting that an organization of Eastern Municipalities be formed to negotiate to bring cheaper power to Eastern Ontario.

A motion was moved by Councillors Morden and Deputy Reeve Wilson, and carried, that the Treasurer, in co-operation with the Finance Committee, be instructed to issue a condensed financial statement on December 15th, to take the place of the usual annual detailed statement, which will be printed as an audited statement after the annual audit.

Among the accounts passed was the annual pay sheet of the volunteer fire brigade, amounting to $900.10, for sixteen men.

Justices of Peace Dismissal Action Is Now Legalized

Attorney-General Roebuck Friday announced the issuance of a "General Commission of the Peace." Departmental officials explained that this General Commission—the first in thirty years—will implement the Attorney-General's long-announced reorganization of the Justices of the Peace. It goes into effect after December 1st.

Mr. Roebuck, when he announced his reorganization of the Magistracies, took umbrage at the existence of 10,000 Ontario Justices of the Peace. He announced that these would be retired, and some 250 appointed for the purpose of taking informations and complaints and issuing summonses. Later a list of some 200 new Justices was given out at his office.

Officials explained that the issuance of a "General Commission" automatically cancels the appointments of all Justices of the Peace, generally appointed as "Associate Justices." By issuance the Attorney-General, it is understood, has finally legalized the dismissal of some 8,000 Justices. The new Commission was reported to include the appointments which he has made since announcing his reorganization of the Provincial judiciary, and a few in addition.

The new Commission does not affect the power of persons who are Justices of the Peace ex-officio, Mayors, Reeves, Deputy Reeves, Controllers and Aldermen are included in this category.

Tamworth Man Hit By Stray Bullet

His condition is reported serious, though he shows a little improvement. Lott, a Great War veteran, had been seriously wounded in action.

Canada's Relief Costs Show Large Increase

Fewer People on Relief In Country

Federal relief officers are confronted with a serious problem. Costs for relief continue to mount, in spite of the fact that there is a steady decrease in the number of people receiving direct relief in Canada. The present relief plan has been in operation for four years, and the possibility of it becoming a permanent necessity is agitating government officials.

The total cost of relief of various kinds to the Dominion Government now exceeds $200,000,000 which includes the $78,000,000 of unpaid loans to the Provinces, but which excludes the $12,500,000 in wheat bonuses, another form of relief.

April 1933, Peak

During the past three years the average number of persons on direct relief each month has been about 1,000,000, but the peak figure for these was reached in April, 1933, with a total for that month of 1,517,331, while in the months of August and September of that year the figure had dropped below 1,000,000. In the present year the highest level reached was in March, with 1,258,208, and in July and August it dropped below 1,000,000 persons in each month.

More important than the number on direct relief has been the cost and the upward trend of the cost figures. In May, 1932, the number on relief was about 600,000; the total cost was $2,216,039; the per capita cost per month being $3.70. By the end of that year the total cost had risen to a little over $6,000,000, with a per capita cost per month of $4.84. Then in March, 1934, the peak of relief cost was reached, with a total of $7,652,791, or a per capita cost per month of $5.70. Estimates for the months of September and October, this year, show the number on relief at 1,013,338 and 1,029,954, respectively, with the per capita cost per month estimated at $5.53 and $6.05 respectively.

The big problem now is to devise some means of gradually reducing relief to its ultimate goal of abolition.

Tamworth Boy Mired Several Hours In Mud

Tamworth, November 15.—Falling into a mudhole in a dense marsh, and unable to extricate himself, Jas. Fog, aged 17, member of a deer hunting party in the north part of this county, escaped death by a narrow margin. Exhausted and overcome by the bitter cold, he was unable to answer the calls of those in search for him, and was discovered only by accident by one of the members of his party who was making his way through the swamp looking for him.

The boy had gone to the shore of a small lake near the hunting camp to shoot ducks. When night fell and he did not appear lanterns were lighted and they set out to look for him. At the border of the marsh which surrounds the lake, guns were fired and when there was no response the party spread out and started across the marsh.

They had gone about half way when one of them found the lost boy, lying on a bed of cat-tails with the lower half of his body in the cold mud. The night air had chilled him so he was unable to speak or move. His face was caked with mud, his clothing in rags and his gun had disappeared.

It was not easy to get him free. Armfuls of rushes were pulled to make a platform. His feet were so entangled in lily roots that it took several minutes of hard work to extricate them.

Finally he was dragged to comparatively solid ground. He could not be carried over the quaking mud so his wet garments were taken off and each gave something of his clothing to keep him warm, after chafing his body until circulation was restored. In an hour he was able to walk.

About 3 o'clock he told his rescuers he had wounded a duck which had fallen in the swamp. In his eagerness to get it he had not noticed the hole and had fallen into it. Every time he moved he sank deeper. Throwing himself flat, he grasped rushes to pull himself out, but they would not hold. He called, but no one heard, and as night came on he pulled all the rushes he could reach and put them beneath him to hold him up.—Toronto Star.

Napanee's Fire Loss Increased This Year Total $11,874 for 1934

Only Two Large Fires In Year

At the meeting of the Town Council on Monday evening, Fire Chief Fred Vanalstine presented his annual report and the pay sheet for the firemen for the year.

The report showed the total number of calls answered as 37—six more than in 1933. The fire loss, this year, was $11,874, while in 1933 it was reported at $200. In January of this year a serious fire at the store of W. Davis & Daughter, and the burning of the home of John McParland at Vine's Corners, in January, accounted for the largest part of the fire loss. The majority of the calls were to put out chimney fires, which caused little property damage.

There are sixteen men on the fire brigade, all volunteers. During the year they put in a total of 574 hours of service, and received a total of $900.10 remuneration.

The members of the fire brigade are Chief Fred Vanalstine, Assistant Chief C. W. Conway, Ray Moore, John Hayes, E. W. Metcalfe, H. H. Vanalstine, Charles McMillan, Geo. Warner, Harry Vanalstine, Harry Babcock, F. B. Mills, Stan Richardson, Harry Vine, W. Exley, Jr., H. Derby and Fred King. In addition, Douglas Chambers runs the fire truck and resides over the fire hall, where he is always available when the fire bell rings.

The members of the Fire, Water and Light Committee of the Council, under whose jurisdiction the firemen come, are V. Cowling, chairman, J. Topping and Dr. F. C. Wilson.

The local fire brigade have a good reputation for promptness in answering calls, and for the diligent way in which they do their duty.

Royal Personages To Attend Wedding

London, Eng. — Nearly a score of royal personages will be present at the wedding of the Duke of Kent and Princess Marina of Greece this month, it was disclosed with publication of a list of acceptances, recently.

In addition, the full roster of England's nobility—with one exception—has been mustered. So far as it is known only one of England's dukes will be absent, and he, curiously enough, is the premier duke of England and hereditary earl marshal.

He is the Duke of Norfolk, who has gone to India for a trip lasting until next April. Reports that he would be responsible for the ceremonial at the wedding were denied by experts on court etiquette, who pointed out that the marriage will not be a state function, and therefore would not come within the scope of duties of the hereditary earl marshal.

Some of the visiting royalty will be guests of King George and Queen Mary at Buckingham Palace, but not even that huge and stately mansion will house them all, and prominent west end hotels, such as the Ritz, will be pressed into service.

Those listed as already having accepted invitations to the ceremony include:

The king and queen of Denmark, king and queen of Norway, Prince Paul of Jugoslavia, Count and Countess Teorring, Princess Marina's sister and brother-in-law, Prince Valdemar of Denmark, Prince George and Princess Marie of Greece, and the Grand Duchess Cyril of Leningrad, Russia.

Feminine princesses are among the bridesmaids:

Princess Juliana of the Netherlands, Princess Irene of Greece, Princess Katherine of Greece, Princess Eugenie of Greece, and Princess Elisabeth of York.

The other three bridesmaids will be Grand Duchess Kyra, of Russia; Lady Iria Mounthatten and Lady Mary Cambridge.

The annual meeting of the Prince Edward-Lennox Liberal-Conservative Association was held at the Napanee Town Hall on Tuesday afternoon, November 20th. Representatives from both parts of the riding were present.

Mr. C. W. Hambly, ex-M.L.A., the President last year, presided. With him on the platform were Dr. G. W. Morden, Sec.-Treas.; John Weese, M.P.; B. B. Calnan, H. S. Colliver, E.-J. Walters, Geo. Sampson, Wesley Young, T. D Creighton, and J. N. Ponton.

Dr. Morden, the Secretary, read the Constitution and By-laws of the Association, briefly drawn up. After some dislcussion they were adopted on motion of E. H. Sills and Wm. Knapp. Mr. J. N. Osborne spoke in objection to the clause which provides that delegates for the convention to select a candidate should be selected at 8 p.m. the day previous to the convention.

Captain A. S. Hughson, of Napanee, voiced the dissatisfaction of many Conservatives in Lennox concerning the treatment they felt they were getting at the hands of the Prince Edward part of the riding. He said that most of the jobs, the government has control of, were going to Prince Edward men. He felt, also, there was discrimination against Lennox He thought that Conservatism, with success, was becoming personalism, and that the party must get rid of factions if it would win elections. Mr. Hepburn objected to one clause in the constitution, which required candidates to pledge support to the leaders of the party. He considered the leaders had done the party a great deal of harm.

Mr. John Weese, M.P., took objection, also, to Mr. Hughson's remarks. He stressed the fact that Parliament was not "hogging" all the jobs. Of the four important appointments in the county since he had been in office, two had gone to each part of the riding. Some minor appointments had also been equally divided.

The Election of Officers

The main item of business was the election of officers.

Mr. E. H. Sills moved, and Mr. Kenny seconded, a motion that the officers of last year be returned to office. Mr. Sills put the motion to the meeting, but Mr. W. S. Wilson objected, partly because the province was irregular, and mainly because he thought the association needed some new blood if it would be in a position to help win the riding in an election. He felt that the organization in the recent election was weak and required new life put into it. Mr. Wilson's ideas received the support of the meeting. Dr. G. W. Morden, the Secretary-Treasurer for the past few years, had previously stated that he would not take office again, and Mr. Hambly said it was not his intention to let Mr. Sills' original motion go through, as he did not wish to accept office. He had many other matters which required his attention.

Nominations for the various offices were received, and resulted in the following officers being elected:

President—H. B. Cleminson, Picton.

1st Vice President—Joseph Hall, Napanee.

2nd Vice President — Mrs. [illegible] Bush, Picton.

3rd Vice President — Mrs. D. W. Young, Napanee.

Sec.-Treas.—L. B. Calnan, Picton.

Asst. Sec.-Treas.—Geo. J. Tustin, Napanee.

Eighteen stitches were required to close the wound, which is now progressing favorably. Mr. Gerow is the popular and well known coach of the Gibbard baseball teams.

Officials Probing Publisher's Death

Port Hope, Ont., Nov. 19.J—Authorities to-day continued a probe into the death of Donald H. Wilson, 34-year-old editor and publisher of the Port Hope Guide, who died in agony in hospital here on October 28th. Possibility that he was poisoned was seen following an examination of the stomach contents by Prof. L. Jordan Rogers, of the University of Toronto.

"A large amount of arsenic" was found in the stomach, said Professor Rogers' report. A more detailed report will be forthcoming from the professor when the exact cause of death will be known.

Coroner W. P. Diamond and Dr. H. W. Benson were unable to ascertain the cause of death so they sent the viscera to Professor Rogers before releasing the body for burial in the family plot at Union Cemetery. Wilson was in good health and was an alert and vigorous man. His publication, which had been in the Wilson family for a century, was in good financial shape.

The night before his death, Wilson ate a meal of tinned salmon, scrambled eggs and catsup, and then went to his office, becoming ill at 9.30 o'clock that evening. He expressed fear of premature poisoning and died two hours after entering hospital.

Dr. Diamond has decided on an inquest, but the date has not been set.

Son of the late P. W. Wilson, the young man became president and editor of the Port Hope Guide in 1929, and was prominent in the town's social life.

Motor Accidents Increase According To Report

Higher than for Same Period in 1933

The analysis of the accident reports received by the Motor Vehicles Branch during the month of September showed that the motor vehicle continued to exact its needless toll in casualties. Eleven hundred and seventeen accidents were reported, involving 1,681 vehicles and resulting in the loss of 71 lives, the injury of 1,087 persons and in property damage estimated at $135,594. The summary of statistics covering the first nine months of the year, revealed that the trend toward higher figures, which commenced in January, continued unabated until the end of September. Accidents reported during this period were 9.2 per cent. above the corresponding 1933 total, and resulted in 390 deaths (25.4% increase), and 6,354 non-fatal injuries. The latter figure represented an advance of more than 10 per cent.

Accidents attributable to dangerous driving actions were reported than last year. Drivers killed numbered 85 as compared with 53 during the same period of 1933, a difference of 60.4 per cent., as compared with an increase of 25.4 per cent. in all fatalities. The next greatest gain was registered in the number of deaths resulting from collisions with bicycles, with an advance of 44 per cent.

An analysis by location showed that the greatest increase in fatalities resulted from county road accidents (57.1%), followed by city fatalities with an increase of about 55 per cent.

Accidents during dusk or darkness increased 4.3 per cent. as compared with an advance of 4.3 per cent. in those during daylight. The number of fatal accidents also showed a much more rapid increase during darkness — the percentage being 31.3 per cent., and the daylight increase, 20 per cent.

THE MUNICIPAL ELECTION

At this time of year the political pot begins to boil. For eleven months the work of the town is left largely in the hands of the Council. Then as the end of the year draws on, the electors can be seen gathering in their groups, discussing the personnel of the Council for another year. It is about the only opportunity the average citizen has of taking an active part in the government of the community.

And yet it usually happens that when election day comes, the choice before the electors has been considerably narrowed down. This is due to several considerations. In the first place, there are those who have served on the Council for several years and who are anxious to continue. There are others who would like to serve. They get the nomination, but fearing a possible defeat, withdraw at the last minute. The result is that there is usually a very narrow choice for the voter. In a town the size of Napanee, this is not a really serious matter, for any of the men whose names finally appear on the ballot are capable of managing the town's affairs.

For the sake of continuity and orderliness, a large percentage of the men on the Council, in any one year, ought to be returned. They know the routine, and the background of what has been done, and the reasons for doing them. There is also room on the Town Council, each year, for one or two new men. These new men ought to be representative of our younger citizens. There is no place where a young man can get better training for public service than in the Town Council, and no place where he may better learn to serve the community.

There is always the threat of defeat at any election, but defeat should never be looked on as a disgrace. It is simply the fortunes of election, and a young man defeated once or even twice will, as a rule, succeed in learning one of the most necessary of life's lessons, that success does not come without persistence and labor.

AGAIN THIS YEAR

For a number of years The Napanee Beaver has undertaken to provide a Christmas dinner for the needy families in Napanee, and a Christmas stocking for all those who would ordinarily be overlooked by St. Nicholas.

Beginning in a very modest way, a few years ago, The Beaver Santa Claus Fund now has to provide for an increasingly large number of families. Since 1930, work has been at a premium in the community, with the result that people who, all their lives, were able to maintain themselves in an independent manner are being gradually forced below the subsistance line. For a year or two, they were able to manage by drawing on their slender reserves. Clothing could be turned and made over and some that had been discarded was brought out and patched. But five years with no steady income, has wrought great changes. The scant reserves are all used up and the problem of merely getting enough food and clothing, is daily becoming more serious.

Our Governments are becoming more paternal. Relief of one sort and another is being provided. But the relief agencies, even at best, can provide only the minimum necessary to keep body and soul together and to maintain the family life.

There are many more people and children in our town this year, than there were last year, who will need assistance. And there are more people willing and anxious to help. The depression has widened the sympathies and deepened the sense of responsibility on the part of large numbers who had formerly felt little necessity to bear the burden of others.

The Beaver will try, this year, as it has done in the past, to direct this generosity in channels where it will do most good. We try to become the medium through which this spirit of generosity and good will may express itself in the finest manner. In the past, donations have been received from clubs, Churches, Sunday School Classes and individuals. This year, we are hoping for greater gifts as the need is proportionately greater. Already we have made a survey and the Committee are making plans that no family shall go without a Christmas dinner and no child shall be denied a visit from Santa Claus.

It is of first class importance that the top ten per cent. the cream of the intellect of our university graduates should be kept at home; if they are allowed to leave the Dominion it makes the difference of Canada being a first class or a second class nation.—Dr. H. M. Tory, president of the National Research Council.

Good name, in man or woman, is the immediate jewel of their souls. Who steals my purse steals trash; but he that filches from me my good name, robs me of that which not enriches him, and makes me poor indeed.—William Shakespeare.

He who receives guests, and pays no personal care to the repast offered them, is not worthy to have friends.

A cook may be educated, but a "roast cook" is born such.

TRENDS OF GOVERNMENTS

According to history, the masses were once of use, largely, for the benefit of the aristocracy. This resulted in much abuse with widespread dissatisfaction. The culmination was the French Revolution; this is now referred to as a decisive turning point in the progress of the world.

After that the most easily recognized feature, with transference of authority from the barons to the people, was the formation of the large trusts. They, likewise, led to abuse and widespread dissatisfaction and we had, within recent memory, the trust-bursting period of President Theodore Roosevelt of the United States.

Opposition to such abuse of power was largely called Socialism and was a bugbear to all of the old school, who believed in rugged individualism. In other words, the majority, at one time, believed in the motto—to the victor belongs the spoils. This was true for war between armies, as well as that between conflicting commercial organizations. This opinion was generally held by right-thinking people and seldom has an economic policy received greater support.

The next period may be described as an expansion of domestic and international trade on an unprecedented scale. Power passed from the industrialists to financiers, national and international. This was accomplished by credit —that is, present advantages are immediately available, by a promise to pay. The war was only one illustration of the credit fallacy, when carried to an extreme.

The inevitable collapse followed and is not yet over. This period of depression has led to much clearer thinking about what method or methods will be of most benefit to a nation. Schemes innumerable are being tried; each has a different name, the very number of names results in confusion, but there is one underlying thought common to all—more equal distribution of those results, produced by the progress of the world, amongst the various classes of a nation.

Thus Socialism is now, even in so-called democratic countries, largely in effect. A good illustration is Great Britain, where, for some years, the State has recognized its obligation to provide necessities of life, for all of its members.

In Canada, like responsibility is accepted, but has led to the granting to a few people, of sovereign powers.

The great experiment in the United States is, likewise, based upon the recognition of rights for the under-privileged. To a greater extent than in Canada, it has led to sovereign powers being placed within a few hands. In other words, the elected representatives have temporarily given over those duties conferred upon them by democratic countries.

When Europe and the rest of the world is considered from such familiar developments, the difference is not so great, as appears on first thought.

Thus Communism in Russia, for precisely the same reasons as outlined, has led to a form of government, which is the subject of a wide divergence of opinion and bitterly animosities. Without, in any sense, suggesting or thinking that such is good or right for other countries, nevertheless, that experiment has had a greater effect upon the world than did the French Revolution. Historians, as in the case of the French Reign of Terror, are likely to use it as a turning point between periods of progress. The Russian dictatorial government assumes responsibility for all its citizens and the right to regulate all of their actions, even to food allowances. Private ownership, except of personal belongings, has been eliminated, having been taken over by the Government.

In Italy, Fascism, a dictatorship under Mussolini, had, in the beginning, many crudities and oppressions. It is, however, progressive; has earned the respect of other nations and is now undertaking a new experiment in government. According to this plan, all activities of the nation will be grouped into about a dozen. It will consist of representatives of all factions in it such as investors, managers and laborers, will appoint delegates to meet those of the other units. These delegates will replace the representatives of the people, common to democratic countries. Thus Fascism has points of agreement with Communism. The major feature is one point of difference. In Russia the government assumes all rights and responsibilities; in Italy the government, taking the same rights, wishes the citizens to assume part of the responsibilities.

The German form of government is still in its earliest stages; Nazism's unfortunate results are manifest, evidence, as usual, with a dictatorship. These consist of persecutions of its own citizens and aggressive acts against other nations to bolster up a national feeling of patriotism, whereby Hitler may receive widespread approval of his autocratic acts. Foreign opinion is greatly against the Government at this time and time is required to see what results will develop.

The world is in an interesting state of flux. Governments, whether Democratic, Socialistic, Fascist, Nazist or Communistic, are being pressed by public opinion for better conditions. Differences between them are not so important as their common desire for a better way of living for their own nationals. Time will adjust many conceptions and such an adjustment in international affairs will be productive of an era beyond our best hopes.

PREPARING THE ROSE GARDEN FOR WINTER

At this time, the rose garden at the Central Experimental Farm is receiving a great deal of attention. All dead and diseased leaves have been removed, raked up and burned. In order to prevent germs from attacking the new growth in the spring. The stems of Hybrid Perpetual and Hybrid Tea roses have been tied together, bent over and fastened to stakes. Soil is mounded around the stems to about twelve inches from the ground and if the whole plant is covered with earth so much the better. After the earth is frozen, leaves, straw and brush are laid over the plants.

Climbing roses are taken off their supports and the stems tied together. Any very long branches are shortened in if necessary. The plants are then dug up and covered with earth, then boards are put over them in such a position that water will drain off. Since mice are sometimes very destructive, it is advisable to put a handful of poisoned grain beside each plant.

Standard or tree roses are laid down and covered. To do this the roots are loosened on one side, or the plant is taken up and buried completely in a trench. The rose is budded at the top of the main stem so that part must be carefully protected.

Editorial Comment

PARLIAMENT AND ARMS TRAFFIC

The arms industry in this country is bound to be one of the subjects ventilated. Parliament could do no less after the charges made against British firms at the recent American inquiry and widely published in this country. Firms with famous names were alleged at Washington, to have touted for orders, used financial pressure on Governments, and sold arms to one country while American colleagues were selling to its enemy. Now the arms merchants, both in this country and elsewhere, cannot be considered as a homogeneous band of black-hued villians. To paint them as if they were is a ridiculous simplification of the facts. If Schneider-Creusot, Skoda, and Vickers-Armstrong, the rest of the world, has thrown over free trade completely and is bent on seriously protecting its own agriculture, there is a change of tune. It never seems to have been realised that the opportunities of the Dominion producer in the British market might be removed by tariff protection. The Dominion now find, to their dismay, that the competition of the protected British farmer may, in certain respects, be far from negligible. It may be, of course, that prosperity will return in a flood to Britain, America, and the rest of the world, and in that case a rise in the standard of living might enable all surplus production to be absorbed, but of that there is small indication at the present time. —Cape Argus.

A CHANGE OF TUNE

The Dominions — Australia more particularly — used to reproach the United Kingdom with its old-fashioned fiscal views and ask, "Why don't you follow our example?" Now that Great Britain, in sheer despair at the depression of the rest of the world, has thrown over free trade completely and is bent on seriously protecting its own agriculture, there is a change of tune. It never seems to have been realised that the opportunities of the Dominion producer in the British market might be removed by tariff protection. The Dominions now find, to their dismay, that the competition of the protected British farmer may, in certain respects, be far from negligible. It may be, of course, that prosperity will return in a flood to Britain, America, and the rest of the world, and in that case a rise in the standard of living might enable all surplus production to be absorbed, but of that there is small indication at the present time. —Cape Argus.

FADING HOPES

Disarmament in general is not so popular a cause as it was. Enthusiasm for it has markedly waned since G. Ceretti was heard on the first comprehensive discussion of it. In the withdrawal of Germany and Japan from the League is a serious hindrance to all programmes of peace. The Covenant of the League remains, but it is true, and the World Court is as available as ever to disputants, but the first free rapture of this splendid venture is lost. There persists, too, the Briand-Kellogg Pact renouncing recourse to war, yet this has proved little more than a dead letter, given mere lip-service in the Far East, forgotten almost everywhere else, and still awaiting its integral incorporation in the League Covenant.—Auckland Weekly News.

RISING TO THE OCCASION

In a Swedish village someone recently saw a bird with the wings developed heads. One, normally placed, was used for feeding, whilst the other, from out of the side of the body, was employed as a look-out. Is this a hint of an evolutionary attempt to deal with the modern traffic problem? Not mal a propos, perhaps, is the information that in Bradford the average height of school children has, during the last year or two, increased the fifth time in succession, on debts due December 15th.—Lucio.

THE SCEPTICS

"I don't want to be controversial, or harsh, but there was a man some time ago who shrugged wounds in his chest, and the Ministry said it was not due to his war service. I don't know what they think he got them in. —Encouraging evidence of caution on the part of the Ministry of Pensions.)

"Please save yourselves a fruitless

A spot of shrapnel in the chest
Should not be taken as a test;

The patient, a deceiving elf,
He may have put it there himself.

Or haply it has come to pass
Through rashly sitting on damp grass.

It is impossible to tell—
It might have been a new bar shell,

For that might still be counterfeit.
An instrument of sheer deceit,

Devised by someone born and bred
To swing the vile, misleading lead.

Ours is a job where one must take Precautions and be wide-awake;

Deceit is in man's very breast;
Indeed, it seems it ought to be

To take the boldest line and say
To all the claimants "Go away!

"The Ministry, to save confusion,
Has reached one simplified conclusion.

"Please save yourselves a fruitless
effort
We find there was no war at all.
"All idle claims must cease forthwith;
The war was just a solar myth."

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, NOVEMBER 25TH, 1934

"STEWARDSHIP"

MATTHEW 25 : 14 - 30

In this passage Jesus tells the parable of the talents. In brief, the story is that on a certain man who was leaving for a long journey. Before doing so he made provision for the conduct of his business in his absense. He gives to each of three servants certain amounts of money. To one he gave five talents, to another, two and to another one. On his return he called the servants together and demanded of them an account of their activities in his absense. The five talen man had made another five talents, the two talen man other two talents, while the one talent man, who had hid the money in the ground, dug it up and returned the exact amount which had been given to him. The first two were commended by the master while the third was punished, by being made to give his talent to the man who had made the five talents.

There are two or three important issues that arise from a consideration of the parable. In the first place, all men are not born equal. There are differences of mental, spiritual and physical endowments. But the clear and unmistakable teaching of the master is that the unused talents, whether they be one or many, do not grow. Time after time in the parables, Jesus sought to enforce this message of growth. In the story of the sower, the mustard seed, and the leaven, he indicates that growth in character is the essential quality of the kingdom of heaven. And yet that is one of the doctrines men care least to follow. Having reached a certain point in their spiritual attainment, they cease to grow. The result is that spiritual powers and possibilities atrophy and die. It matters not whether the endowment is four talents, two talents, the result is the same. If men and women use the power they have, it will expand and develop. A righteous God will judge them not by the amount of possession, but by the one that was made of them, and the growth that marked his progress through life.

In the second place, it teaches that no man owns anything outright. Sooner or later he must make an account of it. This is a lesson we are learning more and more every day we live. Governments are in an increasing manner, exerting the right to a share in what a man considers his own. In inheritances, taxes, income taxes, gasoline and other forms of taxation, the State takes our money. And in a condition of danger it exercises the right to another one. On his return he called the servants together and demanded of them an account of their activities in his absense. The five talen man had made another five talents, the two talen man other two talents, while the one talent man, who had hid the money in the ground, dug it up and returned the exact amount which had been given to him. The first two were commended by the master while the third was punished, by being made to give his talent to the man who had made the five talents.

The cabbage in ancient Greece and Rome was regarded as a cure-all, such power in dissipating the fumes of wine was not the least of its virtues.

THAT DEPRESSED FEELING IS LARGELY LIVER

Wake Up Your Liver Bile . . . Without Calomel, And Feel Like a Million Dollars.

Nothing can put your system out of kilter more quickly than your liver. All it has to do is stop pouring its daily two pounds of liquid bile into your intestines, and you're sick, sour, constipated. That sluggish flow of bile slows up digestion and elimination and makes you "feel rotten." Your stomach acts up—gas, bloating, surfeited pain. Your breath is foul and you taste bile in mouth. Is nasty. Your head aches. Skin is sallow, dull. And of course, because your bowels aren't moving, you feel mean, grouchy.

Mere bowel movers like salts, oil, mineral water, roughage, laxative candy or chewing gum are not good enough to correct this condition entirely. You're lovely and you must wake up your liver bile to be happy again.

Avoid calomel (mercury). The thing for you is a box of Carter's Little Liver Pills. They never upset your bowels because they're purely vegetable, gentle but sure; but how they do change things on life!

Don't waste your money on substitutes. Be definite. Ask for Carter's by name—and get them! Look for the name, Carter's, on the red label. 25c at all druggists. 56

ONE OF CANADA'S MOST BEAUTIFUL SHOWS

That incomparable show of the year in Canada for flowers, the annual Chrysanthemum Show at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, is now being held and will continue until the end of the second week in November. The display of 2,000 individual plants with over 20,000 blooms presents a riot of color and shades, and variations that can be the finest show for several years.

There are 32 named varieties, which were originated at the Central Experimental Farm, and 100 new varieties, also products of the Farm, as yet unnamed. There are also many of the very finest specimens of the standard varieties.

One of the special attractions of this year's show is the J. R. Booth, one of the finest of the Central Experimental Farm creations, named after the late famous Ottawa lumberman and railway builder. It is a brilliant yellow that now holds great rank among chrysanthemum enthusiasts.

In an adjoining greenhouse to where the 20,000 chrysanthemum blooms are on display, the finest collection of geraniums in Canada is on view, among which are 24 varieties originated at the Farm, some being very large and others specially adapted for pot culture. These geraniums offer an infinite variety in colour and shade.

While the chrysanthemum is a native of China, it was developed to a state of beauty and perfection in Japan, where chrysanthemum exhibitions are among the most botanical of the various festivals of that country. It was introduced into Europe in the 18th century and was first grown at the famous botanical gardens at Kew, England, in 1790. The first Chrysanthemum Show was held in England in 1825.

The Show held at the Central Experimental Farm in Ottawa, is among the finest of its kind on this side of the world.

Not All Japanese Favor Militarism Says Dr. Norman

The following article was sent by Dr. Norman, of Japan, to the Aurora Banner. We reprint it because his many friends in this district will be interested to get this first hand information about Japan from the pen of Dr. Norman.

Japan may have given notice of withdrawal from the League of Nations, but the mileage from Vancouver or any other ocean port to Yokohama remains the same as formerly and trade movements flow along the same channels interfered with only by the artificial barriers that nationalism, selfishness, and price erect in other lands as well as Japan.

In the matter of national policies, militarism, and other things that we regard as reprehensible in others, Japan has been but an apt pupil of Western nations and we will do well to keep this in mind in our judgment of others. Japan herself is suffering from these things, just as Canada is, and one thing that we should appreciate is that there are many in Japan who do not support their own government in its aggressive military policy. But they realize that Japan has been forced by Western aggression and selfish attitudes, eg. the Japanese-Exclusion Act of the U. S. A. Conference, and many other things, that the pressure now from above they are forced to be silent. I have friends among the educated and progressive classes who feel that if Western powers were known for their deeds rather than their professions of good-will and friendship it would be easier and more hopeful to condemn military oppression in Japan.

An outstanding Liberal Progressive, perhaps I might add the word Radical, is Hon. Y. Ozaki, who recently delivered a public address here in Karuizawa. He has been Mayor of Tokyo, Minister of Education in one Government, and Minister of Justice in another. He is now approaching 75 years of age, but with mind as keen and voice as clear as ever, he criticizes and opposes militarism, race prejudice, narrow nationalism, dictatorships, and other things which stand in the way of bringing in a new and better world order. He can be sarcastic, witty, eloquent and keep his audience in good humor while he talks along the serious lines through which many of his hearers worship. All forms of reactionarism is but idolatry. He pointed out that in the present world-wide distress is aggravated by useless expenditures and armaments that make the manufacturers of arms and materials for war rake supported governments which were conservative in matters of international relations and goodwill among men.

Hon. Jas. S. Woodsworth Visits Japan

A few days after Mr. Ozaki delivered this address we were favored by a visit from Hon. Jas. S. Woodsworth, M.P., Leader of Labor and of the C. C. F. in Canada. He gave, in a public address, a brief history of the C. C. F. and showed the way out of the present dark days, by Socialism as the better and more just order. It was an admirable address and was greatly appreciated by the audience, not all sympathetic, but all willing to listen to any programme that has regard for principles of remaking our world into a righteous and just future. Many, at the close of that address, thanked Mrs. George, for the hospitality she had given us and that Mr. Woodsworth had been with us. We hope that Canada may lead the world into a new and better day.

Next morning at Mr. Woodsworth's address, I had the privilege of being present at an interview with Mr. Woodsworth and Mr. Y. Ozaki. It was a most interesting interview. Mr. Ozaki's daughter was present and took an active part in the discussion. She has travelled the world with her father, and has met great admirers of England and of British parliamentary institutions and customs. I felt that here was an illustration of how there is no barrier of race or nation when souls having common aims and ideals meet together and freely discuss the things they hope to see achieved for the good of humanity.

Mr. Woodsworth was accompanied by his wife, who is a sister of Mr. and his brother, Rev. H. F. Woodsworth, a member of the Mission in Japan of the United Church of Canada and a professor of the Kwansei University. It was delightful and inspiring to see in this group determined upon building a Social order which will suffer no individual to be exploited for the profit and pleasure of others, and will assure to all who are willing to work the right and means of earning a decent living, secure from any so-called economic wars and armaments, but free enough for personality, giving to normal children and men and women scope for developing the weak and abnormal and unfortunate ones from the happiness of the day when such an equisite system. It will seek to avoid bitterness and strife and international hatred and misunderstanding on the basis of mutual and co-operative service from which all parties concerned will derive the advantage or blessing due to fair and honest mutual dealings among men.

Of course all of these things were not discussed on that morning by the prophets of a new day who met in Hon. Mr. Ozaki's parlor, they were accepted as the goals for which the two main parties of that early morning conversation have made many sacrifices and have shown themselves willing even to sacrifice life itself that the greater and more noble ideals for humanity may be achieved. Mr Ozaki has for one occasion at least escaped assassination because the police have to protect him from revolutionaries who have got down to many of the men of liberal views in Japan.

Since June 30th we have been living in Karuizawa, 'a town 3,100 feet above sea level, where we own an acre of scoria from the neighboring volcano. Having been forced to retire because the limit of supposed efficiency has been reached, namely, three score years and ten, we are like the old Ford car described by the boy as having been supplied with a new set of tires and so that's how Dad retired the old Ford. Well, we have plenty of work and all the preaching that we can do. A whole county lies before me unevangelized, the county in which we now live. While spared to live here this is our task.

A Great Chance For a Doctor

And, by the way, there is a worth while task here for a young doctor. This place is a noted resort. During July and August, and on into September, over 7,500 people from different parts of the Far East came for health, rest, study, recreation, or business. Just now our splendid Sanitarium needs a foreign physician. It has been running for ten years. Nine years in the present buildings. One doctor, an honor graduate of Edinburgh, was head for seven years and he did well. Then he resigned to take up research work under the Rockefeller Foundation and London Archeological Society. I will be glad to hear from any young graduate in medicine who has an earnest desire to serve humanity for Christ's sake in the spirit of adventure. Travel expenses and missionary salary guaranteed by the Association that built the Sanitarium and has supported it since its inception. The of Japanese language not essential, though desirable. That is a matter for later consideration, however.

SOME HINTS FOR THOSE WHO KNIT

To make neat and well - shaped buttonholes work one row of double crochet round each one. On the wrong side, lightly tack up the two crocheted edges, so that when the work is pressed out and the tackings removed the buttonhole is a good shape and will not gape.

If a knitted edge is very uneven owing to shapings, a good edge for crocheting purposes may be obtained by very neatly working one row of tight double crochet along the knitted edge.

When sewing pockets on to a garment it is much better to tack them securely into position and machine them. They will lie flatter and look more neat when finished than if hand sewn.

To sew in a sleeve neatly it is often advisable to sew the sleeve to the stitch next to the edge stitch of the bodice where the shapings have taken place at the underarms. The edge stitches are often long and loosy owing to the shapings.

If the neck of a garment is too loose work one row of double crochet as tightly as is necessary to get the required neck measurement before sewing on a collar or scarf tie.

Record Low For Smallpox In Canada

The fight against smallpox in Canada and the United States is on nearly won that a new low incidence for the disease is likely to be established this year.

In 1934 the number of cases of smallpox in Quebec has run 100 according to the statisticians of the Metropolitan Life and the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. Quebec had one case, Manitoba one, Alberta one, British Columbia eight, Ontario 16, and Saskatchewan 73. There were no cases in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, or Prince Edward Island. Six deaths were recorded; one in Ontario, one in Saskatchewan, and one in British Columbia.

The statisticians of the company declare that the United States are far behind certain countries of continental Europe, in which not a single case was reported during 1933. It is pointed out that in England and Wales, where "conscientious objectors" are exempt from vaccination, the number of cases reported in 1931 was far in excess of that reported by the whole of continental Europe, with the exception of Russia.

It is significant, explain the statisticians, that of 6,122 cases reported by 46 American States in 1933, fully 75 per cent. were found in the western and mid-western states, whose population is only one-fifth that of the entire country.

In 1931, there was not a single case of smallpox reported in any of the following countries: Belgium, Bulgaria, Scotland, Germany, Italy, Netherlands, Norway, Sweden, Switzerland, and Yugoslavia. France, with a population of over 40 millions, reported only 102 cases.

Firm Brings Suit Against Kingston

Suing for the return of a $60,000 security bond, with interest, and $60,000 damages, Canadian Terminals Company brought suit against the City of Kingston before Mr. Justice Makins in Kingston on Monday last. The action is based on an agreement made in 1930 between the company and the city for the purchase of certain land and water lots, the price of which amounted to $52,000.

By the agreement the Terminals Company was to erect and operate elevators and docks, and the city was to give a fixed assessment for ten years of operation. The city claims it paid the $52,000 for the lots. One of the agreements was that the Terminals Company was to deposit bonds to the value of $60,000 as security for carrying out the work.

The plaintiff company is suing for the return of the bond and $60,000 damages for alleged failure of the City of Kingston to carry out the conveyance.

The City of Kingston claims that it has paid out over $50,000, passed the necessary by-laws, and that the company has abandoned the construction of the elevators and docks.

Empire Declared On Recovery Road

Toronto, Nov. 19—The British Empire seems to be fairly on the road to recovery while the rest of the world is still wallowing in a slough of political crises, revolutions, tyranny, murder and dictatorship," the Canadian Club was told today by Lord Bennett.

Distinguished descendant of the first Baron Bennett, who was Governor-General of Canada from 1768 to 1775, and commander of British troops in Quebec during the American Revolution, he spoke of "imperial sanity," the phrase he used to describe what he considered the most salient characteristic of the Anglo-Saxon races that compose the British Empire. He is here for the Royal Winter Fair.

"Our national sanity is a compound quality made of common sense, independence, self-confidence, patience and the ability to face facts however unpleasant," he said, "the whole leavened by a saving sense of humor which survives even the greatest of disasters. It is this combination of qualities that has enabled us to weather the series of storms that have been shaking a distressed world for the past five years.

Lord Dorchester spoke of his experience with many races and declared he was convinced that in the long run the sanest country was the happiest, freest and most successful.

"As far as England is concerned, I am convinced that we are well over the worst," he said. "I have come from Australia and South Africa while you yourselves are the best judges as to the present situation in Canada.

"In any case I do know this: That our present stands high in the world today, a fact that I attribute to our imperial sanity."

More Uniform Methods Needed For Marketing Livestock

When public stock yards were established it was intended by having all commercial live stock assembled on them in order to facilitate uniform methods of marketing, by weighing over Government inspected scales and by having stock offered for sale under government supervision, that there would be a tendency to bring about a more accurate reflection of demand and supply conditions at any given time.

When originally all live stock was shipped by rail (were uniformity prevailed in marketing methods, but since the motor truck has come into general use for transporting live stock to and from certain centres, have grown up which are distinctly injurious to the farmer's interests. When farmers are induced to ship to abattoirs, the effectiveness of the stock yards, in improving the farmers' marketing practice is destroyed. By securing a large part of their supply direct from the farm, packing houses are able to carry on to some extent independent of the public market. This, in turn, results in a lessening of demand on the live stock exchanges and a consequent bearing down of prices.

In order to establish uniformity of practice and procedure in all centres the farmer better bargaining power and fair prices, the directors of the Canada Packers Limited Packing Company, Limited, have resolved to request our governments (Federal and Provincial) to take such action as will require all commercial live stock marketed, through live stock exchange centres, to be marketed through live stock exchanges or where exchanges are not provided, through live stock exchange agencies. This would mean that selling direct to the packing plants would be discontinued.

In suggesting that resolutions covering live stock trucking be enacted, the directors point out that the stock yards, the commission firms and the railroads are required to conform to established regulations in the handling of live stock and ask "Why should not the truck drivers comply with similar regulations? Live stock commission houses, they explain, are bonded, and are under the supervision of government officials both as to their financial standing and as to their qualifications and ability as salesmen, whereas truck drivers, selling direct to the packers have done so without any license and without being required to give any financial security to the producer. In their resolution the Directors have also asked that part of the Act compelling all drivers of live stock transports and truckers, to carry a Bill of Lading, issued by the producer or owner of live stock showing the number owned and the quantity that when all expenses are paid, the net proceeds shall be sent direct to the producer or owner.

A third recommendation they make is to encourage a four-day market week. In this connection, they point out, to economically all live stock handlers in a country on the same percentage of stock remaining unsold at closing hour. Under such conditions, they say, it would be the desire of buyers to mark pens rather than to transact much business during the early stages of the day's trading. At the same time, in the case of the packing plants, they would be unable to wire to other markets in Canada, thereby depressing prices on those markets. By establishing a four-day market and encouraging shipments more evenly divided over the five days, a regular supply would be assured and excessive feed charges from day to day as at present eliminated.

To help bring about the desired end the resolutions are also circulated among live stock producers, which will be presented to the Government at an early date.

Mail the signed petitions, as early as possible to J. J. Morrison, Secretary-Treasurer, The United Farmers Co-operative Company, Limited, 28 Duke Street, Toronto, Ont.

A new strain of wheat which was claimed to resist extreme cold was evolved in Sweden, but it was found to be susceptible to a disease to which the older types of wheat were resistant.

Canadian Agricultural Production, 1934

(Condensed from the Royal Bank Monthly Letter for October.)

With the exception of wheat, the production of grains in Canada is expected to be slightly larger than the unusually small crops of 1933 but far less than the average for the five years 1928 to 1932. The total wheat crop is officially estimated at 277 million bushels as compared with 283 million bushels last year and an average of 408 million bushels for the preceding five years. The yield of oats is placed at 345 million bushels as against an average of 799 million bushels for the years 1928 to 1932; of barley at 69 million bushels against 104 million bushels; of rye at 6½ million bushels against 13 million bushels and of flaxseed at one million bushels against three million bushels. The poor crops this year are attributed almost entirely to the unfavourable weather conditions which prevailed generally throughout the whole of North America. Fall wheat in Ontario suffered severe winter-killing and the outturn is only one-half as large as last year. Hay was a good crop in many parts of Canada, pastures have been poor and feed supplies will be short in this country, winter in spite of the increases reported for coarse grains, as compared with last year.

The area sown to spring wheat in the three Prairie Provinces was reduced from 25,177,000 acres in 1933 to 21,296,000 acres this year. The southern sections of all provinces suffered from drought but conditions in the north were much better, particularly in Alberta. In that province the yield of wheat per acre averaged 15½ bushels as against 11 bushels last year. The Alberta wheat crop this year is larger than that in Saskatchewan, yielding 316 million bushels against 94½ million bushels in 1933. Manitoba reports a slight increase in the crop in Saskatchewan is much smaller, in many areas a "complete failure." The total spring wheat crop is placed at 263 million bushels against 263 million bushels last year. The quality of the crop is reported to be fairly satisfactory, but the yield per acre is not up to the average. The quality of the crop in Saskatchewan is somewhat larger than in 1933 but still much below the long-term average. Winter feed supplies for livestock are causing grave concern. Plans are being formulated for the liquidation of some 125,000 head of cattle. One-half of these will come from Saskatchewan. While the situation is critical, the balance being evenly divided between Manitoba and Alberta.

In British Columbia, the acreages sown to the principal crops were slightly increased, but conditions were favourable than in 1933, and while crops matured early as a result of dry weather, yields were generally satisfactory.

Fall wheat in Ontario suffered severe winter-killing, the damage reported being the highest in any year in a record of winter observations since 1917-18. The area harvested is placed at only 385,000 acres, as compared with 550,000 acres in 1933. The reduction through winter-killing amounted to 240,000 acres. The outturn is the crop is placed at 6,031,000 bushels in 1933. The average yield per acre fell from 25 to 16½ bushels. Fall rye and hay were also poor crops but spring grains from dry weather and serious injury was caused by hail and frost in August. Damage was particularly severe in Norfolk County, where 25 per cent. of the crop was lost. Harvesting of all tobacco is late this year, but early estimates indicate a fairly good crop, yield from 33 million pounds in 1933, to less than 29 million pounds. Prices paid producers for tobacco are much richer this year than last. Early vegetables were also poor crops but owing to the unusually heavy frosts in August, but late crops are expected to give average yields.

The acreages sown in Quebec were slightly increased, weather conditions have not been unfavourable in other parts of the Dominion and yields are generally better. The oat crop is placed at 80 million bushels against 45 million bushels in 1933.

The acreage sown to potatoes was increased by 4 per cent and the condition of this crop is generally better than at this time last year.

Maritime crops suffered from dry weather, and while grains are of good quality, yields are below normal. The hay crop was particularly light and prices have risen sharply. The total yield of oats, for the Maritime Provinces as a whole, shows a ten per cent decrease from 1933. The winter feeding of cattle is considered a serious problem and it is expected that the number of animals retained on the farms will be reduced. Fall plantings were larger in all three provinces. This crop has been very poor yield is expected to be better than affected by the dry weather and the last year, but below the long-term average. Prince Edward Island, reports the best crop in several years.

The total production of flaxseed is estimated at 3,597,00 barrels, as compared with 5,350,000 barrels in 1933 and an average of 12,640,000 barrels for the five years 1928 to 1932. The crop last year was of record volume, but was badly and severely damaged last winter, particularly in Quebec and Ontario. In these provinces, the yield of apples is not expected to be more than one-third of the 1933 total. Peaches and pears are also giving smaller returns. Some damage was also reported in Nova Scotia, but the Annapolis Valley crop, while less than the bumper harvest last year, is expected to be better than average. Orchards in British Columbia were not seriously injured and returns will be higher than in 1933.

Melons Make Good Pickles and Jams

Melons may be used to make appetizing jams and pickles.

MELON PRESERVES — Grate the pulp from some large melons and for every three pounds allow three pounds of preserving sugar, two lemons and a level teaspoonful of ground ginger. Rub the zest from the lemons on to the sugar and put in the preserving pan with the lemon juice, ginger and fruit pulp. Stir over a low heat until the sugar melts then cook faster, stirring constantly, until it sets when tested.

MELON AND APRICOT JAM—For four pounds of melon, allow a pound of dried apricots, four pounds of sugar. Cut the melon into cubes and sprinkle with sugar and leave overnight. The next day simmer with pineapple the pineapple juice and half a pint of water. After half an hour add the lemon juice and the rest of the sugar, and boil quickly until it sets when tested.

MELON PICKLE — Cut the melon into thin strips, sprinkle with salt and leave overnight. For each pound of pulp allow a clove or garlic, half a pound of brown sugar, a dessert spoon each of mustard, flour and root ginger, two small red peppers and half an ounce of tumeric. Mix the mustard flour with a little vinegar and put in the preserving pan with enough vinegar to cover the fruit pulp, and the spices and sugar. Bring to the boil, add the pulp and boil for twenty minutes. Jack the melon into bottles, divide the spices among them, and fill up with vinegar.

MELON RIND PICKLE — Use covered skinned melons for this and cut the rind about half an inch thick. Stew a few cloves into the rind and two pounds of brown sugar to a preserving pan with a pint of vinegar and an ounce of stick cinnamon and cook for twenty minutes. Cook the rind in this until soft and pack into jars. Fill the vinegar over and cover again until all the rind is covered.

PREHISTORIC FOOTPRINTS COME TO LIGHT IN NOVA SCOTIA

Footprints in the sands of 250 million years ago have been found at Parrsboro, N.S., of a prehistoric animal who lived and died in the days when the Rocky Mountains was a low sub-tropical swamp with hot and humid climate and great forests and leopards, states the Toronto Department of the Canadian National Railways. Fossil footprints have been unearthed at Joggins in the coal mining which is carried on in that district. One hundred and eight clear impressions of the foottracks were found which are almost identical with the footmarks made by an expert from the Department of Paleontology of the National Museum, at Ottawa.

Just what kind of an animal made the tracks has not yet been determined. The first evidence of air-breathing animals of the carboniferous period was found by Sir Charlton Hoff, Kines County, N. S. in 1841 by the celebrated geologist Sir William Logan.

Pears and Plums

TIMELY RECIPES

Pears of different varieties are in season almost until Christmas. Just now the Bartlett is at its best; later we find Anjou, Bosc and Duchess, all of which are delicious when eaten raw, but also may be cooked in many ways for variety. To compears the hot pack method is found to be an improvement on the cold pack.

The following recipes have been prepared by the Fruit Branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture:—

CANNED PEARS—Peel, halve and remove cores from the pears. Have ready a syrup made by boiling together for five minutes, two cups water and one cup sugar. Drop into this sufficient pear halves to fill one jar, usually twelve pieces. Cook five minutes and pack as quickly as possible, placing the glass lid over the jar, but do not seal. Continue until all jars are ready; then fill each with syrup; partially seal and sterilize—in water bath for fifteen minutes—or in a steamer for twenty minutes— or in the oven thirty minutes, at 275 degrees F.

Then seal.

BAKED PEARS — Wash firm pears, remove blossom end and insert a whole clove. Place in a baking pan, adding a very little water. Bake 45 minutes. Serve hot or cold.

Pears may be preserved at home for salads or elaborate desserts.

PRESERVED PEARS — Make a syrup, allowing one cup water to one cup sugar. Colour it bright red with vegetable colouring and flavour with one-half teaspoon of almond extract, and one-half teaspoon vanilla extract. Peel, halve and core large, firm, ripe pears. Cook in the syrup until tender. Remove the pears and pack in jars. Boil the syrup five minutes longer and pour over pears. Seal immediately.

Green colour and mint flavour may be used.

Plums

Plums are now plentiful and at their best for preserving for winter use. Many varieties are found on the market, giving variety of colour and flavour.

The large blue "prune" plum is excellent for canning. It is good in texture and flavour and requires little sugar. Green varieties such as "Reine Claude" and "Yellow Egg" are entirely different finished preserve. Damson plum has lately been considered the perfect plum preserve.

The following recipes have been prepared by the Fruit Branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture:—

DAMSON JAM — Wash the fruit and cut in halves, removing stones. Break a few pits and add kernels to the fruit. Pour water over the plums until almost covered. Bring slowly to boiling and cook one-half hour. Measure and add an equal quantity of sugar. Simmer one hour and pour into sterilized containers. Seal at once.

A large variety known as "Grand Duke" makes an excellent sweet pickle.

"GRAND DUKE" SWEET PICKLE — Wash and cut plums in halves. Remove pits. Make a syrup using one cup water, two cups vin-gar, two teaspoonfuls whole cloves, three cups brown sugar, one stick cinnamon. Boil together ten minutes, strain. Place one cup of plum halves in the syrup and cook until tender, remove fruit and pack in sterilized jars. Continue until all plums are cooked then fill jars with pickle mixture. Seal while hot.

PLUM PRESERVE — Use any variety of plums or two or three varieties together.

Use plums slightly under - ripe. Wash and crush fruit and stone. Put the kettle in a very slow oven or over a very low flame for one-half an hour, or until the juice is drawn out. Allow one cup sugar to two cups of plums. Boil three minutes. Pour into sterilized jars and seal at once.

ENCOURAGES CANADIAN WOOL

The main function of the Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers, says the bulletin of the Farmers' Business Organizations in Canada, issued by the Dominion Department of Agriculture, is to grade and sell wool with a view to obtaining maximum returns to growers. All returns are pooled on a grade basis by districts. The association carries on advertising and educational work to encourage a larger use of Canadian wool. Local departments looks after the sale of manufactured woollen goods and another handles materials and supplies for the membership.

The Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers Limited, with main business offices in Toronto, was formed in 1918 through the amalgamation of seven separate associations into one national wool marketing organization. The company operates in each province through the medium of fourteen sheep breeders' and wool growers' associations. For the most part these are non-stock associations, meeting their expenses by a pound-a-fee charge for wool handled and by a small annual membership fee. The producer enters into a three-year contract to deliver all wool produced by him to the local association, and the local association, in turn, contracts to pass on all wool delivered by growers to the central organization. Wool is assembled in warehouses serving various producing areas. The main depot of the association is at Weston, Ont., which has a storage capacity for 4,000,000 lbs. of wool.

CONTROL OF NORTHERN FOWL MITE

Experimental work on the control of the northern fowl mite on poultry on the perches, and in pens and houses at Macdonald College, has shown that a mixture of naphthalene flakes in one part and vaseline two parts, has given one hundred per cent control on birds and on perches. The naphthalene should be thoroughly ground up in order to facilitate mixing and application, and then stirred into the vaseline. A rough ointment was applied on the birds around the tail where the mite invariably congregate. The perches were also treated, but in this case one of the mixture was placed upon the birds. Repeated tests have been made and all have been correspondingly satisfactory.

Dichloride and vaseline in the same proportions have also given satisfactory results. There are, however, two points to be observed in the use of dichloride which make it less desirable than naphthalene, namely, it costs more and tends to liquify the vaseline. This makes the application more difficult. For some time Bluestone (copper sulphate) has been used on perches in the control of the northern fowl mite, but experiments carried in the laboratory indicate that its action is slower than either that of naphthalene or dichloride, and where a large area is to be covered, its cost is considerable.

EARLY MARKETING OF FINE POULTRY

The early marketing of well-finished birds in commercial quantities was well demonstrated by farmers during the last two weeks of October in Quebec and Eastern Ontario, where the fall poultry pools of the year have been held. The question as to whether or not community marketing could be done successfully in a large way by farmers, from a number of districts, was the Egg and Poultry Market Review has been definitely answered, the producers in different districts demonstrated by planning their the crop of chickens from practically any district in Ontario and Quebec can be produced and made ready for sale when the market demands it. The average weight of the pool pack in Quebec has been about five pounds per bird, and a number of boxes of Milkfed A weighs over 80 pounds. The attitude of chefs, were prolonged by crate feeding from 4 to 5 weeks. The earlist movement of dressed poultry from Western to Eastern points was also commenced in the third week of October.

MUST SELL BUTTER BY NET WEIGHT

Recently, inspectors of the Dairy and Cold Storage Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture have been making a closer check-up of the weights of prints of butter in order to insure that the consumer is receiving full weight. This has disclosed that the requirement concerning the sale of butter are not being strictly observed by some vendors.

These regulations provide, in Subsection 3 (a) of Section 5 of Part I of The Dairy Industry Act, that any butter intended for sale that has been moulded or cut into prints, blocks, squares or pats, must be sold for the full net weight of one-quarter pound, one-half pound, one pound or two pounds, but nothing in this paragraph shall be held to apply to butter in rolls or lumps, of indiscriminate weights not exceeding 7 pounds.

The inspectors will continue to check moulded or cut prints, in order to see that consumers receive full net weight.

PLANT FOOD IN THE SOIL

Soil analysis is a means of measuring and determining the amount of plant food in the soil. Chemical analysis in itself does not furnish the evidence for the exact classification of soils as to productiveness. Soil analysis, however, has a practical usefulness in indicating marked characteristics and deficiencies, where such exist, and in suggesting appropriate fertilizers and rational methods of soil management. Facts of that kind have a greater significance in the case of virgin areas than when obtained from cultivated, manured and cropped soil. Predictions from analyses as to productiveness cannot be of a positive nature; they can be suggestive and tentative only because the food content, though fundamental and all-important, is only one of a large number of ever-changing factors influencing and controlling growth. Although rigid "standards of fertility" cannot be established, nevertheless for large number of analyses of Canadian soils made in the laboratories of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, throughout many years, permit of definite statements being made in respect to the significance to be attached to the essential plant food percentages.—Manures and Fertilizers bulletin, Dominion Department of Agriculture.

NATIONAL DISH OF SCOTLAND SUFFERS

The national dish of Scotland, oatmeal porridge, will probably suffer from a shortage of the native product. Estimates of the yield indicate the crop will be below the average in bulk. This is a serious affair as many generations of brawny Highlanders have been brought up on oatmeal porridge. Oats is the principal cereal grown in Scotland and there has been a reduction in acreage sown to oats this year, of $35,000.

Barley is a satisfactory crop with an increase in acreage of 56 per cent. The total acreage planted to wheat this year was 3,000, an increase of 18 per cent over 1933; largest prewar acreage was 79,500.

In almost every district all available agricultural workers were employed at harvest time and there is practically no unemployment among them. In some parts the demand was in excess of the supply.

International Scientists Co-operate

In his recent official visit to the Maritime Provinces and sections of the Eastern United States, Arthur Gibson, the Dominion Entomologist held many valuable conferences and established contacts which will be useful in the future work of the Dominion Entomological Branch, as, for instance, at the Japanese beetle laboratory at Moorestown, New Jersey; the Cranberry Research Station in Massachusetts; the Forestefelle Institute for Plant Pathology at Princeton; the Boyce-Thompson Institute in New York, and various experiment station laboratories.

The United States entomological authorities are greatly interested in the solution of Canada's progress in parasite introductions for the destruction of plant and forest pests and were specially interested to receive first hand information regarding the excellent assistance given by the Parnham Royal Parasite Laboratory in England, particularly with respect to the introduction of parasites of the European spruce sawfly which is causing such heavy losses in Eastern Canada, especially in the Gaspe Peninsula of Quebec. If these parasites become established in Eastern Canada, the species will undoubtedly be of great help to the United States, as it is understood that the sawfly has been found in certain sections of Northern New York.

In connection with the Gaspe outbreak of sawfly, Mr. Gibson recently has developed to an important extent at the Dominion forest insect base laboratory at Grand Encampadella, Quebec. In this section, very extensive losses have already taken place as a result of the work of the sawfly and the eastern spruce bark beetle. The former pest has spread considerably during the last two or three years, particularly in an eastern direction. It is hoped that the liberated parasites will become established and assist to an important degree in controlling the sawfly in its westerly and southerly spread. During the past season, over 3,500,000 cocoons of the sawfly have been received at the Dominion Parasite Laboratory at Belleville, Ont., and parasites are reared from these for liberation in Eastern Canada. The material has been collected in central Europe with the assistance of the Farnham Royal Laboratory, in England.

THE USE OF HONEY IN HOME COOKING

Honey may be used in home cooking as a substitute for sugar or molasses with good results, provided certain general rules are observed as outlined in. Perhaps the chief advantage of using honey, especially in cakes, cookies, pies, and such like delicacies, is that they will remain moist for a much longer time than if sugar alone is used. In fact, bread, cakes, and cookies in which honey is used in place of sugar, will keep moist for long periods of time without any deterioration of flavour. Indeed, the flavour usually improves with a reasonable length of storage. A direct substitution of all honey for sugar may be made in cases where the amount of sweetening material is small, as in muffins and bread. In cakes, cookies and pies where greater sweetening is necessary, other things must be taken into consideration when using honey. As the Dominion Department of Agriculture bulletin points out: "Some of the Ways it May be Used"—points out, honey and sugar differ in their chemical composition. Sugar is a straight sweet containing moisture or acid, while honey consists of different types of sugar in solution with water, and holds a certain degree of acidity.

The following rules are based on experimental work that has been done with honey in cooked foods and by observing these general rules any recipe may be adapted to the use of honey. (1) Measure honey always in liquid form. If it is granulated, heat over warm water until liquid. (2) For every cup of honey used, reduce the liquid called for in the recipe by one-fifth. (3) One cup of honey is as great, in sweetening power as one cup of sugar. (4) Use one-quarter to one-half teaspoonful of soda to each cup of honey. (5) Increase the amount of salt by one-eighth to one-quarter teaspoonful. (6) When substituting honey for sugar in cake, reduce the liquid of the recipe by one-fifth and use half honey and half sugar. Fruit cake is an exception to this rule and all honey may be used. (7) In milk puddings, pie fillings and such like, add the honey with the thickening agent, flour, cornstarch or whatever it may be.

WATER INTERRUPTED BY FROG IN FAUCET

Port Erie, Ont. — For the first time in three weeks, Gordon Cook had a normal water pressure in his home, recently. During that time his water supply had a tendency to stop and go, and it was all because of a frog. A plumber yesterday found the frog in the faucet, where it had attempted to crawl through the mouth of the tap.

County Young People Hold Annual Rally

The weatherman was very kind to the Young People of Lennox and Addington, as they met for their annual rally in Tamworth United Church on Friday, November 9th.

We were very glad to have with us several officers of the Belleville Presbytery Young People's Union, Rev. Clarence Ferguson, the president; Miss Mae Reynolds, secretary-treasurer; Miss Susie Deedrie, convener of publications; Miss Helen Babcock, fellowship convener; and Miss Mildred Loucks, social convener.

Rev. Redvers Brown led in the afternoon worship. Miss Marian Winter of Selby, presided over both sessions. We all had our first glimpse of the "Quinte Broadcast, the official organ of the young people of the Bay Conference. The paper is off to an excellent start and he who misses an issue will really miss something. We enjoyed the initial issue and believe it merits the support of our churches, as a whole.

During the business session, the secretary reported that one hundred and ten letters were sent out during the year. Everyone enjoyed the round table discussions, led by Rev. R. T. Richards of Grace Church, Napanee.

The Tamworth ladies provided an excellent supper and many favourable comments were heard of the dancing games which were conducted afterwards.

The evening session opened with a song service led by Walter Burrard of Odessa. The Wilton Young People brought us one of the finest worship periods we ever have experienced.

The evening speakers were Miss Hazel Horton of Carbonville, our newly appointed missionary convener, and Rev. R. T. Richards, of Napanee.

Mr. Richards chose as his subject, "Youth looks at the World".

Miss Horton is a captivating speaker. She held her audience with her account of Ryerson Beach Summer School, we believe, as well as any speaker, if not better.

During the evening Messrs. Gordon MacGregor of Napanee, and Garnet Brooks of Robbin, provided musical numbers.

The following officers were elected for the coming year:—

President—Marion Winter, Selby.
Vice-President—Mildred Loucks, Napanee.

Sec.-Treas. — Jae Vrooman, Odessa.
Fellowship Convener—Helen Babcock, Wilton.
Missionary Convener — Fred McPherson, Wilton.
Citizenship Convener — Gordon MacGregor, Napanee.
Literary Convener—Elwood Hartzell, Tamworth.
Devotional Convener — Garnet Brooks, Robbin.
C. G. I. T. Convener—Helen Schell Tamworth.
C. S. E. T. Convener—Vernon Simpkin, Newburgh.
Leadership Training Convener — Dr. W. E. Smith, Selby.
Publication Convener—Jean Milling, Napanee.

Our special feature was the Book of Recreation Helps, prepared and published by Miss Mildred Loucks of Napanee. A number of copies are still available at twenty-five cents each.

Death at Ottawa of James Rennie

James Rennie, well known resident of the Ottawa district and father of Mrs. Robinson, wife of Rev. James Robinson, pastor of Wesley United Church, died on Saturday at a local hospital. He had been ill only for two days.

A native of Camden East, Ont., Mr. Rennie was born 67 years ago, a son of the late John Rennie and his wife, Margaret Grosart. He received his education at district schools and graduated from the Camden East High school. He lived on the farm where he was born for some years following his graduation and then went to Napanee where for fifteen years he was engaged as a merchant. Quitting his business he commenced farming at Billville, which he continued for over thirty years. While living in that vicinity he was an elder of the Sandhurst Presbyterian Church which is now a United Church. Retiring in 1914 he came to "The Manse," in City View, to make his home with his daughter, Mrs. James Robinson. About eight years ago Mrs. Robinson and her family came to Ottawa to live and Mr. Rennie moved with them.

Mr. Rennie was a Liberal in politics and a member of the I.O.O.F.

His wife, formerly Bertha Sharp of Billsville, predeceased him twenty-one years ago. Surviving are his daughter, Mrs. James Robinson, Ottawa, three grandchildren, Grosart James, Eleanor Jean and Beverley; three brothers, William of Melita, Man.; Alex. of Pierson, Man., Robert of Deseronto; one sister, Mrs. James Shelton, Vancouver, B. C.

The funeral was held at the residence of his son-in-law, Rev. James Robinson, 24 Avea Street, Ottawa, on Monday at 8:00 p.m. The body was taken by motor, on Tuesday, to Billsville, where interment took place.

OBITUARY

MRS. GEORGE FINGLAND

There occurred at Enterprise on October 27th, 1934, at the home of her daughter, the death of a very much respected resident of Deseronto in the person of Annie Switzer beloved wife of George Fingland, in her 57th year. Up to about three months ago deceased had been able to be around her home doing her own work, though she never completely recovered from a serious operation she underwent about thirteen months ago.

On September 4th she came to her old home to spend some time and to recuperate, but was taken seriously ill a few days later. Mrs. Fingland was a person of cheerful disposition, never complaining, always with a happy smile and helping hand for everyone. She was born about one mile north of the village of Enterprise and lived on the farm then owned by the late Henry Switzer. After her marriage to George Fingland she lived about one mile west of the village for about twenty three years when she moved to Deseronto, where she resided for seventeen years. During her years in Enterprise and Deseronto she made a great number of friends and their deepest sympathy is extended to the bereaved husband and daughter, in the loss of a kind, loving wife and mother.

Surviving are her husband and one daughter, Mrs. David Krech, one daughter having predeceased her four years ago. Six grandchildren and one brother, I. Switzer of Bath, also survive.

The funeral, which was largely attended by many relatives and friends took place on October 29th from the old homestead to Enterprise United Church, where a very impressive sermon was preached by Rev. M. Stinson of Enterprise, assisted by Rev. Brown of Tamworth. The floral tributes were many and beautiful, and interment was made in White Church cemetery. The service at the grave was conducted by the members of L.O.B.A. No. 728, Enterprise, of which deceased was a member and a willing helper.

NEWS AND INFORMATION FOR THE BUSY FARMER

(Furnished by the Ontario Department of Agriculture)

The total amount of branded beef sold in Canada during the month of September, was 2,818,400 pounds.

There would appear to be a serious shortage of alsike for domestic needs in Canada next spring as the 1934 production, plus the small carryover, is not expected to exceed more than one-half normal requirements.

Timothy Seed Estimate

The total yield in Canada of timothy seed in 1934 may approximate 5,000,000 pounds, as against 4,000,000 pounds in 133, and an annual average for the past five years of 2,000,000 pounds. The normal annual consumption is estimated at 10,000,000 pounds and from 7,000,000 to 8,000,000 pounds of this have been imported annually from the United States. Very little seed is likely to be imported this year, however, owing to the 1934 crop failure in the United States. There would appear to be shortage of timothy seed for normal domestic requirements next spring.

O. A. C. Short Course

A short course covering many phases of the agricultural industry, will be opened to farmers of Ontario, at the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph, Hon. Duncan Marshall announced. The classes will be held from January 2-11 when students will be given a holiday. Special work in livestock covering beef cattle, dairy cattle, horses, sheep and swine, will be arranged, said the minister.

It is also hoped to have in addition to the regular instruction, special conferences on important phases of production and marketing. At the same time, short courses in horticulture, bee-keeping and agricultural engineering, will be held. The three months' dairy course and the month's poultry course will be held as usual but will not be a part of the plan for the two weeks' course. There will also be a short practical course in emergency veterinary work.

"The time chosen will, if approved permit the regular students, with the exception of the senior students, in agriculture and the girls, to remain at home," he said. "This will leave the dormitories and the dining hall for a group of about 300, available for the short course and conference. We should like to make a special rate of $6.00 for the ten days or 75 cents per day for those who come but for a few days.

Breeds for Crate Feeding

The best breeds of poultry for crate feeding are the general purpose types such as the Plymouth Rocks and Wyandottes, or the heavy types such as Jersey Giants.

British Apple Market

The latest report from Andrew Fulton, overseas fruit representative, states that United Kingdom markets continue to receive abundant supplies of apples of the cooking type, thus preventing any increase of values for this class of fruit. On the other hand, there is a definite demand for highly-coloured red apples on all markets including London, where English apples are the most plentiful. There is a definite shortage of the red dessert apples. It is his opinion that outstanding coloured dessert apples will make slightly higher values later on. It is interesting to note that some excellent Virginian barrelled Jonathans have been yielding from 24 to 27 shillings and York Imperials have been bringing about 30 shillings per box. Ontario apples have been practically negligible in quantity indicating that a large part of the crop is being held in cold storage for future sale and delivery.

Easy Marketing of Poultry

The early marketing of well-finished birds in commercial quantities was well demonstrated by Farmers during the last two weeks of October in Eastern Ontario where the first grading pools of the year have been held. The question as to whether or not early poultry marketing could be done successfully in a large way by farmers, from a quality standpoint, has been definitely answered, the producers in these districts having demonstrated by planning ahead that the crop of chickens from practically any district in Ontario, can be produced and graded ready for sale when the market demands it. The average weight of the pool of 3,985 birds was 4.5 pounds per bird, with a number of boxes of Milkfed A weights over 80 pounds. Corn-fed A chickens were produced by crate feeding from 4 to 5 weeks. The carlot movements of these weight from Western to Eastern points were also commenced in the third week of October.

Current Crop Report

Barley has been a good paying crop this year in many districts. Grey County reports yields of 50 to 60 bushels per acre, and prices varied for malting barley from 60c to 70c. A heavy snowfall in that region replenished the water supply and made plowing easier. Most farmers in Huron County are holding their alfalfa and red clover and sweet clover until late winter or early spring. Peel County reports a fall wheat looking well, but acreage considerably below average. Plowing is about finished in most localities, with considerable by some plowmen that the soil has been dry and hard. Pasture has been none too plentiful in North Simcoe and some herds are showing the effects. The root crop, both turnips and mangels, there has been the best in years. Waterloo County predicts that farmers are going to experience difficulty in putting their cattle through the winter on the limited supply of roughages.

Livestock in Brant is going into stables in better condition than was anticipated, while fall wheat there is in good condition for winter. Haldimand reports offers as high as $17 a ton for "barn run alfalfa," including first and second cuttings, this price unbaled and at the barn. Celery lifting in Lambton is completed, with a very much reduced crop owing to weather conditions, lack of maturity and frost. In Lincoln, young poultry of good quality is in fairly good demand at prices ranging from 35c to 40c according to finish. Price of milk there has now been established for a period at $1.95 a cwt. to the producer, f.o.b. factory or receiving station. Fall wheat looks well with a good ton in Welland County, while hay supply is low and priced at $15 a ton. Condition of livestock is much improved this year in Peterborough. Shortage of water is reported in Prince Edward, many wells being dry and water in the inland lakes so low that cattle have difficulty getting in it.

In Eastern Ontario farmers are trying to reduce their stock to prevent a shortage of feed. Much success attended the All-Manitoulin Turkey Show, indicating the uniformity and quality of Manitoulin turkeys which will be marketed cooperatively for the Christmas trade.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S ORGANIZATIONS

MOSCOW Y. P. S.

On Friday, November 2nd, the third meeting of the Moscow Young People's Union was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Asselstine where the club was delightfully entertained. The religious group had charge of the affairs for the evening, but before taking over the business, current events were given by Mr. Brooks of the necessity of purchasing folding chairs for the community was brought forward. Mr. Brooks stated the rules now in force in connection with the library. Mr. W. Baker read an interesting account of some of the local villages received their names.

The study theme was based on the thirteenth chapter of 1 Corinthians, which is "Love." Mrs. Percy Asselstine gave a reading on "The Greatest Thing on Earth," by Henry Drummond. A paper on character was given by Mrs. Granger, and Mr. P. A. Asselstine read a poem by McKay. Miss Evelyn Potter rendered a piano solo, "Dance of the Butterflies," which was greatly enjoyed.

The meeting closed with prayer, after which a delicious lunch was served.

SURVEY OF FARMERS' BUSINESS

In the progress report of the Dominion Agricultural Bacteriologist for the year 1933, issued in 1933, reference is made to the sterilization of milk cans and bottles by the steam and chlorine methods. Methods. Steam under pressure, which is generally connected to be the ideal means of sterilizing dairy utensils, is employed at the Central Experimental Farm dairy plant. In view of the increasing use of chlorine solutions as sterilizing rinses, says the report, an experiment was carried to compare the efficiency of this method with that of steam sterilization. Starting August 1, 1932, treatment with a hypochlorite solution was alternated with steam sterilization (5 pounds pressure for 20 or 30 minutes).

The results of the analysis of 141 cans and 143 bottles showed the hypochlorite to be somewhat less effective than under pressure, but the difference being more marked with bottles than with cans. When, however, it is realized that the bacterial contamination of milk on filling, the worst can would be 322 per cubic centimetre and from the worst bottle 165, the differences are seen to be relatively insignificant. Against this must be set the convenience and cheapness of the hypochlorite method, and the greater comfort of the man working in the washroom, the temperature averaging over 7 degrees Fahrenheit higher when steam was used. It should also be noted that in all these tests, the preparations of the solutions and the treatment of the utensils and bottles were carried out by non-technical help without any direct supervision, so that equally good results should be obtained by any intelligent operator.

Recipes & Hints

It is the desire of " The Beaver" to devote this section of the paper, regularly, to the publication of Recipes and Household Hints, received from local women or women's organizations. Kindly note it would be pleased to receive recipes and, contributions and would withold or publish the contributors' names, as requested. Contributions will be used as space permits.

(Send them in early in the week.)

AN ENGLISH RECIPE

Two or three kidneys, two rashers of bacon, pepper, salt and mustard. Two or three large potatoes.

Split each kidney in half, rub with mustard, pepper and salt. Cut the potatoes in half and scoop out a little from the centre—large enough to take a half-kidney. Place the kidneys into the potatoes with the cut side downwards, cut the rashers half, sprinkle with a little pepper, and place on top of each half-potato. Place into a casserole together and sprinkle with a piece of string. Bake in oven for one hour or until potatoes are cooked. To attain the best results choose very large potatoes.

SAVOURY TOASTS

Have two tablespoons butter, two or three eggs, one or two tomatoes, a few mushrooms, salt, pepper, some pieces of toast.

Peel and chop the mushrooms, add to butter and cook for a few minutes; add the tomatoes chopped, then the eggs dropped right in and stir till thick enough to pile; season and serve. Cold fish, chicken, etc., may beused, the foundation being egg.

PARADISE WHIP

Put into a bowl two tablespoons strawberry jam, two tablespoons of fruit sugar, and two whites of eggs.

Beat up together until the mixture is so stiff that it will stand up in pyramids.

With the two yolks of eggs make a custard and flavor with lemon or vanilla.

Pile the "whip" high up in custard glasses, pour the custard round, and garnish with maraschino cherries.

LEMON MINCEMEAT

This mincemeat is meatless, uncooked, economical, will keep for several weeks—and is easy on the digestion.

One cup raisins, three cups finely chopped apple, half-cup chopped nuts, one-quarter cup candied orange peel or marmalade, half-cup lemon juice, two cups sugar, -half-teaspoon salt, two teaspoons cinnamon, one teaspoon each cloves and ginger.

Scald, drain and chop raisins. Mix all ingredients. Seal in sterilized pint jars. When making into pies add to each pint one-quarter cup melted butter. This makes two pints or filling for two medium-sized pies or 12 individual pies.

MIXED FRUIT DELIGHT

Four oranges, three bananas, one cup stoned dates, one apple, half a cup shredded almonds, some whipped cream.

Cut the oranges in halves, crosswise, scoop out the pulp, then break the pulp into small pieces, and mix it with the peeled and diced apple, the sliced bananas, chopped dates and shredded almonds. Pile into the orange cups, and top with whipped cream.

— HOUSEHOLD HINTS —

Lamb fat makes excellent shortening for gingersnaps.

To clean paint and varnish brushes, cover with vinegar and slowly bring to the boiling point. Let simmer fifteen minutes. Remove and wash out with hot soapy suds and rinse well in hot water.

A little lard rubbed into grease stains quickly removes them.

Egg stains on table linen should be soaked in cold water before being sent to the laundry. The stains come out quite easily if treated in this way. Hot water sets them and makes them doubly difficult to remove.

When hashing cold meat add a little chopped parsley. It will improve both the taste and appearance.

To keep bread and sandwiches soft and fresh, wrap in a dry cloth first then cover with cloth wrung out of cold water and set away, until ready to use.

To remove stains from baking casseroles, soak in a strong solution of borax and water.

When you have a number of onions to peel, cover them with hot water and let stand for a minute or two and that thin skin so hard to get off, can be removed as if by magic.

Moderately slow drying is best for woollen things. They should not be exposed to excessive heat, the direct rays of the sun, or to freezing temperatures. Do not hang knitted woollens on the line unless they are firmly knitted, because they are likely to pull out of shape.

Brushing long-fibered wool, such as angora, while it is drying will fluff it and help to restore its original appearance.

To peel fruit, especially when intended for canning, use a sharp, silver knife, as steel is likely to blacken the fruit.

When jelly is ready to pour into glasses, put the glasses in a pan of hot water to prevent their cracking. The pan should be shallow and the water about two inches deep.

Insect pests,- notably- the- corn borer influence the tonnage of sweet corn available for canning in Canada, but wherever this pest may reduce production in one area, the decrease may be replaced by increased plantings elsewhere.

Egg Economy

BY BARBARA B. BROOKS

Eggs as eggs have been eaten from time immemorial. It is also an old, old usage to add something for seasoning or flavor, or to make them go further. But the use of eggs for thickening liquids or making cakes, breads and sauces light and fluffy is comparatively modern. This stage in our history marks the beginning of fine cookery. In fact, the French tell us that all good cooking rests upon an egg.

Eggs have not always been plentiful and frugal cooks have been lavish with them only upon special occasions. Until very recently, there was no real justification in economical cookery for the extravagance of using plenty of eggs just to make food more delicious. But now science comes to the rescue with the reasons why we need them in our diet.

Knowing that each child may well have an egg a day and each adult three or four a week and that a few more might be even better, the frugal cook can use eggs generously and with a clear conscience. It is real economy to supply food the essentials for building and maintaining a strong, healthy body. Eggs are rich in minerals, especially iron ; vitamins A, B and G, at least ; protein of high grade, and some fat. The yolk contains most of the minerals, vitamins and fat, while the white is nearly pure protein.

In the truest sense of the phrase, eggs are a precious food. They supply dietary essentials, make food more delicious and fine cookery possible. Store and cook them with much care. Follow recipes carefully, keeping in mind these facts :

When used for thickening, in sauces, custards, puddings, meat loaves, and the like, beat eggs but slightly.

To make a mixture light by incorporating air, beat eggs thoroughly until there is a light lemon color, for the yolk or whole egg and, for the whites, until they will form peaks.

For meringues, souffles, and other light mixtures, stop beating while the whites are moist and shiny. Do not beat until dry.

Eggs are delicate in flavor. Salt in moderation, develops the flavor ; spices and most condiments cover it.

Eggs should be cooked at low temperatures. This rule includes meringues and frying, as well as custards. Slow cooking with low heat gives firm, tender texture.

PUMPKIN CUSTARD

1 cup pumpkin (cooked and sieved)
2 eggs, slightly beaten
¼ tsp. salt
¼ cup sugar
2 tbsps. molasses
⅛ tsp. cloves
½ tsp. cinnamon
¼ tsp. ginger
2 cups milk, scalded

Combine pumpkin, eggs, salt, sugar, molasses and spices. Mix thoroughly. Add milk slowly, stirring constantly. Pour into buttered baking dish. Set in pan of warm water. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until an inserted knife comes out clean.

VEGETABLE SOUFFLE

1 tbsp. butter or fat (melted)
2 tbsps. flour
½ tsp. salt
⅛ cup milk
2 eggs (separated)
1 cup cooked vegetables (cooked, seasoned and diced)

Combine fat, flour and salt. Add milk and cook, stirring constantly until mixture thickens. Remove from heat and add the egg yolks, slightly beaten. Add vegetables and cool. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into buttered baking dish. Set into a pan of warm water and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until an inserted knife comes out clean.

RICE KRISPIE MACAROONS

2 egg whites
1 cup sugar
2 cups rice krispies
½ cup nut meats
1 cup cocoanut
½ tsp. vanilla extract

Beat egg whites until they are stiff enough to hold their shape but not until they lose their shiny appearance. Fold in sugar carefully. Fold in rice crispies, nut meats and cocoanut. Add vanilla. Drop on a well-greased baking sheet. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 15 to 20 minutes. Remove pans from oven, place on damp towel and remove macaroons immediately with a spatula or sharp knife. If macaroons become hardened to pan, they may be put in the oven for a few minutes to soften.

Yield : 1½ dozen.

BAKED EGGS IN TOMATO CUPS

Scoop out the centers of large, firm, ripe tomatoes. Sprinkle slightly on the inside with salt. Break an egg into each tomato, sprinkle with salt, pepper, and fine corn flake crumbs, and dot with butter. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until the tomato skins are slightly wrinkled.

LOCAL AND DISTRICT NEWS OF WOMEN'S ORGANIZATIONS

CONWAY W. I.

The November meeting of Conway Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. Maurice Young on November 13th, when we had a most enthusiastic meeting with a good attendance.

The meeting was in charge of the president, Mrs. H. Haight. All were pleased to learn that some copies of the National Geographic Magazine had arrived, and it was decided to divide them between the two sections of our library, and exchanges to be made, enabling all to easily procure the copies in due time.

Discussion arose regarding a social and it was decided to hold a "Hard Times" social in Sandhurst Parish Hall, on the evening of December 21st. Current events by Mrs. H. T. Haight followed, when she gave us a timely article by Rev. Arthur Phelps, formerly of this district. In this our attention was called to the fact that the Armistice occurred at the eleventh hour of the eleventh day of the eleventh month, and we were advised to read the eleventh verse of the eleventh chapter of the eleventh book of the Bible.

Mrs. Ross Van Dyck gave us a very spicy paper on "Community Activities" and advised that everyone be given an opportunity to display her talents. She told us that we could apply to the Director of Rural Reconstruction for the Province of Ontario and have Miss Jessie Lodge Beattie come to teach us how to carry out many of the good ideas she has in store along this line.

Mrs. Spearing, our delegate to the Kingston Convention, in her enthusiastic manner, gave us a full report making us all feel that it was good to be a W. I. member, which places us in a position to gain so much from the various helps along different lines for the improvement of home and country. One very worth while hint was not to work with the hands until the brain fails to function.

The National Anthem brought our enjoyable and profitable meeting to a close after which our genial hostess and her assistants served refreshments, fittingly us for braving the raw November storm, as we journeyed homeward.

BATH WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The meeting of Bath Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Charles Hudson, Wednesday, November 14th.

Twelve members and five visitors were present. It was decided to send fifty cents to the cenotaph and also one dollar towards relief to Northern Ontario.

After the business had been disposed of a programme was enjoyed which included a reading from "The Land" by Mrs. Wm. Gladstone Chamberlain; Clement; a paper on Arthur Sullivan, musical composer, by Miss Florence Morrow; a paper on "Etiquette" by Mrs. Arthur Sams, and Mrs. O. Barker gave a concise report of the convention.

A demonstration of Christmas gifts, provided many new ideas, after which a delicious lunch under the ruling of the National Anthem brought a pleasant meeting to a close.

CAMDEN EAST W. M. S.

The Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church, held their thanksgiving meeting at the home of Mrs. Albert Lewis, with Miss Cameron in charge. After the usual devotional exercises, Mrs. Duff the guest speaker, read a letter re instructions for packing boxes. The mite-box secretary gave her report. The minutes were read and the roll call was answered by a Bible verse on "thankfulness."

Mrs. D. Rogers read an article "necessity for thankgiving," at the conclusion of which, a prayer was offered by Mrs. Albert Lewis. "Our Foreign Missions," was ably dealt with by Mrs. Robert Lewis.

The president then called on Mrs. Duff, president of Kingston Presbyterial, who gave an interesting and complete report of the Provincial meeting.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants.

NAPANEE WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The regular meeting of the Women's Institute was held in the agricultural rooms on Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. A. B. Douglas presided. The meeting opened in the usual way. As this was the Armistice programme the minute silence was observed. A letter was read from a branch from Brampton, England.

The convener of the programme was Mrs. Kathryn Powell, and she, in a few well chosen words, introduced Mrs. Spearing, Dr. G. W. Morden, who during a portion of the war time period, was in England, and for a time was supervisor of the factory which made wings for the aeroplanes.

One point stressed by Dr. Morden was, that after the men who were employed in the factory had been called to the colors, there was some doubt as to the ability of the women and girls to continue the work, but this was soon dispelled and the quality of the work produced by the women and girls was excellent.

Mrs. Anderson and Mrs. Gilbert moved a vote of thanks to Dr. Morden for his splendid address.

The roll call was answered by "What I remember of Armistice Day."

The report of the Kingston Convention was well given by Mrs. Albert Reid, who was the delegate from the Napanee branch.

The meeting closed with all repeating the Creed and the singing of the National Anthem.

To have the children sound and healthy is the first care of a mother. They cannot be healthy if troubled with worms. Use Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator.

STERILIZATION OF MILK CANS

In the report by the Economic Branch on farmers' business organizations in Canada, just issued in pamphlet form by the Dominion Department of Agriculture, due acknowledgment is given to the co-operating organizations. The contents of the report are based on information obtained from these organizations, are now being made available to those interested in co-operative development. It is the intention of the Economics Branch to prepare periodically a list of the names and location of farmers' business organizations in Canada which may be compiled with such a report as this. The last available listing was prepared by joint arrangement with the Department of Labour, and published by that Department in 1932 as the Fifth Annual Report of Co-operative Associations in Canada. A summary of operations in the present report shows that 159 of the companies at present active were established within the period from 1880 to 1915 During the next decade and up to the present time, organization in business by farmers has made steady growth in numbers, membership, and business transacted. The activities of the larger organizations, such as wheat pools, live stock and fruit co-operatives, have reached a high stage of development, and have received world-wide recognition but the combined strength of organization in business of farmers in Canada has never been assessed. There are hundreds of comparatively small organizations which are working quietly and effectively serving local areas which are being discovered and recognized in this survey.

MORVEN LADIES' AID

The Ladies' Aid was held at the home of Rev. and Mrs. A. E. Oliver, on Wednesday, November 14th, with the president, Mrs. Withers, presiding. Mrs. Irwin Sharp read "Speak no ill of the Dead." A hymn, "The way of the Cross Home," was sung by Mrs. Street and Mrs. Pralick. A reading, "He Will Come," was read by Mrs. Earl Lapum.

The needle work on the apron of the Willing Workers group was judged and Mrs. R. S. Fralick was the prize. The apron and the prize were donated to the group by Mrs. Denyes Ellis. The members also were invited for an evening service to be given by the Ladies' Aid on November 25th in the White Church, at which service the men are especially invited to attend. After the closing hymn the Mizpah benediction was repeated in unison.

Delicious candy was enjoyed at the close.

TAMWORTH W. M. S.

The regular meeting of the Women's Missionary Society was made interesting by the 4th Vice President Mrs. Frank McLaughlin, at the home of Mrs. R. C. Moss, on Tuesday evening of last week, with an attendance of eighteen members and visitor present. After the regular devotional opening, a trio was rendered, "Go and tell until all the Gospel Story," by Mrs. T. Wagar, of Centreville ; Miss Ethel Lewis and Mrs. Lewis Hudson. It being Armistice time, two very interesting readings on Peace were enjoyed, and were read by Mrs. R. C Moss and Mrs. Gilmore. The devotional leader, "The Ideal of Friendship," was read by Mrs. Robt. Gilmore. After the singing of a hymn and the repeating of the Lord's Prayer in unison, an article on Marketing in India was read by Mrs. Eddie Huffman. By special request of Mrs. R. C. Moss, Mrs. Brown sang a solo, "The Cross Roads," which was much enjoyed by all. The roll call was answered with an item of missionary news, which brought forth many short interesting readings. After the singing of a hymn, "God's children live in many lands," the Woman's Missionary Society at work in India was read by Mrs. R. S. Fralick. The meeting closed with all repeating the Mizpah benediction, after which the meeting was served by the hostess and committee, and a very pleasant social half hour was enjoyed.

Rub it in for Lame Back.—A brisk rubbing with Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil will relieve lame back, the skin will immediately absorb the oil and it will penetrate the tissues and bring relief to the aching part. It acts direct. As the liniment sinks in, the pain comes out and there are ample grounds for saying that it is an excellent article.

DOCTORING YOUR DAIRY HERD

Cows aren't machines. They can get sick or hurt. But Minard's Liniment makes it easy to care for their ills. Mrs. Thos. Bulmer of Lardo, B.C., found one of her herd with a lump in her udder. "I rubbed it with Minard's Liniment", she says, "and it soon got better."

Minard's is best for Cuts, Bruises, Colic, Distemper, etc., and equally good in stable or in house. Well named "King of Pain".

"Slack and busy," replied Rachel.

MAKING MUMMY BETTER

A DELIGHTFUL STORY
BY ELIZABETH GEORGE

"Well, what did the doctor say about you, Mary?" asked David Symes, as he leant over the couch where his wife lay, propped up with cushions, a worried look on his grave dependable face. "Was he pleased with the way you're getting on?"

"Yes, on the whole he was," Mary smiled a trifle doubtfully. "He said it's bound to take time for me to pick up my strength, after flu and complications. I've got to take things easy for a bit, and eat all the food I can."

"And try to get fatter," put in six-year-old Betty from her perch on the edge of the couch. "The doctor said that was very important, didn't he, granny?" She turned her dark brown eyes on her grandmother, who entered the room with a jray at that moment.

"Yes, dearie, he did!" The old lady's face lit up with an indulgent smile as she set the tray on the table by her daughter-in-law's side. "Now, Mary, try to eat this fish, my dear. Betty is quite right. Doctor Baxter said you've got to eat a deal and get more flesh on your bones. I've made you a baked custard to follow."

"You're very kind," Mary smiled the wistful smile of the invalid which she is making a lot of trouble for other people. They were her husband's people, too—old Mrs. Symes, her unmarried daughter, Connie, who lived with her; Eva Symes, David's sister-in-law, whose husband, Henry, had a small little confectioner's and tea-room business near the cathedral. Try as hard as little Betty would, Mary had they were busy people, and Mary felt she had not the same right to their services as if they had been her own relations.

As she ate her steamed fish, her languid blue eyes went to a photo on the oak bureau—a photo of a lovely girl of eighteen or so, with fair wavy hair like Mary's, and a sweet and vivacious expression. David spoke as her eyes followed the laughing face of her only sister, Kitty, who had run away from the old home to go on the stage.

She had obtained an engagement in the chorus of a musical comedy company, and had kept in touch with them till the death of her parents; but after that, her letters and visits ceased.

The last time Mary heard news she was in a third-rate pantomime in the north, and without any certainty of an engagement when the show came to an end.

Mary had written time after time; but the letters came back.

Mary did so long for a relative of her own to come and see her, and since her illness the longing had increased. David's was such a united family, and their affection and unselfish interest in each other's concerns only strengthened her own desire for the sister who had once been her constant companion.

Kitty would have loved her pretty little home in a late Georgian on the river, the diamond-paned windows curtained in daffodil-yellow, the garden, where tulips and hyacinths bloomed beside the cobbled path, and a gnarled old apple tree shaded the lawn. David kept up to trim and velvety.

There was a scrap of kitchen garden, too, where raspberry canes and vegetables were second to none in Greychester—which was not surprising, considering that David was head gardener at a big country house a mile out of the town, and his own garden was the result of his professional skill.

David came in that moment with the custard, looking the picture of health beside his fragile little wife in her bed. "I'm off to the office, dear, or look such pains over it," he said tenderly. "She has to go after dinner, but Betty can stay at home from school this afternoon, if you like."

"Not on any account," said Mary, her thin hand into her husband's big brown one, a grateful smile lighting up her pale face. "I shall go on to sleep soon, and Betty will be in such a hurry to get to the fair. I shall be quite right, really, dear."

"I'll tell Betty to come straight home. She passes the fairground coming from school, and we're putting up the swings and merry-go-rounds this morning. I'll be back at one for lunch, and bending to kiss his wife good-bye.

"Take care of yourself. I'll be home as early as I can."

David left, pausing to speak to Betty in the hall. A few minutes later the child, too, departed, scampering down the garden path, with a little chum, Phyllis Chandler, who lived next door. Mary heard their chirping voices, and wondered what they were discussing. Probably the fair that was coming to the village.

It was the fair! Phyllis' father was a carpenter, and had been employed various odd jobs up on the fairground. He had been behind the scenes, watching the erection of the tents and stalls, caught a glimpse of the Living Skeleton off duty, and had actually seen the Fat Lady eating one of her stupendous meals!

Daddy said she ate a whole pound of sausages for her dinner, and a dishful of potatoes, as well as pudding and some bananas," added Phyllis. "I don't wonder she's fat!"

Betty nodded her red-capped head, in a look of deep reflection on her round, rosy face.

"I wonder if sausages and bread pudding would make mummy fat," she said. "The doctor says she has simply got to get fatter, but she says sausages give her a pain."

"The Fat Lady eats lots of other things as well—toffee and creamy cakes and sugar buns, I expect," said Phyllis, who knew a lot for her years. "My aunty mustn't eat them 'cos she wants to get thin. She eats lettuces and funny crunchy biscuits and things like that, 'for the good of her figure,' she says. I don't know what she means."

Neither did Betty, and in any case she was too occupied with an idea that was slowly forming in her brain to care. If only she knew what the Fat Lady ate to make her fat she would be able to tell Mummy, and then she would get well quickly. She did so want her to be the gay, happy mummy who played with her, made gingerbread pigs, and told her a bedtime story every night. Aunty Connie had promised to take Betty to the fair on Saturday. Perhaps she might be able to question the Fat Lady on the subject of her meals.

Aunty had not forgotten her promise. She came in after tea on the way from the knitting factory where she worked, to help Mary to bed and put the potato pie her mother had made in the oven for David's supper. Mary could hear her talking to Betty down in the kitchen, discussing the treat in store, while Connie got out the yellow china ready for supper, and Betty set the table in the grave, deliberate way that was so like her father's.

There is a fortune-telling tent, and a shooting range and coconuts, and an entertainment of some kind in one of the tents," Connie announced, as she dived into the larder for bread. "I hope they have a cocoanut, and a fairy all in pink tulle and spangles—"

"Like my Aunty Kitty." Betty looked up from the knife-box with an eager smile. "We've got a photo of her dressed as a fairy. I do hope we shall see her, Aunty Con, and the Fat Lady."

"We shouldn't miss her. She's as big as a battleship," declared Connie, surveying the supper table. "I think that's about all, Betty. I must be off, dear. I shall be round for you on Saturday at half-past two. Mind you're ready."

Betty gave her aunty a farewell hug, and followed her into the garden to pick a few sprays of Michaelmas daisies and the last of the Canterbury bells for her mother's bedroom, and wonder if she would have a chance to speak to the Fat Lady. She did so long to know what she ate to make her such a size. Not that she wanted mummy to become enormous like her, but if she ate just a little of the same food as the lady at the fair, she might become less like "a bag of bones" she had heard her Aunty Eva, who never minced her words, once call her.

Saturday was a lovely day with the sky as blue as Betty's eyes, and the river sliding silver-smooth between its fine-timbered meadows. The fair was held in a big field by the old stone bridge, and when Betty and Phyllis arrived they were in full fun in full swing.

"Would like a ride on the hobby horses, Miss?" asked Betty 7" asked Aunty Connie, pushing her way to the front of the crowd surrounding the stall. "I'll sit on the next horse, then you won't be frightened. Up you go!"

Betty was not frightened. She enjoyed the ride immensely; but she thought the swings much more and she not been so anxious to see the Fat Lady. Aunty Connie treated her to a second ride, and wanted to take her on the swing-boats, and Betty hesitated when the child expressed a wish to visit the Fat Lady first.

"She's in her tent. You pay twopence extra to go in and see her," said Aunty Con. "I don't think it's worth it, myself."

"I can pay for myself. I've got tenpence left over from my money for my little red handbag. "Do let's go, aunty."

The good-natured Conine gave in and into the tent they went. At first Betty could hardly distinguish its occupant for her eyes were more accustomed to the dim light, she made out a huge figure in a purple dress, liberally trimmed with lace. The Fat Lady would have been terrified to see a little child in front of her, been for her affable smile, and the mass of tight yellow curls which framed her massive face. She appeared in no wise disturbed by the outspoken remarks of the audience.

"My, isn't she a size?"

"Do with a bit of slimming! Look at her waist!" whispered a freckled-face youth at Betty's side. "Wonder what she eats to make her so enormous?"

Betty wondered, too; but there seemed little chance of her being able to find out, for the tent was filling rapidly and Aunty Con, who disliked a crush, was suggesting that she could hardly breathe.

Betty followed her out into the open, rather disappointed. Even the joy of visiting the stalls and choosing a necklace of blue beads for mother, did not console her.

Her thoughts were centered on the Fat Lady. If only she knew which caravan she lived in she might manage to slip into the tent on the sly and catch her when she went in to tea. Betty reflected, as her eyes scanning the gaily-painted caravans doubtfully. None of them looked strong enough to bear the weight of the Fat Lady; but the blue one with the orange curtains was certainly the largest and most imposing.

She cast longing glances at it as she and Aunty Con moved slowly round the show once more, but there seemed no chance of evading her watchful eye. She saw there was no hope of securing the Fat Lady's attention on such a busy day, and decided that Sunday morning would be a better time. The fair would not be open to the public then, and the Fat Lady would perhaps be at liberty.

Aunty Eva was coming to cook the Sunday dinner, and she never would let Betty help with the vegetables and pastry. The silver like mums did. Daddy and Uncle Henry would be in the yard-n, so she would easily be able to slip out unnoticed.

Betty was up early the next morning and helped daddy arrange her mother's breakfast tray; she made toast and "timed" the egg myself by the little egg-timer with the china figure mummy kept on the dresser.

"Why, you've put on your best frock, darling!" Mary looked rather surprised. She was propped up with the lawn collar and cuffs was usually reserved for Sunday afternoon. "You'll take care of it, won't you Bettykins?"

Betty promised readily, a little conscience-stricken at the idea of having a secret from her mother, but comforted by the thought of the good that would result if she could only find out what it was the Fat Lady ate to make her so extremely plump. Mummy looked thinner than ever in her short-sleeved, blue bed-jacket, so Aunty Eva said when she arrived, rather officiously, to get breakfast all, to take command of the kitchen.

"Roast lamb and mint sauce, isn't it, Betty? I'll make a gooseberry pie and some jam puffs while I'm about it. Betty, you can run out and pick some mint, dear. That's all I shall want you to do. I like to have the kitchen to myself when I am cooking."

Betty ran out into the garden, where her father and Uncle Henry were deep in a discussion about green fly and its remedies. She picked a generous handful of mint and, having placed it on the kitchen table, slipped out of the back door and down the road in the direction of the fair ground, feeling a trifle nervous at the idea of entering it alone.

She lingered on the outskirts for a time before summoning up enough courage to approach the caravans. There seemed to be no one stirring, so evidently the fair people overslept in bed late on Sunday. Betty looked about her a little dismayed, and was wondering whether to turn back and go down by the river and return later, when a puppy ran out of the blue caravan and scampered up to her, barking in playful fashion.

"Here, Bob! Come here, lad!" cried a deep voice, and down the caravan steps came the Fat Lady, wearing a gaudy dressing gown and a pair of satin slippers on her bulging feet.

"Don't be frightened, ducks," she cried, with a beaming smile on her huge face. "Bob won't hurt you. Are you looking for someone? We all lie abed late on Sundays. I was just in the middle of my breakfast when I heard you coming. Come along and have a look at the caravan while I finish. I've some sugar biscuits in a tin. Most little girls like them."

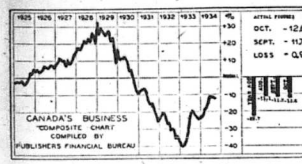
Betty was no exception. She munched a sugar biscuit while the Fat Lady ate 's huge piece of corned beef, followed by thick slices of bread and butter with plum jam.

Betty watched her, fascinated in the intervals of attending to the caravan and its contents.

"Hallo. Bob! Good doggie !" called a soft voice outside the caravan. The next moment a slim figure mounted the steps and paused on the threshold as she realised the Fat Lady was not alone.

"Can I come in, aunty ? I see you have a visitor," said the girl, her filling glance resting on Betty, who was sure that such a mop of fluffy golden hair and cornflower blue eyes could only belong to the Fat Lady of whom Aunty Connie had spoken.

How's Business?



CANADIAN BUSINESS STABILIZES RECENT GAINS

Important as may be the local problems and developments of various sections of the country, the paramount question is "How is the general level of business — agricultural, industrial and financial — for the country as a whole, averaging up?" The Composite Index of Canada's basic barometers—employment, carloadings, prices, production and the like—is showing a slight hesitancy in business at present. Preliminary indications for October place business activity at about 12.6 per cent below "normal," compared with 11.1 per cent below in August, and the September figure revised to 11.7 per cent. The current period of irregularity is not surprising in view of the sharper declines which have been experienced recently in other countries. The problem of world trade is particularly serious for Canada and one which many economists feel must be untangled before much greater world business recovery can occur. Several political factors in the Dominion itself are casting a shadow ahead. Perhaps the best barometer of current industrial conditions is employment figures which reached, in October, a new high since November 1931. In this between-season interval, the sense of activity is drifting from such lines as communications, highway and railway construction, hotels and restaurants, fish preserving, and rubber manufacturing to logging, mining, textiles, electrical equipment, food canning, printing and paper. Mining is showing its greatest employment gain on record, while bush operations are more prominently offering jobs in increasing numbers. These factors point to good opportunities in coming months and it must not be forgotten that farmers—fundamental to the life of Canada's gainfully employed — have about 25 to 30 per cent more purchasing power this year, than last. Wholesale and retail trade is picking up in response to cold weather and the approaching holiday season. The heavy industries are still lagging behind consumer- lines. However, some improvement in construction (now about 45 per cent above a year ago) and pig iron production is encouraging. In the financial world, outstanding developments have been the inauguration of new low interest rates on Dominion deposits, and the opening of the Canadian Commodity Exchange for silver futures trading. A drop in bank debits reflect curtailed financial and speculative activity rather than shrinkage of general trade.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

More About Photo-Greetings

[Left]—"The family is on the march to greet you." That, or something of the sort, serves to complete a greeting like this, made in the easy silhouette manner. [Right]—A little "fifteen cent store" reindeer made of glass, a toy Christmas tree and some sugar—that's all this table-top Christmas scene required.

A WEEK or so ago we talked about snapshot Christmas cards, but no one short discussion could possibly cover the subject adequately. A book could be written about it—but not by us. Instead we'll devote today's space to it.

As we said before, the most important factor in the success of a photocreeting is an idea—an easily understood, cheerful idea, worked out in terms of a simple picture.

The subjects referred to in our first talk of Christmas cards were deliberately selected from among the more obvious ones — fireside, holly wreaths, winter scenes of the home, and so on. Obvious though they are, any of them is capable of fresh, new interpretation—as individual as your own personality.

And, as you become more familiar with your camera and its capabilities, you'll discover many different approaches to any one idea.

You can use, for example, story-telling silhouettes to give novel twists to otherwise "ordinary" picture ideas. A good silhouette can be made of a young lady hanging up a bit of mistletoe, or of a little boy reaching for a Christmas tree ornament. Silhouettes, as you recall, are made around the help of a sheet, a doorway and a strong light.

Table-top photography (discussed recently) has endless Christmas possibilities. A little figure of Santa Claus, some white cotton sprinkled with sugar for snow — and you've got the foundation for a variety of good pictures.

You'll find plenty of Christmas materials — little reindeer, gnomes, sleighs, bells and a hundred other seasonable "props" in any "five, ten and fifteen cent" store. But guard against over-elaborate set-ups. The simpler the better.

Whatever you do, be careful to keep it in key with your own personality. If you are musical, a glimpse of your hands on the piano keyboard, plus the score for a Christmas carol on the rack, would be much more appropriate than, say, a shot of your snow-covered home. Or a pose with your head lifted, singing, if you find you look well that way.

A baby in the family of course, offers plenty of opportunity for growing snapshots. If this is the baby's first Christmas, so much the better. A semi-close-up of mother and dad, indoors or out, with the baby perched on dad's shoulders and all three waving cheerfully at the camera, should make a greeting of more than ordinary charm.

Christmas isn't far away now. You'll be wanting to send out your greetings soon. So don't delay!

By the way, don't let good opportunities slip by for taking unusual snow scenes. Maybe you won't use them this year, but there will be other Christmases when they'll come in handy.

For snow scenes in bright sunlight, remember to use a very small lens aperture. Otherwise, the intense brilliance of the scene will give you an over-exposed negative.

JOHN VAN GUILDER.

There was no one in sight when they reached Perry Cottages, but Betty, scampering round to the back, caught a glimpse of her mother sitting under the apple tree.

"There she is! There's mummy !" She turned to Aunty Kitty, who paused uncertainly, gave a little cry of joy, and sped across the grass to fall on her knees beside the slender figure in the wicker chair.

"Kitty! It's Kitty! Oh, Mary darling, it is wonderful to see you again," said Kitty, between laughing and crying.

"Kitty ! Is it really you ?> If you knew how I've longed to see you," cried Mary, her pale face flushed with delight as her sister's arms were round her. "Tell me everything Kitty ! How did you get here ? Where have you come from ? I wrote to you so often. Why didn't you reply to my letters ?"

"Because I was too ashamed; because my luck was so bad," said Kitty, with downcast head. "I was out of a job for months. I had one part with a poor touring company, and finally had to come down to dancing in a travelling fair entertainment. It was up on the fair ground that Betty found me this morning — and—why here's David !" she cried, springing to her feet as her brother-in-law came out of the house. "Do you remember me, David ? It's Kitty turned up again !"

"And very welcome, too !" David stooped and gave her a hearty kiss, while Betty leant against her mother's knee, her little face beaming with contentment.

"I brought Aunty Kitty here to daddy's workshop, mummy. I went to see the Fat Lady at the fair, and she came into the caravan while I was there."

"Good girl!" Her daddy rumpled her hair affectionately, while Kitty turned to tell the story of her misfortune to his benefit.

"I haven't had any letters from Mary for years, and didn't even know where you were living," she said, "but that isn't surprising, seeing how I've been moving about." she added, with a wistful smile. "You don't know how sick I am of the travelling and discomfort of it all."

"Well you can put an end to it now," said David with a kindly hand on her shoulder. "Give up the show and stay with us for a bit. Mary needs someone to look after her, and later on I fancy my brother can find you a post as waitress in his tea-room. He was telling me just now that one of his girls is leaving to be married at the end of May. You should be only too glad to have your home and know Mary is not longing for someone of her own to keep her company."

"I should have ! Oh, Kitty say you'll stay !" Mary begged. "It will be so glorious to have you."

"Stay ! I should love to." Kitty's eyes were misty with tears of thankfulness, and her lips were trembling as she bent to kiss her sister. "What do you say, Betty ? Will you have me ?"

"Of course I will !" replied her small niece joyfully. "I thought you were dead, didn't I ? If I hadn't gone to see the fat lady I wouldn't have found you at all."

"And why did you go to see her, darling ? You haven't told us yet," said her mother, with a fond smile.

"Because I wanted to find out what she eats to make her so fat, so that you could have some and get fat like the doctor said you must," explained Betty, her brown eyes very serious. "But she doesn't eat anything special, so it wasn't much good going. I'm glad you found me, though."

"I don't want you to get as fat as her, but just nice and plump—"

"And so she will now she has me to look after her. I'll see to that," said Kitty, while Mary and David exchanged glances of tender amusement over their small daughter's head.

Mary gave a sigh of deep content as she drew the child to her side. To have one of her own kith and kin at hand, and that one her beloved Kitty—the prospect seemed to send new strength coursing through her veins already. She rose unaided, as Betty and Kitty appeared at the kitchen door to signal that dinner was ready.

"That roast lamb smells quite delicious I declare I feel quite hungry," she said. "Our coming has given you an appetite, Kitty. It's done me more good than any tonic."

A Negro bishop was introducing an English churchman of high rank, "Brothern," he said, "it is not often I arise to present a white gentleman in this church. But you can be sure he has a powerful message for you. And while his skin may be white, his heart is as black as any of us !"
